PATROLS WATCH ROADS IN JAPANESE BEETLE QUARANTINE

Day and night patrol of main automobile roads leading out of southwestern Connecticut toward the rest of the state, have begun in operation of the Japanese beetle quarantine. Motorists and drivers of trucks will be stopped by uniformed inspectors in search of plants, flowers, fruits, vegetables, soil and other quarantined articles leaving the generally infested area. It includes a strip on Long Island Sound from Greenwich to New Haven and reaches as far north as Hamden.

If the contraband goods has been inspected and certified to be free of the bright bronze-and-green beetle, the motorist goes on his way. If no inspection has been made, the articles are confiscated.

"We are anxious to inspect all such goods before they reach the quarantine line," J. Peter Johnson, deputy of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, who is in charge of the quarantine, stated. "If persons who wish to move farm products, cut flowers, or soil will notify us in plenty of time, we can make this free inspection. Then the motorist shows his certificate to the road patrolman and travels on through the line."

The experiment station, in co-operation with the United States department of agriculture, maintains five inspection points. On Lafayette street in New Haven and on Water street in Bridgeport, crews of several men each are on duty 24 hours a day. From 6 o'clock to 10 a.m. inspections are made at the Berman and Steinberg commission house in Norwalk and at the S. Cohen and company commission house in Stamford. During business hours examinations may be obtained at the headquarters of the quarantine, the Pierpont building, Shelton.

Eighty men, comprising one of the largest staffs of the kind ever employed in the state, carry on inspection, road patrol and scouting for the Japanese beetle. The entire state is under federal quarantine, with the southwestern corner designated as "generally infested" and subject to more stringent regulations. State quarantine is maintained over the "generally infested" area and on parts of Hartford and New London.

Under these restrictions, almost all the fruits and vegetables shipped from the south and west, as well as those that come by truck from the New York markets and Connecticut's own produce, are examined for the Japanese beetle before they are allowed to leave the heavily infested region. Most of this is done in the early morning hours after 1 o'clock a. m. when trucks are on the road to place their produce in time for the housewife's morning marketing. Eight men are employed for these rush hours at the New Haven inspection platform. Last year half a million packages were inspected.

The Japanese beetle is one of the most dangerous pests in the United States. The adult feeds on almost all fruits, vegetables, flowers and shrubs and the grubs eat the roots of grass. Farmers have suffered severe losses in New Jersey, where the infestation originated and where it is heaviest.

In Connecticut, the pest has been known only five years and has thus far been found only in Willimantic, New Haven, Hartford, New London, Stamford and Bridgeport. It has not damaged the countryside.

Inspecting a truck at Stamford for the Japanese beetle, on which state and federal quarantine is maintained. Inset: the adult beetle, twice natural size.

REP. CHIEFS CONFIDENT OF TREATY RATIFICATION

Believe London Naval Pact Will Be Ratified Within Two Weeks By Senate Which Convenes Today In Special Session — Senator Allen of Kansas Asserts Favorable Action Would Meet With Public Approval Throughout the Country—Navy League Opposes Treaty — Senate May Receive President Hoover's Message Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—Appeals for both ratification and rejection of the London naval treaty were disseminated today on the eve of the senate's special session to consider the pact.

Joining the pre-session debate begun yesterday by Senator Johnson, republican, California, who said the treaty should be rejected because it contained "iniquities and inequalities," Senator Henry J. Allen, republican, Kansas, asserted prompt ratification would "meet with public approval throughout the country."

"The British and Japanese citizenship," Allen added, "can be expected to view the senate's final vote on the treaty as an indication of this country's sincerity in our repeated arguments in favor or reducing and limiting armaments."

Siding with congressional opponents, the Navy League of the United States, in a statement over the signature of Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the board, expressed regret it could not approve of the tripartite agreement.

The league took the position that the pact "is an outgrowth of previous mistakes in American naval policy—namely, the failure to secure thorough going limitation at the Washington conference of 1921-22; and the failure to build up the American navy after the Washington treaty was signed—and the London treaty does more to confirm these errors than it does to correct them."

Republican leaders still felt today that a quorum might not be on hand at the initial treaty session tomorrow. But they were not alarmed at the prospect that the opponents of ratification, who want delay, but the republican chiefs feel certain a majority of those present at all times will prevent an adjournment. They also are confident of ratification inside of two weeks at the most.

A special message from President Hoover, who called the session last Friday, probably will be read to the senate on Tuesday.

Senator Allen said after reading the denunciation of Churchill, Admirals Beatty and Jellicoe, of Great Britain, and comparing these with similar criticisms of the treaty by American and Japanese admirals, he must conclude "that the delegates must have done a peculiarly well balanced job at the conference."

"The unanimous protests of all the admirals," he added, "indicates that there has been a definite limitation of the navies of the three great sea powers whose naval building programs were the principal subjects of the conference."

Allen contended it was "an undisputed fact that the treaty puts a curb on further tonnage expansion of the British and Japanese navies, while giving the American navy the privilege of building up its relative strength."

The pact, he asserted, is a "logical, moderate step toward the ideal of armaments for police power only."

"It preserves for another six years," he continued, "the principle that permanent peace can be established only by progressive efforts to stifle competitive armaments. It is worth much in its proof of the fact that the three great naval powers of the world through their governments, have made a further advance in their common will for peace."

The Navy league's statement said the 5-5-3 ratio adopted at the Washington conference as the basis for the national naval policy "is abandoned" in the 1930 pact, as is the freedom of selection of types of ships best suited for its needs, under the provision calling for building by the United States of small-gun cruisers "in excess of the amount hitherto approved in our naval policy."

"The ominous suggestion of progressive abandonment of our relative fleet strength, and the debasement of its efficiency by developing types of comparatively limited use to us, is a matter of grave concern," the league said, adding:

"The strongest argument in favor of of the treaty from the American viewpoint is that it puts a curb on further tonnage expansion by Britain and Japan, while we may build up toward them. The treaty, however, does not assure this result because its escape clause may be invoked to initiate unlimited construction in one or more of the several auxiliary categories."

LAMBETH CONFERENCE OPENED AT LONDON

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—The Lambeth conference was officially openel today with a special service at St. Paul's cathedral, with 300 bishops and archbishops, representing the Anglican sect all over the world taking part.

A note of oriental splendor was introduced by Patriarch Meletios, or Alexandroia, known as "the second pope," who, robed in pure white, headed a procession of bearded, black-robed clergymen of the eastern Orthodox delegation. They marched down the center aisle of the church to take places in the choir stalls.

All the participating archbishops and bishops joined in holy communion, which was preceded by the litany, sung in procession. The Archbishop of Canterbury headed the procession, which filed out the south door of the cathedral, re-entering by the great main entrance to take seats for the rest of the service.

The Archbishop York, delivering the sermon, stressed the need for churchmen to keep minor disagreements on church routine out of the way of the great issue of religion, namely, faith in the living God.

"It is especially important that we remind ourselves of the proportions proper to our controversies in the light of the majesty of God," he said.

The archbishop paid tribute to Lord Davidson, late Archbishop Canterbury, who, he reminded his hearers, was present at five Lambeth conferences scattered over a period of 50 years. The conference meetings, which are expected to last several weeks, will be secret, although official statements will be made on the progress of the long agenda.

REBEL TRIBES BOMBED BY TURKISH PLANES

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 6.—(AP)—Official announcement today indicated that the Turkish government is closing in on the insurgent Kurds on Mt. Ararat, and that the rebel tribes face extermination.

Bombed by Turkish planes, hemmed in by the reinforced nationalist army, the tribesmen, a dispatch from Angora said, are finding escape in the direction of Persia impossible. If the government's campaign is successful, it will break the power of the fierce Djelali and Haydaranli tribes. The latter numbers about 5,000, and for centuries has maintained its strong hold on Mt. Ararat, descending the slopes each spring to pillage the valley villages.

The Turkish press blames the present trouble on the Turkish sultan, Abdul Hamid, who died in 1918 after being deposel. The newspapers say he gave unlimited power to the tribal leaders and sheiks, many of whom were the fanatical Dervish orders. The fact that the Kurdish tribes reorganized no other authority than that of these leaders is considered responsible for the present uprising.

Blame Suicide Pact For Girl's Death

Victim's Companion Found Wandering In Woods With Bullet Wound In His Head.

BUTLER, N. J., July 6—(AP)—A girl was dead today and a man was in St. Joseph's hospital, Paterson, with a bullet hole in his head as a result of what police believe was a suicide pact.

The body of Jennie Brauer of Brooklyn, was found last night in an automobile about 200 yards off Marion road, near Echo Lake, with a bullet in her brain and a coat thrown over her head.

Beside the body was a note which read:

"Fate denied us the right to happiness in life so we shall happily be dead. We hope our friends can now realize the existence of a real love."

It was signed, "Roderick and Jennie."

LINK FUGITIVE KILLER WITH LINGLE MURDER

CHICAGO, July 6—(AP)—The name of Fred R. Burke, fugitive killer, today was drawn into the investigation of the slaying of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Reports reached investigators that Burke, in the guise of a priest was one of the gunmen who on June 9 loitered in the Randolph street subway while a blond assassin fired a bullet into the back of the reporter's head.

Detectives who hurried to the tunnel said they saw a man, dressed as a priest, there, but in the confusion he had slipped away. Subsequent efforts to locate him have been in vain.

Meanwhile, it was announced today the July grand jury will be sworn tomorrow and is expected to be charged with investigation of the Lingle killing and all its ramifications.

The official commission handling the inquiry into the newspaper man's assassination is expected to turn over the evidence it has gathered. One of the first witnesses probably will be Frank Foster, owner of the pistol with which Lingle was slain and who was indicted for the slaying. Papers for his extradition from Los Angeles, where he and four henchmen were captured, have been signed.

Burke, ex-convict and referred to by police as one of the most dangerous of gangsters, has been the object of a nationwide search since December, 1929, when he shot and killed Policeman Charles Skelly following an argument over a trivial automobile accident at St. Joseph, Mich.

A coroner's jury has named him as one of the four executioners who slew seven Moran gunmen in February, 1929, in a Chicago garage. He is also wanted at Detroit for questioning in connection with the slaying of Frank W. Wright, Joseph Bloom and Ruben Cohen, at New York in connection with the murders of Frank Uale and Frank Marlow; and at Toledo, Ohio, for the slaying of a policeman.

RACE RIOT CLAIMS TWO MORE VICTIMS

Negroes Slain Yesterday By Armed Bands of White Men At Emilie, Alabama — Death List Numbers Six—Rioting Caused By Fourth of July Argument Between White Garage Operator and Negro Family Over An Automobile Battery—Four Negroes and Two White Men Killed

EMELLE, Ala., July 6—(AP)—Two Negroes slain early today by posses searching for four others in connection with the killing of two white men brought to six the deaths growing out of disorders arising here the Fourth of July.

Roving bands of more than 200 men quit the hunt tonight after a night of chasing wild reports that the four Negroes had been sighted at various places. Leaders said they were convinced the Negroes, Tom Robertson and his sons, Esau, Ollid and John, have fled into Mississippi.

Those killed early today were an unidentified Negro in the railway station at Narchetta, Miss., and a Negro woman, whose husband, James Eyer, failed to heed a command of a posse to bring his automobile to a stop on a road near the Alabama-Mississippi state line.

The previous death list included: Grover Boyd, white, storekeeper, Charlie Marrs, a white farmer; John Robertson, Negro, brother of Tom; Jacob Robertson.

The unidentified Negro killed at Narchetta, the man hunters said was shot after he had fired at the possemen and wounded Clarence Bush of Emelle, in the elbow, who fired in return killing the Negro. Members of the posse said they had found the Negro in the station house and had sought to search him. Instead of complying with orders to raise his hands he opened fire, they said.

Eyer apparently became panic-stricken when ordered to halt. Shots were fired in an effort to halt him and as the machine rolled to a stop, other occupants of the car fled. It was then discovered that the woman had been killed.

The trouble began July 4 in an argument between Esau Robertson and Clarence Boyd, nephew of Grover Boyd. Boyd said he took a battery he had sold the Negro from the car after the Negro did not pay for it.

The Negro later appeared at Grover Boyd's store and asked to talk to Clarence.

When Clarence went outside he said he was attacked by Esau, his father and brothers. Grover Boyd, running to his nephew's aid, was shot down from behind by Jacob, Clarence said.

Bystanders grabbed Jacob, but the other Negroes fled. Jacob was held in custody by a crowd that gradually grew as word of the shooting spread and that night he was taken to the woods and hanged.

Sheriff W. D. Scales and deputies arriving later took up the search with many of the crowd joining them. They went to the home of John Robertson, brother of Tom. In the argument that followed John was killed.

Marrs was killed and Jim 'vers, another white man, shot in the cheek. The crowd applied a torch to the Robertson house and the search began in earnest.

Rewards of $300 for the capture of each of the four Negroes wanted in connection with the slayings were offered late yesterday by Governor Graves.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS GAIN ANOTHER VICTORY

SHANGHAI, July 6—(AP)—The government, hard-pressed by rebel forces and bandit hordes, today gained another victory.

Advices said the government definitely crushed Ty Kwangss province rebellion after a severe five-day battle in Southern Hunan province near the Kwangsi border. The nationalists claimed they reduced the insurgent ranks from 25,000 to 10,000, the surviving rebels fleeing into Kwangsi. Government casualties also were heavy.

Bandits yesterday fired upon American and British gunboats in the Yangtse river near Yochow, Hunan, killing Samuel Elkins, Brooklyn seaman on the U. S. S. Guam. Two British sailors also were wounded in an exchange of fire before the bandits were driven off.

The outlaws, following the path cut recently by rebel armies, pillaged and killed as they passed, terrifying the countryside west and south of the tri-cities, Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

Banditry followed withdrawal of government troops to the northern Hunan front, where a thirteen-day battle is believed to hold China's destiny.

NEGRO BEATEN TO DEATH OVER CARD GAME DISPUTE

NORTH HAVEN, Conn., July 6—(AP)—William Cobb, 27, of Grimesdale, N. C., Negro, was beaten to death today with the handle of a knife during a dispute at a card game over five cents.

Charles Campbell, 45, Ansonia Negro, was sought tonight by police as Cobb's assailant. Both men were employed at the American Creosote company's plant here.

Witnesses told police that Campbell accused Cobb of taking a nickle too much from a table at which the two were playing cards. A scuffle followed. Cobb, police were told, grabbed a broom and began closing in on Campbell when the latter took a pocket knife. Unable to open the blade quickly enough, Campbell, police charged, beat Cobb over the head with the handle and after felling his opponent escaped.

ATLANTA ALDERMAN FACES IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS

ATLANTA, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—J. Allen Couch, Atlanta's big-hearted alderman who freed 268 prisoners as acting mayor on the Fourth of July, faced possible impeachment tonight.

Alderman G. Everett Millican announced he had conferred with city officials and probably would begin impeachment proceedings.

Meanwhile, police continued to rearrest as many of the prisoners as they could on old charges. Approximately 60 of the prisoners were back in jail tonight.

Couch, who incidentally is under indictment on a charge of bribery which grew out of exposure of wholesale graft in municipal affairs, served as mayor while Mayor I. N. Ragsdale was in New York, welcoming Bobby Jones.

When Ragsdale arrived home yesterday he promptly issued a criticism of Couch, but said he could do nothing.

MAJOR WYNNE-EYTON CRASHES IN TAKE OFF

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 6—(AP)—Another projected flight across the Atlantic received a severe setback today. Major C. S. Wynne-Eyton, British airman who hoped to be the first to make the west-east ocean passage in 1930, crashed from a low altitude in attempting to take off on a test flight to Harbor Graceg.

He was only slightly injured but his plane, which had been groomed for the long sea hop, was destroyed by fire.

Starting from the southern end of Lester's field, with a light wind at his back, Major Wynne-Eyton taxied up a fairly steep grade. Although the slope seemed to reduce the plane's speed, it finally rose into the air.

Then, from a height of 20 feet, it suddenly nose-dived, hit the ground and burst into flame. Braving the fire, onlookers forced the door open and dragged the airman out. He was suffering from slight burns and cuts about the face but at Grace hospital doctors said he probably would be recovered in two or three days.

Wynne-Eyton, a member of the Royal Air Force Reserves, had intended going to Harbor Grace to inspect the facilities there for the start of his ocean hop. His plane, which had a capacity of 150 gallons of gasoline and an estimated cruising radius of 3,500 miles, was assembled on Lester's field here, where Alcock and Brown took off in 1919 to make the first successful airplane crossing of the North Atlantic.

KILLED WHEN HIS PLANE FELL INTO BAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif., July 6.—(AP)—Dick Dodds, real estate dealer of Santa Ana, Calif., was killed today when his monoplane dived into Crescent bay under full throttle while he was stunting before beaches crowded with pleasure seekers.

Three years ago Dodds became manager of the aviation department of the Union Oil company and directed races under the company's supervision.

Mrs. Florence Lowe Barnes, flier, who watched Dodds stunt his plane, said it suddenly side-slipped, lost altitude, the pilot cut off the motor to right it and near the water he opened the throttle, but the plane dived just beyond the breakers.

Dozens of fishing boats, pontoon boats and other small craft went to the scene. Within two hours the twisted wreckage of the plane with Dodds' body in the cockpit was dragged ashore.

PLAN AEROPLANE ROUTE ACROSS ARCTIC REGIONS

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Fifteen young men whose average age is only 23, sailed from London today aboard the ship "Quest" for a year's exploration of the ice-covered stretches of Greenland and Iceland.

The purpose of the voyage, which is under the auspices of the Royal Geographical society, is to obtain information with a view to establishing an air route from England to America across the Arctic regions, with only 300 miles over the sea.

H. G. Watkins, 23, is leader of the expedition. Each of his 14 companions is a specialist.

Watkins made a scientific exploration of Labrador last year, and of Spitzenbergen the year before. The expedition will establish a base on the southeastern coast of Greenland and a station on top of the ice cap, 8,000 feet above sea level. From there they will make notes on meteorological conditions in connection with flying.

TWO WILLIMANTIC YOUNG MEN KILLED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS AT SO. COVENTRY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, July 6—Two local young men, Meyer J. Chus, 19, of 568 Ash street, and Harry A. Dudick, 19, of 130 Quarry street were instantly killed and two others were injured in a spectacular accident near the Joseph Barno place, some 400 yards east of Barber's Village, South Coventry, about 12:30 o'clock this morning. The injured were: Ernest L. Carpenter, 23, of 293 Windham road, fracture of the left collar bone and contusions and Howard Rood, 22, of 147 Union street, bruises and injury to his arm.

The machine, occupied by the four youths, was a Nash roadster owned by Carpenter and said to have been operated at the time by Chus. The four were returning from a dance at Lakeside Casino at the time. The two survivors, in testimony given before Tolland county Coroner John H. Yeomans today claim that another car, which sped away before the registration numbers could be secured, was approaching from the opposite direction and struck the left of the Nash causing Chus to lose control.

Carpenter, who said that he sat in the middle, next to the driver, and Dudick, who held Rood on his lap, claims that he yelled to Chus, "Can you hold it." Chus, he said, replied, "I don't think so," and with that the machine began a wild plunge that sent it careening crazily along the left embankment of the road for some 100 feet, uprooting stones and throwing dirt about. The car came to a stop with its nose headed up the embankment, scattering the occupants about.

Chus and Dudick were instantly killed. Chus' head was evidently thrown against a boulder, his skull being crushed to a pulp, spilling out the brains and distorting the face almost beyond recognition. Dudick died from a broken neck.

While Carpenter and Rood were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in cars owned by Officer John Killourey, owner of Lakeside casino and Richard Riquier of this city, Medical Examiner William L. Higgins of Coventry viewed the bodies and gave permission for their removal by Killourey Brothers undertaking firm where a preliminary inquest was held this forenoon by Coroner Yeomans. At the hospital the two injured men were treated by Dr. J. Arthur Girouard after which both were discharged.

State Policemen Charles S. Hill and James A. Buckley of the Stafford Springs are conducting an investigation of the accident. It was indicated today that no definite evidence had been secured as yet to substantiate the statement that the death car had been sideswiped by another machine. Coroner Yeomans stated that he would postpone conclusion of the inquest until the investigating officers had completed their report of the accident. Scores of young people who were leaving the dance were joined by additional scores from this city and other sections as news of the accident spread rapidly until a crowd estimated at over 100 milled about the scene of the fatality, giving the investigators considerable difficulty in handling traffic. The machine was badly wrecked and was towed by Leonard Bros. Garage, Inc.

The first to arrive at the scene of the accident were Ralph H. Gibson, orchestra leader and Clifford Donnelly, pianist at Lakeside Casino. Mr. Gibson found all four bodies strewn along near the car and believed that all four were unconscious at the time. The car was lying partly on its right side and was well up on the embankment.

The musicians hurriedly summoned Dr. Higgins and the ambulance from the local hospital.

Fireworks Big Success.

The largest crowd of spectators in Colchester for many years assembled on the park Friday evening to witness the mammoth fireworks display held under the auspices of Colchester Fire Co. Due to illness, Fire Chief Brown was unable to be present. Assistant Foreman Conrad assisted by Firemen Nelson Stern and I. Cohen set off over two hundred and fifty dollars worth of beautiful set pieces, pin wheels, floral mines and colored aerial bombs. One of the special attractions of the evening were patriotic selections by Lyman's Boys' band comprising players from Hebron, Marlborough, Gilead and Columbia.

It was estimated that there were over three thousand in attendance. Over five hundred automobiles were lined up around the park, people being present from Norwich, Lebanon, Hebron, Westchester, East Hampton, Salem, Marlborough and other surrounding towns.

The event was made possible through the hearty support given the public subscription, many of the merchants and prominent citizens having contributed $10 apiece toward the purchase of the fireworks. It was by far the most elaborate display and the most largely attended event in Colchester in many years. Local merchants are heartily in support of the plan, as all did a thriving business throughout Friday evening.

The Lions' club is co-operating with borough officials in having repairs made to the bandstand in the center park, after which it is planned to hold a series of weekly band concerts during the remainder of the summer. Local merchants are strongly supporting the plan.

WESTERLY

STOLE ELECTRIC JUICE WHILE MAKING BUG-JUICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., July 6.—Armed with a search warrant as the result of a number of complaints, Saturday at 6:30 p. m., Westerly police visited the premises of William Carroll Johnson on Gavitt avenue, off Oak street, and occupied by him for only a few months, and the officers reported seizing 206 bottles of alleged beer, a small quantity of gin, and a bottling outfit. Chief Thomas E. Brown led the raiding party. Finding the back door open, they walked in, finding one man in the place. The beer and some equipment was taken to police headquarters. The search warrant used in the raid is returnable to Third district court Friday morning next.

An additional charge of larceny was placed against Johnson and he was locked up, when the police discovered that he was running his plant with the aid, but without the knowledge of the South County Public Service company. Johnson, the police claim, had rigged a wire around his electric meter whereby he could secure juice without the meter registering. With Chief Brown were Lieut. George H. Champlin, Officers Robert Kessel and Paul McCarthy.

PARKING AT STATION ENDED BY NEW HAVEN R. R.

The free general parking of automobiles about the waiting station and on grounds of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is at an end for the rest of this season, at least. Saturday, New Haven Railroad Police Officer Martin Kane, of New London, was on duty about the station premises, afternoon and evening. With Westerly streets restricted for parking, many late shoppers at Westerly stores and theatre-goers have made a practice of leaving their cars about the railroad grounds. With the Fourth of July rush, many in-coming and outgoing New Haven railroad patrons to take trains, motorists and taxi drivers found it difficult and slow work to thread their way past long lines of parked machines.

Officer Kane Saturday was kept extremely busy in meeting the autos as they approached the waiting platforms, to ascertain what were the intentions of the drivers and occupants. When it was learned that the occupants were there for parking, they were warned to depart. A number of automobiles were already on the grounds when the railroad officer arrived and the numbers of such cars as were not able to be moved were taken down. Sunday, with the railroad police officer on the job, drivers who had business with the railroad experienced little difficulty in reaching trains.

The through expresses were operated in several sections, especially those west-bound, the first sections being sometimes ahead of regular schedule and made up of many day coaches.

Sunday, north-bound out of Rhode Island, drivers were stopped by members of the department of state police near the Meeting House bridge over the Pawcatuck river between the towns of Westerly and Hopkinton and warned that state laws decreed legal speed 35 miles per hour.

Boy's Leg Broken

A badly broken leg was sustained Saturday afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock when William Mills, Jr., 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mills, of 4 Prospect street, was struck by an automobile in front of the Crandall block on Canal street. The machine was driven by Frank Ferraro, of Chester avenue, who said that the boy darted out into the street from behind a parked car. The boy was taken to Westerly hospital and attended by Dr. M. H. Scanlon. He was found to have a compound, comminuted fracture of two bones above the left ankle, and lacerations on his leg and face.

Week-End Accidents

The showers of Sunday morning caused streets and highways in and about Westerly to become slippery, adding to the number of week-end automobile accidents. Sunday about 6:30 a. m., on Nooseneck Hill route, two occupants of an automobile had a narrow escape from being badly injured when the machine in which they were riding ran down a bank and overturned near the Nardone filling station. The driver of the machine had his knee cut, according to Officer Leroy H. Norman, who investigated the accident. John Doti, of 158 Chauncey street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was driving the machine, owned by Clara Doti, of the same address.

Shortly after 10 a. m., Sunday, an automobile driven by David Lee Whelchel, of 2120 Connecticut avenue, Washington, D. C., skidded and overturned on the Post road and landed up against a stone wall on the opposite side of the highway. The operator and other occupant of the machine escaped injury. Officer Paul McCarthy found that the car belonged to Margaret R. Taylor, 200 Hammond court, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Doolin, 48 Buckingham street, Cambridge, Mass., sister of the driver, was in the car.

Saturday, at the corner of Elm and Cross street, a car owned by James Jordon, of 114 Norwood avenue, Norwood, and a machine owned and driven by Town Councilman George E. Broughton crashed. Mrs. James Jordon suffered injuries to her right arm and Eugene, 5 years old, sustained a cut on his face. Mr. Jordon was not hurt. Mr. Broughton also escaped injury. The Jordon car struck an electric light pole and broke it off at the butt.

DANIELSON

CHARLES FITTS HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT

DANIELSON, July 6—Charles Fitts, who has been held at Brooklyn jail, in default of bail, awaiting a hearing was presented in court in his home town, Hampton, Saturday, to face charges made against him by boys, on statutory grounds. The boys who accuse him of abnormalities testified before Attorney L. A. Woisard, sitting as a justice of the peace. Probable cause for holding him was found by Attorney Woisard for appearance at the next term of the Windham county superior court having criminal jurisdiction, and his bond continued at $6,000. Not being able to furnish it he was returned to jail.

State officers of the Danielson barracks were operating here and in Putnam last evening, checking cars for faulty equipment, as is their periodic custom. The cars examined were found in proper condition. No arrests were made hereabouts by state officers over the holiday period. No accidents of any consequence were reported to them. Operators of motor cars used proper discretion. Heavy though the traffic was it moved with precision and with very little difficulty.

Construction Work Goes On.

Two power shovels are now at work on the Wauregan-Danielson state road highway job, which is to be rushed to completion. Most of the work so far done is on the Wauregan end, and consists of excavating cuts and making fills where the grades are being changed and where curves are being eliminated. No concrete work has been started, but it will be underway, it is expected before the end of the month. For the time being little of the old roadway has been torn up, and that mostly in Wauregan. There is no great hindrance to traffic, though those who would avoid the field of construction operations have a fine detour in the Wauregan-Brooklyn-Danielson state highway.

A number of Danielson people were at Camp Woodstock during the holiday period to visit with local boys who are spending a fortnight at the Tri-County Y. M. C. A. camp. On the Fourth there was a variety of diversion especially adapted to the holiday, with fireworks in the evening.

Those who are entertainment-minded these summer days will find plenty of diversion right at home during the coming week. The special attractions for this week include the Chautauqua offerings and a circus billed in for the coming week-end.

Of interest to his many friends in this town is the announcement that Robert W. Boys of the Farr Alpace company of Holyoke was elected district governor of the Lions at a recent convention of members of the order in his home city. Mr. Boys was for a term of years superintendent of the Goodyear Mills of this town.

A suggestion that it will not be long until another school year begins is contained in the call of the Brooklyn town school committee for bids from those who would like the job of furnishing transportation for school children from September on. Brooklyn transports a considerable number of pupils to Danielson for attendance at Killingly High school, in addition to other transport jobs wholly within the town of Brooklyn.

Wednesday evening of this week brings the dedication service at St. Alban's church that has been arranged incident to the gift to the church by George P. Miller of Bridgeport of three stained glassed windows for the sanctuary. The windows are in memory of Willard Day, Catherine Brown Day and Annie Day. It is a service in which members of the parish are much interested.

Sidewalk Work To Be Resumed.

Sidewalk construction, interrupted by the holiday period, will be resumed with the coming of Monday, weather permitting. Since early spring much sidewalk has been put in in an arrangement between the borough and property owners, the borough meeting half the cost. The work will continue for many weeks, and there is the assurance that the next winter season will be much easier to get about in over borough streets than has been the rule in the past.

Two boys, each 13 years of age, who were caught red-handed in the act of stealing from the cash register in the Charon store in the Hyde block on the night before the Fourth were before the town court Saturday morning. They were placed on probation and their cases continued for six months. They admitted making five breaks at the Charon store. The money they took, amounting to about $30, was made good by their relatives. One of the boys purchased a watch for about $15 with part of the plunder. This watch has been returned to the store where it was purchased and the money paid for it refunded.

Group photographs made of members of the original Wauregan Grays and the Jewett City baseball teams just before their reunion game at Wauregan on the Fourth will be prized not only by the players, but also by many old-time fans. Incidentally, the new pictures will make fine companion pieces for pictures of the individual players and teams that were made when they were going great guns as teams something over a quarter of a century ago.

Quiet Holiday Week-end.

Chief John McFarland reported today the quietest Fourth and attendant holidays in many years in Danielson. Not an arrest was made here on the holiday or succeeding days There was no disturbance or untoward activities. Not a motoring accident of any consequence claimed the attention of borough officers, though a New Jersey motorist limped a battered new car in here this morning and reported to Chief McFarland that the car had skidded out on the Providence road and slid into a tree. The machine remained in operating condition.

This evening a union service under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches was held in the Baptist church. Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church was the speaker.

PUTNAM

CONDITION OF MAYOR SHOWS MARKED IMPROVEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 6.—The condition of Mayor Charles A. Richard was improved today and friends and relatives were relieved this morning when they learned that he recovered from the relapse of Friday evening. Mayor Richard was forced to retire to his bed and was attended by his physician Friday night and Saturday. He passed a restless night Saturday, but his condition showed a favorable change this morning and he was permitted to arise at noon.

Mayor Richard said this afternoon that he was aware of his weakened condition and that he was waging a determined battle to regain his strength, which was lost during his long illness of last winter. He talked of the various municipal problems now, before the common council for consideration and talked at length on the settlement of the $5,000 bond issue which completes the technical and financial part of the city water works improvement programme. The mayor emphasized that he will rest more comfortably when he has disposed of his grocery business and enters into complete retirement. He reviewed briefly his long term of years spent in Putnam's business field, and said that he would plan for the future after his health is completely restored

Upon the advice of his physician, Mayor Richard is to relieve himself of all work in connection with his business and his office as mayor of the city. For a month, preceding the relapse suffered this week end, Mayor Richard was on the road to recovery. He made a valient effort to attend to various matters pretaining to the mayoralty and in this way overtaxed himself

Half a hundred members of St. Mary's Boy Scouts organization boarded a truck at one o'clock today at the parish grounds on Marshall street and soon were off for a fifteen day period of outdoor scout life to be spent at the new Boy Scout camp at Laurel pond in North Woodstock. The boys and leaders alike were uneasy and a wave of enthusiasm spread through the happy ranks as the khaki cargo lined up for final inspection before entraining for the camp where they will spend the next fortnight. Unsettled weather and overcast skies, threatening rain, did not in the least dampen the ardor of the boys.

A programme crammed with interesting events and so prepared to dispell any ill effects inclement weather might have, was awaiting the arrival of the first detachment. Rev. Joseph D. Casey, scout executive has secured the services of Theron Perkins of Boston, a noted American bandmaster, who will be at the camp on July 21st. The Boy Scouts band will be in camp on this day and perform under the direction of Mr. Perkins. Another treat for the scouts will be the appearance of Daniel English, who will be at the camp the first and third week. English is a noted drummer. During his stay he will give instructions in the art.

The camp programme to be followed has been prepared according to the judgment of foremost boys' camp experts. The days activities are regulated and the schedule adopted will be strictly adhered to. Father Casey said. A day in camp will be as follows: 6:25 reveille; 6:35, roll call; 6:55, flag raising and pledge of allegiance; 7:00, mass; 7:30, breakfast; 8:30, sick call; 9:00, policing grounds; 9:15, tent inspection; 9:30, roll call; scout craft, instructions and study; 11:15, calisthetics; 11:30, swim and life saving instructions; 11:50, roll call and dress; 12:00, dinner.

The afternoon's programme will consist of a rest period, athletics, instructions in swimming and boating and recreational games with supper coming at 5:45 p. m. A varied programme will be arranged to make the evenings enjoyable. Taps at 9:30 will officially end the scout day.

The second boy's period will begin at the expiration of the first and with this period completed the girls and young women of the parish will take over camp for a two week period, Rev. U. O. Bellerose announced today.

Five state officers of the Danielson barracks were stationed last night on the Providence and Boston highways at the intersection of Mechanics and School streets where for more than two hours they hailed all traffic for the purpose of checking-up on the condition of automobile equipment. Registration certificates and operators licenses were examined as well as the condition of headlights, brakes and other equipment.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer at the Danielson barracks reported this afternoon that officers found faulty equipment to be slight and only in a half dozen instances were defective equipment tags issued. No arrests were made as the result of the check-up.

Lieut. Urquhart explained that a driver receiving a defective equipment tag, must visit a service station and have the defective apparatus repaired. The tag is presented to the service station operator who forwards a section of it to state police headquarters. In this way the police are enabled to rid the state of some of the worst detriments of the road.

It was apparent today that the water company's bonds amounting to $65,000 issued by the city would be delivered to the firm of Eldridge and company of Boston, Monday. JEWETT CITY

HOUSE OF AMANDA HALL'S SAVED IN MORNING FIRE

A barn, belonging to John Switz, the owner of the one-time Owen Clarke farm, situated on the "Around the Pond" road, was burned to the ground early Saturday morning. Two loads of hay cut earlier in the week, and over a ton of feed were destroyed. The light of the fire, which later lightened up the sky for miles, was first seen by William Farrely, as he was driving to his home at the Quinebaug camps, shortly after midnight. There is no telephone at the Switz place, which is more than a mile from Jewett City. It was necessary to go to Frank Geer's, some distance across the lots. He being aroused sent the message to Chief W. A. Field, in the borough asking for help to save the house.

The big pumper, with a half dozen firemen made a quick run. A few feet from the barn the Geer trout brook runs through the meadow. In the deepest hole that could be located there the firemen dropped in the big 8-inch suction pipe—pumping 500 gallons a minute, the big engine soon had the trout brook bone dry. After running a couple of minutes the pipemen had to wait five minutes for the brook to fill in from above. Amanda B. Hall of Norwich, now Mrs. John A. Brownell of New London, brought this farm into prominence when she wrote—The Little Red House in the Hollow. By the efforts of the firemen the house of Miss Hall's attractive story was saved from being burned.

BAPTIST PASTOR REVIEWS EIGHT YEARS' PASTORATE

Rev. Elmer E. Scates, preaching at the Baptist church Sunday morning, alluded to the fact that he has completed eight very pleasant years in his present pastorate. In connection with his sermon relative to the powerful influences of the Christian churches, the speaker outlined some of the demands being made upon the ministers of today. He believed that no alliances with the social sides of life should be allowed to encroach upon the study times, which in no case are to be neglected, if one would maintain efficiency in the pulpit, and keep abreast of the many requirements which a pastor must fulfil. Mr. Scates expressed much gratitude for the cooperation he has received from his congregation, and from the leaders in the several church activities, adding that most pleasing to him and his family, has been the prevailing church harmony that has aided in blessing the eight years of his pastorate here with whatever successes have been achieved, and with whatever common benefits have been derived. Since Mr. Scates began his duties in this parish, seventy-one persons have united with the church. Important improvement have been made and the audience room the building has been re-roofed and the exterior painted.

N. Y. Mother Finds A Real Weight Builder at Last

If you are tired of being bony, scrawny and weak, read how Mrs. Henry A. Thaler of Richmond Hill, N. Y., and her daughter gained weight and improved their figures:

"The writer of this letter and my daughter, Viola, have been using McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets for seven weeks, and in that time I have gained 4 pounds and am more full of 'pep' than ever. Viola has gained 3 pounds and she is beginning to get wonderful color in her face."

The reason is that McCoy's are genuine cod liver oil extract tablets. That is the same as saying that like the Norwegian cod liver oil from which they are made, McCoy's are hundreds of times richer in flesh and strength producing vitamins than even milk, eggs, butter or cream.

So take advantage of Lee & Osgod's offer of the safe, pleasant, easy, inexpensive way to gain the weight and energy you need. McCoy's must give any man, woman or child the increased weight desired or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's—60 tablets 60 cents.

TRAMPLING ART FOR PROFITS

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits. Witness, the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply all the "music" offered in thousands of theatres. Can such a tiny reservoir of talent nurture artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debase it. Therefore mechanical music, as a substitute for Living Music, is a spurious form of progress—Like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The grind organ, however operated, is a grind organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependent upon human contact.

Who profits by the elimination of genuine music from the theatre? Not the music-loving public! Not the musician!

If you agree that theatre patrons are entitled to real music—in addition to talking and sound motion pictures, for the price they pay— HELP SAVE THE ART FROM RUIN. Enroll with millions of others in the Music Defense League. When the public's voice is raised its will must be served!

No Shock to the System

New laxative safe and dependable for people of all ages . . .

If in your fight against constipation you have been continually increasing your doses—changing from pills to salts and back to pills for relief—you will welcome this interesting discovery of modern science.

Uniform "internal distribution" is now known to be essential to the successful operation of any laxative. It is internal distribution which is the secret of the success of the remarkable laxative known as Feen-a-mint—the modern chewing gum laxative.

Because you chew Feen-a-Mint it is effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. For the effectiveness of a laxative is not so much dependent upon the QUANTITY swallowed as upon the thoroughness of ITS DISTRIBUTION THROUGHOUT THE AILMENTARY TRACT.

While you chew this delicious bit of gum the tasteless laxative it contains is gradually released and mixed with the saliva. Thus it is carried to the intestinal tract smoothly, evenly, without shock to the system or the distressing after-effects so common with old-fashioned laxatives. Each particle of the laxative in Feen-a-mint works with utmost efficiency, gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to resume the activity so necessary for healthful elimination.

The action of Feen-a-mint is thorough, gentle, dependable. With the proper dosage, it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the HEALTH LAXATIVE. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

HOLD WHAT YOU'VE GOT

It is the desire of the progressive city to secure more industries, to have its present industries grow and to keep within its own limits the manufacturing plants which are already established there.

Certain cities have developed plans for industrial growth which have shown excellent results. They have grown in population, in business activity, in goods manufactured and in wages paid. They have not only recognized the wisdom of providing for the industries they have and getting new ones but they have gone ahead and put their ideas into operation. They have proved that it could be done and they have attained results which justify the course followed.

It was not many months ago that the residents of Huntington, Mass., faced the departure of the only industry in the town. They had a chance to step in and retain it which they did through subscriptions and made it a community enterprise. Their faith and their funds kept the plant intact and the town alive.

At Waterloo, N. Y., a plant engaged in the manufacture of automobile cloth was about to be closed and dismantled. It was an industry the town couldn't afford to lose. Citizens and employes disliked the idea with the result that they took a first mortgage on the plant to keep it there and in operation and it is now in operation night and day running to capacity.

There are many cities which can point to similar efforts for the sake of retaining desirable industries. More might have done so had there been an effort made and a proper attitude displayed toward the small but nevertheless worthwhile industry which moved because it got needed encouragement elsewhere. Plenty are the instances of such small industries which have moved away from the city where they were started developing into large and prosperous manufacturing establishments. The importance of giving a needed lift to worthy industries ought not to be overlooked. It frequently means much more than larger outlays for questionable new manufacturing plants.

MAKE IT A REAL FIGHT

The call has been issued for a general and deadly fight against the Japanese beetle. It is another pest that means destruction unless it is successfully combatted and it rests largely with those who are threatened by its ravages to offer such a resistance that the beetle cannot get through it.

This is the time of the year when the beetle gets in its most effective work. It tackles vegetation ruthlessly. Allowed to have its own way it will make surprising progress in removing the foliage and overstep all regulations as to dieting. It balks not at the plump figure but caters to its appetite as if engaged in an endurance test.

Those who can appreciate the havoc such a pest can cause may well be aroused by the demands for suppressing it. By responding to the first call, getting the arsenate of lead solution onto the foliage before the beetle gets there, that he may secure enough of it to kill, and there will be a real effective control of this new nuisance.

Fighting pests seems to be an endless job. Long before suppression or even control is accomplished in one instance, information is given of the appearance of another. Like the weeds of a garden they spring into being without solicitation and their disappearance is accomplished only after the hardest kind of a battle. But it is not a case where those concerned can afford to ignore their existence. Rather is it a signal for the extension of a cleverly planned reception, one that will furnish them with enough deadly material to nip their plans in the bud.

Such a fight is always easier to wage at the beginning than after a pest has become well entrenched. Such a fight can always be maintained and executed the more successfully by the many rather than by the few. It is where there is a general compliance with requirements the effective control is accomplished. Instead of waiting for the Japanese beetle to overrun the country it is time for the infested areas to put up such complete resistance that it will be stopped in its tracks. Many hands can do invaluable work in such a campaign by preventing it from getting a forthold.

A NEW TEST

The test is underway and the opportunity is going to be afforded to see whether the placing of the prohibition bureau in the department of justice is going to have any more fruitful results than existed while it was in the treasury department.

The difficulties which have stood in the way of enforcement of the dry law are not being changed. The sentiment of those opposed to the dry law has not been altered, except as time goes on there appears to be a stronger feeling that prohibition is not doing what was expected and that there is need of tackling the problem in a different manner. With the placing of the dry bureau in the very department which must deal with the prosecution of violators there are reasons to expect that there will be closer and better cooperation. Thus it is in the belief that greater efficiency will result that the change has been brought about.

For the first time the enforcement bureau is where it belongs. As the change is inaugurated there is a new director and various shifts in district administrators have been made. The expectations are that better results will follow, that laxity will be overcome and that the failures of the past will be overcome. It will end the claim that treasury officials are not in sympathy with enforcement. There will be an acknowledged dry as the enforcement official under a recognized dry attorney general.

This doesn't alter public sentiment and it doesn't give assurance that the difficulties encountered in enforcement for the past decade can be any more effectively overcome. It will not upset the convictions which are based upon the conditions which have existed and developed during the days since prohibition became a law.

The best that can be said is that the enforcement bureau is now where it belongs and where it should have been put in the first place. Whether enforcement can be made any more effective under this new arrangement is one of those things which the future is supposed to reveal. It will be eagerly awaited by those who claim it can as well as by those who claim the record of the past clearly indicates that it cannot.

PROMPT TREATY ACTION

With the regular session of congress out of the way interest centers on what the senate is going to do at its special session.

While the calling of the senate is for the particular business of considering the treaty negotiated at London there is nothing to restrict it from taking up any business it sees fit. That it will not branch out into a lot of legislation is quite certain from the knowledge that the members would prefer not to have been required to remain in Washington even to consider the treaty. Possibly certain appointments may be submitted for approval but beyond that the senate can be expected to deal solely with the treaty.

Everything considered little time should be required in getting to a vote on the London pact. There will be a handful who will do their utmost to prolong discussion, who can be relied upon to resort to all possible means of preventing a vote and whose aim will be to delay consideration until fall.

In view of the fact that it is known that there is a large majority in the senate favorable to the treaty's ratification it will be surprising if the majority is outwitted or if its members play into the hands of the few who are standing as obstructionists and opposing not only the treaty but a vote upon it.

It is to be expected that those who want to voice their opposition will be given a chance to be heard and allowed to advance any and all arguments which they possess, but if they undertake to resort to time wasting and filibustering for the sake of tiring the rest and forcing a recess or an adjournment without action it is to be expected that it will be promptly suppressed. The special session of the senate is called to act on the treaty and this should be done. Make it short and snappy.

BOLIVIA'S TROUBLES

Bolivia is one of those republics which needs all the help that it can get through constructive government and a development of its natural resources. It is handicapped enough through the lack of a seaport without being subjected to the detrimental effects of occasional turmoil resulting from plots and counterplots against the government. It is unfortunate that when Bolivia gets a good government it isn't able to keep it and make the most of it.

It will not be claimed in that republic that all of its governments are worth keeping. That is the distressing part of the upheavals which throw out those at the helm only to replace them by those who are no better. In the latest change which has taken place in Bolivia, a change which is aimed at the prevention of the scheming that has gone on in the past to get, maintain or direct control, there are hopes for better things.

It is customary for the military to be in control of Bolivian governments. In the formation of the new cabinet civilians are being called into service. This represents a departure that gives promise of different and better things. If that republic can secure a stable government that will abide by constitutional requirements it will be an excellent thing but it may be too much to expect all at once in view of conditions in that country where much illiteracy exists.

Bolivia is a country which has enough outside troubles over boundary disputes and efforts for an outlet to the sea without further handicapping itself by internal controversies which keep it in a constant state of upheaval. It has less than twice the population of Connecticut but an area of a half million square miles. Its natural resources are extensive and valuable.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It didn't take congress long to forget the lessons of Coolidge economy.

Along with those black bathtubs being introduced in Paris there will probably go milk baths.

The man on the corner says: Where are the prophets who insisted this was going to be a hot summer?

With the opening of the second half of the year it is probable that some of the resolutions proclaimed at the year's opening have been forgotten.

It will not take the senate long to dispose of the Londen treaty at the special session if it opens up with night sessions and really gets down to business.

With the New England league discontinuing games for the remainder of the season and Hartford and Pittsfield dropping out of the Eastern league the impression is created that baseball is slipping.

THE WORLD AT FIFTEEN

"Don't you think," Ernestine wanted to know, a trifle palely, "that it's a terrible thing to wreck a man's life? I don't think I ever shall be able to eat again. Bette had the most gorgeous box of chocolates this afternoon and after the first six or eight I just turned against them.

"When Bud first began acting so sort of queer I thought it was because he was so excited over going away to college this fall. Getting out from under the family's clutches and having a chance to use his own judgment, you know. Why, that's enough to make any one go light-headed! I've pointed that out to mother many times, but older people seem very set in their ideas and it is impossible to make them realize things as they are.

"So when he began staring at me in that queer way I didn't think a single thing about it. And when the crowd went to the movie and he held my hand all through the thrilling parts I didn't think anything of that either. You have to realise that boys have a way of holding your hand if they get a chance and if they don't get the chance they do it anyhow. I don't much mind except once in a while my hand gets numb.

"I suppose when he took me home that night and hung around the door and coughed and said, 'Little girl, you don't know, you can't realize'—and then choked—I should have seen that he was acting very unnatural, but I guess I am of a very unsuspicious nature. He actually tried to kiss me good-night, only he bumped the end of my nose so it was considerable of a flop, if you compared it with what we had just seen at the movie.

"But I was ever so pleased because I knew that Bette simply would have a fit when I told her the next day. George has taken her out for months and has never got up enough nerve to try it. Not that we girls believe in this kissing—we've talked it all over and decided that the longer you keep them from doing it the more devoted they're going to be—only it's terribly thrilling to have them break over and try to do it anyhow.

"But when Bud stopped his car a block away from the gym the next night, where we were going to a football rally, and said he had a notion not to go away to college at all, I was simply thunderstruck. He said when he thought of being a thousand miles away from me, and perhaps Tod Wilkins or Fat Gorman would be taking me to the games and movies, he just felt all hollow and a college degree seemed the height of foolishness and, anyhow, he had a darned good notion to get a job downtown and show the family!

"He'd like to know how a fellow was going to get along on the sort of an allowance they had figured out as necessary. As though figuring meant anything with such emergencies coming up as punctured tires and new suits because your old ones got torn or spilled on any, anyhow, was I crazy about Tod?

"Then he seemed to get really desperate and put his arm around me and said: 'Little girl, if you only knew what it meant to me you'd swear never to look at Fat and Tod and the others,' and why not be engaged, really before he went away and then I could spend every evening writing him letters telling him everything I had done and cheering him up—and golly, what would I think of chucking the whole works and just getting married, actually, and establishing our own home? We were practically grown up and it would be fine to get an early start in life!

"I was absolutely speechless. I was just thrilled to death and I realized how simply noble looking Bud was, the way his hair sweeps across his forehead and everything. It is terrible when you are responsible for a man's happiness that way—but I fortunately remembered about the runabout dad has promised me when I graduate from high school and I felt sure if I married Bud I wouldn't get it.

"No matter how much you like a man he hasn't any right to expect you to give up a runabout for him and I tried to point this out to Bud, but he just laughed a horrible, despairing laugh and said I was like them all—false, fair and heartless—and we had an awful fight and never did get to the rally.

"He sent back a package of my pictures before he left and wrote 'Farewell' across the face of the largest one so I can't give it to anyone else. I certainly call that outrageous!"—Exchange

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 6—Reading of the death of former Sen. James K. Vardaman of Mississippi, the Bystander's memory was stirred with a recollection of those turbulent days of 1917.

For Vardaman was one of the six senators who voted against the war resolution and of those six only Norris of Nebraska remains today.

Looking over the Mississippian's career, it seems a little strange that he should have cast his lot in that test as he did. His colleague, John Sharp Williams, now living in peaceful retirement among his books, was an eloquent and vehement champion of the war resolution, yet no man could have called him a militarist.

No Pacifist

Vardaman himself was no pacifist. His father was a Confederate soldier, wounded in battle. The son held a captaincy in the army in the Spanish-American war.

Yet knowing that he was one of a meager minority, the bulky, dark browed southerner who wore his hair long on his shoulders, made a passionate plea for some other way than "the arbitrament of the sword."

Vardaman spoke on that last day, when the senate voted the war resolution through just before midnight of April 4. LaFollette of Wisconsin was the last and most dramatic speaker against it, and in the rush and hurry of the news there was not much attention paid to what the Mississippian had said in his conclusion.

His Appeal

Yet it is striking in that no more stirring appeal for national solidarity in the battle to come, for patriotic devotion was made by any senator than was voiced by Vardaman in voting against war.

"When the resolution shall pass," he said, "we will be in a state of war with Germany. Every American citizen will be called upon to go to the defense of the flag. I trust he will respond promptly and if need be give his life and his all to uphold the nation's cause.

"I shall vote to give the president men and money to the last citizen able to bear arms, and every dollar that shall be necessary to meet the expenses of whatever may be necessary.

"I shall do more. My own services shall be offered to do whatever within my power in support of by country's cause. I trust there will be no break in the ranks, no hesitating, no questions; but that America may present a solid, invincible front to the common enemy."

There was high patriotism in that speech, yet the vote that went with it was influential in sweeping Vardaman from public life. And it opened the way to the senate for Patrick Harrison.

Man Is The Master

By S. J. Waterworth, M. D., Clearfield, Pa.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

In this age of capitalism and industrialism it often seems that the things that loom largest are money and machines. They are so imposing and so constantly in our vision. Yet both are the result of man's activity. Our cities, the marts of money and trade, the skyscrapers, monuments, libraries are from the hands of men; so are the leviathans of commerce and the mechanical birds. The marvels of electricity are the evidence of the intellectual and physical functioning of man. Without man—none of these. Man, therefore, is of more importance than the things seen as the result of his labor and should be considered before these.

Man and his physical and mental welfare should not only be the thought engaging the minds of those in the medical profession, but should be the first concern of the nation, the state and the city. This has been of recent years increasingly emphasized by certain groups. We have a beginning in the public health service, state health departments and local boards of health. But these are not enough. Prevention of disease, conservation of the unit of humanity and his physical rehabilitation will have to become part of the consciousness of every individual. Personal health must be our watchword.

Moses was successful in breeding into the Hebrew people a consciousness of some of the laws of sanitation through a religious precept. It then became to them a matter of conscience. Today, no matter what creed is professed, all men except savages, cynical atheists, or the man-killing thugs, believe or have as an ideal the brotherhood of man. As an expression of that belief they profess the ancient command, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." But profession without practice is worthless hypocrisy, and in health matters there is no excuse for being a slacker. Therefore, do not cough in your neighbor's face, nor spit on your neighbor's or anyone's floor; nor seek to hide cases of communicable disease from the legally constituted health authorities. You cannot do this and be of good conscience. Do not neglect to vote for the maintenance of institutions for contagious diseases, for the feeble-minded and insane. See that your county home for the indigent is not a dirty, vermin infested jail-like place. As to jails and prisons, why should we allow them to become the breeding place of tuberculosis and by lack of proper food and sanitation cause in the minds of criminals the resentment that has resulted in the horrible mutinies which have recently appalled the nation? Get acquainted with your hospitals and give them your support. Get acquainted with your doctor and dentist and tell them you want preventive rather than curative care. Consult with your children's school teachers about what is being done for the pupil's health.

In other words, be alertly health-minded and help keep yourself, your children, your community as physically efficient as we want the tools we use to be.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Little Muskrat Who Was Slow

Be not too quick, though as you know,
'Tis often fatal to be slow.
—Old Mother Nature.

One must think quickly in times of danger. The one who is slow in his thinking is likely to be too late. That is why these slow thinkers seldom live to grow old. To live long in the world of feathers and fur is to think quickly and to act as quickly.

Now, in Jerry Muskrat's big family there was one young Muskrat who was always just a little bit behind the others. If a danger signal was given this young Muskrat was the last one to heed it. This wasn't because he was careless or heedless. It was because his wits were a little slow. He didn't sense at once what the signal meant. But when he would see his brothers and sisters plunging under water, he would do likewise, for it would come to him than what that signaling meant.

Mrs. Muskrat worried over this little fellow more than she did over some of the others. "I am afraid," she said to Jerry, "that some day he'll just be too late. You will notice that he never does anything in a hurry. His wits seem to work slowly and his movements are just as slow. It takes him twice as long to get under water as it does some of the others."

"Oh, I wouldn't worry about him," replied Jerry. "He'll be all right."

For a while the young Muskrat was all right. Nothing happened to him and his mother, becoming accustomed to his slowness, gradually forgot about it. Of course, she warned him that he must think more quickly and move more quickly. But the little Muskrat went his way unconcerned. As nothing happened to him, he made up his mind that nothing could happen to him; and this was, of course, a very foolish thing to think. You know, something can always happen. Now, there were others who had noticed the slowness of this little Muskrat. One of those was Whitetail the Marsh Hawk. It is the business of Whitetail to note such things as this. Many times he had flown where he could watch the young Muskrats around the Smiling Pool, without appearing to watch them. He was studying them; he was getting acquainted with their ways.

"There is one of those young Muskrats I am going to have for my dinner," thought Whitetail. "He doesn't know it and I'm not going to tell him, but I'm going to get him just the same. Were he as quick as his brothers and sisters I wouldn't be quite so sure of him. But he is slow and one of these days he is going to be too slow for his own good."

So every day Whitetail kept watch so as to learn the habits of the young Muskrats. He noticed that this particular young Muskrat was fond of sitting on the end of a certain old log. Back of that log grew some bulrushes. All this Whitetail took note of. Then one morning when from a distance he had made sure that the young Muskrat was sitting on his favorite log, Whitetail circled far around and then, flying low, just above the grass tops, he headed straight for the Smiling Pool. He was flying so low that he knew the young Muskrat sitting on the log would not be able to see him, because of the bulrushes. Any young Muskrat who might be on the other side of the pond would be likely to see him before he reached the Smiling Pool. However, they would not see him until he was almost there, and he counted on the slowness of this young Muskrat to take alarm.

"Oh, I wouldn't worry about him,"

It all came about just as he had planned. Jerry Muskrat, from the farther side of the Smiling Pool, saw Whitetail coming. Instantly, Jerry gave the alarm. Instantly, all the young Muskrats heeded the alarm; that is, all but the slow one. By the time he had made up his mind to plunge into the water, it was just too late, and Whitetail the Marsh Hawk carried him away. So Jerry's big family was reduced to six.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Saturn and Luna.

Mr. Editor: West-bound Saturn and our east-bound moon will meet and pass in the south-eastern sky July 9th just before sunset. Fair Luna, in almost full dress for the occasion, will very tactfully and most graciously keep a little to the south in order not to altogether fade out the lesser glory of her noted escort. A pretty sight Wednesday night as they stroll across the sky together.

Very truly yours,
HENRY DILL BENNER.

A YANKEE ABROAD

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Wartime Memories

LONDON—A lot of memories have been called back by the visit of those Yankees boys who have made a pilgrimage to see once more the sector in which they were stationed on the British front in Flanders during the bloody days of 1917-18 as members of the famous 27th Division, A. E. F.

Now the marks of war have largely disappeared, and crimson poppies nod their heads where dead men lie.

Narrow Escape

The arrival of the boys of the 27th over here reminded me of one murky July night in 1917 when several of the division's officers were nearer death than they had ever been before—and didn't know it.

It was this way:

A few miles back of the fighting line in Flanders was the tiny hamlet of Cassel, which perches like a bird on the top of a little, cone-shaped hill that rises abruptly from the plain.

In Cassel was La Belle Sauvage—a small French hostel which was noted for its food and wines, even in those days of scarcity. The inn stood on the edge of the hill, and from its balcony at night one could see the blazing battle line for miles.

To La Belle Sauvage came the officers of many nations for a brief respite from the nasty business down below, when they got a few hours' leave. And to La Belle Sauvage this July night came some officers of the 27th to celebrate a certain anniversary.

After dinner they staged a show, with comedians and banjo players, and all the rest. But I was tired and went to bed in a room just above them. As I lay there listening to the music, through my open window came a noise like the scream of an express train. It was a familiar sound—a German aviator had launched a huge bomb.

Close To Death

For what seemed like ages I lay listening to that onrushing bomb. One could tell by the sound that it was coming directly for La Belle Sauvage, and I wondered just what it would feel like to be blown to atoms.

That bomb missed the roof of the inn by yards and exploded just outside the garden wall beyond, throwing pieces of jagged steel back into the garden. Explosions were common occurrences, and the minstrels paid no attention to this one if, indeed, they heard it.

That's how close those officers of the 27th came to death that night. I wonder if any of the boys went to see Cassel on their pilgrimage this year. Doubtless they did.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

(132) Remington Noiseless Typewriter Corporation, Middletown.

The idea of the noiseless typewriter originated in the fertile brains of W. P. Kidder of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and C. C. Colby of Stanstead, Quebec. They were great friends and close associated. Mr. Kidder was an inventor of printing presses and two typewriters—"The Franklin" and "The Wellington"—were his patents. Mr. Colby had the manufacturing and merchandising instinct; and in 1891 he organized the Imperial Writing Machine company, which built the "Wellington" in Canada under the name of "The Empire" and sold it throughout the British empire and on the continent, where Colby traveled extensively and made many contacts.

In 1896 Colby and Kidder got together on the problem of a noiseless typewriter, Kidder to do the experimental work and Colby to furnish capital and business counsel. For eight years Kidder experimented. Mechanical difficulties demanded much time and money and in order to make these more available, The Parker Machine company, with headquarters at Buffalo, was formed in 1904 in order to bring the Kidder noiseless typewriter to the ready-to-manufacture point.

In 1908 The Parker Machine company became The Silent Writing Machine company by a recapitalization and exchange of securities, the Silent Writing company being incorporated in the state of New York. A factory was purchased at Middletown, Conn., and the Silent Writing company organized the Noiseless Typewriter company of Connecticut and accorded it western hemisphere manufacturing rights.

Working capital to the extent of $750,000 was raised in the spring of 1909 by the sale of preferred stock of the Noiseless Typewriter company and manufacturing operations begun under the charge of E. L. C. Clark, at that time a member of the Remington staff at Ilion.

In 1912 N. H. Anderson, a Noiseless Typewriter company's engineer, invented a new type action which vastly improved the speed and touch of the noiseless; but financial difficulties prevented its marketing. The first noiseless typewriter company went into receivership in 1913; but a bondholders' meeting in cooperation with the receiver worked out a plan of reorganization, and in 1914 fresh funds were raised and Joseph Merriam of Middletown, was made president; J. A. Ruffin, works manager, and E. J. Sheehan, sales manager.

A year of careful preparation and perfecting of tools and then the new product was marketed carefully and cautiously. In 1915, 500 noiseless typewriters were sold. In 1917 a new model known as "No. 4 Noiseless" was brought out by the company, followed by another—"No. 5" in 1921. In 1922 the Noiseless Typewriter company was awarded the Edward Longstreth medal by the Franklin institute. In 1924 the Noiseless Typewriter company united with the Remington Typewriter company and the Remington-Noiseless Typewriter corporation was called into being. From that time the progress of the noiseless typewriter has been rapid and sustained.

In 1925 came the Remington-Rand Noiseless Model No. 6—the most notable development in typewriter history since Remington made the first practical writing machine. Then, in 1927, the Remington Typewriter company became a part of Remington Rand, Incorporated, a combination of 12 of the leading manufacturers of office appliances, and the Remington Noiseless, now a member of this important family, is benefiting from the greatly increased sales effort made possible by this large company.

The present officers of the Remington-Noiseless Typewriter corporation are: B. L. Winchell, president; Dr. Charles W. Colby, chairman of the board; Harry Landseidel, vice president; H. E. Smith, secretary; Charles B. Robertson, assistant secretary; E. J. Saxer, treasurer; W. G. Cuthbertson, assistant treasurer.

Chertsey Crickett Club members at Chertsey, England, who have discovered that matches were played on their grounds as long ago as 1742, claim the title of the oldest cricket club in England, and their "innings" have been going on for at least 188 years.

WOULD-BE BURGLAR AT NORWICH INN WENT TO SLEEP ON THE JOB

Sleep overtook a would-be burglar, Charles McLosky, 24, of No. 42 Mt. Pleasant street, in his planned perpetration of a burglary at the Norwich Inn on the Norwich and New London highway, early Sunday morning, for he was found asleep in the basement of the inn at 1:30 o'clock in the morning. His presence was discovered by Keith Pierce, a night clerk, who also acts as night watchman, while he was making his rounds of the building.

Hourly each evening, Mr. Pierce is required to conduct a systematic tour of the building and in doing this he came upon McLosky stretched out behind a large storage water tank in the cellar. The night clerk, it is said, found him sound asleep and was about to wake him up, when he noticed the butt end of a revolver sticking out of the hip pocket of his trousers. Thinking that all was not well and possessed of an iron nerve, Mr. Pierce snatched up the weapon and went upstairs to secure assistance.

Mr. Skelly, who lives nearby and is employed as a constable by the Norwich Inn and the Norwich Golf club, was notified of the man's presence in the building, to which he hurriedly went, and later called the Norwich police department for assistance, when he became acquainted with the circumstances. Officers McAvoy, Davis, Disco and Shahan were sent out on the case by Sergt. John Casey, making a quick run in the motor patrol wagon and took the would-be burglar in charge.

Led by Constable Skelly three or four men went into the room armed with sticks of wood and anything they could lay their hands on and seized McLosky, where he was alleged to be waiting for the night clerk with the intentions of slugging him over the head, so that he could carry out his intended plans without interference. They overpowered and held him to the ground floor until the arrival of the police, who put the twisters on him and returned him to the station.

A search of his person revealed that he had besides the revolver, of .32 calibre and fully loaded, a blackjack, weighing about 3 pounds, and a search light. He was wearing a black mask, which hung over his chest and could be easily placed over the lower half of his face to conceal his features. The blackjack was a fierce looking weapon made from a piece of lead piping and a length of a broom handle, about 12 inches long. The lead pipe was wound around and attached to the wooden handle with nails.

In an investigation after the accused was in the possession of the police it was found that he made his entrance into the building through a cellar window, which he raised. Footprints were found leading to this window in the soft dirt. After getting into the cellar it is the opinion of the police that the would-be burglar intended to secrete himself until the early hours of the morning when his chance for burglarizing the place could be accomplished with less probability of detection. The police are of the opinion that McLosky was not asleep when discovered but was only pretending to be.

At police headquarters McLosky was booked on charges of attempted burglary with weapons and carrying concealed weapons. He is locked up under bonds of $5,000 to await his appearance in the city court this (Monday) morning. It is probable that the accused will be bound over to the criminal term of the superior court.

It is said that McLosky has been seen prowling around the building for the past week. He admitted that he had gone to the inn a week ago, but did not carry out his plans as he did not have the nerve to go through with it. His wife, who lives on Mt. Pleasant street, had been employed at the inn for some time when it first opened.

According to the police, McLosky admitted that he intended to burglarize the inn and would have used the blackjack were it necessary.

McLoskey was formerly in the navy and when searched at police headquarters was found to be carrying a bad conduct discharge which was given him at the navy yard at Porthmouth, N. H., on July 8, 1929. Soon after then he came here, it is understood, and married a Norwich girl, and has been living off and on since then at his father-in-law's home at 42 Mt. Pleasant street. He was born in Passaic, N. J., and was formerly a coal miner at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

McLoskey admitted to Captain Thomas Murphy, it is understood, that he bought the revolver in New York on June 4th and fashioned the bludgeon about a week ago when he had the idea of holding up the Norwich inn in his mind.

NOANK MAN DEVISES LOBSTER RAISING TUBE

Because of a device invented during the past year, improvement has occurred in the method of rearing lobsters which should materially affect the supply of these crustaceans in southern New England waters. The invention is a specially perforated tube for the confinement of young lobsters allowing a discharge of water which separates them and prevents cannibalism. A method of checking these cannibalistic tendencies has long been sought in hatcheries.

Captain Frank N. Banning, foreman of the Connecticut hatchery at Noank devised the tube, and improvements upon it were made by Ernest W. Barnes, who for 28 years had charge of lobster rearing activities at Wickford, R. I.

Cannibalistic habits of lobsters continue throughout their lives, and it has been difficult to carry the larval lobsters through the various stages of development. The lobsterlings must be kept constantly in motion and yet supplied with food at all times. If two come together, while retained in any equipment thus far devised, one of them is sure to be devoured by the other, experts of the state board of fisheries and game have determined. It is well established that when three adult lobsters are placed in an aquarium only one survives, the other two becoming victims of cannibalism. According to Superintendent John W. Titcomb, the equipment devised by Captain Banning and Mr. Barnes offers good prospects of carrying a fair percentage of the lobsters to the diving stage, 25 to 35 days after the eggs leave the parent lobster, when they are ready to care for themselves.

One great advantage of the method of lobster rearing now being exploited at Noank is that the present lobster hatchery equipment can be advantageously utilized.

BAY STATE BARRED ROCKS LEAD IN 35TH WEEK

In rounding out the 35th week of the 19th annual laying contest at Storrs, the hens came through with 4,319 eggs or a yield of 61.7 per cent.

As compared with the previous period the birds eased off during the week nearly one-sixth of an egg per hen. Compared with the corresponding week a year ago they gained an even three dozen eggs.

The light and heavy breeds just about tied in that the latter stood first and second for the week, while the other ranked third and fourth. R. C. Cobb's pen of Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., was an easy first with a score of 65 eggs. Pratt Experiment Farm's pen of the same variety from Morton, Pa., tied with Homestead Farms' pen of Reds from Newtown, Conn., with a tally of 61 eggs for each pen.

Steelman Poultry Farm at Lansdale, Pa., with a pen of White Leghorns was a close third for the week with a mark of 60 eggs. Another Pennsylvania pen of Leghorns entered by Peetoocge Poultry Plant at Telford finished in fourth place with a total of 59 eggs.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes: The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 1754. Jack Wrennal, Barton, Nr. Preston, Eng., 1563.

Barred Rocks: R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 1844. R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 1728. Pratt Experiment Farm, Morton, Pa., 1707.

White Rocks: E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1650. Adam F. Poltl, Hartford, Wis., 1507. Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 1440.

Rhode Island Reds: Edw. N. Larabee, Petersboro, N. H., 1930. F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1904. F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1868. W. Otis Day, Westford, Mass., 1838.

White Leghorns: Toivonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., 2120. Steelman Poultry Farms, Lansdale, Pa., 1879. Hanson's Leghorn Farm, Corvallis, Ore., 1833. Hollywood P. Farm, Woodinville, Wash., 1821. Bournedale Farm, Millerton, N. Y., 1815.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 6—The funeral of Dr. Andrew McLaughlin, prominent Providence physician and a native of Norwich, Conn., who died at his home Wednesday at the age of 54 years, was held from his late residence, 677 Broad street, Saturday morning, followed by a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Michael's church, Oxford street.

FIRE DEPARTMENT AIMS TO STOP FIRE CHASERS

An effort is being made by Chief Henry R. Taft of the fire department to have an ordinance passed whereby the officials and men of the department will be permitted to hand red tags to auto drivers who chase after the fire apparatus in responding to fires and in any way hamper the work of the men. Chief Taft will take the matter up with the police commissioners and Chief George Linton of the police department. This action comes as the result of the trouble that was caused the department in the two fires over the holidays when hundreds of motorists infringed on its right of way.

The following is the contents of an act, passed by the 1925 legislature having to do with this matter and which statute Chief Taft is attempting to have rigidly enforced:

The driver or operator of any vehicle other than an ambulance, shall, upon approach of any vehicle of the kind described in said section, immediately drive or operate such vehicle as near as practicable to the right hand side of the travelled portion of the highway in the direction in which such driver or operator is travelling and stop such vehicle until such ambulance or vehicle used by a fire company or an officer thereof shall

The operator of any trolley car shall, upon the approach of any vehicle of the kind described in section one, immediately stop such trolley car until such vehicle shall have passed. Any officer of a fire company or fire department shall have authority to remove, or cause to be removed, any vehicle upon any public or private way which shall obstruct or retard any fire company of fire department, or any officer thereof, in controlling or extinguishing any fire.

Any person who shall wilfully obstruct or retard any ambulance while answering a call or taking a patient to a hospital, or any vehicle used by a fire company, or any officer or member of a fire company or fire department while on the way to a fire or while seeking to control or extinguish a fire, shall be fined not more than $50 or imprisoned not more than three months or both.

BRANFORD CRASH DECISION WITH NORWICH CAR INVOLVED

Damages of $2,860.50 were awarded Clark L. Hartley, his wife, and son, from Angelo Vitiello, of Pleasant Point, N. J., for injuries received in a three car accident in Branford on October 13, 1929, in a decision handed down by Judge Samuel C. Shaw in the common pleas court at Bridgeport last week. One of the cars involved belonged to Lucy M. Davenport, widow of Henry B. Davenport, of this city.

The three cases were tried simultaneously and the court found that Vitiello, because of negligence, was the proximate cause of the damages in each case. Hartley was awarded $1,710.50, including awards of $241.30 for medical care and clothes, and $500 for medical attention.

Mrs. Hartley was awarded $350 for injuries sustained and the son, Donald, was given $800 for severe injuries.

According to the decision, the accident occurred on a curve about a mile east of Branford when a car, driven by Vitiello and traveling on the wrong side of the road, struck a car coming in the opposite direction and driven by Lucy M. Davenport, of Norwich. The collision caused the Davenport car to strike the Hartley car, which was close behind the car driven by the defendant. Lucy M. Davenport was allowed to recover costs from the plaintiff.

MAKES COMPENSATION AWARD FOR DENTAL BILL

According to a finding and award made by Commissioner A. J. Bailey, an insurance company is directed to pay the bill of Dr. Andrew J. Sullivan of this city for $80 for dental services rendered for Michael Finnegan, an employe of Becker and Goldstein of this city. Finnegan had two teeth broken when a wrench slipped as he was at work on a plumbing job, and he made a workmen's compensation claim.

Commissioner Bailey says that the injury is not disputed and the liability of the respondent is admitted but the hearing was assigned that the reasonableness of the medical charges might be passed upon. From the evidence of Dr. Sullivan and the medical witness introduced by him, Commissioner Bailey finds that the charge of $25 for the porcelain jacket, $45 for the bridge and $5 for extracting two teeth and $5 for after treatment were all reasonable and proper charges considering [illegible] of the services rendered and the time consumed, and that they were such charges as would have been made if the employe had been paying the bill himself.

DENIED PERMISSION TO HANDLE WIFE'S MONEY

After a hearing in Stratford probate court that lasted two hours and one-half, Judge John Smith last Thursday denied the application of John Jensen of Trumbull, for appointment of a conservator over the estate of his wife, Mrs. Florence Jensen, who was at one time a patient at Norwich state hospital.

Judge Smith held that no evidence had been introduced to show that Mrs. Jensen is incompetent. Mrs. Jensen was represented by Attorney Philip C. Calhoun, Bridgeport, and Attorney Thomas M. Shields, of Norwich. Her husband was represented by Attorney Dwight Graves, who was counsel for Mrs. Jensen in December when a previous attempt to secure appointment of a conservator was blocked.

It was brought out during the course of the hearing that Attorney Graves' bill for legal services to Mrs. Jensen has not been paid in full and that he has refused to turn various deeds and papers over to her until he is paid.

Mrs. Jensen was committed to Norwich state hospital in February, 1929, and the Bridgeport Trust company was thereafter appointed conservator of her estate. The conservatorship was lifted in June of that year, following her discharge. Her estate consists of approximately $3,300 in cash and mortgages and one-half interest in property, together with her home in Trumbull.

REV. FR. HUSSION'S CHURCH DEDICATED AT SAYBROOK

A curate for a short time at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, Rev. James V. Hussion, is pastor of St. John's parish, Old Saybrook, where on Sunday Rt. Rev. Bishop Nilan dedicated a fine new church of gray brick. When Father Hussion was appointed to Saybrook in 1919 his parish of 17 square miles numbered but 200, while but one mass was celebrated every Sunday. Now four masses are required in the summer, to accommodate the hundreds of members of nearby summer colonies and other visitors. At the ceremonial Sunday, the sermon was delivered by the vicar-general of the diocese, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas S. Duggan, rector of St. Joheph's Cathedral, Hartford, the scholarly editor of The Catholic Transcript.

CROWD OF THOUSANDS SEE CAMP FIREWORKS

Camp Juanita at Gardner Lake, conducted by Milo Light, gave a fine display of fireworks Saturday night between 9 and 10 o'clock, which was cheered and applauded by a crowd of probably 1,500 people assembled in the open field along the entrance driveway. Those in charge of the parking started to count the automobiles as they drove in and got as far as 200 when they gave up the task as the machines came too fast.

The fireworks were shown by a Providence company and included a number of fine set pieces, with skyrockets and bombs, concluding with a grand massed discharge of bombs that sent the echoes crashing from shore to shore of the lake for a long time.

CHRIST CHURCH CHOIR BOYS AT BEACH FOR WEEK

Fourteen members of the boys' choir of Christ Episcopal church are at the Habekotte cottage at Misquamicut for a week, made possible through the kindness of William F. Habekotte, former choirmaster at the church, now a resident of Groton. This will make the 20th year the boys have been at his cottage for a week's outing. With them are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall, the choirmaster and his wife, and Mrs. Anderson, the wardrobe mistress, who will do the cooking.

CAPTURE MAN WHO MADE THREATS AGAINST SELECTMAN

Michael Morris, 42, escaped patient from the Norwich State hospital, who, on Nov. 20, 1929, is alleged to have threatened to shoot First Selectman William S. Murray and Undertaker Julian Wojtkowski, was arrested early this (Monday) morning at his home on Mt. Pleasant street. When the police arrived at the house the family denied that Morris was there, but a search of the place was made and Officer Patrick Shahan found him hidden behind a pier in the cellar.

Morris is now locked up at police headquarters, but will probably be returned to the hospital today (Monday), from which he escaped about three weeks ago. The man was taken in charge by Officers Pounch, Vuono, Calkins and Shahan, who were sent out on the case by Sergeant John Casey, who was on the desk.

TRIAL RACES FOR CUP DEFENDERS TODAY

NEWPORT, R. I., July 6—(AP)—The first of a series of observation races, which, together with a series of match races next month, will select the defender of the famous America's cup, will be sailed over the regular cup course tomorrow.

The series, which will continue every week day for two weeks, weather permitting, will be sailed over a course starting at a whistling buoy nine miles southeast of Brenton's Reef lightship. The first three races will be 15 miles to windward and return. A 30 mile triangular course will be sailed, 10 miles to a leg, in races to follow.

On the basis of past performances the Enterprise, sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, enters the official contests with the best record. Second in percentage score is Yankee, the Boston contender, which had Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, as her skipper during the eastern yacht club series last month, and apparently will have him for skipper again this week. The navy secretary gave her a careful inspection tonight.

TILDEN MAY BECOME DAVIS CUP TEAM MEMBER

PHILADELPHIA, July 6—(AP)—Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis cup committee, today discussed by telephone with Fitz-Eugene Dixon, non-playing captain of the American Davis cup team, in London, the possibility of inviting Bill Tilden to become a member of the squad.

Mr. Wear said he had a "very satisfactory" conversation with Mr. Dixon, but declined to state whether it had been decided to try to persuade Tilden to join the team. He stated that nothing would be given out concerning the matter until Monday, when the makeup of the United States team will be announced.

Mr. Wear said Dixon and the United States team would leave London on Tuesday for Paris.

FAST RACING AND SPILLS THRILL AT GARDNER LAKE OUTBOARD MEET

A crowd of several hundred were given plenty of thrills yesterday afternoon at Gardner lake when six outboard motorboat racing events were run off under the auspices of the Gardner Lake Yacht club. Three of the fastest boats in the world were entered in the events and as was expected they were returned winners in the races in which they entered. The boats were the Toy, driven by Elliott S. Spencer of Westbrook, Conn., that of Walter Kopke of Essex, Conn., and that driven by Kenneth MacKenzie, the 14 years old racer of New Haven, all of whom bettered the world's mark for their class at Westerly during the two day regatta there.

The racing was marked by two spills, one of which was very spectacular and for a few seconds caused much excitement. William VanHooten of Danbury driving the boat D91 in the professional event in Class F was thrown from his craft at the first turn. VanHooten had been following the Saugatuck craft driven by S. Ollendorf of Saugatuck and when his boat hit the wash of the Ollendorf craft he was thrown into the water. His boat did not overturn but continued in a circle at full speed heading directly for the shore. When the pilotless craft hit its own wash it turned into the air and turned a complete somersault in the air and alighted on the air right side up. The motor stalled in the acrobatics and the craft was uninjured. As everyone had beaten the starting gun for this event the boats were recalled and a new start made.

The other spill was in the Class C event when William Whitehead of Hartford overturned on the first turn. Whitehead was spilled into the water and his craft filled and sank within a few seconds. A rescue was effected by Harold Billings, who was piloting one of the patrol boats. The craft which sank at the stern until only the bow was above water was raised and towed to shore. The motor however was badly damaged, two of the cylinders being cracked. Whitehead was unable to continue in the racing events.

In division one of the Class B event Elliott Spencer of Westbrook showed his heels to the field finishing well in front in both heats. His best time for the two-mile course was 5:14. Stanley Whitehead of Hartford placed first in the Div. 2 event for Class B boats.

The Class F events were the real thrills of the afternoon for both speed and good driving. Kenneth MacKenzie of New Haven, driving boat D606, showed the way to a fast field in the amateur division. To give the race plenty of zest Ollendorf, a professional driver gave the youth a real stiff race and finished in a dead heat with him. Joe Moore, Norwich boy, with a boat of his own design drove a pretty race to finish second. Moore had a boat that could turn close on the corners but he lost ground on straight stretches.

In the professional division of this class there was keen competition for one lap but Ollendorf's craft proved too speedy for the rest of the field and he coasted to an easy win. Julian Williams of Norwich with a boat of his own design gave Ollendorf a brisk rub for the first mile but was forced out of the race when the motor froze.

The summaries:

Class B

Div. 1—Elliott Spencer, Westbrook, first; William Whitehead, Hartford, second; Stanley Gay, Norwich, third. Best time, 5:16.

LEADERS IN BIG SIX ARE CLOSELY BUNCHED

By the Associated Press

Paul Waner was by far the most important member of the big six yesterday although he could not win a ball game for the Pirates. He made one hit out of four in the first game against St. Louis then cracked out five straight in the second contest. This feat brought him from a tie for fourth place to a tie for second place with Chuck Klein and only one point behind the leader Frank O'Doul, registering a gain of ten points.

The two Phillies both lost ground, O'Doul dropping eight points with but one hit in seven tries and Klein dropping to a 397 mark. Lou Gehrig American league leader, also fell back as he hit only once in four times at bat. Al Simmons got two out of five to hold his mark at .387 while Babe Ruth's sore finger kept him out of action.

JONES TRIES OUT COURSE AT INTERLACHEN

MINNEAPOLIS, July 6—(AP)—Bobby Jones and his putter, "Calamity Jane II", made their debut at Interlachen today where, starting Thursday, he will defend his national open golf championship, and both functioned smoothly to bag a par 72.

Jones set the pace for the pack of title contenders already here during the morning and early afternoon practice rounds with his methodical play, despite the fact that many times he shot without any knowledge of the location of greens save that given orally by his playing partners.

Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, Jimmy Johnston, United States amateur title holder, and Don Moe, youthful Portland, Ore., amateur, showed flashes of outstanding skill in their round with Jones, but lacked his consistent attack. Tolley was credited with a 75, and Johnston and Moe were each given 76, but none played with low scores as his uppermost aim.

Jones shot deliberately into the rough three times. He had no trouble getting out and back into safe ground. On the 12th, par five, 530 yards, he sent his tee shot spinning into the rough with deliberation. From there he looped it into a trap near the green, flipped his third easily to within a few feet of the pin and holed out for a birdie four.

Only club members and their families besides contestants were permitted on the course during the Sabbath practice, but a gallery of more than 200 followed Jones around. His putter, now in its sixth year of service, brought outstanding results for the champion, in contract to many of the other entries who have been free to express their lack of respect for the greens and their own luckless putting. So far, many more challenges for low scores have been blasted at the greens than anywhere along the line of play.

George Von Elm, 1926 champion, Walter Hagen, twice open winner, for whom the meet will be the first major contest in which he will take part this year, together with Horton Smith, sharpshooting pro, and Jock Hendry, Interlachen pro, went around with a gallery only second in size to that of Jones.

Other leaders who tramped over the course to study its fairways lined with heavy rough, its sand and water, today included Denny Shute, Bill Mehlhorn, Leo Diegel, Tommy Armour.

Jones intends to vary his daily practices from 18 to 36 holes. He said after playing today that he felt he was in sound condition for the open and completely rested from his successful invasion of the British Isles.

LITTLE OF INTEREST IN BOXING CIRCLES THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—Boxing hits the doldrums this week without one outstanding attraction to keep interest alive.

New York, Los Angeles and Cleveland seem to have the best offerings. At the Queensboro stadium here Tuesday night, Sid Terris, veteran East Side lightweight, battles Pete Nebo of Tampa, Fla., in a ten rounder postponed from last week. Joey Medill, Chicago lightweight takes on Billy Townsend over the ten round route at Los Angeles and George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., Negro, heavyweight, meets Frankie Simms of Cleveland in a 12 rounder at Cleveland. Both of these bouts also will be held on Tuesday.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At New York, Dexter park, Eddie Murdock, Tulsa, vs Lope Tenorio, Philippines, lightweights, 10.

Tuesday—At Portland, Ore., Young Burke, Idaho, vs Ray Jacks, Kansas City, lightweights, 10; at Spokane, Wash., Fred Lenhart, Spokane, vs Nat Brown, Philadelphia, lightweights, 6; at Chicago, Congress Arcade outdoor stadium, Pal Moore, Memphis, vs Willie Pelligrini, Chicago, bantamweights, 10.

AMERICANS CLASH TODAY IN WIMBLEDON FINALS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6—(AP)—Like congress in extra session, Wimbledon's tennis fans will re-assemble tomorrow for one match—the All-American struggle for men's doubles honors, final event of the British championships.

This battle will pit Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn Wimbledon champions in 1929 and American Davis Cup doubles team in the challenge round against France last year, against the United States champions, George Lott and Johnny Doeg.

Originally Wimbledon's championships were to have closed yesterday, but Allison upset the arrangement by reaching the final round of singles, where he was beaten in straight sets by Bill Tilden. The doubles were postponed until Monday to avoid the necessity of Allison playing two hard final round matches in one day.

Army-Navy and Velvetmen Game Postponed

Owing to the heavy rains of Sunday morning which made Martin field unfit for baseball the first game of the J. B. Martin-Army-Navy club game was postponed.

For you fans who dote on speed for your thrills in sport let me recommend outboard motorboat racing.

Here's a sport that vies with the automobile racing game for thrills and keen competition. And besides it's an inexpensive sport compared to some.

All you need to buy is a life preserver and an outboard motor, the rest you can pick up around the house. If you have a spare ironing board you are all set.

Take the ironing board and nail a few stripes of cheese-box wood around it, nail a tin fin on the bottom and tack your motor on the rear and you have an outboard outfit.

A couple of egg crates with the cracks caulked up in them make a light boat. If you are very handy with tools a dozen or two good cigar boxes can be made into outboard rigs at very little expense.

However, a lot depends on the versatility of the driver of an outboard motorboat. He must be a combination of acrobat and contortionist and must have some knowledge of tight rope walking.

It is also well to have some training as a football player so that you may know how to hit the water when your boat skids out from under you going at 35 miles an hour.

When you attain this speed and hit the water it is like falling out of the second story window onto a cement sidewalk. Of course a knowledge of high diving and swimming comes in handy although your life preserver will hold you up until help arrives.

Another highly essential part of the outboard equipment is one of these yachting caps. If you don't have one of these you are just out of the picture. Oh yes, I almost forgot, there's the white duck trousers that must be included in the equipment for without trousers you are just nobody at all.

But all joking aside the outboard game is one of the coming sports and it has plenty of thrills in it and is no game for the timid. Just go and see the next one if you don't believe me.

RIVERVIEW COMES OUT OF SLUMP TO BEAT HARTFORD

The Riverview club of the state hospital broke even on its holiday week end games. After losing to the Royals of the City league Friday, 6 to 5 and having its undefeated record, which had totalled 13 victories, besmirched, Saturday they came back and trimmed the Hartford Gold Sox 12 to 6.

Twenty hits rattled off the local bats Saturday with Cimikoski and Eccleston heading the procession with three safeties apiece. Nickerson hit a home run. Friday Pete Finn was the victorious hurler to shatter the Riverview winning string. The Royals and Riverview have now won one game each. Score of Saturday's game:

Y. M. C. A. TO PLAY DUWELLS IN JUNIOR GAME TONIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. and the Duwells will cross bats in tonight's Junior league game at the Duwell field. Both teams are reported as having strong lineups and a good game should be the outcome. Manager Riley of the Duwells put his charges through a successful practice session Saturday afternoon and is confident that his team is all set to go. The "Y" have been practicing for some time and no doubt will give the East Siders plenty of opposition. The game is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m.

Following the ball game, there will be a meeting of the Junior league board of managers at the Duwell club, where several important matters pertaining to the league are to be discussed. All members of the board are requested to attend.

ROYALS HAVE CHANCE OF TYING THERMOS' IN TONIGHT'S GAME

Although closely bunched, the entrants in the City league chase are led by the Thermos Bottlers as they head down the home stretch of the first lap tonight at the campus. The first round of play comes to a close this week, the second series of games opening Friday.

The Thermos nine, however, leads only because of the fact that the two runners up, the Royals and Citizens, have played one less game than they have. The three teams have each dropped one verdict but the Bottlers have won three, one more than either of the next two clubs.

The standing to date is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Thermos	3	1	.750
Citizens	2	1	.667
Royals	2	1	.667
Italians	2	2	.500
Smoke Shop	1	3	.250
Ideals	1	3	.250

Tonight's game between the Royals and Smoke Shop marks the opening of the fourth week of play and will be the O'Brien clan's final clash of the first round.

The Royals by winning, can move into a deadlock with the Thermos and on the other hand will drop to a tie with the Italian club for third place with a defeat.

Tuesday, the Thermos and Ideal teams wind up their first round of the schedule and the following day the Italian club plays against the Citizens for its fifth scheduled game. The final game of the first lap, a postponed affair, will be played Friday by the Citizens and Royals this clash being put over from the second night of the season.

The league schedule, as in years past, this season is again divided into three rounds and the second will be opened Thursday by the Smoke Shop and Thermos clubs. Although on two occasions there was some doubt as to whether regularly scheduled games would be played the league has been rather fortunate to date, but one postponed contest appearing on the schedule. Even this contest might have been officially recorded inasmuch as the two contesting clubs did play an exhibition game on the night that they were scheduled.

REDS PULL CUBS OUT OF THE TOP POSITION

CINCINNATI, O., July 6—(AP)—The Cubs fell back into second place in the National league race today by dropping both games of a double-header to the Cincinnati Reds 5 to 4, and 8 to 7. The Brooklyn Dodgers, by virtue of a triumph over Boston eased back into the lead by the margin of a few percentage points, since they have played fewer games than the Cubs.

The Reds won the first game by a three run rally in the 9th inning and took the second by virtue of the breaks. Kelly for the Reds and Hartnett for the Cubs each hit a homer with one on in the second game. The score:

BOONE STARS AS ROBINS WIN FROM THE BRAVES

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 6—(AP)—Ike Boone, redoubtable Coast league slugger, made his debut with the Brooklyn Robins against the Boston Braves today and starred as the Robins pounded out a 10 to 4 victory. Boone hit a single and a home run and turned in the fielding gem of the game in the first inning as he caught Walter Berger's bid for a home run and held on to the ball as he fell head first into the left field bleachers.

Brooklyn got 18 hits to beat Harry Seibold. Jim Elliott pitched a steady game to hold the Braves to eight blows.

The second game of the scheduled double-header was called in the Brookland half of the third inning as Boston led, 1 to 0. Babe Phelps and Tom Zachary were the opposing pitchers. A sudden shower drenched the field and efforts to resume were unavailing. The score:

ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD SMASHED AT LONG BEACH

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 6—(AP)—The sixth world's record of the National A. A. U. swimming meet here, was broken when Clarence Crabbe of the Los Angeles A. C., defeated Maiola Kalili, Hawaiian, to win the half mile race free style in 10:20.4. The former record, 10:22.2 was set by Johnny Weismuller in 1927 at Honolulu.

In the women's 220 yard breast stroke, Margaret Hoffman, of the Scranton, Pa., swimming association, scored an upset by defeating the titleholder, Agnes Geraghty, New York women's swimming association in 3:20. Eleanor Holm, of the New York women's association, was third.

GIANTS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM PHILLIES

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—Between showers, the Giants took a double-header from the Phillies today by the scores of 10 to 8 and 6 to 2. Pete Donohue, who hurled the second game, settled down after a poor start and held the Phillies in check, while the Giants hit Willoughby at opportune moments. Lindstrom and Leach both hit homers, the latter with a man on base.

Don Hurst's triple with two on in the opening round accounted for the only Philly runs.

Bill Terry made two brilliant stops, one on Lindstrom's throw and the other on Hurst's smash. The Phillies in the ninth inning of the first game, rallied for five runs.

Chuck Klein found Mitchell for his 23rd home run with two aboard.

The Giants pounded Sweetland and Koupal for 17 hits good for 30 total bases. Terry and Jackson hit homers. The score:

SHIRES WINS GAME IN 10TH FOR THE SENATORS

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—Art Shires, pinch hitter for Spencer, singled in the tenth inning with three Senators aboard and Washington made it four in a row from New York by taking the final game of the series today on the long end of a 3 to 2 score.

Although Spencer had won the game for the Senators yesterday on a single in the ninth, Manager Johnson pulled him out for the new-comer, Shires. Judge had made a hit, West and Bluege were walked, when Shires singled to center.

Even without the services of Babe Ruth, the Yanks outhit the Senators 7 to 5. Ruth, still nursing a bruised finger, watched from the bench. The score:

TIGERS BEAT WHITE SOX IN LISTLESS GAME

CHICAGO, July 6—(AP)—Waite Hoyt had seven hits waiting for the White Sox today and after a listless afternoon Detroit walked away with a 5 to 2 ball game. It was the opener of a five-game series and attended by 6,500 people.

Braxton started out for the Hose, but in the fourth he was relieved by McKain who allowed but one hit the rest of the game. Stone hit a home run in the fourth for the feature clout of the game. The score:

INDIANS BLANK BROWNS IN FIRST HOME GAME

CLEVELAND, O., July 6—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians celebrated their return home after a long and disastrous road trip today by batting out a 7 to 0 victory over St. Louis in the opener of a four-game series.

The Tribe sewed the game up in the fifth on three singles, a walk and an error and forced the retirement of Gray. Averill, Cleveland centerfielder, smashed a terrific drive for a home run, the ball landing on the roof of a house across the street. The score:

CARDS TAKE BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLE BILL WITH PIRATES

ST. LOUIS, July 6—(AP)—The Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh in both ends of a double-header today, although they made only two hits in one of the games. The scores were 2 to 1, and 12 to 4.

Spencer and Haines staged an old-fashioned hurling duel in the opener, a wild pitch by Spencer contributing to the Cardinal victory. The wild throw gave the Cardinals their first run after Wilson had doubled and gone to third on an infield out. With the count tied at 1-all, Douthit, the first Cardinal up in the ninth, hit a home run.

Heavy hitting by the Cardinals made the nightcap a one-sided affair. P. Waner of the Pirates got five hits out of five trips to the plate in the second game, including a double and a triple.

Today's two victories made it five straight for the Cardinals who have won nine of their ten last games. The score:

Sammy Raymond, young Shyma club righthander, shut out the Wauregan Independents Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds, Taftville, 2 to 0. He allowed but two hits and fanned 13 men. Stash, his hurling opponent, was also in good form as he let the Shymas down with only four bingles. The runs were scored in the fourth and sixth innings.

Sunday's game between these teams scheduled for Wauregan was called off because of the morning rain storm. Next Saturday the Shymas meet the Montville Independents at Taftville and on Sunday tackle the same team in Montville. The score:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

Both Grace Valentine and Nancy Welford, playing mother and daughter in "The Phantom in the House," Continental's new talking picture, playing today at the Breed theatre, know how to wear clothes, and as they are pictured as living on an extravagant scale they have plenty of costumes to delight the feminine contingent of movie fans.

But clothes do not make a picture, and this one has many other things to recommend it, for it is a great story enacted by a great cast, including, besides Miss Welford and Miss Valentine, Ricardo Cortez, Henry B. Walthall and Jack Curtis, who contribute excellent characterizations under the able direction of Phil Rosen.

Every lady patron attending tonight's performance will receive free a beautiful piece of personal beautyware. Also those holding shortage coupons for sugar bowls may have same redeemed at tonight's performance.

Palace Theatre.

A thrilling comedy drama, "On the Level" which deals with riveteers and racketeers is now playing at the Palace theatre where it will be shown today and tomorrow for the last times. Victor McLaglen who made a sensational showing in "What Price Glory" is the star of this film and all the fans who have become admirers of this delightful young man are glad that another opportunity has been given them to enjoy his acting.

"On the Level" tells the story of Biff and Danny young riveteers who are working on a skyscraper. Danny is in love with Mary Whalen, daughter of their boarding mistress, but he thinks that she likes Biff. Biff however, is interested in a girl whom he has seen in an apartment across from their work and he sends Danny over to her with a note. She invites him to visit her and after she has gained his confidence she introduces a real estate deal to him which looks as if Biff will be able to lay down his tools after he has invested his money and gleaned the promised profits. Biff gets Danny and Mary into the game too and realizes all too late that this is a swindle and that the girl whom he trusted is the head of a gang of racketeers.

On Wednesday the Palace will present a double-feature bill combining "Bride of the Regiment" a daring romance with Vivienne Segal and Allan Prior and "Around the Corner" with Charlie Murray and George Sidney.

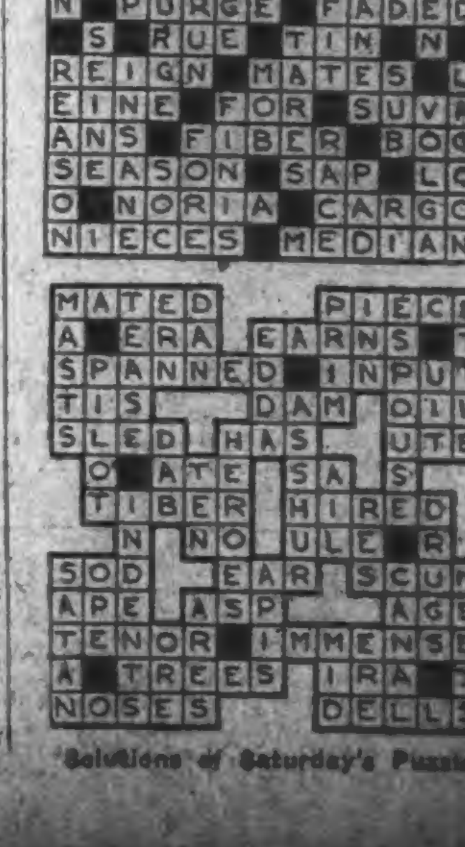
Broadway Theatre.

Richard Arlen, Jack Holt in Zane Grey's "The Border Legion," a big, outdoor, "all-talking picture," that's the action entertainment showing at Warner's Broadway theatre these days. It opened last night to an enthusiastic audience which almost raised the roof in the tense excitement of its thrilling scenes.

"The Border Legion" is Zane Grey at his best. It has swift, breathtaking action, hard riding, shooting from the hip and romance that brings a lump into the throat and a tear to the eyes. There is great suspense as Arlen, Holt and Stanley Fields face each other with guns in their hands and fight it out, man to man, for the love of Fay Wray. There is comedy with that droll character of the S. S. Van Dine murder mysteries and "The Virginian," Eugene Pallette, leading the fun.

"The Border Legion" with its stellar cast of lead and character players is, without doubt, one of the most ambitious and best of the Western outdoor talking films produced to date. This picture is particularly noteworthy because it brings back to Zane Grey drama, the outstanding portrayer of Zane Grey roles of silent picture days, Jack Holt. His speaking voice is as virile as his action has always been.

This combination of Paramount, Zane Grey, Richard Arlen, Jack Holt and Fay Wray means virile, vivid, thrilling outdoor action.



Solutions of Saturday's Puzzles

MRS. HOOVER'S DAYS BRIGHTENED AS SHE RECOVERS FROM INJURY

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—For Mrs. Herbert Hoover, at her Rapidan camp recuperating from a wrenched back, long summer days are lightened and brightened.

The little coterie of women who have functioned under her direction since her arrival in the white house now make it possible for her to "carry on" in spite of slowly mending ligaments.

They shuttle between camp and city, doing her shopping, greeting her guests, carrying out her behests. Only last summer Mrs. Hoover was among the hardest-riding on the bridle trails. Now her secretaries and guest assistants co-operate to prevent her finding enforced inaction too irksome.

There have been some changes in the group. Miss Mary Randolph, official social secretary, the only one employed and salaried by the government, resigned at the close of the social season. Since summer has no formal social duties, her place will not be filled at this time.

The rest of the group has the Hoover background, and form a working organization rather unusual in white house annals. Mrs. Hoover, with her varied duties as president's wife, her many interests as an individual, is the guiding spirit.

From the Hoover "S" street house came Miss Mildred Hall and Miss Ruth Fessler, private secretaries, and Mrs. E. G. Bowman, closely associated with Mrs. Hoover in her Girl Scout activities.

The intricacies of the daily schedule, the incessant telephone calls, the official duties have fallen to Miss Hall, brown-haired and brown-eyed.

Miss Fessler, a blonde, tall and patrician, appears more often in a semi-public capacity. She frequently extends first greetings when Mrs. Hoover is occupied, and takes charge of multitudinous gifts.

Miss Helen Greene of Rochester, Minn., who is to fill in for the two secretaries on vacation, was a student at Leland Stanford and a friend of the family in Palo Alto.

PARIS SEES EVENING DRESSES JUST CLEAR THE ANKLES

PARIS, July 6—(AP)—Are shorter evening dresses just around the corner?

Many style forecasters think that informal dinner, dance and theater dresses for fall and next winter will be smartest when they just clear the ankle.

Some dresses for early autumn added to leading style collections are full skirted affairs, which leave the feet free to move without entanglements and show the incurve of the ankle where it is most slender.

Smart women buying wardrobes for midsummer usage at outdoor restaurants and open air dancing are showing marked preference for the shorter dresses without trailing trains or scarves.

Some of the most interesting dresses in the new length are stiff little organdies for the dancing debutantes. There are also plaid and striped chiffons made up over stiff tulle.

GRETNA GREENS LOSE OUT UNDER MISSISSIPPI LAW

JACKSON, Miss., July 6—(AP)—Mississippi's Gretna Greens, which did a thriving marriage business among residents of nearby states which had stricter license laws, will be Gretna Greens no longer under provisions of the state's new five-day license law.

Hernando, which drew many Memphis couples, and Biloxi and Pascagoula, serving the Mobile trade, are among the principal centers affected.

In addition to the five-day wait, the law requires that for men under 21 or women under 18, the circuit clerk must notify the parents of both parties. It at the end of that period no protest has been filed, the license is granted.

NATIONAL PRESIDENTS FIND DEMANDS HEAVY

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—So heavy are the duties of a president of one of the big national women's organizations which have headquarters in Washington that it has become almost necessary for a woman president to reside here.

Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the League of Women Voters, moved here from Cleveland after her election. Mrs. Alfred Brosseau, when she was president general of the D. A. R., found it necessary to spend almost all of her time in Washington, though she still maintained her residence in Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. L. F. Hobart, now president general, seldom has a chance to visit her home in Cincinnati. Some organizations require Washington residence.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO SAIL FOR GENEVA ON 'SPECIAL'

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—Miss Charl O. Williams, education chairman of the National Federation of business and professional women's clubs, will lead the "Geneva special" to Switzerland, August 24, 26 and 28 for the international conference of business and professional women.

The women will sail August 1 on the Olympic. Prior to their departure two good will tours of business and professional women will start for Europe to visit 13 countries there. Eighty-eight women are enrolled for these trips.

RUSSIA FREES WOMEN FROM TOIL IN HOME

MOSCOW, July 6—(AP)—Almost everyone does a man's work in Russia—including the women.

In execution of its program of emancipation of women, the soviet government plans to expand the field of jobs held by women and adapt female labor to such work in which men have held a monopoly.

Working women will be freed of their most burdensome household duties by placing their children in nurseries which are being established by the government and by taking their meals in public mess halls.

It is expected that as a result of the increase in the number of economically independent women engaged in trades, the number of housewives in proportion to the total number of women will decrease from 56 to 44 per cent.

More than seven million women will be engaged in all sections of national economy by 1933. This will be 35 per cent of the total number of persons working for hire in the soviet union, as against 3,400,000 women or 27 per cent of the total in 1930.

In 1933, the last year of the five year reconstruction plan, 1,300,000 women will be engaged as "agricultural technicians" in state and collective farms and 600,000 will be driving tractors.

Women will compose 30 per cent of all highly skilled laborers, 40 per cent of the laborers having average qualifications and 5 per cent of non-skilled farm laborers.

The percentage of women in industrial enterprises will increase from 29 per cent in 1930 to 35 per cent in 1933. They will number almost 3,000,000.

Female labor in construction and building trades will increase more than ten times within the next three years.

HOSIERY EXHIBIT ARRANGED BY GERMAN SCHOLAR

BERLIN, July 6—(AP)—Someone has swung the spotlight of German scholarship onto women's stockings and the result is a learned display of hosiery in Berlin.

Space for the exhibit, which includes several hundred varieties of hose and illustrates the rise and fall of the stockings in world history, has been provided by a large downtown store. The stockings were patiently collected for 40 years by Erich Holz, a studious German who has made hosiery his life work.

In Holz's collection are stockings such as Queen Elizabeth wore, quaint knitted stockings of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, and a wild array of hosiery filling the long-skirted period between 1870 and the automobile age.

Young men whose memories do not reach back to the time when respectable women were careful to hide their hosiery behind skirts cannot imagine the artistic anarchy among stocking designers in those days.

In the eighteenth century men still were wearing stockings with knee-breeches, but by this time the silk stockings worn by royalty (only royalty could afford them) had given the girls an idea. Result: The nineteenth century saw the retreat of men into trousers and the development of the long stocking as a feminine garment.

STIFF FABRICS TO BE POPULAR AS DRESS MATERIAL

PARIS, July 6—(AP)—Stiff slipper satin, and faille which will stand alone, are runners-up in the autumn style race. They are among the new materials for early autumn.

Some leading dressmakers are showing long skirted evening dresses of the stiff materials, preferably black, dark blue or white.

Fabric makers emphasize silks with body in their autumn-winter collections.

To utilize the stiff silks, couturiers gradually are accustoming their clients to skirts which flare from the waistline, achieving considerable fullness at the hem, but fitted smoothly around the waistline.

Short wraps of harmonizing colors are preferred for wear with the stiff-silk dresses. Dresses of black have colored jackets occasionally, or embody black and white effects.

The tendency to lengthen short evening coats by means of back panels and trains from the waist or shoulders, is general throughout advance autumn evening styles.

WOMAN WILL SUPERVISE EXCAVATION OF FORTRESS

EXETER, England, July 6—(AP)—In an effort to solve the mystery of an aged fortress, hundreds of volunteer excavators will begin work in July under the direction of Miss Dorothy M. Liddell, London, archeologist.

Hembury Fort, near Honiton, is considered the finest example of fortified hill-top in the west of England, but is one of Devon's "mystery" spots. No one knows how many centuries ago it was built, or who built it.

The Devon Archaeological Exploration society decided to solve the mystery, if possible, by careful excavations about the old relic.

WOMEN M. P.'S LIKE BRIGHT COLORS NOW

LONDON, July 6—(AP)—Brighter color for frocks is the latest fashion note from the house of commons. The women M. P.'s are discarding their conservative black uniform-like frocks for a variety of slightly more feminine frills and more color.

Lady Astor, the first woman to be seated in the house, started the custom of the black "uniform" for women, but her later sister politicians have deviated from it widely.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

To keep warm bread from crumbling when cutting it, always heat the knife blade.

Try using orange juice instead of lemon juice for flavoring salmon. It gives a delicious flavor.

When baking candied sweet potatoes, turn them frequently to permit even browning.

A thick slice of tomato, with a cream cheese ball and mayonnaise on lettuce, makes a delicious salad.

Try adding a little lemon juice to your pineapple and prune pies. It greatly improves the flavor.

Allow celery to lie in water for about seven or eight hours before serving and it will be very tender.

Before cooking rice, grease the pan with butter, or put a piece of butter on the rice, and it will not stick.

Cranberry jelly, served with tiny balls of cream cheese covered with nuts, makes a delectable salad served with mayonnaise.

Water faucets can be scoured with a slice of lemon, after the juice has been extracted. Then wash them and polish with a soft cloth.

It is very easy to make a bag for the ironing board out of some dark material. Keep the board in this bag when not in use and it will stay clean and be free from dust.

If the buzz is annoying when using an electric fan, slip a thick newspaper or magazine under the base and the noise will cease.

DID YOU EVER TRY—

To remove grease spots on wallpaper with alcohol? Moisten a flannel cloth with the alcohol and rub gently.

Raisins that were gently stewed? Use cooking raisins and soak them overnight.

Snow in place of eggs in pancakes and puddings? Two tablespoonfuls of snow quickly stirred into the batter are equal to one egg in making the pancake or pudding light.

TASTY CASSEROLE

Any left-over bits of halibut or other fish make a delicious luncheon dish when baked in a casserole with a mound of cooked spinach put through a strainer and the whole covered with white sauce and cheese.

SPICED RHUBARB

To make a de luxe dish of the lowly rhubarb, when cooking it add a dash of cinnamon, a clove or two and the grated peel of one orange. Red cinnamon drops, used instead of cinnamon, give it a beautiful hue.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Neckwear is most important and the beaded variety has registered importantly.

One of the summer paradoxes is that light and lacy straw hats have developed a tailored technique.

Semi-sheer coats have arrived with summer weather—georgettes are used not only for coats but for ensembles.

The tiny spring capelet fills a long felt want. It is sufficient for a midsummer wrap and is to be found at the neckwear counter of most shops.

Linen is well liked for beach costumes, and cotton prints, such as percale and muslin appear in inexpensive models that often have a "fancy dress' 'appeal.

COTTON AND WOOL

An orange tweed suit for sportswear has a calico patterned cotton blouse and coat lining. The blouse ties in a bow under the chin, flaunting the vivid color combination.

BELTED SLIPS

The newest thing in silk slips is the semi-fitted slip that has a belt that can be pulled up a little if you happen to be blessed with an enviably slender figure, or let out a bit if you are not what you were.

LAUNDRY HINTS

The rust and roughness on irons can be removed by rubbing them on emery paper.

Clean velvet slippers by first brushing well with a stiff brush and then steaming them over a boiling kettle.

Remove all stains from table linen by pouring boiling water through the linen before putting it into the soap suds.

The best way to boil clothes is to start them in cold water, and allow them to remain until they have boiled at least ten minutes. They should be stirred occasionally with a stick kept for the purpose.

SHANTUNG IS SMART

Shantung takes its place as one of the smartest fabrics for late spring and summer. It is as cool as crepe and more practical. It comes in the most delectable colors—and in plain and printed effects is used for suits, blouses and dresses.

BEIGE SNAKESKIN

One of the newest purse and shoe ensembles is of beige dyed snakeskin, with gold pipings. Gold beige hosiery and gloves are appropriate accompaniments, and the whole looks very well with costumes in the new aquamarine blue, with pink, white, beige or any pastel tone.

WHITE GLOVES

Have a couple of pairs of spotless white gloves for wear with your dark suit. Use a white blouse, white boutonniere and perhaps a blue or black hat with a white grosgrain bandeaux next the hair.

PRINTED CHIFFONS AND SHOES

The afternoon and evening frock of printed chiffon, designed along semi-Grecian lines, which you will wear with the small or the large hat of horsehair or horsehair lace, requires a matching shoe. Fabric slippers now can be dyed while you wait, and in the exact shade to match the predominating color of the print.

PREVENTS WILTING

Lilacs and other flowers with woody stems can be kept fresh many days by the following treatment. Take a hammer and pound the stems to a depth of six inches, then place in a deep vase of fresh water. You can fairly watch them drink! Change the water morning and night and be sure it is fresh and cool. Your flowers' appearance will reward your efforts.

ICE BOX PARTS NEED CARE

Even though you flush the pipes of your ice box with hot soapsuds regularly, the cups, traps, and other removable parts should be taken out occasionally for more thorough washing. Otherwise, the water drippings mixed with the dirt and debris of the ice will soon cause a slimy substance to stop up the pipes. This condition is insanitary and produces a disagreeable odor.

The pieces should be placed in a pail of hot soapsuds to which a little washing soda has been added and then scrubbed and scalded thoroughly before they are replaced.

BATH ENSEMBLES

It is an expensive luxury these days to match up colors in the bathroom. Towels, soap, washrags, salts and the glass on the stand may all be the same delicate tone.

LINEN CUFF SETS

Linen sets have become very smart and to the collar and cuffs is added sometimes a linen purse. Patou's opaline pink, light green, or the linen blues are suggestions. A new set has a rather deep round collar and gauntlet cuffs with scalloped edges, each piece fastening with a cut crystal button.

DENTS IN UTENSILS

Tin or aluminum utensils often get dented. When one attempts to straighten out the dent with a hammer alone the result is usually a number of small dents which are almost as bad for the utensil as the large dent. Cut a section of old inner tube five or six inches in length. Slip this over the head of a hammer. Take a rubber heeled shoe and hold the heel firmly over the dent on the outside of the utensil. Now strike light tapping blows on the inside with the rubber padded hammer. Keep the rubber heel adjusted outside to the blows on the inside.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Railways in Great Britain employ 10,000 women clerks.

Fraulein Antonie Strassmann is Germany's premier woman stunt flier, as well as an actress and radio broadcaster.

Housewives in Japan do not iron their wash, but smooth the wet cloth flat on boards which are turned to the sun.

Twelve women have held seats in the house of representatives in Washington, D. C., including the eight now there, since Jeannette A. Rankin, of Montana, first served from 1917 to 1919.

The highest paid woman in the service of the United States government is Miss Jessie Dell, a democrat from Georgia. She is one of the $9,000 members of the Civil Service commission. Miss Dell was once a War department clerk.

Having studied in the Oslo Seamen's school and gained practical experience on a Norwegian lake steamer, Miss Gudrum Trogstad, 21 years old, is the first Norwegian woman to gain a ship master's certificate. She is permitted to captain vessels up to 200 tons displacement.

BUTTON BOXES

With buttons in style again, the old-fashioned button box is having its innings, too. If you either string all buttons of a kind together, or fasten them with safety pins, you will be spared the pawing through all of the buttons to get those that match.

VOILE FROCKS

Small patterned voile frocks are being offered at enticingly low prices. These are an excellent investment, the plainer styles for home use and the frillier sort suitable for street wear during the warm weather season. Smart colors are linen, blue, pink, green or navy, and black with white.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If a few drops of paraffin are applied to a cut it often gives instant relief and also hastens healing.

If the shoe lining has worn in places which of course wears out the stocking very quickly, paste strips of adhesive tape over the worn places.

Hair brushes may be cleaned by dipping them in a strong solution of alum and water. This protects the bristles and prevents their turning yellow.

UTILITY FELTS

Packaway hats for travel come in lighter-than-air felts now. A blue one has a narrow self banding the edge is laced with its own felt to make an embroidery-looking edge.

WHITE FLOWERS

If you wear long, white gloves with your evening dress, by all means wear white flowers to emphasize the gloves. Wear them at the waistline, in good, old-fashioned manner.

FURNITURE WITH METAL BASE

A comfortable lounging chair and a neat little armchair use metal tubing as their mainstay. The tubing in aluminum finish forms the framework of what is known as a "straight" chair in the case of the piece whose upholstering is dark blue suede cloth laced to back and seat. In the other chair the framework invites relaxation with its restful lines.

SHORT STOCKINGS

Short stockings are as harmful as short shoes. Your feet will be just as cramped in them as in short shoes. So use care in the selection of your stockings and be sure to have them long enough.

REMAKING HATS

By this time, your spring hats all really need a new banding. You can quite dress up a plain blue hat by using some of the new polka dotted blue and white ribbon instead of plain blue.

HOLE PREVENTION

If your style of walking seems to encourage holes in the heels of your stockings very quickly, try putting a small square of adhesive tape on your bare heel just at the shoe line, before you put your stockings on. It often helps.

LINEN SLIPPERS

The linen shoe seems to be the new shoe of the summer, appearing in pump form, in strap slippers and eyelet oxfords. A nice combination is linen with leather, black linen with patent, white with tan or black, and white with white kid-skin. A striking white linen strap slipper is trimmed with maize or green calf. Some bootiers are showing the natural linen shoe to head the list.

RECIPES

Candy Sandwiches: Boil one cup of molasses with half a cup of sugar, a small lump of butter and one-third cup of cocoa until a soft ball will form when dropped in cold water. Beat until cool, adding one teaspoon of vanilla, and pour out in thin sheets onto a buttered platter. Cut in squares the size of graham crackers and place between the crackers. White crackers also are good to use.

Fruit salad: Two cups diced grapefruit, one cup diced peaches and one-quarter cup diced red cherries. Mix and chill fruits. Drain. Serve portions in cups of lettuce and add dressing.

Cheese dressing (for head lettuce or fruit salads)—One-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one-third teaspoon dry mustard, one-quarter teaspoon celery seeds, one teaspoon sugar, four tablespoons grapefruit juice, two tablespoons Roquefort cheese, crumbled, and one-third cup chilled salad oil. Mix all ingredients and beat with fork. Chill. Beat one minute and serve on salad.

Lace Handbag Matches Frock.

WASHINGTON, July 6— (AP)—A handbag of brown lace to match an afternoon frock of the same material is carried by Mrs. Minor Felch.

The bag has a foundation of brown satin and bears the owner's initials in rhinestones. Her shoes are brown, and she wears crystal ear rings with the outfit.

Paris Braids Belts.

PARIS, July 6—(AP)—For beach pajamas of glorified type one designer makes a silk girdle braided from three strands of harmonizing crepe de chine.

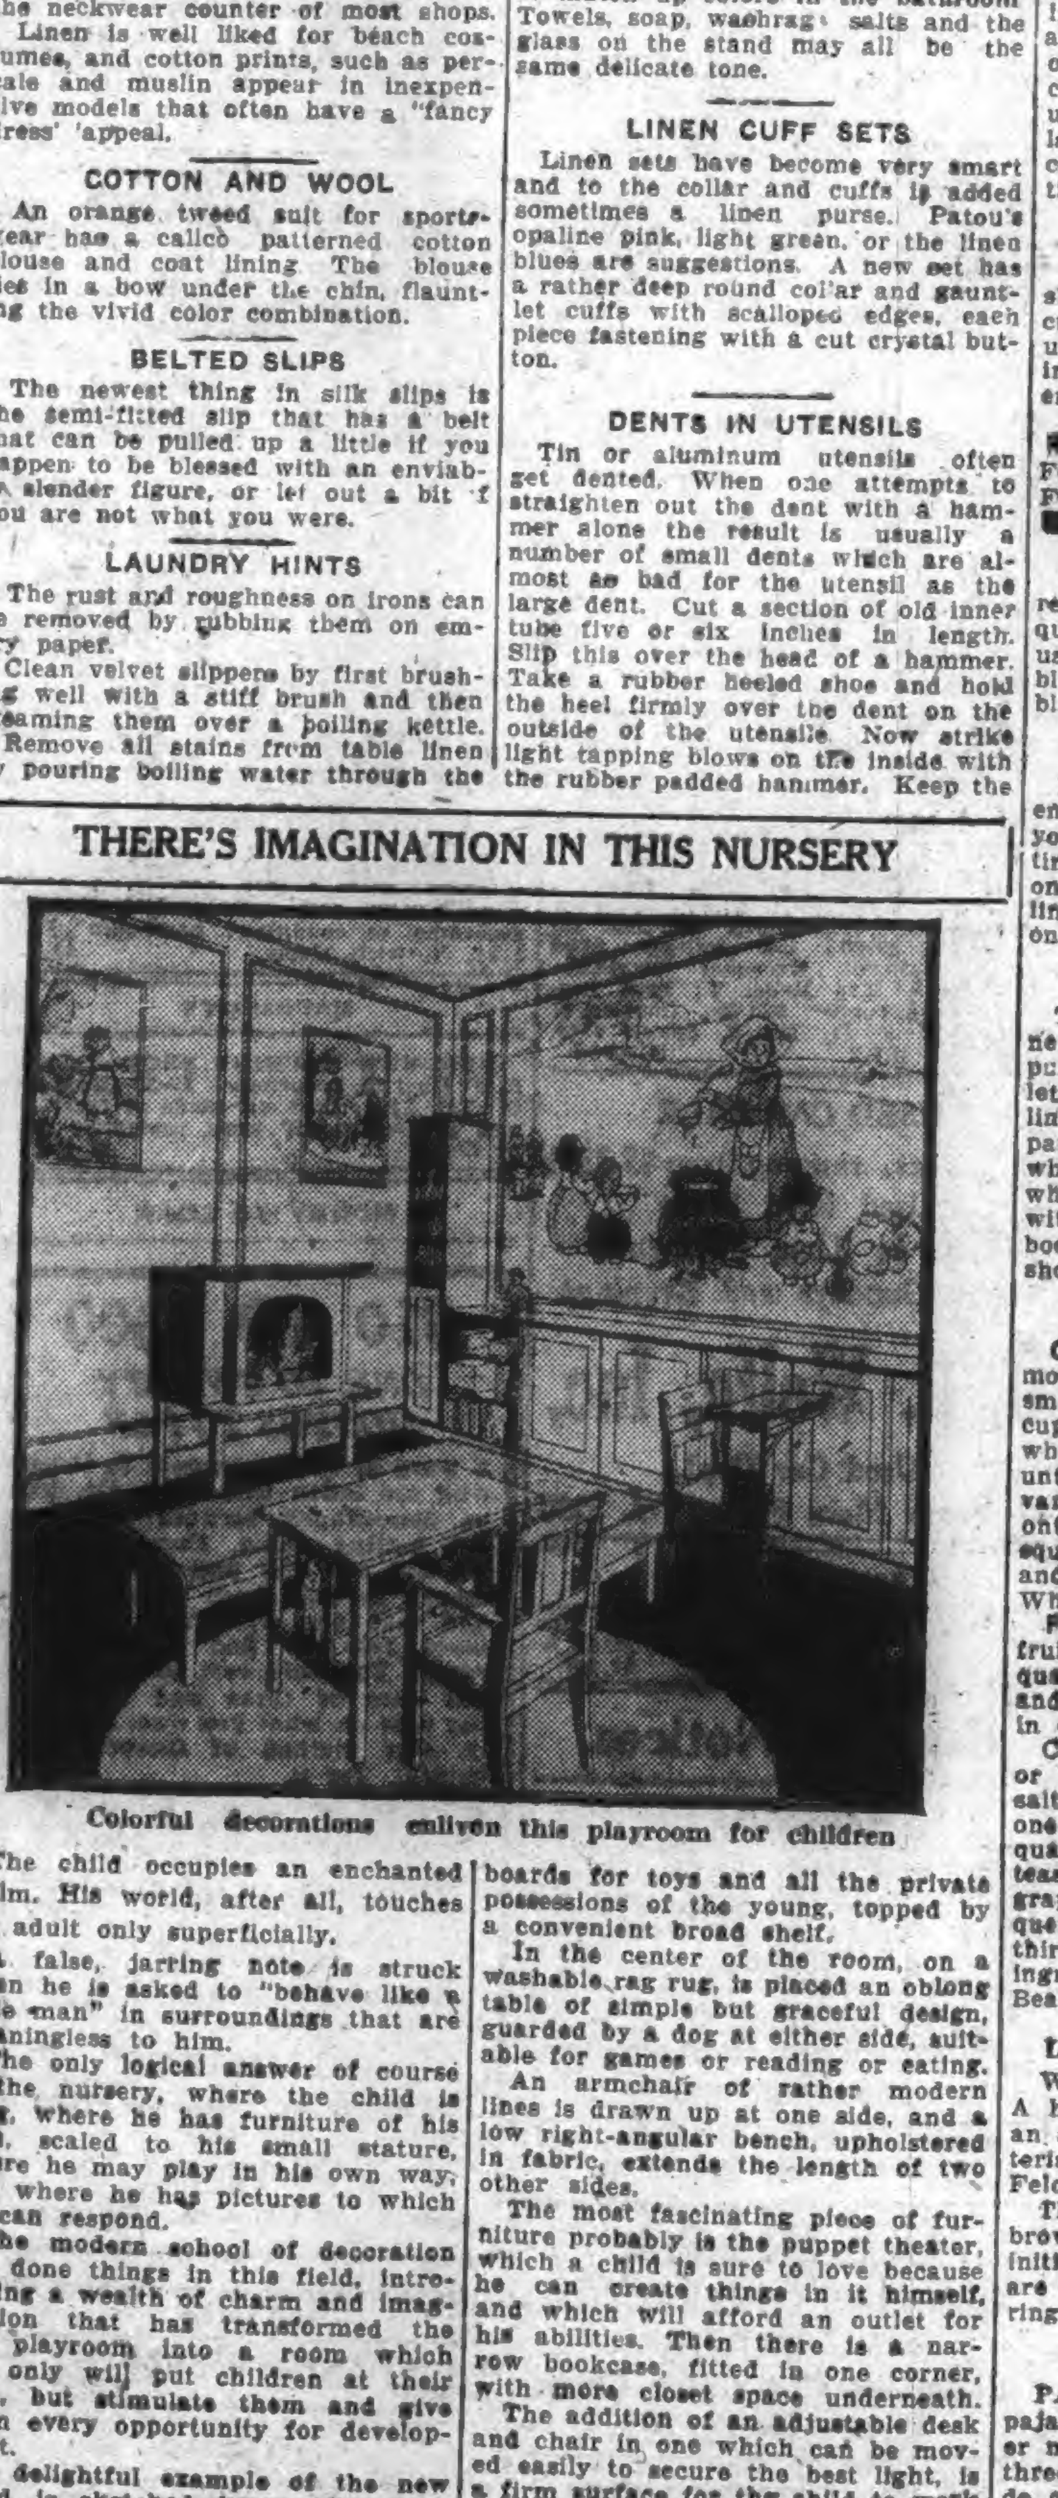
The ends fall loosely at the side, like a pirate-sash.

Wool Cape.

WASHINGTON, July 6— (AP)—A long cape of blue wool is worn by Mrs. Walter Tuckerman over her powder blue crepe afternoon costume. With it she wears a small blue hat trimmed with black lace.

The cape is so soft that it envelops the wearer most becomingly.

THERE'S IMAGINATION IN THIS NURSERY



Colorful decorations enliven this playroom for children

The child occupies an enchanted realm. His world, after all, touches the adult only superficially.

A false, jarring note is struck when he is asked to "behave like a little man" in surroundings that are meaningless to him.

The only logical answer of course is the nursery, where the child is king, where he has furniture of his own, scaled to his small stature, where he may play in his own way, and where he has pictures to which he can respond.

The modern school of decoration has done things in this field, introducing a wealth of charm and imagination that has transformed the old playroom into a room which not only will put children at their ease, but stimulate them and give them every opportunity for development.

A delightful example of the new trend is sketched here. All across one wall is unfolded the well-known nursery tale of the old woman who lived in a shoe. This makes an excellent background, robust, colorful and amusing, and gains interest by contrast with the adjoining paneled wall.

If this cannot be painted on directly, there are colorful illustrations available.

Below the decorative mural to the right are placed commodius cupboards for toys and all the private possessions of the young, topped by a convenient broad shelf.

In the center of the room, on a washable rag rug, is placed an oblong table of simple but graceful design, guarded by a dog at either side, suitable for games or reading or eating.

An armchair of rather low, boxlike lines is drawn up at one side, and a low right-angular bench, upholstered in fabric, extends the length of two other sides.

The most fascinating piece of furniture probably is the puppet theater, which a child is sure to love because he can create things in it himself, and which will afford an outlet for his abilities. Then there is a narrow bookcase, fitted in one corner, with more closet space underneath.

The addition of an adjustable desk and chair in one which can be moved easily to secure the best light, is a firm surface for the child to work at. Linoleum makes a durable floor covering.

The dominant colors should be restful, with particularly brilliant spots for accent.

One of the new ginghams that combine two or three colors, or percale, make up into gay, charming and inexpensive draperies. It would be a good idea in this case to choose the mural—if wall-paper is used—and take one's color scheme from that.

BRIDES STUDY TO AVOID OLD HOUSEHOLD DRUDGERY

The modern bride may avoid back-breaking jobs such as dusting down walls by hand (left). New devices enable her to do the same job in much less time (right).

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—Blue Monday, Black Friday and a good share of other housekeeping horrors are things of the past, say 123 New York brides-to-be who expect soon to become homemakers.

They have reached that decision after completing a housekeeping course at the home making center of the New York State Federation of Women's clubs.

These brides-to-be have flooded the center with letters telling how their fear of housekeeping duties has been banished.

The bride of 1930 has learned that she can budget her time in the home as efficiently as she has been doing it in the office.

And, aided by innumerable mechanical devices now at her disposal, she can reduce that budget from the 12 hours a day that her mother spent to four for herself.

Mother's wilting efforts over a gas range have changed to brisk manipulations over modern cookers and grills. Her scouring of knives, beating of eggs with a fork, dusting of ceilings via stepladder and broom—all have been simplified.

Blue Monday's cloud is dissipated largely through the use of machines for washing clothes, and their manipulator wears about one-third the clothes with which her mother was burdened.

Among the brides-to-be, who testified they felt no fear of the housekeeping duties they expect to assume, are a young lawyer, a secretary and a teacher, all of whom expect to continue their jobs after marriage.

CONSIDER PLAN TO CUT COSTS OF SMALL SCHOOL

MINNEAPOLIS, July 6—(AP)—A plan to abandon the campus and plant of Hamline university, Methodist institution here, and to take a new location near the campus of the University of Minnesota is under consideration by both universities.

Under the plan Hamline's students would take courses at the state school, but would remain under the jurisdiction of Hamline which would furnish specialized training to carry out the educational ideals of the church.

State institutions, believes Dr. Alfred Hughes, president of Hamline, are able to furnish academic training in fundamental subjects with less economic difficulty.

CUPID ASKS NO FEE IN CROWN POINT, IND.

CROWN POINT, Ind., July 6—(AP)—Cupid works for nothing in Crown Point; the law, however, takes fees of $2.25.

Handbills, circulated by Arthur G. Taylor, justice of the peace, read: "I charge only 25 cents for a marriage certificate; for my services I charge nothing, but accept whatever is offered. The legal fee for a license is $2. Pay no more."

MAGAZINE COVER GIRLS MAKE FOR 'ARTY' PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—The girl on the cover sells the magazine, the annual convention of the American Federation of Arts revealed.

Magazines sell in direct ratio to the beauty of the feminine face on the cover, it was brought out. J. Scott Williams, noted mural painter, sees in this evidence that the public is becoming art-minded.

Beads "Go Backward."

WASHINGTON, July 6— (AP)—Beads and pins are worn backward with evening dresses this season.

That is, the strands of pearls or other stones are draped down the wearer's bare back and sparkling pins fasten the decolletege in the V at the back instead of the front.

Velvet Wraps Worn.

WASHINGTON, July 6— (AP)—Fashionable short transparent velvet wraps are seen frequently at capital garden parties.

Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, wore a wrap of this thin black velvet over her dress of sapphire blue lace at one of her recent outdoor receptions. Her hat was of black transparent straw.

Large, Floppy Hats.

WASHINGTON, July 6— (AP)—Large hats of floppy leghorn with colored ribbons for the younger set, and transparent ones of horsehair or maline for older women have made their appearance here.

Those of maline are light as a feather. They are especially popular for summer weddings and are worn by bridesmaids in a variety of colors to match gowns.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

The Limelight

The happy adjustment of children within the family group depends to a great extent upon the fact that each child feels that he has his share of the limelight.

A moment's introspection will reveal to any adult how much his own poise and general cheerfulness depends upon the fact that he may credit himself with certain successes and that in one or two situations at least he occupies a place of primary importance.

In his need for ego satisfaction, a child is no different from an adult, but his feeling of success is almost entirely dependent upon the way his parents treat him.

His apparent rating in their eyes is the way he rates himself. His wholesome development demands that every day bring for him its quota of success and attention.

Brothers and sisters are necessarily different from each other and uneven in their development. Almost always the achievements of one child are for one reason or another more readily appreciated than those of another.

The older child naturally has the advantage in putting himself across. The younger one has to struggle to get his share of recognition. It is no wonder that he often exploits his baby charms in order to get his due. Much of the misbehavior of children is caused by a misguided impulse to get recognition at any price.

It is the parent's task to see that every child within the family group finds some constructive way of putting himself across. He does not allow one child to monopolize the entire dinner conversation. He listens with equal interest to what each has to show and tell.

Every child needs the limelight, and the understanding parent makes for each an opportunity to get his share.

SCHOOL-MADE QUILT IS GIFT TO HOLLAND

OMAHA, July 6—(AP)—Some charitable institution in Holland is to receive a fancy quilt, gift of children of the Henry Yates school here.

The children, after completing the quilt, had to wait three years before obtaining money enough to pay the postage cost.

They originated the idea of presenting a quilt to their Holland cousins while on an imaginary journey with their geography teacher. The quilt has been sent to the American ambassador in Holland.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Archibald H. Kyle, Who Passed Away July 7, 1929

Just one year ago today
Our beloved one passed away.
What would we give his hand to clasp,
His loving voice to hear,
His smiling face once more to see
He, whom we held so dear.
We're thinking of those days gone by
When we were all together.
But a shadow o'er our life has passed
Our loved one gone forever.

POETRY

THE 151ST PSALM

Oh Lord, we thank Thee for the silences.
For the leafy silence of a woodland glade after the roar of a city street;
For the dim hush of Thy Temple after the clamor of the marketplace;
For the great silent forces of Nature;
For the miracle of the sunrise—swift and sure and rosy with promise;
For the benediction of the sunset—flame and mauve and gold;
For the muted fall of snowflakes wrapping earth's ugliness in a blanket of stardust;
For the stars—serene and clear and high;
For the silence of friendly understanding, more eloquent than words can ever be;
For those silent places in the souls of men where dreams are born—for dreams are the forerunners of all progress;
For the still, small voice that speaks above the fretting chatter of our days.
For these, Thy silences,
Oh Lord, we thank Thee!

—By Mildred Olive Honors, in Boston Transcript.

VAGABOND

He was just a pagan dreamer,
An idle bon vivant,
He lounged around the coffee docks
His mind was enceinte

With lore of all the seven seas,
With coffee from Brazil,
With silks from Yokohama,
And lace from far Seville,

With nitrate out of Chili,
And hides from Argentine,
Steel monsters built in Glasgow,
And Scotch from Aberdeen;

With copra, from Samoa,
And coal from Cardiff, Wales;
With sisal from Progreso,
And oil from vagrant whales.

He was just a pagan dreamer,
A half-squint in one eye,
But he lived a fuller life, lad,
Than either you or I!

—E. Leslie Spaulding, in the Chicago News.

PALMER BROS.' GOODS WORTH $2,000 AT LOUISE DARROW'S, IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 6.—Louise Darrow, 51, employed at Palmer Brothers mill, Washington street, and residing at 253 Huntington street, was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning charged with conducting a disorderly house. The woman was locked up and as she could not furnish a surety on her bond of $100, she was made a prisoner for the night as well as today. She will be in court Monday. Also locked up is George (Cowboy) Sheehan, a young man with a long police record and residing at West High street. He is charged with frequenting, for he was in the house when officers raided it. Sheehan has been arrested numerous times of late and only recently concluded serving a jail sentence. He, also will be in court tomorrow.

There is a probability that Mrs. Darrow will be charged with a second and more serious offense, for a quantity of goods, believed to be worth $2,000 and which it is believed was stolen from the Palmer Brothers mill, was found in the apartment of the woman. How Mrs. Darrow came to be in possession of the goods is being investigated. Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran early this morning observed packages of considerable size being carried into the house and after he reported that fact at police headquarters, the officer, accompanied by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman George Perkins went to the house. The officers found the goods, also found Sheehan drunk and in a jubilant mood. Mrs. Darrow explained Sheehan's presence by stating that two girls who had been at the house throughout the night started to go to a store to purchase cigarettes and they encountered Sheehan, who procured the smokes, then accompanied the girls back to the house.

State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh arrested Friday William A. Schroedes, New York and Peasard Cicci, 15 Walbach street, this city, charged with speeding and reckless driving, respectively, in Stonington. They will be in Stonington town court on Tuesday.

Peter Alessi, 59 Center street, Middletown, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Hick and Patrolman Dennis Murphy, charged with passing a trolley car on Bank street, which was discharging and receiving passengers. Alessi will be in court tomorrow.

Charge Drunken Driving.

Henry A. Coburn, 161 Main street, Hartford, residing at present in Noank, because of being employed at the Atlantic Coast Fisheries, Groton, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Joseph Sullivan charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was locked up and will be in the police court tomorrow.

John Steinhardt, Mount eVrnon, N. Y., was arrested by Patrolman Ernest Opperman this afternoon charged with driving an automobile without having a license in his possession. Frank Vocolina, 53 Prest street and Eva M. Sanderson, 49 Gordon street, Hartford, were arrested by Patrolman George Bruhns charged with failing to stop at an automatic danger signal corner of Bank and Howard streets. Arthur Atkinson, 48 Main street, Norwich, was also arrested, being charged with reckless driving on Williams street, where Atkinson was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin. All four drivers will state their cases in the police court Monday. The number of cases awaiting hearings is about 30 and because of many of the law violators being unable to secure a bondsman most of the cells contain two prisoners instead of one.

In-Laws Borrow Car.

Eugene L. Curtiss, colored, of 207 Vauxhall street, made complaint to the police Saturday evening that his son and the latter's wife and her brother, Henry Jones, had stolen Curtiss' Essex coach, which carries Connecticut markers, L-1885, and requested that the trio be arrested. About midnight Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Clyde Murphy came upon the auto with the two men and woman in it. All were arrested and locked up. They will be in police court tomorrow.

Wanted Stolen Truck Returned.

A truck owned by Pierette Brothers, contractors at Centerbrook, was taken in charge by the police Saturday night when discovered to have been parked on Tilley street longer than 24 hours. It was taken to a garage and placed in storage. The truck was stolen by youths, it is believed, for a note was found in it which requested that the owners be notified, that the truck might be recovered.

THOS. F. MORTON DIES AS A RESULT OF INJURIES

Thomas F. Morton, 61, former newspaperman and latterly employed as night clerk at the Hotel Winthrop, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Friday night, death being caused by shock as a result of Mr. Morton having been hit by an automobile last Wednesday evening. The injuries sustained by Mr. Morton were not such as to produce death, but the shock to his physical system was too severe for one in his weakened condition. Mr. Morton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Howell Morton and three daughters, Misses Olive, Ruth and Barbara Morton. He was a member of Union lodge of Masons and Tall Cedars of Lebanon. Mr. Morton resided in New London and Waterford the past 25 years, during which time he was employed by New London papers and papers throughout the state. Prior to coming to New London Mr. Morton was employed on New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island papers.

Mr. Morton, born in Selma, Ala., July 10, 1868, was a justice of the peace in Waterford until legislation provided for the Waterford town court. He had been employed at the Hotel Winthrop about a year. Last Wednesday evening he left his residence, Station 6, Waterford, to go to his employment, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Anthony Augusta, Rye road, Falmouth, Mass. He suffered a broken right leg and lacerations of the forehead, nose and face, besides bruises and contusions. Friday forenoon he suffered a sinking spell. Augusta was arested on a charge of reckless driving and will be in Waterford town coudt Monday when the complaint will probably be amended to manslaughter.

John Evans, 21, colored, residing at 11 Pearl street, formerly of 16 Cliff street, was charged with breach of the peace and was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Evans, an elevator operator at the Hotel Mohican, went to his home Friday night and had a quarrel with his wife and finally attack and severely beat the woman. Mrs. Evans made complaint to the police and her husband was arrested by Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty and Clyde Murphy.

Collection For Scouts.

It was announced at the four masses in St. Mary's Star of the Sea church today that the collection next Sunday is to be for the Boy Scouts. With the regular congregations and the additional summer visitors this church is crowded at each mass as never before. A similar crowded condition is the rule every Sunday at the three masses in St. Joseph's church, nearer the beach. Scores of parked automobiles at both churches are wedged in solidly on both sides of the streets during every service.

COUNCILOR J. A. MAY'S CAR ABANDONED IN PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 6—A Whippett sedan, owned by Councilor James A. May, 53 Montauk avenue, which was stolen last Tuesday night on Huntington street, near State, was recovered in Providence last night, when the car was found abandoned. The Providence police informed the state police barracks at Danielson of the recovery of the auto and Lieut. Urquhart notified the New London police. Councilor May returned to this city with the auto this morning. The thieves prior to abandoning the auto removed the better of the tires and replaced them with worn rubber.

Miss Mead's Chauffeur Deranged.

Joseph Congdon, Lower Boulevard, employed as chauffeur by Miss Stella Mead, is a patient at Westerly hospital, suffering from a mental disorder and his condition is serious. Congdon was found roaming bout the street and acting decidedly strange early Saturday morning. He was taken in charge by the police and taken to the hospital. Relatives of Congdon were informed of his predicament and went to the hospital, but were not permitted to see the patient. Congdon, it is reported, was seen driving toward the Boston Post road in this city as late as 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

The police today rounded up another batch of drunks, including two women, and all will be in the police court tomorrow. Altogether, close to a dozen men and women will face the court on this charge.

James Watt was arrested in Waterford Saturday afternoon by State Police Officers Frederick Johnson and Arthur Whitmarsh charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Watt will explain in the Waterford town court Monday.

Fined $200 on Each Count

Salvatore Impelleteri, 15 Walden avenue, was in the police court Saturday charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and posession. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the jail sentence was suspended and a fine of $200 was meted out for the second charge. Impelleteri was arrested Friday night when Sergeant John Courtney, Motorcycle Officers George Cockell and Clarence Martin and Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Louis Pine, went to the house and seized a quantity of liquor.

Same For Women Bootlegger

Mary Sobczyk, 177 North Bank street, was also charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and possession. She was fined $200 and costs on each count. Mrs. Sobczyk was arrested Friday under unusual circumstances. William Williams, colored, was intercepted on Water street by Patrolman Frank Philopena, when carrying a bulky package. When questioned as to the contents, Williams suddenly hurled it to the sidewalk and as a result a gallon glass demijohn was smashed and its contents of alcohol distributed on the walk. Williams was arrested on a technical charge of breach of the peace and when questioned at police headquarters, said that he had purchased the alcohol of Mrs. Sobczyk. A raiding force in charge of Sergeant Courtney went to the North Bank street house, but as the officers entered, Mrs. Sobczyk emptied alcohol from glass containers into a sink. The containers, however, were seized as evidence of the nature of the business Mrs. Sobczyk was conducting. A charge of breach of the peace against Williams was nolled.

Fined $50 and Costs

Harold Finnell, former fight promoter, was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $50 and costs. He was arrested Thursday night after he had beaten Joseph Fazio, a youth residing at 4 High street, Groton. Finnell entered into an argument with Fazio on Bank street, relative to the purchase of gasoline and before the controversy ended, Finnell attacked and inhumanly beat the youth. Patrolman Louis Pine, who arrested Finnell, testified that Fazio was beaten into insensibility and that the young man was taken to a nearby house and revived.

James Foley, sailor, stationed at the submarine base, was charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of Joseph Riordan, Foley having quarreled with and then beat up Riordan last Thursday midnight. The case was nolled, Riordan withdrawing the complaint.

James Carroll, Providence, charged with begging in the highway was given suspension of judgment.

Richard E. McCrary, 34 Denison avenue, owner of a motorcycle, was charged with reckless driving, but the charge was nolled.

Raymond Perkins, Washington, D. C., charged with violation of the city's parking laws in parking his car in restricted area on Huntington street, did not appear in court so his bond of $15 was declared forfeited.

Henry Burke, 89 Howard street, a truck driver, charged with blocking traffic was fined $5 and costs. Burke parked his three-ton truck on State street parallel with cars parked beside the curb, where he absented himself 15 minutes, during which time automobiles and trolley cars were held up.

Ernest Peltier, 34 Cottage street, was charged with parking his automobile overtime on State street. He did not present himself in court, so his bond of $2 was forfeited.

Petty Theft Due to Booze

William Mason, 19, a truck driver, residing at 95 Shaw street, was charged with breaking and entering and was sentenced to six months in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Mason went to the gasoline filling station, corner of Jefferson and Garfield avenue, three weeks ago and smashing a window entered and stole 80 cents from a cash register. The identity of the thief was not revealed until Thursday when Mason was arrested by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh. Mason explained his act as being due to his having been drinking and did not realize what he was doing.

Fred Heller, Newark, N. J., charged with violation of the traffic laws in passing a traffic signal, corner of Bank street and Ocean avenue on the wrong side did not appear and his bond of $15 was forfeited.

Walter T. Mercier charged with tampering with an automobile had his case continued to the 19th inst. Mercier was arrested Friday night when he apparently was attempting to start the engine of an automobile which he did not own.

Max Lutin, Hartford, was charged with violation of the city ordinance prohibiting the discharge of firearms and was fined $5. Lutin was at Ocean beach July 4th discharging a .32 calibre revolver.

Howard Robbins, was charged with vagrancy. His case was continued to Monday.

Charles Waterman, 19, of Montauk avenue and William Reynolds, 22, of Linden street, were charged with breach of the peace but the charge was nolled. The young men were on Potter street several nights ago and deliberately smashed the window of a residence.

Total Fines About $180

Freeman A. Sanford, Tarrytown, N. Y., was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor; driving without a license and failing to obey a traffic officer's signal. On the first count a fine of $100 and costs was imposed and on the second charge a penalty of $25 and costs was given. On the third count, Judge Daniel M. Cronin fined Sanford $16 and costs, so the accused paid into the court treasury about $180.

John Riker, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, was charged c- . . Y.(aaffi(P)w (A from George C. Roschmann, Brooklyn, N. Y., salesman. Although the money of Roschmann was found on Riker when he was arrested the charge was nolled, in view of circumstances attending the arrest and in the absence of corroborative evidence upon which to establish Roschmann's guilt of the allegation of lascivious carriage, made by Riker. Ricker formed the acquaintanceship of Roschmann several weeks ago and accepted the salesman's invitation to go to the latter's room at the Crocker house. A drinking party was held and when Riker was invited to remain there for the night he decided to do so. Riker arose while Roschmann was asleep, removed the money from the salesman's pocket and departed. Roschmann discovered his loss a short time later and made complaint to Patrolman Frank Lischan. A few minutes later Riker, who had gone to a locker room and changed his clothing from civilian attire to uniform, was observed on Main street and arrested. At police headquarters, Riker made a counter-charge against Roschmann, but he could not prove his allegation and Roschmann was discharged when presented in court. Riker's case was continued until Saturday when he, also, was discharged.

John C. Griffiths was charged with non-support by his wife, who is residing at 55 Union street, Norwich in the home of Mrs. Ella King. The case was continued to the 19th inst.

"You seem to have had a serious "Yes," said the bandaged person. "I tried to climb a tree in my motor car."

"What did you do that for?" driving another car. She wanted to use the road."—Exchange.

POETRY WOR THE WIDE AWAKES

April Prayer.

I have been making little April songs
About a tree, a flower,—about a bird.
Is this the end of song—a pretty word,
A thought that to an idle mood belongs,
While any live thing languishes in thongs?
Is it not strange, my brothers softly furred,
That I, who by your want am ever stirred,
Fall silent in the face of speechless wrongs?

I'd have no hurt beneath the seeming good,
No creature caged and cramped in a dark tomb,
Nor any wild thing feel the shot that kills,—
I'd have no snare nor hunter in the wood
When April on the earth is bright with bloom
And resurrection breaks across the hills.

—Alfaretta Lansing.

The Fairy Tree.

The birch tree throws a scarf of green
Around her silver white,
Woven of little polished leaves
All delicate and bright,
It sways with every passing air
And shimmers in the light.

Oh, like a Dryad nymph she stands,
The birch tree, silver white!
And all day long that flowing veil
Trembles for my delight.
She stirs it as she moves in it
As a young maiden might.

And is she then a tree at all,
My birch, all silver white?
Clothed in a robe of little leaves,
Alive with wind and light,
And standing by the fairy ring,
With queenly slender height?

In truth I think she is a fay,
The birch tree, silver white,
Bound by a spell the long bright days
But free again at night,
And she knows all the woodland ways
Under the gray moonlight.

—Ethel Barstow Howard, in The Bellman.

The Good Girl.

Miss Lydia Banks, though very young,
Will never do what's rude or wrong.
When spoken to, she always tries
To give the most polite replies.

Observing what at school she's taught,
She turns her toes as children ought;
And when return'd at night from school,
She never lolls on chair or stool.

Some children when they write, we know,
Their ink about them heedless throw;
But she, though young, has learned to tihnk
That clothes look spoil'd with spots of ink.

Perhaps some little girl may ask,
If Lydia always learns her task;
With pleasure I can answer this Because with truth I answer "Yes."

—W. H. F.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES

Every single member of the Wide-awake circle should learn to do things, not only for himself but for others, and now is the time to begin. The boy or girl who is industrious and does things, instead of wanting them done, is always well spoken of and in demand. Why not be a member of this group?

Boys make whistles from the willow boughs and popguns from the alder stems and birdhouses from the little boxes to be obtained at the druggists and girls assist in keeping the house neat and in doing work for dolls the mother does for them. And both boys and girls have pets and have little gardens, not so much now as in past years. It doesn't take but a few plants to make a garden and the attention necessary to make it a success is good training for both sexes.

Do not think life is all play, for if you do you will waste time and become a poor worthless coot. People who neglect their opportunities in life always think those who are accomplished had a better chance in the world than they. When it is quite likely they did not have. Those who make their way succeed, but those who expect a way to be made for them usually fail.

It is a good idea for Wadeawakes to turn their hands to little odd jobs and to produce useful things. It is in these childish occupations that self reliance is gained, and the accomplishment of little things lays the foundation for the more important work of life.

The boy or girl who gets the shirking habit is sure of laying up misery against the day of misery. Shirking is a fool's habit and brings a fool's reward. So heed the warning and start out in youth on the right path.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

My Exciting Adventure.

Dear Uncle Jed: My walk through the woods early one evening carried me farther away from home than I had anticipated.

It was a clear, cool, moonlight evening, so I walked on and on, intending to take a round-about way home. But, what is that, a house? I had never seen it there before. To whom did it belong? These questions passed through my mind as I steadily approached the little house. Being quite dark, a mysterious light suddenly appeared in one of the windows and then I realized how near midnight it was. Then—what was that—shadows? Surely, there was someone peeking into a window. How mysterious! No doubt there were men who were there to solve the mystery of the light, in this out-of-way place.

The first thing that flashed through my mind was that the house belonged to a gang of burglars. I approached the men quietly and saw a badge shining in the moonlight, and then, I knew who they were. Detectives!

I spoke to one of the men, who was greatly surprised at my presence, and I asked him the reason of his erand and he answered that it was a rendezvous of a gang of burglars. What a surprise it was to me! It had never occurred to me that the town had such mysterious and dangerous visitors. The detectives were planning to break up this meeting, which they did in due time, after much difficulty and plenty of excitement for me.

Next day news of this round-up terrified the neighborhood but it proved to be a very exciting adventure for me.

Haying Time.

Dear Uncle Jed: How quickly July has come! With this warm, sunny month "haying time" came.

Every morning, bright and early, my father oils up the mowing-machine, harnesses up the horse and starts out for the hayfield. Soon the sound of the machine is heard and slowly, but surely the hay is cut down. In an hour or so, the sweet odor of the hay, as it is drying, is in the air. It is a real pleasure to stand in the field and breathe in deeply to feel the sweet smell.

The fallen hay remains out until it is thorough dry. Then a large hay racker is pulled out of the shed. The horse pulls it up and down the field. The dry hay is racked into piles. Last of all comes the most interesting part of hay-making time. We children go out and watch the hay taken in. Sometimes, if we are good, my father puts us on top of a load and the merry time that we have! As the horse pulls the wagon into the barn, we sing and yell. I love haying-time, Uncle Jed, and I am sure that if any readers were to come out on a farm and see how the hay is prepared for the cattle, who are to eat it in winter, they would enjoy it as much as I do.

With best wishes to the Wide Awake Circle, I am

Visit to Pennsylvania.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to the Wide Awake circle many times and enjoy writing. The name of my story is My Trip to Pennsylvania.

My aunt was visiting us, and I was to go back with her to Pennsylvania where she lives. We started early in the morning from Hartford and got to Pennsylvania about three o'clock the next morning. At about four o'clock we were in my aunt's house. We were too tired to go anywhere the first day. The next day I went with my aunt to visit one of her friends who owned a large farm in the auburbs of the city. The chief product was wheat. They had acres and acres of it. They also had a large apple orchard, as in Pennsylvania, apples are the chief orchard fruit.

Another day my aunt took me to visit a coal mine. When men first began to use coal, it did not require much knowledge or skill to obtain it. The coal was on or near the surface and a pick and shovel were all that was required. As the demand for coal increased, and the beds were followed into the earth, coal mining became more difficult. When the mines attained a great depth serious obstacles were found. Water came into the mines. The air had an unpleasant odor and the mines must be ventilated. The coal was deep down in the earth; powerful hoisting engines were needed to lift it to the surface. The passageways of the mine were in danger of caving in; they had to be supported by timbers. It was not easy to tell where the coal was and where it was not. The geologist had to settle that question. The people that work in the mines must have skilled hands and brave hearts.

If we didn't have coal, there wouldn't be any gas to illuminate our houses and streets. We would also lack many of the comforts and conveniences we have at present.

Just a Dream.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to the Wide Awake circle many times and enjoy writing. The name of my story is "Going Fishing with President Hoover."

As Monday was very warm I wanted to go fishing. At 10 o'clock I went to get the mail at the post office. I saw an envelope addressed to me. I opened it quickly; to my surprise I saw an invitation. It was an invitation from President Hoover that I was invited to go fishing with him. I was to meet him in Washington, D. C., Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. When I came home I told my mother about the invitation. She said I could go. I packed my clothes in a valise. Then my father took me to the station at Hartford. I took the train to Washington, D. C. It took me nine and a half hours to get there. A taxi took me to President Hoover's home. I took my valise and rang the door bell. A maid opened the door and ushered me in to President Hoover's room. His wife and he greeted me warmly. We then sat down to eat our dinner. After dinner President Hoover said we were to start for our trip to Florida. We took three tents, two fishing nets, five fishing poles, a box of hooks, and a box of worms. We were to travel by train. Only three of us were to go. President Hoover, Mrs. Hoover and myself.

Next we took the train to Florida. We arrived in Florida the next day. A taxi took us to the "Hoover Camp." We arrived at the camp safely. The first thing we did was to unpack our clothes. Then we started an outdoor fire. We ate our supper and then went to bed.

Next day we all decided to go fishing. Mrs. Hoover made a lunch to eat on our canoe trip. We took our fishing materials with us. Then we started off on our canoe trip. I dropped my line into the water and waited patiently for a bite. I waited about ten minutes but did not get a bite. Then all of a sudden I heard Mrs. Hoover screaming Help! Help! I turned around and saw that President Hoover was falling into the water. I dived after him, when to my surprise I saw myself laying on the floor. And it was only a dream.

Graduation.

Uncle Jed: June 30th was a day of much rejoicing for the eighth grade graduates from Killingly high high, junior department. On this day we gave a pageant called "Our United States." In it were California Poppies, I was one of these, Florida Palms, Spirit of History, Spirit of Geography, Spirit of Education, etc. It was an historical pageant. After the pageant we received our diplomas. Others and I received a little card on which we were congratulated for our good work during the year. All those who had gotten all A's or all A's and B's got this little card. I had all A's except the first month. For graduation I got a wrist watch from my father and my mother. From other relatives I got a two dollar and a half gold piece, a dollar bill, a pair of stockings and a necklace. This year there was a large class graduating. There were 33. Three of my classmates who were to be graduated were sick so could not attend the exercises. Hoping you will enjoy reading my letter, also the Wide Awakes, I remain a Wide Awake.

A Day at the Beach.

Dear Uncle Jed: I could hardly wait until quarter of nine Tuesday morning. It was the day of the Sunday school picnic to Ocean Beach. When finally we left the square every one was impatient to get there. A few minutes after arriving at the beach, we hired bath houses. The water was warm and we made short time getting into it, once clad in bathing suits. It seemed only a short time before we were called to lunch. An hour later we were back in the water splashing and swimming again. The afternoon went as rapidly as the forenoon and we were reluctant to get dressed for our return trip home. When all were on the car at quarter to five P. M. we made up quite a tired but happy group.

VIRGINIA MEECH. Age 12.

The Apple.

Dear Uncle Jed: The "apple" is the commonest and yet the most varied and beautiful of fruits. A dish of them is as becoming to the center table in winter as was a vase of flowers in summer—a bouquet of Epitzerbergs and greenings and northern spies. A rose when it blooms, the apple is a rose when it ripens. It pleases every sense to which it can be addressed, the touch, the smell, the sight, and when it falls in the still October days it pleases the ear. It is the call to a banquet, it is a signal that a feast is ready. The bough could fain hold it, but it can now assert its independence. It can now live a life of its own.

At the Beach.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter, but I would so much like you to know the lovely time I had at the beach last week. I went to see Tootsie and Dorothy for one week. What a lot of fun I had with the babies in the water and we also had rides in the "flying horses." As it was my first vacation at the beach I shall always remember the wonderful time I had. I hope you will have a week at the beach, too, Uncle Jed.

School Picnic.

Dear Uncle Jed: Cheerio, Wide-Awakes. Here I am again with another story. I hope you will enjoy it. It is "The Results of a Picnic." About a week ago the eighth grade of Colchester, Conn., got ready for our school picnic. After an hour's ride we came to the lake.

The first thing on the program was swimming. I went in for a swim, but decided not to stay in long as I wanted to go rowing. My teacher came along with a rowboat and asked me if I wanted to go rowing. I readily agreed. I jumped into the rowboat and off we went. After an hour's row we came back to the shore.

Then we ate our lunches and sweets.

About 5 o'clock we started for home. On the way I felt my hands and back burning. I didn't say anything and shouted as loud as the rest of the gang.

When I got home I looked at my back and hands. They were sunburned and blistered! I put on sunburn cream and powder and what not! It healed in about four days.

From this sunburn I had learned a lesson. When I went rowing I was wet from bathing and as the sun was strong it burned me, as I was without a sweater. But anyway I enjoyed the picnic as much as the rest.

Dog Does Tricks.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about my school picnic. There were 30 children and my brother went with us. We had sandwiches, all kinds of cake, cookies, punch and ice cream.

Now I will tell you about my pet dog. Ter name is Betty. W taught her how to jump over our hands and walk on her hind feet and do many other tricks.

I also have two cats. One is named Lindy and one is named Pat. I was in the third grade last year and am going into the fourth grade next year.

Four Little Kittens.

Dear Uncle Jed: Am sending you a story hoping you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy it. It is "My New Pets."

Our cat had four little kittens last week. One is yellow, one black, one spotted and one white and black.

As it was damp down cellar my mother took them upstairs and put them in a box. No sooner had we turned our backs than the mother cat took the yellow kitten by its neck and brought it back down cellar. I guess she thought we were trying to steal her babies. We decided to let her have her way and returned the box to the cellar again.

GREENEVILLE

SWANEES HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC AT DRAWBRIDGE

The Swanees of Greeneville held their annual picnic Saturday at the Drawbridge. A special bus was chartered for transporting the members and their families to and from the picnic grounds. During the morning many athletic games were played. Throwing the hammer contest was won by Michael Rowkowski. The fat men's race was awarded to Edward Delaney, while Raymond Kirby won the potato race for the children. The three-legged race was awarded to Frank Monnehon and Andrew Boyd. The boat race proved the feature event of the day with Matthew Parkinson the victor by half a boat length over his old rival, James Gay, the champion of the third ward. At 1 o'clock those present gathered beneath the pines and were seated and partook of a delicious regular shore dinner which was prepared by Skipper Andrew A. Boyd. Following the dinner the married men defeated the single men in a baseball game by the score of 14 to 7. The battery for the married men was Michael Rowkowski catch, and Joseph Gates pitch. For the single men, Geo. Swanton catch and Fat Langervin pitch. Many of the men went crabbing and returned home with a fine mess of crabs. The party returned home about 7 o'clock. The committee in charge of the successful affair was Andrew Boyd, chairman; Michael Rowkowski, James Gay, Rowland Langervin, Mathew Parkinson, George Swanton, Michael Shahan, John Parkinson, John Kennan, Robert J. A Chevrolet ton and a half fruit truck driven by Mr. Steinman crashed with a Cadillac owned and operated by David Dunn of Fifth street. Mr. Rice and Mr. Dunn's two daughters were passengers in the auto but the St. Regis avenue man was the only one injured. Both cars suffered considerable damage. Mr. Rice was attended by Dr. Edward J. Swahn's band played a pleasing program early in the evening, and later the young people (and some of the older ones) danced modern dances to the strains of the University of Maine Stein song, and old fashioned ones to the tunes of The White Cockade and Turkey in the Straw. Strings of colored electric lights hung in festoons over the courts, and the villagers whose homes are in that vicinity obligingly set off their fireworks for the entertainment of the big crowd that had gathered for the concert and dance. The day had been a rather quiet one, but the town awoke after the concert got underway and there was plenty of noise in that vicinity.

BULLET FOR TURTLE HIT MAN IN EYE

MONTVILLE, July 6—John Sapowitz, 17, arrested by State Trooper Peter Busch of Groton barracks Saturday evening for illegal possession of a firearm and promiscuously shooting the same was held under $500 bonds by Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church. Bail was furnished by the youth's father, Pete Sapowitz pending the outcome of the condition of Alex Vrchancy who was accidentally shot in the eye by the youth.

The youth, whose home is on the Uncasville-Palmertown road situated a little off the road was shooting a .22 calibre long rifle at a turtle in the pond when he shot Alex Vrchancey in the eye. Vrchancey lives on the other side of the pond, on the Jerome road about a quarter of a mile from where the accused was shooting. Mr. Vrchancey was in the house at the time of the accident and was immediately taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London. At a hearing held Sunday afternoon in Montville justice court, the case was continued until Mr. Vrchancey is dismissed from the hospital which, according to officials of the hospital will be in about three weeks.

TWO FOUND DRIVING WITHOUT OPERATOR'S LICENSES

The one-way section of Main street, which begins at Washington square got two visiting automobile drivers into trouble Sunday afternoon, when Officer Daniel O'Neil halted them and asked to see their operators' licenses as the ywere attempting to go the wrong way on the street.

Charles Washaw of Brooklyn, N. Y., was found to be driving without having his operators' license with him and William Hannon of Groton was found to be driving without ever having had an operators' license.

Both men were summoned to appear in the city court this (Monday) morning, but Washaw said he couldn't be here at that time and he left $5 at police headquarters to take care of his court case.

Fined In City Court.

n the city court Saturday morning William J. Hoffmeister, who was arrested on the Fourth of July, was fined $25 and costs for driving an automobile with dealers' plates, which was one he had made a partial payment on to the Star garage at Plainfield. Hoffmeister is attached to the U. S. S. Falcon at the submarine base.

The troop was inspected by Corporal Richard B. Pascall of Manlius Military school, New York. A new marching song for the troop was introduced by Bugler Edward Jordan, who wrote the words and music. After the opening ceremony and a short song period the Scouts practiced fire lighting by friction.

Wolf Cub Pack held a meeting Saturday morning in charge of the Cubmaster Rev. Mr. Potter. Plans for a hike this week were discussed. All Cubs who do not miss a meeting from July 12 to August 2nd inclusive will be entitled to go on a hike August 9th.

The Inter-den contest was won by the Den in charge of John Gibbs.

NORWICH BUILDINGS STRUCK BY WILDLY DRIVEN AUTOS IN NIGHT

Two Norwich buildings on different streets bore the assault of automobiles during the dark hours of Saturday night and in each instance the driver of the car was arrested and will have to appear in the Norwich city court this (Monday) morning.

About 10 o'clock Saturday night, William Paquette, 42, of Danielson, just missed driving through the front entrance of the Hanover-Curland company store at the corner of Franklin and Bath streets, because he hit the solid concrete doorpost instead of going squarely into the entrance. The blow sent the Ford roadster he was driving reeling back into the gutter and Paquette was arrested by Officer Bruckner on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

Paquette was on his way home to Willimantic and was making the turn from Franklin square into Bath street when the car got away from him and mounted the sidewalk. The concrete post had a few dents and scratches made in it and the automobile had a bent and broken front fender.

About 4 o'clock Sunday morning, as Officer Disco was coming down Washington street, he heard a crash in the Water street neighborhood. Following the sound he came across Ovila Blanchette of Danielson, whose automobile had run up on the sidewalk and crashed into the Levine Bros. building at 75-79 Water street. The officer judged that the Danielson man was trying to get away after the accident and he was arrested on the charge of evading responsibility. The tires on both front wheels of the machine were flat.

It was explained that Blanchette had been spending the day at Groton Long Point and dozed off to sleep as he was coming down through Water street, with the result that the machine hit the building. He gave bonds for his appearance in court.

NORWICH SOLDIERS GO TO CAMP AT NIANTIC

Members of Battery B and the Combat Train, local units of the 192nd Field Artillery, C. N. G., are at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, for two weeks encampment, having left the city Saturday morning by motor, 100 per cent strong. The Combat Train is in charge of Capt. W. R. Denison, while Capt. Meredith Lee is in command of Battery B. The two units moved out of the city in three columns, leaving between 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

Battery B was divided into two columns, a light column comprising trucks and cars, and a heavy column, including four 155 M. M. howitzers and gun caissons, all tractor-drawn. The latter column arrived at camp late in the afternoon, preceded by the other two columns which travelled at a quicker pace. The members of the Combat Train "ported", transporting its tractor in a large truck, which had attached to it trailers with instruments and wire coils.

Upon the arrival of the men they spent the remainder of the day in pitching tents and organizing the kitchen, which tasks were expected to be completed Sunday. On Monday morning the Battery starts on a two day problem, their base of operations being at Rogers Lake and Fred Stone's Star ranch.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN ON RAYMOND HILL ROAD

The barn on the Lawrence Raymond place on Raymond Hill was struck by lightning and burned to the ground Sunday night between 9 and 10 in the sudden electrical storm that was accompanied by a deluge of rain. The soaking downpour at the time probably saved several small buildings which stood close to the barn, but the wind was blowing away from the house, which was not seriously threatened.

There were no animals in the barn, nor any farm machinery, its principal contents being 15 tons of hay. The barn measured about 70x45 feet. The farm is leased by Mrs. Nostuchia Lushk.

The lightning struck the peak of the barn at one end and the fire quickly spread through it as soon as the flames reached the hay. The illumination was plainly seen here and caused many telephone inquiries to The Bulletin office to know what the fire was.

The farm is the next north to the cemetery on the Raymond Hill road.

NOLLE IN CASE AGAINST DRIVER UNDER INSTRUCTION

The case of Lena Mackensturm, an employe at the Norwich state hospital, who was charged with driving without a license, was nolled in the city court Saturday morning. This action was taken when it was found that there was no statute which covered the circumstances in this case.

An automobile driven by the accused ran into Cosmo Quercia, 19, of this city, Friday afternoon, while she was under the instruction of a licensed driver, Mrs. Dora Doyon, of Plainfield. The accused had not taken out a license, although she has been driving a machine, as she stated in court, off and on for a year under instruction.

According to motor vehicle law book, a novice is allowed 30 days in which to learn to operate a car, but the law does not explain whether this period is to run on consecutive days or to extend over a longer time.

SEEKS TO HAVE WIFE REMOVED AS GUARDIAN

A petition seeking the removal of his child, George Findlay, Jr., from the guardianship of his wife, Isabel Dickenson Findlay, has been forwarded to Probate Court Judge Anderson of Noank by James J. Floyd, counsel for George Findlay, former executive of a washing machine corporation in New London, who is charged with non support of his wife. Findlay is now employed in this city.

The petition will be heard before the probate court July 10 was on July 14 Findlay will appear in the Groton town court to answer to his wife's charge of non-support. At a special session of the court last Tuesday the case was continued until that time.

BROMLEY'S TRUCK BURNED ON NORWICH-WESTERLY ROAD

An empty Reo truck owned by C. B Bromley and Son, of this city, who do a trucking business, was made a total loss by fire early Saturday afternoon on the Norwich and Westerly road at a point about a mile below Preston Plains. The truck was burned down to its frame and the rims of the wheels and was hauled off to the side of the road to let the fire burn itself out.

Percy McKumsky was driving the truck home on a return trip from Pleasant View when it caught fire. It is believed the blaze started from the exhaust pipe.

STATE FISHERIES BOARD INCREASING FISH SUPPLY

Smelt, winter flounders and tomcod are three species of fish to which the state board of fisheries and game is devoting special attention along the line of propagation and with considerable success.

The tomcod is often called frostfish because it is most abundant in early winter when it frequents the shores and even ascends rivers to spawn. Propagation was first undertaken during the present year by making use of the smelt hatchery at Westport. The fry liberated amounted to 4,455,000, all being released in the Saugatuck river where the eggs originally were collected. The tomcod fishery has not been of great commercial importance, but fishermen of Westport and vicinity are now operating several hundred traps.

About 46,501,000 smelt fry have been hatched and released this year from the hatcheries at Westport and Noank. Smelt mature in about two years, and there has been a marked increase in the average annual run as a result of the cultural activities. The recent season, however, was not entirely satisfactory from the viewpoint of commercial fishermen. These fish are sensitive to variations in temperature, and difficulties were encountered in the breeding season in connection with the collection of eggs due to extreme variation in water temperatures. Plantings of the hatches are made in the waters from which the eggs are secured and in streams and coves tributary to Long Island sound.

Next to the halibut, the most important flatfish of the Atlantic coast is the winter flounder which stands first in commercial fisheries of the Connecticut marine district. In 1927, there were 7,799,188 pounds of flounders brought to Connecticut ports with a value of $317,694. Propagation of this species was first undertaken during the winter of 1927-1928 when some of the draggers volunteered to co-operate. The total production of fry in March, April and May of this year, amounted to 55,823,579. The state is equipped to hatch 400,000,000 flatfish eggs, and under favorable weather conditions, expects to reach that production in coming seasons.

WILL EXCLUDE "SHORTS" FROM NORWICH STREETS

The "shorts" are with us again, but not for long, especially those that border upon the immodest or indecent kind, if the edict issued by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, put into effect two years ago, is rigidly enforced by the police department. A group of young women, attired in this latest style effect, were in the city Saturday afternoon, coming here from summer camps in and about Norwich, where thousands of persons from the city congregate each year for their vacations.

Two years ago girls were seen here in such attire. It brought an edict from Mayor Robbins that summer campers must be respectably dressed were they to visit here and he ordered the police department that if his warning was not heeded to arrest those who violated it. He said Saturday afternoon that this edict was still in effect and that the police are supposed to enforce it.

Chief George Linton stated Saturday that persons appearing here in dress of an immodest or indecent nature will lay themselves liable to arrest.

S. Browning Prentice who is president of the eastern division, American Roque league, was a visitor of Norwich Saturday, calling upon some of the former roque enthusiasts of the city.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL CASE NOLLED IN CITY COURT

In the city court, Saturday morning, Morris Pastor, 39, of Hallville, charged with failure to obey a traffic signal, had his case nolled by Judge Arthur F. Libby. The accused drove past a red signal set against him at Shannon's corner Friday afternoon and was summoned into court by Officer Simpson. He explained there that he did not intentionally commit the violation, but that he was not acquainted with the new system.

PRES. HOOVER CALLS FOR TREATY RATIFICATION

Chief Executive Opens Special Session of Senate With Message In Which He Refers to Approval of London Naval Pact As "An Important Step In Disarmament and In World Peace"—Tennessee Senator Offers Resolution Requesting the Documents Relating to the London Conference Which President Hoover Had Refused to Turn Over to Foreign Relations Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 7.— (AP) — President Hoover opened the special session of the senate for consideration of the London naval treaty today with a 2,400-word message calling for its ratification as "an important step in disarmament and in world peace."

Hardly had the presidential message been read to the 58 senators who answered the first roll call when Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, offered a resolution requesting the documents relating to the London conference which President Hoover had refused to turn over to the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, a member of the American delegation, replied the documents were in the possession of members of the delegation and he offered them in confidence to any senator who wished to see them. He said "the senator who accepts my suggestion will readily see the reason why the correspondence ought not to be made public."

However, Senator Johnson, republican, California, who with McKellar is one of the chief opponents of the pact, scored the Reed offer and demanded the papers "for the United States senate and for every member of it, and for my government here."

McKellar will call up his resolution tomorrow after Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, has delivered the opening address in behalf of the pact. There was doubt tonight over the outcome of a vote on the resolution and what effect its adoption would have.

In his message to the senate, President Hoover touched on this subject. He said: "Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known, and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States."

Senator Reed said the documents related to cablegrams exchanged between Ambassador Dawes and the state department prior to the London conference. There have been intimations that the picturesque language employed by America's outspoken ambassador in London forbids their publication.

Whatever the result, the McKellar resolution promises to give the opposition a talking point and delay is in their favor. There are serious doubts in the minds of senate leaders that the 58 members who answered the opening roll call today can be kept here for a lengthy debate on the treaty.

However, Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, who is one of the leaders of the opposition, asserted the opponents would not filibuster. He also said they would not seek to break a quorum by staying away from the chamber. They probably will have the power to break a quorum.

The opening session on the treaty attracted well-filled galleries. Mrs Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, who headed the American delegation to London, sat alone in the diplomatic gallery.

Most of the hour and a half session was consumed in the opening formalities. Vice-President Curtis appointed Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, the assistant democratic leader, to inform President Hoover that the senate was in session. Then the president's message was read.

Taking charge of the proceedings, Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, called up the treaty and had the document formally read to the senate.

Advocates of the treaty were confident tonight of its early ratification by an overwhelming vote. However, Senator Moses said it would require three weeks at least to complete the debate.

President Hoover in his message took up the points of opposition to the treaty and concluded:

"It is a question as to whether we shall move strongly toward limitation and reduction in naval arms or whether we shall have no limitation or reduction and shall enter upon a disastrous period of competitive armament."

TEXT OF PRESIDENT HOOVER'S MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7—Herewith is the text of President Hoover's message to the senate which convened today for a special session to consider ratification of the London naval treaty.

"In requesting the senate to convene in session for the special purpose of dealing with the treaty for the limitation and reduction of naval armament signed at London April 22, 1930, it is desirable that I should present my views upon it. This is especially necessary because of misinformation and misrepresentation which has been widespread by those who in reality are opposed to all limitation and reduction in naval arms. We must naturally expect opposition from those groups who believe in unrestricted military strength as an objective of the American nation. Indeed, we find the same type of minds in Great Britain and Japan in parallel opposition to this treaty. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to the conception of these groups. Our people believe that military strength should be held in conformity with the sole purpose of national defense. They earnestly desire real progress in limitation and reduction of naval arms of the world, and their aspiration is for abolition of completion in the building of arms as a step toward world peace. Such a result can be obtained by no other way than by international agreement.

Treaty Holds Safeguards

"The present treaty is one which holds these safeguards and advances these ideals. Its ratification is in the interest of the United States. It is fair to the other participating nations. It promotes the cause of good relations.

"The only alternative to this treaty is the competitive building of navies with all its flow of suspicion, hate, illwill and ultimate disaster. History supports those who hold to agreement as the path to peace. Every naval limitation treaty with which we are familiar, from the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, limiting vessels of war on the Great Lakes, to the Washington arms treaty of 1921, has resulted in a marked growth of good will and confidence between the nations which were parties to it.

"It is folly to think that because we are the richest nation in the world we can outbuild all other countries. Other nations will make any sacrifice to maintain their instruments of defense against us, and we shall eventually

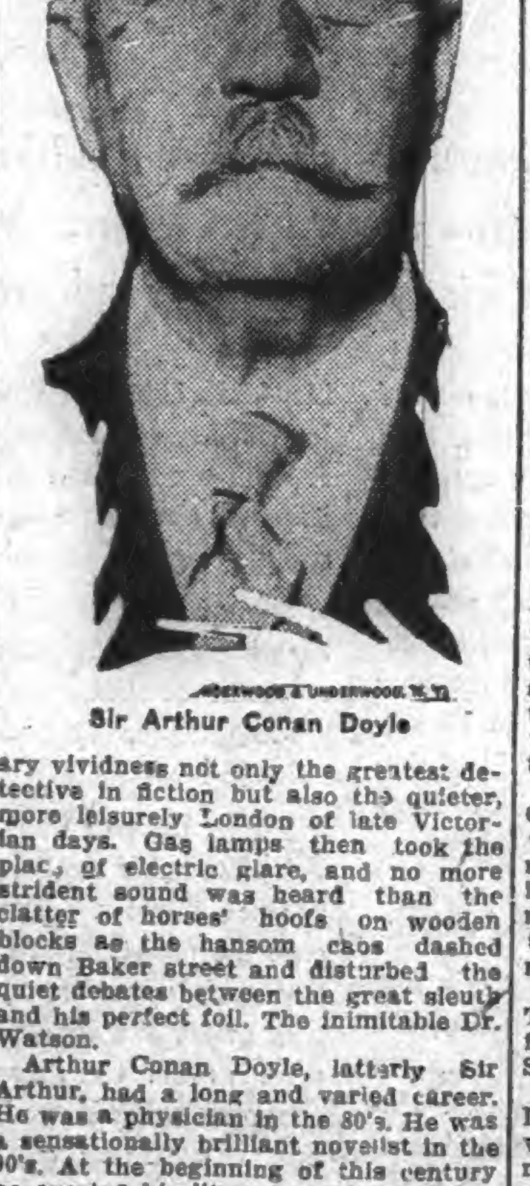
SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE DIED YESTERDAY

CROWBOROUGH, Sussex, England, July 7—(AP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, novelist, historian, physician, traveler and spiritualist, died at his residence "Windlesham" today of heart disease at the age of 71. Lady Doyle, two sons and a daughter were at his bedside.

Though the creator of the Sherlock Holmes largely surrendered his other interests during his later years to his championship of spiritualism, thereby antagonizing many former friends, it was his long career as an author that the great majority of Englishmen recalled today.

Above all, England remembered the series of Sherlock Holmes stories wherein he portrayed with extraordinary vividness not only the greatest detective in fiction but also the quieter, more leisurely London of late Victorian days. Gas lamps then took the place of electric glare, and no more strident sound was heard than the clatter of horses' hoofs on wooden blocks as the hansom cabs dashed down Baker street and disturbed the quiet debates between the great sleuth and his perfect foil, The inimitable Dr. Watson.



UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N.Y.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

Arthur Conan Doyle, latterly Sir Arthur, had a long and varied career. He was a physician in the 80's. He was a sensationally brilliant novelist in the 90's. At the beginning of this century he exerted his literary genius to place before Europe the facts of the Boer war and for this he was made a knight of the realm.

During the Great war, which caused the loss of his son Kingsley, Sir Arthur became more and more engrossed in spiritualism. All the zeal that formerly went into fictional writing was now devoted to probing into the mysteries of the world beyond. His 60th birthday was made the occasion of his announcement of retirement from writing novels. Thereafter, he stated, he would devote himself solely to the study and expounding of spiritualism.

His belief in spiritualism was shared by Lady Doyle and his children, who expect to communicate with Sir Arthur in the beyond.

Man Blinded In Florida Gun Battle

State Senator Lost Both Eyes In a Fight Over Timber Rights—Sawmill Operator Seriously Wounded In Exchange of Shots.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 7.—(AP)—State Senator W. J. Singletary of Marianna, Fla., was blinded and E. B. Sauls, a sawmill operator, was seriously wounded in a gun battle over timber rights near Newport today.

Senator Singletary was brought to a hospital here, where doctors found that both eyes had been shot out and his back pierced with shots.

C. W. Singletary, a son of the senator, and Q. D. Sauls, a brother of E. B. Sauls, were present during the fight but were not wounded.

C. W. Singletary told authorities his father cancelled timber rights previously granted the Sauls brothers on his land near Newport. Today, he said, he went to the sawmill to warn them to cut no more timber and was driven away by the brothers, who were armed.

He and his father returned later to the mill, he added, and were fired upon as they approached. The senator and Sauls were shot down in an exchange of bullets that followed.

HUSTON NOT TO RESIGN G. O. P. CHAIRMANSHIP

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Claudius Huston is standing by his chairmanship of the republican national committee, at least temporarily, despite a whirl of agitation in republican ranks over his leadership.

President Hoover after hearing numerous complaints in recent weeks against his party chairman called him to the white house last night and conferred with him for an hour and a half.

Today, Mr. Huston said he was going ahead with his meeting of committee officers here Thursday. He answered no questions about the future but it was made plain in his behalf that he is not resigning now nor at Thursday's session. He received newspapermen late in the day and after a bombardment of questions permitted himself to be quoted only as having "Nothing to say."

To Mr. Hoover has fallen the unhappy task of arbiter. Apparently he has not called for Huston's resignation and apparently Huston is not going to get out until Mr. Hoover does call for it.

It has been freely stated in inner republican circles for weeks that Huston would withdraw. Party leaders have been busy looking for a successor. The successor has not been chosen although it is known the president has been looking over a list lately.

Agitation against Huston started in the house shortly after testimony was given the senate lobby committee that he had used funds given by the Union Carbide company for the Muscle Shoals lobby activities of the Tennessee River Improvement association in his private brokerage account before turning them over to the association.

The disposition of Muscle Shoals is a live question in congress and the whole dispute was forced over until next session. It is understood administration influences sought a postponement rather than permit an embarrassment because of Huston's relations to the legislation.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, has been prominently mentioned as a successor to Huston. However, he hastened back to Washington yesterday from a visit to the Hoover camp on the Rapidan to issue a statement asserting the national chairman ship had not been discussed.

GOODYEAR-ZEPPELIN WINS BALLOON RACE

HOUSTON, Tex., July 7.—(AP)—R. J. Blairfl, a former navy yard worker, who used to handle a rivet gun, and Frank Trotter, a 29-year-old student aeronaut, today were declared the unofficial victors in the national elimination balloon race which got under way here Friday.

In the Akron (Ohio) entrant, Goodyear-Zeppelin, they traveled the greatest distance—some 850 miles. Blair, who used to work in the Bremerton navy yards, brought the Goodyear-Zeppelin down late yesterday at Greensburg, Ky.

The winner will not be officially designated until the National Aeronautic association at Washington has checked all barographs and announced its verdict.

Captain Fred S. Wilbur of the race committee, said his calculations indicated the Detroit Times, E. J. Hill, pilot, and A. C. Schlosser, aide, was second with some 700 miles to its credit.

Blair and Trotter and Hill and Schlosser, if the N. A. A. holds with the local committee, will compete with Ward Van Orman as the American team in the international race Sept. 1 at Cleveland. Van Orman won the international last year and did not have to compete in the elimination race this year.

The United Van Service balloon of Cleveland, piloted by George Hineman with Milford Vanik as aide, ran a close race with the Detroit Times, both landing in Kentucky. Captain Wilbur estimated the Cleveland entry finished in third place with an estimated 685 miles.

The navy balloon piloted by Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, with 640 miles, placed fourth. Lieut. R. G. Mayer was with Settle.

The unofficial compilation showed Lieuts. W. Bushnell and J. A. Greenwald of the navy in fifth place, 550 miles, and Army Lieuts. W. D. Buie and J. P. Kidwell sixth with 400 miles.

Grand Jury Probe Of Lingle Murder

[illegible]th of Chicago Newspaper Reporter and Rumors of Alliance Between Crime and Police to Be Investigated.

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Inquisition into the month-old assassination of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, and the sinister rumors of alliances between crime and police which followed it was begun today by a new grand jury.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson announced shortly after the new grand jury was sworn he would summon Harry T. Brundige, a St. Louis newspaperman, to specify charges he had made that other reporters besides Lingle had alliances with gangsters. He did not say whether he would take the Missourian before the grand jury.

Brundige, in articles printed in the St. Louis Star, charged that Lingle, was not the only Chicago newspaperman making money out of "rackets." He said he had information a Chicago daily news reporter was "soon to get his."

Leland H. Reese, Daily News crime reporter who is recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile wreck which he said was an attempt to kill him at De Kalb, Ill., averred in a signed story in the news today that he had supposed himself the reporter mentioned in the St. Louis article.

Reese said that while he was driving west from Chicago early Friday, another auto, which had followed his, deliberately forced his car off the road and caused it to overturn in a ditch. He was riding with Allen Finlay and Ed Braun, the former a special guard of the reporter for several weeks.

"On Thursday, July 3," Reese wrote, "I received a really definite message that I was to be attacked and beaten, if not killed. This tip did not come by anonymous letter as do most of the threats received in newspaper offices, nor did it emanate, as do most of those threats, from the usual gangland sources. It suggested an attack from quite another source."

Declaring that every reporter assigned to "get inside facts on gang murders" inevitably hears himself accused of dishonesty, Reese asserted: "I have never received money from any illegitimate source at any time in my life."

PREDICTS BETTER PRICES IN WHEAT MARKET

HASTINGS, Neb., July 7.—(AP)—Chairman Legge of the farm board today told hard wheat growers of the middle west that low prices were in part due to the general depression but that he doubted that low prices would be permanent. Better times were coming, although he could not say just when.

Chairman Legge was here with Secretary Hyde to advocate reduction in wheat acreage as a relief from the record low prices for that grain.

"In the last analysis," Legge said, "the matter of what you are going to do about the situation must be left to the producer."

Chairman Legge said the farm board had been "charged with a lot of things," and he had no doubt that "the fellows who always find trouble will find a way to charge us with the decline in prices of securities and other products in addition to those produced by the farmer." He added:

"We are going through a world-wide depression in business. I doubt if we ever will be able to eliminate these periods of ups and downs.

"I don't believe there is any justification for the theory that we are facing a permanent period of lower prices. I believe there will be better times, but I am not prepared to say when they will come."

Chairman Legge advocated a gradual slowing down of wheat production "with the object of eventually balancing domestic production with domestic consumption."

RUSSIAN LUMBER BARRED BY CUSTOMS OFFICIALS

Six Ship Loads Denied Entry to This Country On Grounds That Convict Labor Was Used In Russian Forests Where Lumber Was Produced — Amtorg Trading Corp., and Importers Seek to Have Customs Order Set Aside At Hearing Before Assistant Secretary Lowman — Tariff Law Forbids Entry of Goods Produced By Convict Labor.

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Representatives of the Amtorg Trading corporation, the official Russian trading organization, and of lumber and pulp wood importers sought in arguments before Assistant Secretary Lowman today to have set aside the action of customs officials in barring from this country six ship loads of Russian lumber on the ground that it had been produced by convict labor.

Entry of such goods is forbidden by the tariff law. While treasury officials would not disclose the source of their information, it was said government agents had reported convicts had been used in Russian forests where lumber was produced.

Lowman reserved his decision but announced he expected to settle the question within a few days.

Two of the six ship loads of lumber arrived in American ports last week and were denied entrance at Providence, R. I., and Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where they are being held until the assistant secretary hands down his decision.

The British freighter Carmen is at Poughkeepsie and the Danish freighter Uranienborg at Providence. Four ship loads of the lumber are on the high seas.

The shipping companies were represented at the hearings by attaches of the British and Danish embassies. They listened to the evidence produced by the A. C. Dutton Lumber company of Poughkeepsie; the International Paper company and the Amtorg Corporation. The witnesses contended the lumber was not produced by convict labor.

A. C. Dutton, president and H. P. Wyckoff, general manager of the lumber company, appeared for that organization and J. F. Rollins and J. E. Rothery appeared for the International Paper company. The Amtorg Corporation was represented by M. Makodsub, vice president.

The section under which the lumber was barred was first incorporated in the 1922 tariff law and has been used frequently in preventing the importation of convict-produced merchandise. The best known of such prohibitions was phosphate rock produced by covict labor in Morocco.

The newly-passed tariff act extended that section to include all goods made or produced by forced and indentured labor unless it was not in competition with products of this country. The amended section, however, does not go into effect until January 1, 1932.

The treasury also has had protests against entrance of hard coal from Russia which was shipped to Philadelphia where it could be sold, it was said, at less than the cost of production in this country.

ITALIAN VIEWPOINT ON "UNITED STATES OF EUROPE"

ROME, July 7—(AP)—Italy today made known to France that disarmament must be one of the conditions upon which she would be willing to enter into discussions of a "United States of Europe," in a reply to the recent memorandum of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister.

Co-operation as members of a union but not of a unity, with the absolute independence of all participants; the participation of Russia and Turkey, and the rejection of a combination of such a federation for security without disarmament summed up the Italian viewpoint as expressed in three "principles" enunciated.

The memorandum forwarded to France said:

"Disarmament, this essential principle which in the memorandum of the French republic is not expressly nor incidentally formulated, constitutes, in the opinion of the Fascist government, the point of fundamental departure for efficient work toward moral cohesion among the nations, for the integral development of the general problem of security and in order to give practical consistency and elementary reason for its being to any project of the federal European union.

The reply states that every danger tending to weaken the sense of solidarity among peoples upon which is founded the League of Nations should be avoided.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT TO DEATH AT DETROIT

DETROIT, July 7—(AP)—Two brothers, Sam and Joe Gaglio, were shot to death by two men at noon today while they were changing a tire behind a filling station.

The police were unable to explain this third double shooting within five days. Although carried out in much the same manner as the first two, neither of today's victims was known to police nor could they be connected with any illegal enterprise.

Two Chicago racketeers, an undercover police investigator and an alleged bootlegger were slain in the two previous double shootings.

BOMBAY, India, July 7—(AP)—The forces of civil disobedience today were held in abeyance throughout India while the last session of the Indian legislative assembly was held at Simla and a statement from Viceroy Lord Irwin on the Simon commission report and the impending round table conference was awaited.

WORK STARTED ON BOULDER DAM PROJECT

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—A line of white stakes, glistening in the desert sun, stretched across the wasteland of southern Nevada today toward the brink of Black Canyon, marking the first day's work on an engineering project so immense that the flamboyant adjectives of the circus have been called upon to describe it.

Here, in the words of the interior department and Secretary Wilbur, the work which was begun today is to blossom into "the most stupendous cement structure in the world," an undertaking that will "make new geography and start a new era," signalising "our national conquest over the great American desert."

From the foot of the canyon walls, a dam is to rise more than 575 feet, thrusting its roots 100 feet below the stony basin of the stream. It will create a lake 100 miles long, and in size will dwarf the Elephant Butte dam on the Rio Grande in New Mexico, rearing its shoulders more than 260 feet higher than the 306 feet of that structure.

Before work can even be initiated on "the great wedge, over 700 feet high, that is to close this river," Secretary Wilbur said, huge diversion tunnels more than a mile in length must be carved into solid rock to carry the flow of the river around the dam site.

TO CONSOLIDATE ACTIVITIES AFFECTING WAR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—President Hoover today signed a bill which authorizes him to consolidate all governmental activities affecting war veterans under the Veterans' Bureau.

The measure authorizes the president to consolidate and co-ordinate the veterans and pensions bureaus and the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers under an agency to be known as "administration of veterans affairs."

The legislation was recommended to congress by Mr. Hoover in his annual message.

Under the present system, the pensions bureau is operated by the interior department. The soldiers' home by the war department and world war veterans activities by the veterans bureau, an independent agency.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Last Little Muskrat

Things often sound much worse by far
Than what you find they really are.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Please do not be distressed because this story is of the last of Jerry Muskrat's big family. I know how it sounds. However, things often sound a great deal worse than they really are. This is the story of the last little Muskrat, but that doesn't mean that something dreadful happened to all the others. Something dreadful did happen to three as you know. One was caught by Hooty the Owl; one was caught by Reddy Fox, and one was caught by Whitetail the Marsh Hawk. That left six.

One day Mother Muskrat discovered that one of these six was missing. No one had seen any enemy around, but this young Muskrat was nowhere to be found. He was the biggest and in some ways the smartest of all the children. Mrs. Muskrat found that the last time he was seen he had been over near where the Laughing Brook leaves the Smiling Pool. When she saw Jerry Muskrat she said to him: "We have only five children left now."

"Who got the other one?" asked Jerry.

"No one," replied Mrs. Muskrat. "He has left home. He has gone out to see what the Great World is like. I guess it is just as well."

The next day another disappeared in much the same manner. Two days later two disappeared. Mrs. Muskrat poked around here and there and learned what she could. It was enough to relieve her mind. She was certain that they also had gone out into the Great World to make homes for themselves. The following morning another left without so much as saying goodby. He just started straight across the Smiling Pool and kept on down the Laughing Brook toward the Big River. Now there was but one left.

This one was a home-body. She was in no hurry to go. In fact, she apparently didn't want to go. Came a time when Mrs. Muskrat thought it high time that this last one of her family should go out into the Great World. The young Muskrat didn't think so. She was quite satisfied to keep with her mother as much as possible. Then, finally Mrs. Muskrat lost patience. One day she led the way down the Laughing Brook. The young Muskrat followed. All the way down the Laughing Brook to the Big River Mrs. Muskrat led the way.

This was the first time the young Muskrat had ever seen the Big River. She thought it a very wonderful place. She found one of her brothers and they played together in among the wild rice. She made the acquaintance of another young Muskrat and she quite forgot Mother Muskrat. By and by, when she went to look for Mother, Mother wasn't to be found. Mother Muskrat was well on her way back to the Smiling Pool, and as she swam she chuckled.

As she entered the Smiling Pool she met Jerry Muskrat. "Well, my dear," said he, "where have you been?"

"Getting rid of the last of the family," replied Mrs. Muskrat.

"You mean that we no longer have any children?" cried Jerry.

"Nothing of the kind!" retorted Mrs. Muskrat. "We still have six children, so far as I know; but they are all out in the Great World where they belong. Children are wonderful while they are little, but there comes a time when they are better off and we are better off if they are out in the Great World. Besides, I couldn't have them around any longer."

"Why not?" demanded Jerry.

Mrs. Muskrat swam close to Jerry and whispered in his ear, "Oh!" said Jerry. "That's different."

MONTVILLE

TWO BEAT UP RANKERWITZ, SPY WITH THE GLASS EYE

(Special to The Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, July 7—William Pelts and Isadore Bibik, of Palmertown were arrested by State Troopers Donald Brown and Peter Busch of Groton barracks, early Monday morning, when they attempted to beat up State Rankerwitz also of Palmertown. Rankerwitz acted as a stool pigeon for the state police on their raids in Montville last week which resulted in the troopers cleaning up four booze joints and which leaves the town practically dry. Steve Rankerwitz was calling at the home of William Gardner, at Crandall's Hill, Palmertown. When he left late in the night he was accosted by Isador Bibik and William Pelts who began to rain blows on the stool pigeon's body. Then they tore off most all of his clothes. The men took pains not to hit Rankerwitz in the face, he having only one eye, the other one being of glass. A call was put in for the state police who at once placed the two men under arrest. They were brought before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church at 8 o'clock Monday morning and were placed under $50 bonds each, for their appearance in the Montville justice court Wednesday, July 9th at 10 a. m. Bonds were furnished by Mrs. Alvina Malefski, of Palmertown. Many of the Polish and Russian citizens of the town are out to get Rankerwitz, who seems to make a business of spying, having secured evidence for the police in three other towns in Connecticut and has even secured evidence to convict his own brother who resides in Norwich.

NEVER, in all the history of beauty culture, has there been such universal approval of any product as is given to Palmolive Soap today. When trained, skilful professionals unite in recommending one particular soap, that recommendation is significant. And there are 23,720 such specialists, in 16 different countries, who consider Palmolive Soap the ideal means of keeping skin clear, lovely, wholesome!

The need of soap and water

Experts, in studying the skin, find that the pores secrete oil, dust, dirt and powder. These accumulations gather into hard little masses. Unless these masses are removed thoroughly and regularly, the pores become coarse, blackheads appear . . . and along come all those blemishes one wishes so to avoid.

Now, the one best way to remove impurities from the pores, is the bland, safe lather of Palmolive Soap. It gets down beneath the surface. It routs out dirt and dust without irritation, leaving the skin refreshed and glowing with natural color.

The specialist studies skin care, experiments with methods and products until the one best way is found. And 23,720 such specialists endorse Palmolive

To get the best results, massage Palmolive lather gently into the skin of face and throat. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse it off, first with warm water, gradually with colder and colder. That's all there is to it! Use ice as an astringent occasionally if you have an oily skin. You'll love the refreshing, delicate afterglow that Palmolive leaves.

And, of course, you'll use it for the bath, too.

DANIELSON

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND OPENING OF CHAUTAUQUA

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 7—Danielson's series of Chautauqua entertainments opened today in a large tent erected on the north playgrounds at the School street, and splendid weather favored the advent of what is to many Danielson people a great treat each summer season.

Frank (Achabazooka) Lane and Frances Aldrich, two of Boston's most versatile and popular entertainers opened this afternoon's program. A bit of magic, some popular music on novelty instruments and a dainty bit of dancing by Frances Aldrich is included; also dialogue, comedy and song. Their presentation was one of the best opening day features shown by Chautauquans here.

Another feature this afternoon was the lecture and demonstration by Marjorie Turner Todd on the Revival of Folk Craft in America, this during the boys' and girls' hour.

A real feature was provided this evening in the three-act comedy-drama success The Big Pond. A very capable cast interpreted this interesting play tonight.

There are 93 guarantors for this year's Chautauqua entertainments in Danielson, and much work has been done in advance of today's opening of the series of entertainments to have them witnessed by many people.

Auto Cases Adjusted

There were several minor cases for the consideration of the town court at this morning's session, Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis presiding. Alfred M. Prairie of Taunton was fined $1.00 and costs of $10.50 for operating a commercial vehicle that was not equipped with a reflector.

For speeding, a charge growing out of coasting a truck down hill, Napoleon Morrissette of Ocean Grove, Mass., was fined $10.00 and costs of $10.50. Of the fine imposed, $9 was remitted.

Charles E. Carlson of Providence was fined $1.00 and costs for operating a car without a reflector, the costs in this case also being $10.50.

Cecil M. McClellan of Springfield also paid a fine of $1.00 and costs of $10.50, for operating a commercial vehicle that was without a reflector. Edward A. Bazuch, a 16 year old Putnam boy, was fined $1.00 and actual costs of $6.40 for operating a car not equipped with a proper muffler. William F. Burns of Providence and Ralph E. Pierce of Foster each were fined $1.00 and costs of $10.50 for operating commercial motor vehicles in this town without having reflectors on the machines.

Most of today's court appearances followed the activities of state police officers of the local Barracks in checking up on Rhode Island and Massachusetts trucks the past week, as to their having proper equipment.

The Colonel Daniel Putnam association, which is to hold its biennial meeting at the Elms on Church street in Brooklyn next Wednesday was organized nearly 24 years ago, on August 10, 1906, to be exact to provide a means whereby the coming generations of their descendants, and the younger members of their families might keep up the old associations, memories and traditions, for the members of the association are descendants from the historic and distinguished persons connected with the establishment and development of Old Trinity parish in Brooklyn.

Numbers of the members, especially the Brown family, are descendants of the famed General Israel Putnam. From time to time since the date of organization the members have met, as they will meet on Wednesday. Meanwhile they have done a great deal to carry out the objective of the association.

Comparatively few of the members are residents of this section, and they will be representative of many and distant places when they assemble Wednesday.

FRED PASSMORE DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 7—A sudden death at East Killingly this morning and a shock to his family and friends was that of Fred Passmore, 61, a life long resident of that community. There had been little to indicate the approaching end. While the mill was in operation Mr. Passmore, who had spent his life time at East Killingly, was in charge of the weaving department of the plant. He was born in East Killingly June 29, 1869, a son of Edwin and Hannah Fenner Passmore. In addition to his wife he leaves two brothers, Charles of East Killingly and William of New Orleans, and a sister, Mrs. John Russell of Attawaugan. Mr. Richards spent his youthful years and early manhood in Danielson, where he had a host of friends. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Richards, who were residents of Dyer street. Mr. Richards, who was engaged in the theatrical business in Munson for a number of years and also agent for a trolley express company, leaves his wife, who before their marriage here in Danielson was Miss Marie Louise Pigeon, a son, Albert, and a daughter, Yolande. Similar disruption of service occurred in other nearby telephone divisions. Line crews were working at top speed throughout today to restore the service to normal, and this work was far advanced late this afternoon. Difficulties also were created for the Connecticut Light and Power company by the storm, and their crews, likewise, were busy correcting trouble today.

The storm reached its height over Danielson just before 9 o'clock. The lightning was vivid and constant. The fire alarm telegraph siren was sounded repeatedly as the lightning flashed and the thunder crashed directly over Danielson. A chimney on the home of Miss Dorothy Atwood on Reynolds street was struck and damaged by one bolt. There was some washing out of gutters and gullying of highways in and near the borough, but no serious damage of this nature.

WAUREGAN

Over one thousand attended the Old Timers' ball game at Parish Grove on the Fourth. It was a delightful fellowship that was enjoyed by the visitors and the game itself was pleasingly good. The afternoon game between the local team and Fitchville was well contested, and the dancing to music by Leach's orchestra carried through the day; while the dinner prepared by the Wauregan Drill team was absolutely cleaned out. Jerry Doyle is smiling right along.

Sang First Solemn Mass

A good congregation was present at the Sacred Heart church Sunday morning when Rev. Emile Chartier sang his first solemn mass. Father Chartier was born at Central Falls, R. I., but spent most of his boyhood days at Wauregan, and was graduated from the parochial school in this village. Later he studied at Altamont, N. Y., and plans to study further at LaSalette college, Hartford. Recently ordained by Rt. Rev. Bishop Gibbons, Albany, N. Y., Father Chartier is looking forward with much zeal to his missionary work. PUTNAM

LIGHTNING STORM HITS ELECTRIC SERVICE HERE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 7.—An electrical storm which had been brewing since early afternoon, swept out of the north west Sunday and broke over the city early in the evening. Accompanied by a strong gale, the storm at times attained almost cyclonic proportions. It was the worst storm of the summer season and the damage it caused was tremendous.

Torrential downpours of rain kept up for nearly an hour. Surface water exceeded the gutter-carrying capacity during the virtual cloudburst and streets were literally sheeted with water. Telephone and electric light service suffered from the effects of the storm. E. Leslie Beebe, manager of the Putnam division of the Southern New England Telephone company, which comprises the Putnam, Danielson and Moosup exchanges reported that service at 225 stations had been disrupted at noon today and that the damage was mounting hourly. Mr. Beebe stated that six lines were cut off in the local exchange causing service interruptions at 40 stations. Nineteen lines were down in the Moosup exchange effecting about 125 telephones. In telephone circles, Moosup exchange suffered most. Mr. Beebe reported that a survey of after-storm conditions in the Danielson exchange showed that 30 lines, numbering 60 stations had been cut off from communication with the exchange office.

In the city the lightning had little effect on the telephone lines enclosed in cable sheaths, but the majority of stations cut off were those serving the country districts, connected to the exposed wires. Emergency crews of the three exchanges were called out last night and were at work early this morning repairing the damage. It was expected that everything would be in "ship shape" by nightfall today, Mr. Beebe said this afternoon.

The electric light company felt the effects of the storm. Dazzling bolts of lightning accompanied by ear splitting cracks of thunder making contact on lines in several instances managed to hurl this city and surrounding communities being served by the power company, into complete darkness. Feed lines were hampered several times during the storm resulting in lights going out and remaining dark for several minutes, until contact was restored.

County Agent Raymond E. Wing of the Windham County Farmers association reported this afternoon that the electrical shower played little havoc in the country districts where crops are growing. He said that in most instances garden products had attained sufficient strength at this time of the year to resist the onslaught of wind and rain.

As far as could be learned today there was no property damage caused in the city by lightning.

June may be the month of brides, but the report of Henry N. Benoit, town clerk showed that the number of marriage licenses issued during the month exceeded the average monthly number by only six certificates. Sixteen certificates of marriage were issued by Town Clerk Benoit, during the month of June and the entire number were on file at the clerk's office today. According to indications at the local office Hymen, who in mythology is purported to be the god of love, did not put in as much overtime during June, as with which he is generally credited during that period.

The night operating staff at the Waterman Worsted company on Pomfret street returned to work Monday evening.

Miss Jessie Macdonald of George street and her sister, Mrs. Eserenalda Mier of New Jersey, sailed yesterday from Boston for Sydney, Nova Scotia, where they will spend several days with relatives there.

Patrolman Benoni Durand of the local police began his annual vacation Sunday. Special Officer John Durand is performing police duty during the vacation period.

Only one case was presented to Judge Geissler in police court this morning. The police report showed an unusually quiet week-end having been experienced.

Bernard Bulger, son of Mr. and Mrs John H. Bulger of Farrows street, a patient at the Hopedale hospital in Providence, is expected to return to his home Tuesday.

Sunday night's electrical storm affected no personal injuries in the territory hereabouts, it was reported today at the Day Kimball hospital.

CHAUTAUQUA LECTURER TELLS ABOUT GANGLAND

The program at Chautauqua Monday afternoon and evening was given by the All Arts Dectette, and was one of the best programs yet. The lecture in the evening by C. Ray Hansen on Government by Gangland was an interesting and informing story of his experiences while living in Gangland, with sidelights on Al Capone and other gang leaders with whom he became acquainted. He said that "Chicago, crime statistics will show, isn't as bad as it is sometimes pictured. It is 11th among cities of the United States in ratio of murders, 17th in felonies and 49th in general crimes. Chicago's blackest mark is the alliance of its politicians with Gangland." The speaker has served as investigator, prosecutor and witness against prominent members of Gangland.

During the 1928 presidential election, Hansen was in charge of 3,000 men under military discipline, commissioned as watchers to prevent fraud and violence at the polls.

A large audience at the Finn theatre Fourth of July night was delighted to see the big parade reel, which was taken from different points in the borough streets, July 4, 1925. The long line of march, the beautiful floats and assembled crowds, furnished inspiration for talk of a future celebration. Some say that a firemen's field day, with a parade, the sort that Jewett City knows how to put over so well, may be in the not too distant offing.

M. E. Shea is reported to have been at Rocky Point, Fourth of July, looking up the probable discounts he could get on shore dinners. Michael allowed on New Year's day, 1930, that he would drive over the new Quinebaug viaduct in his big sedan, on the first day of August. Failing in this proposed procedure for any reason, the party of the first part was to take the parties of the second part to Rocky Point for a shore dinner. It is to be understood that the receiving end is none less than the board of advisory engineers. However, Brother Shea made no definite statement as to what year it should be, as regarding the date of Aug. 1. The committee looked over the job Monday, with the result that unless a jump is made of several hundred feet, August, 1930, is out of the question. The matter will be referred to legal authority. There is a chance for Michael if he intended 1931 to be the date.

The Fisk will play the Campers tonight (Tuesday) at the Fisk grounds, a game postponed on account of wet grounds.

Haymaker at 78

Farmers all through this section are cutting the heaviest hay harvest in ten years. Continued wet weather in June worked wonders with the bottom growth. Upland red top, generally light, is said to be cutting fine. Seen in J. F. Gardner's big hay fields was Hosea Whitford, 78 Strong and vigorous, "Hosey" was holding up his end with much younger men. He holds the record for having been a woodchopper since before the Civil war and has doubtless felled more trees than any man in New England.

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

RATIFY THE TREATY

When President Hoover explained the purpose of the special session of the senate and urged ratification of the London treaty, he expressed the belief that the people are back of it and desire such action. There hasn't been any referendum on the matter but there is a strong sentiment in behalf of international peace and a desire that this country should contribute its part in maintaining it. There is a full recognition of the ravages of war and the desire to prevent it. Public sentiment in behalf of limitation of armament has been one of the strongest supporters of efforts in that direction

There is no desire that the United States should put itself in a position where it would not be able to adequately defend itself. The president makes that clear, but he also says with good effect that there is no desire that this country, because of its wealth and position, should dominate the world. There is no desire to create the impression that we want to do any such thing.

The opponents of the treaty are entitled to their views and to a hearing. They must be given a chance to set forth their points and support their contentions, but that does not justify any effort on their part to prevent action being taken upon the treaty within a reasonable time. They have no reason to expect to block action through delay any more than the majority should expect to shut out the minority through denying them a hearing in considering the treaty.

As the president says, the question that must be considered now concerns the document about which there has been more or less knowledge for months. There is no justification for delay and there is no reason why the treaty should not be considered from a non-political standpoint and the advantages which accrue to this country secured. We gained a valuable advance toward disarmament when the Washington treaty was negotiated. Another important step in the same direction will be secured through the London treaty. It will be beneficial from an economic standpoint, it will be advantageous from a peace standpoint, and the senate will be only responding to public sentiment through prompt ratification. It is no time for continuing misrepresentations and misinformation and certainly the country does not want a return to the old and expensive practice of endless naval competition.

AUXILIARY ROADS

Monday is the day that reveals many accidents, some of a fatal nature, over the week end. They are not all due to the automobile but many of them are the result of the use of highways where greater or less speed is involved. And when accidents occur under such conditions deaths are very often the result.

During a week end, if one does much driving, he cannot fail to be impressed by the large numbers who use the main lines of travel. This is so because of the best roads and the difficulty in getting to destinations without using them, and it seems to furnish a strong argument for the development of those other routes which will bring about a distribution of this heavy traffic.

Many drivers are forced onto the main roads against their wishes because there is no alternate route. They make the best of the situation and take their chances, not knowing what the other fellow may do, but they would welcome those short cuts and secondary routes which would get them where they are going and out of the speedways and the congestion. With a distribution of the traffic, the interests of safety are not only served, but less obstruction and more pleasure result. Reduce the traffic on certain of the much-used thoroughfares by a quarter or a half and the protection of all concerned will be increased and the additional routes which could take such a part of the traffic would serve the convenience of not only the long-distance travelers but the residents of the sections through which such routes would be established. Such a double benefit is deserving of much serious consideration, but no more than the various sections that might be helped and the motoring public are entitled to.

THE FOURTH'S TOLL

When the idea of a safe and sane observance of the Fourth was advanced, it dealt almost entirely with the use of fireworks. The aim was to get the thought of the nation so directed to the great waste of human life and the vast amount of needless suffering that followed the reckless use of explosives on the nation's birthday that wild practices would be stopped. The purpose was to replace chance-taking with care, and it is gratifying to note by the records kept that good results have been obtained. For the most part, the public has shown its appreciation of the object aimed at by cooperating to bring about the desired end.

From the figures which have been furnished of Fourth of July fatalities, it is quite apparent that safety and sanity in regard to celebrating with explosives is much more generally displayed. There were but 12 deaths from fireworks on the Fourth, although that was five in excess of last year and one more than on the Fourth in 1928, but while there appear to be efforts in the direction of safety and sanity where fireworks are concerned the opportunity for reducing the fatalities caused by autos and drownings is still apparent.

While the fatalities from fireworks were kept to 12 this year, those from autos, drownings and other causes on the holiday were heavy, the combined total reaching the sum of 178. Those killed by autos numbered 81, or 11 more than last year. Those drowned were 57 and those killed from other causes were 28.

The record for the Fourth shows how easy it is to yield to carelessness and apparently the difficulty experienced in being careful, and yet it is perfectly apparent that it is not only one day but the entire season that is involved when auto accidents and drownings are concerned. If it is possible to be careful with fireworks one day in the year in the interest of human safety, it ought to be possible to get the public sufficiently interested in protecting humanity in other ways every day in the year.

That it pays to be careful with explosives seems to be recognized. A still greater lesson in the advisability of using care exists in the other directions and no better demonstration of it is needed than the fatality record of the Fourth.

NEW YORK'S WELCOMES

It would be interesting to know what the city of New York pays in the way of expense each year for welcoming heroes, those who have accomplished unusual things, foreign visitors, and others coming to that port.

New York would not have such visitors enter the country through other ports even if they wished to do so. It would not forego the sending of a boat down the bay to meet the visitors and it would not wax happy over the thought of having Boston, Philadelphia or Baltimore do the honors. New York knows the value of the advertising which goes with all this expense and yet it cannot be unmindful of the fact that there is a tremendous outlay involved, directly and indirectly, each year.

There are those who think that the welcomes are overdone. They say so, guardedly, lest their reference to it would be regarded as being directed against some particular person. They know that New York's streets are a mess after some of the most prominent of the persons are welcomed and that in the cleaning up of this mess many thousands of dollars are spent. They know that all the money that is spent in such a way comes out of the pockets of the taxpayers and they have been made aware of the fact that the taxpayers are never given any too much consideration.

Whether it will ever be possible to so impress the city administration in New York with the need of modifying its welcoming arrangements as to do away with the heavy and needless expense is a question. Whether the city administration could be brought to an appreciation of the importance of thinking of the taxpayers' position is a bit uncertain. Even those who advocate it know how little attention has been given to the taxpayers in the raid which has been made upon the treasury of the city for the boosting of salaries.

New York is a big city and it does things in a big way. As a port of entry it frequently blows itself without thought of expense. It sets the pace for many others in this respect, and it is far easier to make such affairs more elaborate than it is to think of curtailing the cost. Little consideration will be given to the sentiment of the taxpayers until another city election campaign approaches.

FOR STATE RIGHTS

When the governors get together they have an opportunity to discuss many of their common problems. In their session at Salt Lake City they talked over many questions, but one in which there appeared to be general interest was concerning the Hawes-Cooper law, which doesn't become effective until 1934, but which provides for a regulation of prison industries in the various states. It was a matter in which several governors, including our own, pointed out the expense and handicap that would be imposed upon the states in a move that was regarded as being against state rights.

This particular piece of federal legislation is only one of several which has indicated the growing tendency of congress to deal with matters which belong to the states. They not only reflect the tendency in congress to take such action but the disposition of many to urge such action upon congress. Where matters are within the province of state governments there has been an inclination to overstep the bounds and undertake to deal with them through federal legislation.

Thus the objection by the governors to this practice is no more than was to be expected. It echoes sentiment that has been advanced repeatedly. It voices the opposition that has been manifested to the inclination to centralize in Washington those activities which should be handled by states. It cannot fail to reawaken the demand for and a greater interest in state rights. It should be helpful in bringing to attention what certain legislation is depriving the states of and, even though it amounts to no more than agitation, it should be decidedly helpful.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, July 7 — Even though congress, as a whole, has come in for a good deal of well deserved criticism, it is a matter of pride to the people of Connecticut, that not one member of their state delegation has failed to play the part assigned him, and play it well. And it has been a conspicuous part.

In the senate both Senators Bingham and Walcott have stood steadfast on the side of the republican party and the administration, notwithstanding any attempts to win them from the stronghold.

In the house, Floor Leader Tilson has been a tower of strength to the president, who has very complete confidence both in his integrity and wisdom. The other members of the delegation have likewise played a very strong and creditable part in the protection of New England and its industries, and even though many desired points were lost, the entire republican delegation has done all possible to win out for that section of the country, and yet be fair to other sections. Had delegations from the south and west played as fair a game as has those from the New England states, the work of congress would have been satisfactory to the entire country.

The democrats of the house will lose two of their most important and influential leaders in the next congress, whether or not they win out at the election. They are Joseph W. Byrns and Cordell Hull, both of Tennessee. Both are announced candidates for the senate and are pitted against each other in the primary.

If Hull or Byrns is elected to the senate the democratic side of that body will gain heavily, both in prestige and in actual party strength.

Hull has been in the house more than 20 years; he is the author of the income tax law; he served with rank of captain during the Spanish-American war; held a judgeship on the fifth judicial circuit court of Tennessee and is an indefatigable worker, a staunch party man, and carries great weight in the house. He is a member of the ways and means committee.

Byrns is ranking democratic member of the appropriation committee, chairman of the house democratic campaign committee and one of the unofficial floor leaders, whose activity and keen foresight is a powerful aid to the democrats when opposing republican projects, or fostering measures of democratic origin.

If Hull or Byrns wins senatorial elections, there will be a big effort made by democrats to put them in equally powerful positions in the senate, even though it takes the scalps of some less notable old-time senators, in so doing. And republican leaders will have added strength pitted against them, for though always fair foes, both Byrns and Hull know the ropes of congressional side play and are never asleep at the switch.

More than a dozen years ago someone asked Representative John Jacob Rogers, of Massachusetts, then ranking member on the house committee on foreign affairs, to whom we should go for certain rather intricate details on a measure then pending, and without hesitation he said: "Whenever you want to know the facts, no matter what about, you ask Representative Henry W. Temple of Pennsylvania. He is the best informed man in congress, and what is more, he knows how to impart the information so you will understand it."

And now, it is that same Henry W. Temple, who automatically takes over the chairmanship of the house committee on foreign affairs, following the death of Stephen Porter. Temple is ranking member on the committee, having succeeded the Hon. Mr. Rogers in that high position, when Rogers died a few years ago.

Dr. Temple, a university degree which he earned in his own right, lives up to the tributes paid him by Mr. Rogers, who was one of the most efficient and wise members of the house.

Temple was professor of international law at the Washington and Jefferson college in Pennsylvania, and the college was so reluctant to part with him, that the position was held open for him long after he was elected to the house. Dr. Temple has history, and everything pertaining to diplomatic relations, right at his finger tips. He has spent much time abroad, often as a member of some important international commission. He is fair, liberal, staunchly patriotic, and a splendid mixer with the members of the diplomatic corps in Washington. While all deplore the death of Mr. Porter, who was held in very high regard, they deem it fortunate for the nation and for congress, that he is succeeded by Dr. Temple, whose knowledge, uprightness and rare personal charm, eminently fit him for the chairmanship of the foreign affairs committee.

Wine glasses to the number of 1800 belonging to the white house furnishings, have been carefully packed away and tagged, and the barrels in which they now are, rolled into the store room, as if Mr. Hoover felt certain the amendment and the law would not be changed at least during his term of service.

Col. Grant, director of public buildings, has supervision of all white house belongings, and inventories are taken each year. Hereafter, wine glasses will be counted by the barrel, instead of by goblet and glass.

One of the pleasantess instances of good fellowship among senators who oppose each other to the bitter end when political measures are up for discussion, was when Senator Smoot, made it known that he was absolutely in need of rest, and must take a vacation without delay.

His announcement came while many measures of great partisan importance to the republicans were still ending, even the end of the session was in sight.

Then Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi stood up and though he is perhaps the most bitter partisan against about everything Smoot stands for, said, "The senator is entitled to a rest, and I want to say that Senator Smoot can have a pair with me at any time and on any question, on which we take different sides." So Smoot went home and got married.

Harrison has a sharp tongue, a keen wit and never fails to use them both at the expense of the republican party or its leaders. But he has their admiration, for he never hits below the belt.

Senator Ransdell of Mississippi, aims to have established in Washington a national institute of health, and has introduced and urged the passage of a bill which would create in Washington a sort of clearing house for all information regarding disease.

Here would be an expert force whose efforts would be concentrated to ascertain the cause and the cure of various diseases, to which the people of the United States are most subject, and to advise preventative and curative measures.

Mr. Ransdell believes scientists of the highest rank should make an intensive study of ills running from the common cold to cancer, pneumonia and other wide spread maladies.

In introducing the bill Senator Ransdell said: "War claimed millions of lives, but every year disease claims ten million lives. Present means to fight against disease are inadequate. We must learn to safeguard health.

CHANGING FATHER

The sun glowed with a seductive warmth that tempted Dot to open the windows, to pull out the sleeveless silk dress that she had tucked away in the bottom of her cedar chest, and to greet Bob when he came home for his customary Saturday half holiday, with the request, "Darling, it's such a wonderful day, let's drive out into the country."

Bob stretched his arms and yawned approval. They left the barricades of stone and brick far in the background. They chose a quiet gravel road, which seemed to go nowhere in particular, but wound at leisure through woodlands, only partially disrobed of autumn finery, and bordered fields where shocks of corn proclaimed the season's harvest, and saucy pumpkins peeped at intervals among the stubble.

"Sometimes," mused Dot, "I think it would be glorious for us to have a country home and a few acres of ground, where we could raise chickens and keep a cow, and have a lovely garden in the summer. Distance is almost nothing, you know, in these days of modern transportation."

"It would be great," agreed Bob.

"Just look at that rolling ground ahead of us," murmured Dot. "Wouldn't it be perfectly ideal to have a house on the highest knoll?"

"It would be just about right," said Bob, "especially on a day like this."

On and on they went. They found a walnut tree that had sprinkled a generous amount of nuts across the highway.

"Fancy such luck," cried Dot. "We must stop and gather them."

Farther on they discovered a papaw thicket, and from an old rail fence, which supported a tangle of vines, they gathered bittersweet. Bob turned toward the west and noticed, along the horizon, and arm of clouds, reaching upward toward the sinking sun.

"We'd better start home," he said. "It's getting late and that breeze is positively chilly." Dot snuggled closer against him. "I wish I had thought to bring my sweater. I didn't put a thing in the car except my light coat." Later she said, "I wonder if we were really wise in buying this roadster. It has a lot of snap, you know, but a closed car might be warmer."

"Dig down farther under my wing," ordered Bob. "That northwester's stirring up some air."

They rode in silence for a little while; then Dot pointed toward a rolling strip of ground. "That's the place where I said a house would be so wonderful. It makes me shiver now just to think about it." Bob grunted.

"Say, some steak cooked with onions would taste good for supper. I'm hungry enough to eat a wildcat."

"I wonder if I closed the west windows," mused Dot. "Dear me, you'll have to start a fire in the furnace as soon as we get home."

"Gee whiz," grumbled Bob; "doesn't it get dark early this time of year?"

"I'll open the garage doors," insisted Dot. "I need the exercise. I'm stiff with cold and my fingers ache to the bone."

"Remember the onions," Bob reminded her as he disappeared down the basement stairs.

"Yes, and don't you forget to use plenty of kindling. We want some heat in a hurry."

That night they sat in quiet contentment before a blazing hearth fire. Suddenly Dot started to her feet.

"What was that noise?"

"Wind," grinned Bob. "Wind and rain. Gosh, what if we lived up on top of that hill?"

Dot settled back in her chair.

"Are you out of the notion of buying a country home, darling?" she inquired with mock severity.

"Umhum," grunted Bob sleepily.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 8—If Representative John Boylan of New York has his way about it, that most staid and colorless of daily journals, the Congressional Record, would blossom like the rose. It might become a best seller.

It is today, has always been and bid fair to continue to be, in Boylan's judgment, "just a mere museum of our oratorical efforts."

"And it is obvious that speeches alone do not count for much," the New Yorker sadly admits after four terms of house service.

Wants Illustration

Boylan has seen many a cartoon or comic strip that expressed his views on current political issues far more pointedly than he could do it himself by word of mouth.

He found one such on the tariff problem and promptly tried to include it in the Record only to be balked by the fact that the Record does not carry illustrations. There is no machinery for it. He's a determined man, however, is Boylan, and he thought up a scheme to beat that obstacle after a fashion.

What he did was prepare a design of the cartoon he admired. He did it on a typewriter, making a sort of geometrical figure with large capital letters scattered about on it. Then in a "legend" underneath, he explained the diagram: "A" meant an "average American home," "B" was a "small dog named Flexible Tariff," "F" was "a burly masked burglar named Excessive Tariff Rates," etc.

"No words of mine or of anyone else could really portray the thought carried by this cartoon," Boylan said.

But he managed to get it into the Record in that form, nevertheless, and it is a sort of entering wedge for his greater plan for improving the Record since it is the first cartoon of any sort other than verbal to get into those sacred pages.

No Luck Yet

It also recalled to the New Yorker that three years ago he popped in a joint resolution for a congressional committee to plan modernization of the Record. There is sentiment for his idea, he says, but as yet no actual progress.

"I believe the rules should permit insertion in the Record of anything that helps give a picture of American life," Boylan said.

"This may conceivably mean cartoons, pictures, rotogravures, comic strips, headlines, editorials and even a sporting page—in fact, all the adornments of the modern, entertaining and historical newspaper.

"There is more wit and wisdom in many a cartoon without words, or even in a comic strip, than in some of the congressional orations I have read in the Record."

There may be something to the Boylan idea at that. Perhaps it would promote better attendance at house sessions if members could browse over the sporting page of the Record instead of just drowsing through much of the speechmaking.

YOUR HEALTH

It Is Worth What It Costs

By Herbert L. Willett, Jr., Associate Director, Gorgas Memorial Institute, Washington, D. C.

I have just had my annual health audit and because people constantly ask what that means I am going to use myself as an illustration. This is what happened.

I walked into the office for my appointment and gave the doctor my health audit blank, carefully filled out. That included such matters as diet, sleep, exercise, weight, habits—the things he needed to know in order to get an adequate picture of me. There was just one special "symptom" I wanted to talk about, an occasional lameness. The doctor made a note of it.

Then I discarded some clothes, lay down on the table. Eyes, teeth, sinuses, ears, throat, lungs, heart—he looked and listened and tapped from top to toe, dictating comments to his secretary. The lameness came in for a good deal of study of how I could bend and twist. Blood pressure, pulse, blood count, urine analysis. Everything was carefully recorded.

By the time I was dressed the reports were typed and on his desk—the health blank, what I had told him, what he had found, what the laboratory tests showed. Then he analyzed them.

"Internally sound, no further tests needed. Now about your diet. You'd better"—just a few simple suggestions. "You don't exercise enough"—and a few more suggestions. "About your lameness. I'm going to let it go a month. If it troubles you again I will have it X-rayed. But no use incurring that expense unless we have to. Just—" and again a simple explanation of muscles and their care.

Then came the remark that struck me most. "After I've examined you a few times I'll know something about you. Diagnosis on a practical stranger (I only recently moved to Washington and met him) is always difficult. Next year and the next we'll compare your report with this year's. In the meantime watch the diet and exercise, and call me if anything ever seems to be wrong."

It took me only ninety-five minutes and now I know that I am still in good shape (yesterday I only thought and hoped so); I know a man to whom to turn in an emergency; I understand better why doctors sometimes hesitate to take responsibility for sick people who are strangers; I know I shall go back next year because the more I see of these health audits the clearer it becomes that it saves time, trouble and money to have bad symptoms detected before they become chronic or dangerous.

FOSTER'S DEPARTURE FOR CHICAGO HELD UP

LOS ANGELES, July 7—(P)—Frankie Foster's scheduled departure today for Chicago was interrupted by filing of a habeas corpus writ returnable tomorrow. The dapper lieutenant of the "Bugs" Moran gang, charged with suspected murder of Alfred Lingle, Chicago newspaperman, remained in the Los Angeles county jail tonight and Chicago detectives cancelled their reservations on eastbound trains.

Tomorrow Sheriff William Trager must show cause for custody of the reputed gunman. Authorities were confident the court would order Foster held and that he would be on his way to Illinois by tomorrow night. Extradition papers already have been signed.

NEARLY LOST HIS LIFE OPENING A SODA BOTTLE

EAST HAMPTON, Conn., July 7—(P)—Joseph Garrus, 18, used his teeth today as a makeshift bottle opener and nearly lost his life.

While working in a local factory, the youth became warm and thirsty and sent out for a bottle of soda water. There was no bottle opener handy, so he yanked the stopper off with his teeth. The released gas forced the stopper down his throat.

A fellow employe hurried Garrus in an automobile to Middlesex hospital, Middletown, where a surgeon removed the stopper. Tonight Garrus' condition was reported by the hospital as not serious.

PROF. LEVITT CONTINUES ATTACK ON RORABACK

EAST HARTFORD, July 7—(P)—Prof. Albert Levitt, of Redding, Conn., tonight continued his attack on the republican organization of the state and the leadership of J. Henry Roraback. He spoke before the Center Taxpayers' association, of East Hartford.

Mr. Roraback came to Connecticut from Massachusetts, Prof. Levitt said, and brought with him the Massachusetts tradition of autocratic government from which the settlers of Connecticut had fled.

"Mr. Roraback has developed a political machine which deliberately and intentionally has taken political power away from the people," Prof. Levitt charged, "he owns one of our United States senators, a senator who for the first time in the proud history of Connecticut has brought shame and censure to our state; he owns the governor of the state and all the major officials who do his bidding. He manipulates the general assembly so that those who dare to be independent in their judgment or honestly strive to further the welfare of their constituents are brow beaten and sidetracked; so that the towns which these independent legislators are supposed to represent are deprived of their representation."

CHIEF TAFT RECOMMENDS ADDING MORE MEN TO FIRE DEPARTMENT

The recommendation that enough more men be added to the fire department to bring the platoons up from three men to five men is made in the annual report of Fire Chief Henry R. Taft, which was presented to the common council meeting Monday night.

At the present time the six companies of the department are made up of two platoons, each consisting of three permanent men and one call man, except Engine Co. No. 1 which has nine men in the two platoons and two call men. To bring the platoons up to the strength desired by Chief Taft would apparently call for from 10 to 20 more men.

Chief Taft's Summary

In his general remarks and recommendations, Chief Taft says:

For the past several years it has been recommended that a new station be erected on the west side of the city to displace the present old No. 5 station located on a narrow and busy street. The present station is simply falling to pieces for the want of repairs which would be a waste of money to make. I recommend that a new station be built further up the hill out towards the city line, a fire station in these days equipped with motor driven apparatus should be spread out farther. This section of the city is continually growing from year to year.

I also recommend the purchase of a city service type of ladder truck, as we are greatly in need of more ladders in case of a large fire. Should the present truck be disabled by accident or wrecked while responding to an alarm of fire the city would be in a terrible shape for ladders. A city the size of Norwich should have two ladder trucks and not have to depend wholly upon the one truck.

It is true we have ladder equipment on all the pumps but this equipment is not suitable for three, five or seven-story buildings, and it would be just too bad if anything happened to the present ladder truck in case of a large fire; which is bound to occur in any city.

The pony type of fire alarm boxes in use for the past 50 years should be displaced with the more modern type of boxes; then purchase as many boxes as possible each year until the city is properly covered; as there are a great many parts of the city uncovered.

I recommend that more men be put on the department whereby the platoons of each company would not be less than five men to a platoon in each company. At present there isn't a company in the department that is properly manned, which makes it serious in case of sickness or accident.

There should be an ordinance enacted regulating the construction, installation, inspection of oil burning equipment; also for the storage and use of fuel oils.

Conclusion

In concluding this my first annual report, I acknowledge with grateful appreciation the co-operation of His Honor, Lee Roy Robbins, mayor, and the board of fire commissioners rendered me at all times.

To all the officers and members of the department under my charge, I tender my sincere thanks for your co-operation in carrying out the work assigned to you all; also for the splendid spirit you have shown this office. Without your co-operation the task of protecting our citizens from the destructive enemy, fire, would have indeed been difficult.

To Chief George Linton, chief of the police department, his officers and men, I extend my sincere thanks for the performance of their duties maintaining traffic conditions at all times during the extinguishment of fires."

To the citizens and to the members of other departments who have given their support I also extend my thanks.

To the city and town of Norwich zoning board I extend my thanks for their co-operation and attention given me at all times.

Review of the Year

Chief Taft's report gives a review of the year and in a foreword he says:

This being my first year as chief of the fire department, I wish to refer to one improvement which has been accomplished, and that improvement is the institution of the two-platoon system which has worked out satisfactorily. The accomplishment of this platoon system was due to the co-operation of His Honor Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and Fire Commissioners Paul Zahn, Charles A. Hagberg and Amiel Brosofske. It is true that we are short of man-power to man the apparatus on each platoon, but this condition I hope to remedy as time goes on. The loyalty and co-operation of the men of the department has made the platoon work out successfully.

The report shows that the department closed the year with an unexpended balance of $617.56 from the appropriation of $94,247. The largest item of expenditures was salaries and payrolls for $83,264.05.

In the year ending June 30, 1930, the department responded to 274 alarms, which was 28 more than in the previous year. The total included 27 for fires or other calls outside the city. The two largest insurance losses were at the Turner-Stanton company fire on Broad street, $22,507.55, and the Sternlieb fire on Water street, $20,923.75. The report shows total at risk in fires, $[illegible],121,271; total insurance carried $3,489,271, total insurance paid, $62,851.56; total fire loss, insured and uninsured, $67,122.04; loss above insurance, buildings, $2,100; loss above insurance, contents, none. Figures, however, are incomplete owing to unsettled losses.

NORWICH TOWN MAY HAVE JAPANESE BEETLE

There is a possibility that this section of the state is infested with the bright bronze and green Japanese beetle, but this will not be definitely established until later. A number of the beetles, said to tally with the description given out in a published article by the Connecticut experimental station at New Haven, have been found in the Norwich Town section of the city.

The beetles found by a Norwich Town woman on plants in an overgrown area on Huntington lane are not quite as large as the description given, but are believed to be young ones. She is to send them to the experimental station at New Haven, to find out whether they are these dreaded pests or not.

At the present time a day and night patrol of the main auto roads leading out of southwestern Connecticut have been in operation of the Japanese beetle quarantine. Uniformed inspectors are stopping all motorists for inspection of plants, flowers, and other quarantined articles brought from the generally infested areas.

WATER DEPT. EMPLOYE DIES AT HIS WORK

While engaged in digging a ditch at East Great Plain for the city water department, John Donohue, 60, of No. 99 Lafayette street, was seized with a heart attack about 11:30 o'clock Monday morning. He died before a doctor could attend him. According to Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, who made an investigation Mr. Donohue's death was caused from heart disease. He had been employed for the city department for only a short time. He was the last of his immediate family. A cousin, Miss Annie O'Neil of Lafayette street, is the only survivor living in this country.

Mr. Donohue was born in County Kerry, Ireland, May 6, 1870. He was the son of Daniel Donohue and Bridget Welch.

The body was taken in charge by Corcoran & Lyons, morticians, upon permission from the medical examiner.

STOCK MARKET CRASH INCREASED POLICY LOANS

The unprecedented demand for policy loans following the severe break in the stock market last fall is reflected in the statistics contained in the annual life and casualty report of the Connecticut insurance department issued by Insurance Commissioner Howard P. Dunham, and which covers the business of 1929. The report was compiled from the annual statements of the 42 life insurance companies which operated in Connecticut in 1929, including the five Connecticut companies.

Policy loans in force in all companies increased $337,171,966.83 over the previous year. This was a gain of almost 100 per cent over the increase during the year ending December 31, 1928, when the total gain was $181,405,069.

The increases in the total policy loans of the Connecticut companies—Travelers, Aetna Life, Connecticut General, Connecticut Mutual, and Phoenix Mutual—was $36,547,664 during 1929 over the previous year. This increase was more than double the gain for the year ending December 31, 1928, when the rise amounted to $16,326,336.

The 42 life insurance companies operating in Connecticut, including the Connecticut companies, issued a total of $193,807,664 in new ordinary life insurance in this state during 1929, representing an increase over 1928 of $15,878,067.

The Connecticut life insurance companies, however, wrote less business in Connecticut in 1929 than in 1928. They issued $48,101,347 in ordinary life policies in 1929, as against a total of $51,122,784 in 1928. On the other hand, the companies of other states increased their total of new ordinary policies from $126,806,783 in 1928 to $145,706,287 in 1929. The total of ordinary life insurance in force in Connecticut by all companies at the end of 1929 was $1,206,614,111, an increase of $96,690,879 over 1928. Of this amount $334,831,819 was held by Connecticut companies.

The amount of group insurance issued in Connecticut during 1929 was $68,656,406, an increase of $2,551,755 over 1928. Of this total, $39,447,390 was issued by Connecticut companies. The total amount of group insurance in force in all companies in Connecticut rose from $176,945,369 to $200,361,294, an increase of $23,415,925 over 1928. The total of the Connecticut companies alone was $146,862,476 at the end of 1929.

Industrial insurance written in Connecticut in 1929 totaled $87,322,169, as compared with $83,095,432 for 1928, while the industrial insurance in force increased from $419,171,301 in 1928 to $451,942,244 in 1929. No Connecticut company writes this class of business.

Analysis of the investments of Connecticut life companies shows slight decreases in the percentages of bonds, stocks and mortgages to total assets. On December 31, 1929, the respective percentages of bonds and mortgages to total assets were 41.26 and 28.33. The percentage of stocks to total assets decreased slightly from 7.28 per cent as of December 31, 1928, to 7.22 per cent as of December 31, 1929. The percentage of real estate owned to total assets increased slightly from 1.84 per cent to 1.90 per cent.

The ratio of actual to expected mortality for all life companies reporting to the Connecticut department was 61.8 per cent for 1929 as compared with 59 per cent for 1928.

INVENTS CASH CARRIER PROOF AGAINST BANDITS

A bandit-proof cash carrier, a clever invention of Mrs. Louella Hayes of New York, formerly of Groton, whose parents are Mrs. Cora Fish of 13 Main street, this city, and the late Nathan Fish, is receiving nation-wide acclaim through newspapers, magazines and by those who will eventually benefit by it. The handy carrier has not been placed on the market by the inventor, as she has not received a patent on it.

It is a comparatively small metal box so fastened to the messenger carrying money and valuables that no thief can take it away from him. The messenger's hand is inserted through a small aperture at the top of the box and is fastened by a lock to his wrist. The only possible way that the thief can get the money is to knock out the carrier, carry him away with him and break open the box.

Mrs. Hayes, as well as her husband, Daniel, are students of criminology and have been engaged in detective work for many years. The former was chief detective in a large Boston store for two years. She has been working on her invention for the past year, in addition to working as a private detective.

SCORES LITCHFIELD CORONER FOR DILATORY ACTIONS

Forty-four days is a period too long to hold men waiting for a coroner's decision, which should be given in 48 hours at the least, declared Judge Edward M. Yeomans of the superior court in a habeas corpus hearing here Monday, which was brought on behalf of two Torrington men, suspected of the murder of Antonio Russo of Torrington.

The men are Teodora Adamo and Dominic Chiarello, both of Torrington, who have been held in jail on a coroner's warrant since May 24, but no finding has been announced by the coroner, Samuel A. Herman, of Litchfield county.

The habeas corpus writ was brought by Attorneys Musculo, McKnight and Coppeto, all of Waterbury, and after hearing the evidence and the claims of counsel for the two men and of State Attorney Walter Holcomb of Litchfield county who moved to have the habeas corpus motion dismissed, Judge Yeomans stated that he would make no order in the case until Wednesday, when he indicated he would grant the motion unless the Torrington authorities did something in the meantime.

The only witnesses heard were Capt. Calabrese of Torrington, Lieut. Frank Virelli and Stephen Stanton of the state police force.

The body of Russo was found in the underbrush with a bullet in his back and head on May 9. Nothing was done until May 24, when Chiarello and Adamo were taken into custody and have been held as suspects since that date "pending the outcome of the coroner's finding."

In his summary of the case Judge Yeomans said:

I think that the coroner has wholly mistaken his province. His province is not a complete investigation of the crime and everything sought apparently as these officers are trying to do; that is up to the state attorney's office. The function of the coroner is to immediately, in the presence of the body if possible, to make an examination of what has happened at the scene then and there, and any evidence that is shown at that moment, and to make an immediate report of it within ten days. The statute never contemplated his stringing his investigation over two or three months; there is no reason for that and no sense in it. He is merely to bring out the things that were there and then any further investigation must be made later by the proper prosecuting authorities.

The coroner has to report that he has made the investigation and it is then available for the prosecuting authorities and for the defense.

He has the very extraordinary power of committing a man to jail without a hearing simply for the purpose of preventing a criminal from escaping.

Perhaps the criminal is right there and the coroner holds him until process can issue and that ought not be more than 24 or 48 hours. The prosecuting authorities if informed by the coroner or anyone else, it is their duty to issue a warrant and if proper cause is found to bind the party over to the superior court. These men have been held without any charge against them apparently 44 days and to say that they can be held in that way it seems to me is outrageous and against all principles of our liberty and freedom and wholly against the intention of the law. It could not be worst under Czaristic law and such things cannot be countenanced. I will not move or issue any order in this case until the day after tomorrow because if there is any evidence in this case between now and the day after tomorrow that will be plenty of time for the authorities in Torrington to have the men arrested and brought before the court if they see fit.

TALL DIVING TANK FOR MOMSEN "LUNG" TESTS

Tests and instruction in the use of the Momsen "lung" are to be carried out at the submarine base at Groton in a tall steel tower which has been erected there, designed to be filled with water under pressure. At the base the tower is called a navy diving tank and it is now so far completed that it can be put to use very soon.

The Momsen "lung" is a submarine safety device designed to enable men to escape from a sunken submarine.

Undersea pressure conditions will be simulated in the tank, and within its confines the men of the submarine service will be able to receive instruction and perform tests under the direct supervision of officers. The tank is built of steel.

Instruction in the use of the "lung" has been given at Groton by Lieut C. B. Momsen of the navy, who worked in perfecting it. A number of men of the submarine service were schooled in the use of the lung at the swimming pool in the Y. M. C. A. at New London.

The artillery started out on a two day artillery problem with full equipment for a rendezvous near Rogers lake, Old Lyme, preparatory to taking a defensive position on the Connecticut river some time during the night.

NOLLES PERSONAL TAX COUNT AGAINST PROSPECTIVE BRIDE

Upon the recommendation of City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy the case of Miss Mary T. Gibson of 149 Franklin street, charged with failure to pay her personal taxes, was nolled in the city court Monday morning. This was granted by Judge H. H. Pettis after it was learned that the accused had paid $12 of her back taxes, in addition to $4 towards the cost of the court, since being served with a warrant.

Incidentally the court nolle came in the form of a wedding gift as Miss Gibson was united in marriage with Edward Leo Drager of New London at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the office of Justice of the Peace John H. Barnes. The bridegroom is in the United States Navy.

Miss Gibson is one of several delinquents, who are due for a court appearance shortly, because of failure to pay their personal taxes, according to Personal Tax Collector Miss Nellie Harrington.

TAMPERING CHARGE AGAINST SAILOR IS CHANGED

Aaron Byrd, 22, a sailor at the submarine base, Groton, paid a fine of $15 and costs in the city court Monday morning on a charge of intoxication, which was substituted for a tampering charge placed against him by Sergeant Myron Morgan. The officer was awakened about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning by the sailor who was in a car owned by Mrs. E. Fuller which was parked near the sergeant's home at No. 12 Rogers avenue. The sailor was discovered moving around in the machine.

In court the accused claimed that he had been out on a drinking party with a number of friends, and did not remember a thing until he awoke in the car, minus part of his clothing. He also claimed that a sum of money was missing. Byrd said that he was looking for his clothing when Sergeant Morgan appeared.

After the testimony in the case was given Judge H. H. Pettis changed the charge from tampering to intoxication.

IS FINED $200 WITH ONE-FOURTH REMITTED

Found guilty of a charge of drunken driving in the city court Monday morning William Paquette, 42, of Danielson, was fined $200, of which $50 was remitted. The accused drove his machine up onto the sidewalk and ran into the solid concrete doorpost at the front entrance of the Hanover and Curland company store at the corner of Franklin and Bath streets Saturday evening. The force of the collision caused his machine to carom back into the gutter with a damaged fender. The arrest was made by Officer Bruckner.

AL LASSMAN, NOTED ATHLETE AT N. Y. U. DROWNED IN LONG LAKE IN MAINE

HARRISON, Me., July 7—(AP)—The death of Alfred E. Lassman, 24, former New York university footbal, captain and intercollegiate champion, whose body was recovered early today from Long lake, was due to accidental drown, according to Medical Examiner Dr. Irving E. Mabry, of Bridgeton.

Lassman, whose home was at Brighton, Mass., was spending two weeks with "Izzy" Zarakov, former Harvard basebal, captain at the latter's cottage. He went out on the lake alone in a canoe Sunday afternoon. An hour and a half later, the frail craft was found floating upside down in the rough water. Dragging operations were started and 12 hours later the body was recovered.

The noted athlete's teammates, Leonard Grant, former New York university captain, and John Nemeck, who will captain the team next fall, said Lassman was an expert swimmer and boatman.

Dr. Mabry said it was possible Lassman suffered a shock brought on by an old football injury.

LASSMAN HAD AMBITION TO BE A GOOD BOXER

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Death finally has ruled that the great ambition of one of the finest and gamest young athletes college sport ever developed can never be fulfilled.

Al Lassman, drowned yesterday in Long lake in Maine, was a blazing, raging tackle on a football field, a mighty stroke in his prep school crew at Rindge Tech high in Cambridge, Mass., an exceptional baseball player and all round athlete. But greatest of all was his ability in a prize ring.

Six feet four inches tall, 225 pounds of brawn and speed, Lassman was tabbed for the battle pits long before he came to New York university in the fall of 1925 to develop into the greatest tackle, but the most unfortunate as well, in the history of powerful Violet machines. He was not a natural football player for all his great strength, courage and stamina, but he was a born fighter.

They dubbed him "T. N. T." for the way he crashed a line apart, but the nickname fitted him better in the ring. While in prep school and only 17 years old, he sneaked away one night from Cushing academy on the excuse that his mother was ill and fought in the National Amateur championships in Boston. He was the sensation of the tournament, though he lost out in a late round to a far more experienced opponent. He had a terrible time explaining to the principal of his school how he acquired a black eye visiting his sick mother.

In intercollegiate competition, he was still a greater sensation. He won the intercollegiate title in his sophomore year and rarely did a rival last to hear the bell for the end of the first round. He had a natural short left hook of tremendous power, something like the famous punch of Jim Jeffries, was amazingly fast for such a big man, an instinctive boxer and fighter. Every big league manager in the business camped on his trail and he was offered as high as $10,000 to sign a contract and quit school.

Then the first of a series of accidents that finally left him a semi-cripple overtook Lassman in 1927, his junior year at N. Y. U. He fractured an ankle and the break healed slowly. He was told to choose between boxing and football for fear of another injury. He was elected captain of his team and chose football.

Late in the second half of the next to the last gridiron battle of his college career against Carnegie Tech, Lassman suffered a second injury that all but caused his death. Undoubtedly it contributed to his end in Long lake, where he had gone for a paddle in a canoe while visiting friends at Camp Zakello where he had been a counsellor.

For months he lay unconscious in Pittsburgh and New York hospitals suffering from a fractured skull and blood clots that formed at the base of his brain, paralyzed his left side, and left him subject to temporary spells of coma. In just such a spell as this he may have tumbled from his canoe during a lightning storm and drowned.

A drastic operation was performed in 1929 to relieve the pressure and clots on his brain but it was not entirely successful. He waited in the darkness of his hospital room for the full use of his left side to return and the buzzing to go out of his head.

One day he struggled into the corridor from his room and tested the left hook on a phantom opponent. The doctors shook their heads. He laughed at them.

"Maybe I'm not rugged any more," he said with a twisted grin, "but I'm still no cream-puff. I'll fool you all. You'll be buying ringside seats yet to see me fight".

But they never did.

The night before his last football game he sat across the table and talked of his ambitions.

"My folks haven't much money," he said, and it's been hard to give me an education. There's a red checkered table cloth in the kitchen and some day after my first big fight, I'm going to pack a bag with dollar bills, walk in on them, and dump it on that cloth. They never saw that much money before. That's why I want to fight".

He never did.

PAR AT INTERLACHEN RESISTS EFFORTS OF GOLFERS

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7—(AP)—Interlachen resisted efforts to break par today as a majority of the golfers who Thursday will begin play in the National Open swept over its green slopes under a burning sun.

Most of the entries, however, were making no serious bid for low scores, concentrating instead on a study of its contours. Its narrow fairways proved a serious bugaboo for many of the long drivers, who found the rough frequently. The greens, which have baked unusually lively and hard from the intense heat of the past week, furnished even a more noticeable difficulty during the practice rounds.

Bobby Jones, defending champion, who made his debut at Interlachen yesterday with two rounds at par 72, turned up for play this afternoon with his neck bandaged—a victim of the Sabbath day sun.

Although he has played out of doors steadily for months, his heavy tan proved an insufficient defense for the scorching rays. Several other players also suffered less serious results. Jones played around easily this afternoon and said he expected he would be over the effects before Thursday.

Cyril Tolley, the powerful British amateur who has found many of Interlachen's holes suited to his long driving game, was credited with a 74 today, the best full score reported for the morning and early afternoon.

George Sargeant, Columbus, Ohio, open champion in 1909, returned today to Interlachen, where he was once pro, and started preparations at once to get in shape for the meet. Another former champion, Willie MacFarlane, winner in 1925, also played his first round over the tournament course.

Other former champions on the course, none of whom paid any attention to scores for the round, picking up and re-shooting frequently, were Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour and Johnny Farrell. Chick Evans, who won the 1916 Open in Minneapolis, is expected to make a practice round tomorrow.

Leo Diegel and Horton Smith, leading professional entries, Jones and Dudley, Wilmington pro composed a foursome for a round late today in which only a hap-hazard score was kept but which produced many sensational shots. The 11th hole, which old club members have agreed to be the hardest on the course, 484 yards, par 5, gave Jones a birdie for the third time. He scored fours there in both his rounds yesterday and likewise both yesterday and today he followed with birdies on the 12th, the longest hole on the course, 530 yards, par 5.

GIANTS TAKE SLUGGING ORGY FROM PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, July 7—(AP)—A slugging orgy during which eight pitchers were pounded for 38 hits resulted in a 13 to 12 triumph for the New York Giants over the Philadelphia Nationals today.

The Phillies outhit the Giants 22 to 16 but the New Yorkers made their blows count and also took advantage of Philadelphia's four errors. Five pitchers saw service on the mound for the Giants. The Phillies sent three out to stop the visiting sluggers.

Chuck Klein went into a tie with Hack Wilson for the league home run leadership, cracking out his twenty-fourth of the season. Frank O'Doul also hit for four bases. The score:

HERMAN BREAKS UP TIGHT PICHING DUEL

BROOKLYN, July 7—(AP)—Babe Herman's big bat led the Brooklyn Robins to a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves today as Ray Moss and Bob Smith hooked up in an old fashioned pitching duel.

Herman's twentieth home run in the sixth inning scored what proved to be the winning run while his double in the fourth was converted into a run, when Wright singled.

Moss let the Braves down with six hits and held them scoreless for seven innings. The Robins touched Smith for seven safeties, three of which were made by Herman. The score:

CUBS DROP THIRD GAME TO THE LOWLY REDS

CINCINNATI, July 7—(AP)—The Champion Cubs today dropped their third consecutive game to the floundering Reds by the score of 4 to 2 and now occupy second place one full game behind Brooklyn, the pace-setters, who defeated Boston. The Chicago defeat broke an actual but not mathematical tie for first place with the Robins as the latter, previous to today's game, occupied first place by a few percentage points but held no advantage in games won and lost.

Pat Malone limited the Reds to a single hit in the first five innings but weakened in the sixth and seventh when he was touched for three triples and a single. He also let loose a wild pitch and the result was four runs. The score:

BROWNS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE BEATING INDIANS

CLEVELAND, July 7—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns took the Indians over the coals without much effort in the second game of the series here today, six to one.

They lambasted the offerings of Pete Jabionowski and Belvidere Bean, both right handers, to a frazzle from the start to finish. It was all George Blaeholder and the issue was never in doubt.

ROYALS AND SMOKE SHOP PLAY TO A TWO-TO-TWO DEADLOCK IN LEAGUE GAME

Another thriller, ending in a deadlock, was the brand of baseball furnished by the Royals and Smoke Shop teams at the campus last evening. With the score tied at the end of the seventh inning, necessitating an extra inning, the Royals added two runs in their half, taking the lead, but after the Smoke Shop had filled the bases with but one out in the last half of the eighth, Hank Morin decided that it was too dark to continue, thus calling the game, with the score reverting back to the previous inning.

With the Royals leading 1 to 0 till the fifth inning, Gibbs, first man up for the Smoke Shop in this inning, drew a base on balls, going to second on a sacrifice. Fagan then drove a long two base hit to right field, Gibbs tallying. Fagan went to theird on a passed ball and later scored on a beautiful squeeze play, putting the Smoke Shop into the lead. The Royals evened the count in their half of the sixth, on Hamil's single and Cumming's two bagger.

Both pitchers worked effectively, being accorded excellent support by their teammates.

It was announced that the police commissioners, in cooperating with the Recreation commission, had appointed Luke Riley as a special officer by being placed on duty at the campus during the remainder of the twilight league season.

Tonight's Game

Bill Hastedt's Thermos Bottlers hook up with the Ideals in the City league contest at the campus tonight. It will be the final game of the first lap for both clubs, the Bottlers having won three and lost one while the Servicemen have triumphed but once in four starts.

The Bernard combine, however, hit its winning stride last Wednesday night, winning one of the most sensational twilight games ever played in the city from the Smoke Shop. The present tailenders carried the 1929 champs into nine hectic innings and finally won out, 4 to 3.

The starting pitchers tonight will in all probability be Nickerson for the Bottlers and Shahan for the Ideals. Eccleston will hold up Nickerson and Jimmy Murphy will do the Bernard backstopping.

DUWELLS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE BEATING Y. M. C. A.

The Duwells won over the Y. M. C. A. in Monday night's Junior league game 7 to 1.

The East Siders presented a very strong lineup and in Stephanik seem to have a first class twirler. The "Y" collected but three scattered hits in seven innings, while seven of them fanned. Russillo was on the mound for the "Y" for five innings and although not hit hard, was very liberal with his passes which had a lot to do with the scoring. Seneski worked the last two innings and was touched for two hits and three runs.

The Duwells best inning was the first, when they scored three times on three walks and a single by Kos. There was no further scoring until the fourth, when the "Y" pushed a run across on a single by Tudeso, a sacrifice, and an error by Kos. In the fifth, the Duwells added another counter, while in the following frame, they tallied twice without making a hit. In the seventh, double sby Chicken and Pora accounted for another run.

Pora and Stephanik each made two hits out of four attempts, while Chicken garnered a double out of one official turn at bat.

Tonight's Game

Tonight's game in the Junior league will be between the Elks and the P. N. A. C. Although the Elks are favorites to win, due to the Polish club's one-sided defeat at the hands of the strong Rotary nine last week it is expected that the P. N. A. C. will show to better advantage in tonight's contest and give the Elks a good fight for the game. The probable batteries are LaaVrge and Dugas for the Elks and Petroski and Koslowski for the P. N. A. C. The game will be called at 6:30 p. m.

As a result of the meeting of the executive board of the Junior league last night, it was decided to throw out last week's game between the Elks and the I. Y. M. C. due to a protest being made over the game by the Italian club. The protest was entered following a questionable decision by Umpire Matthews in last Thursday's game and as it seemed to be a matter of misinterpretation of the rules, the Elks readily offered to play the game over as long as there was any question as to its being a merited victory. The game as it was played was won by the Elks 4 to 3.

HIGHEST SCIENCE 'LAB' BUILT ON MT. ROSA, ITALY

MONTE ROSA, Italy —(AP)— The highest scientific institute in the world is situated on Mt. Rosa, and belongs to Italy.

On the Gnifetti point of the mountain, 4,559 meters high, rises the Regina Margherita observatory, named after the mother of the present King of Italy, Victor Emanuel.

The difficulties in building were enormous. Materials were carried on the backs of mules to a certain level. Then men carried the material on their backs for six hours over ice and rock.

A building of four rooms and one of the most magnificent terraces in the world results.

The institute serves for both meteorological and physiological observations.

ALLISON-VAN RYN WIN DOUBLES TITLE

(By Frank H. King, Associated Press Staff Writer)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 7—(AP)—The thriving young tennis partnership of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., reaped additional laurels today, defeating George Lott of Chicago and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, to retain the Wimbledon doubles championship.

By their unexpectedly one-sided victory, Allison and Van Ryn once more proclaimed themselves the foremost doubles combination in the world, added the final touches to an unprecedented American sweep of British titles and brought to a close a tournament which is jocularly referred to here as Wimbledon's "American Championships".

Despite the strongest sort of competition assembled from all over the world, the well-balanced delegation from the United States made tennis history as four of the five events wound up in All-American finals.

Bill Tilden beat Wilmer Allison and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan for the singles crowns.

In women's doubles Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan overcame their young compatriots, Miss Sarah Palfrey and Miss Edith Cross, in the title match; and today Van Ryn and Allison easily mastered their fellow Americans who had scored handily over the French Davis Cup combination of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon last week.

Only in mixed doubles did the Americans fall of complete victory, this championship having gone to Jack Crawford of Australia and Miss Ryan, the remarkable veteran who has lived for many years in London but is still claimed by the United States.

Linesmen, policemen, ballboys and the girls who make tea put in an extra day at Wimbledon as a result of postponement of the men's doubles final until this afternoon, but the center court stands were less than half full.

Season ticket holders who stayed away missed little as compared to the great matches of the last two weeks. Allison and Van Ryn looked like winners from the start. In the second game of the first set they captured Doeg's service and took the next game to lead, 3-0. This initial advantage was enough to enable them to carry the set.

There was a great deal of promiscuous smashing by all four youths and also much hitting out at all the lines. Doeg scored a few swift service aces but was not to be depended on with any other shot and even Lott was not up to his usual standard.

Lott and Doeg led for a moment at 2-1 in the second set but a few flashes of brilliance from Allison, with Van Ryn steady at his side, quickly carried the champions ahead at 4-3 and they took two more games for the set.

Games went to 2-all in the third set but Allison and Van Ryn were well on their way to victory. In the last game Doeg dropped his service for the second time in the set and the third in the match as Van Ryn and Allison increased their pace with success in sight.

POETRY

THE FIRST

By the old pond's waveless rim,
Steaming, slimy, rank with weeds,
Where the snail floats, slow and dim,
And the dull clam sleeps and feeds,
What is this that near my hand
Ventures forth upon the land?

Comes the newt from that soft bed
On his belly. But the sands
See him rear inquiring head,
Vaguely move his slender hands—
Hunting, questioning the shore
Like a babe upon the floor.

Now I fly a billion years
Backward in the reach of time
When the best and highest rears
Hopefully from out the slime;
Pond and newt are all the same,
Though an eye now views their game.

Soft! How lurks he and looks wise,
Creeping, sliding, slimy thing!
What a shrewdness in his eyes
At this dry-land conquering!
Lo! He wills it, and he can!
Greeting, first and greatest man!

HAWKS

And as we walked the grass was faintly stirred;
We did not speak—there was no need to speak.
Above our heads there flew a little bird,
A silent one who feared that we might seek.
Her hard-hid nest.

Poor little frightened one!
If we had found your nest that sunny day
We would have passed it by; we would have gone
And never looked or frightened you away.

O, little bird! There's many a nest,
A hard-found, open place, with many a foe;
And hunger and despair and little rest,
And more to fear than you can know,
Shield the nests where'er they be,
On the ground or on the tree;
Guard the poor from treachery.
—James Stephens.

Cremation is growing ever more the custom in Berlin. Last year, for the first time, the number of cremations exceeded the number of burials. According to statistics just published and covering the period from July 1, 1928, to June 30, 1929, there were 14,212 burials in the cemeteries of the city as compared with 15,043 cremations in the various municipal crematoriums. GAMBLING MACHINES REMOVED BY COUNCIL

Without Councilmen George E. Broughton and Isaac G. Smith present; President Horace E. Burdick called the July council to order.

Attorney M. Walter Flynn appeared in behalf of Alexander Romanelli, 28, who had been ordered by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown to be present at the council meeting to show why his victualizing license at Misquamicut should not be revoked. Romanelli had kept his restaurant at Misquamicut open after 1 a. m. and operated gambling machines there which threw out tokens and two boys had been found who had used the game to make purchases there. Romanelli was directed to remove the machines complained of and to watch his step in the future.

The matter of the nuisance caused by caddy boys soliciting passage to golf links was presented with representation that if the practice both near Avandale and on Elm street should continue, someone would be struck by automobiles. The matter was passed on to the police committee of the town council.

Richard Joseph Rooney, dean of Westerly barbers was again before the council to know why the vote of the council to place the town under the state barber law requirements had not been rescinded when a petition of 25 local barbers had requested such action. Mr. Rooney refused to address any remarks to Solicitor Ferguson, saying that Mr. Ferguson had failed him in a previous matter and that his business was with the council. When President Burdick declared that he saw no chance of the council repealing their vote, Mr. Rooney threatened "to take the matter up in the north part of the town in some other way" and asked how many signatures would be required to ask for a special town meeting.

The matter of a public hearing on the request of John H. Austin of Pawcatuck for the extension of a business area on the south side of the Noose Neck Hill state highway was declared closed. The decision, on the proposition which had the sanction of the Westerly Zoning Board, was continued to the adjourned meeting next Monday evening.

The council voted the adoption of some amendments to the laws in which building lines were established on one section of Pleasant street 25 feet from Center street line and at the other end 30 feet from center line; 25 feet on Pierce street and 30 feet on the westerly side of Beach and Main street sections.

The June report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown showed eight arrests as follows: One each for operation of automobile at rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper, breaking and entering, assault, revelling, passing red traffic light and three cases of fugitives from justice. Three doors were found unsecured and locked and 100 dogs were reported as having been vaccinated by Veterinarian Dr. Thomas E. Robinson.

President Burdick remarked upon the vote of approval of Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster's June report, of only one contageous disease, that of German measles, "that Westerly must be a good healthy town."

Approval was voted of the report for June of Building Inspector Thomas Wills, showing a total of 34 permits asked for and granted as follows: Eleven for frame, 1 brick or stone, 22 alterations, and 60 inspections made with an expense of $41.40 and receipts in fees collected which amounted to $80 and which Town Clerk Whipple reported as paid into the town treasury. Ex-Manager Champlin's Close Call.

J. Frank Champlin manager for many years of the Ocean House, Watch Hill, and now residing on Greenman avenue, Westerly, had a very narrow escape from being struck by a locomotive of a New Haven eastbound express as he stood at the edge of the platform at Westerly station Sunday afternoon. The west-bound Shoreliner due at the station at the 4.38 daylight time was pulling into the station when Mr. Champlin was endeavoring to attract the attention of a man on the west bound platform and was entirely unconscious of the incoming eastbound Puritan express due at 5:29 daylight time and bearing down upon him. A number of horrified by-standers and even taxi men turned to avoid seeing what appeared to be an almost certain fatality. Railroad Police Officer Martin Kane, of New London, on duty for several days at the Westerly station quickly sized up the situation and his strong arms closed around Mr. Champlin to hold him fast out of harm's way, unwilling to take the chance of shouting a warning cry which would cause him to jump to a more dangerous position. In the noise of the grinding brakes of the stopping train, Mr. Champlin realised how close his call had been.

NEW SUNDAY LAWS SEEM QUITE LIBERAL ENOUGH

The town council on Monday discussed the Sunday licensing ordinances as prepared by Solicitor John Ferguson under the new state laws becoming operative July 1 and which to become effective have to be adopted on the option of town councils. The law allows the town council to fix a license fee not exceeding $50 and the license will be good until the Thursday next following the first Wednesday in April next, after granting of the license.

The articles mentioned, which may be sold on Sunday under the law and for which licenses must be taken out with the town clerk, are milk, bread, and other bakery products, fruit, ice, ice cream, confectionery, soda water, mineral waters, non-alcoholic tonics and drinks, tobacco in any form, smokers' supplies, newspapers and periodicals, gasoline, oil, grease, tubes, tires, automotive parts, automotive service, tools and accessories, business of polishing shoes and cleaning hats, business of renting bathing suits or bath houses, automobile parking space and the operation of public golf courses.

Licenses for selling milk, ice and newspapers will imply permission to deliver by cart or other vehicle, but the vehicle will have to be posted.

Solicitor Ferguson had prepared and presented a list of Westerly merchants who have conducted Sunday business. Upon inquiry the solicitor stated that with Sabbatarians in the profession of their faith as granted under the general laws of Rhode Island would not need such licenses for Sunday sales, but their places of business should remain closed on Saturdays. He did not state whether special licenses would be required for their conduct of Saturday business, if they so desired.

Driver Dazed At Wheel.

Monday about 5 a. m. a Hupmobile sedan crashed off the Nooseneck Hill road into a tree when the driver, Leon Sinclair of Bar Harbor, Me., fell asleep at the wheel. When leaving New London Mr. Sinclair picked up two U. S. Marines, one named Melton and the other O'Hara, initials and addresses unknown to the auto driver who sustained a fracture of the jaw. The marines were very badly injured, unconscious and placed on the danger list at the Westerly hospital where they were taken after being given treatment by Dr. Hartford Gongaware, of Hope Valley. State police from Hope Valley barracks investigated the accident.

Agree On Settlement.

In the center of Dixon square the Dodge coupe driven by Eugene Raboin, 93 Chapin street, Holyoke, Mass. and the Nash sedan, owned and driven by Westerly Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster, M. D., came together about 10:50 a. m. Monday. Dr. Webster was driving along Broad street toward the Pawcatuck river bridge over which Raboin had come and had turned to go up High street. The latter had slowed down his car to read the direction signs when the cars came together with a bang. The Massachusetts man was accompanied by his daughter but Dr. Webster was alone. No one was injured. Officer Paul McCarthy investigated the accident. After a half hour's argument between the drivers an agreement was reached relative to damages sustained and no court summons was issued.

One of the severest electrical storms to visit Westerly business center, for the beaches reported no excessive electrical demonstration, began shortly after 9 p. m. Sunday. There was much timely warning of its approach which was a leisurely one under cover of the thick fog. Through expresses on the New Haven road, west bound, in the early evening were on time and then a section of the train was a half hour late and its passengers reported as passing through a thunderstorm with rainfall nearly a cloudburst. Newspaper predictions of a thunderstorm are generally agreed to have been verified. With the almost incessant flash of lightning the electric lights for both house and street illumination rose and in brilliancy and at periods were entirely out while rain descended in torrents. A chimney of the house of Carl Manfredi, Hobart street extension had a large hole knocked in the brickwork, and many of the brick thrown to the ground. Lightning came in on many telephone and light services and twice the Westerly fire whistle was sounded by grounding circuits.

N. Y. Mother Finds A Real Weight Builder at Last

If you are tired of being bony, scrawny and weak, read how Mrs. Henry A. Thaler of Richmond Hill, N. Y., and her daughter gained weight and improved their figures:

"The writer of this letter and my daughter, Viola, have been using McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets for seven weeks, and in that time I have gained 4 pounds and am more full of 'pep' than ever. Viola has gained 3 pounds and she is beginning to get wonderful color in her face."

The reason is that McCoy's are genuine cod liver oil extract tablets. That is the same as saying that like the Norwegian cod liver oil from which they are made, McCoy's are hundreds of times richer in flesh and strength producing vitamins than even milk, eggs, butter or cream.

So take advantage of Lee & Osgod's offer of the safe, pleasant, easy, inexpensive way to gain the weight and energy you need. McCoy's must give any man, woman or child the increased weight desired or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's—60 tablets 60 cents.

DOZEN ISSUES TOUCHED NEW 1930 LOWS IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Stocks joined commodities in another downward movement today, submitting rather meekly to selling supplied by the bear faction and by holders of the long positions who saw little hope of a real upward turn during the dull summer months. A dozen active issues made new 1930 lows, while the average decline for 90 representative shares was slightly more than 3 points.

Prices worked steadily lower until toward the close when the familiar flurry of covering lifted prices a shade above the day's lows.

The grains and cotton were weak. Chairman Legge's statement on wheat last week, in which he emphasized the importance of an adjustment in acreage, was followed by breaks of considerably more than two cents a bushel, with closing prices not far above the day's lows. Heavy interior receipts and a large increase in the visible supply were factors in the decline. Corn averaged about a cent and a half lower. Cotton closed off 17 to 31 points, reflecting bearish interpretations of private acreage and crop reports, coffee dropped rather sharply and sugar again eased.

Disappointing returns on June business, reported by several large chain store systems, combined with the weakness of the basic staples to affect speculative sentiment in the share market. A substantial volume of selling orders had accumulated over the holiday and their execution at the opening not only forced the leading stocks lower, but proved to be the cue for the session. When the initial selling had been exhausted, however, the trading turned dull, with the result that sales for the day totaled less than 1,500,000 shares.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Curb stocks proved vulnerable to the bear selling that dominated a dull trading session today. Market leaders, particularly in the utility group, yielded readily, although the decline was partially checked by the comparative dearth of offerings and by minor short covering.

After selling orders at the opening were executed, the market moved slowly. Total sales were only 426,800 shares.

Electric Bond and Share ended the day with the largest loss among utility leaders, closing at 74, off 3 5-8 from Thursday. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, declined 2 points, being adversely affected by reports of a new bond issue. American Super Power, American Light and Traction, Associated Gas and Electric A lost about a point and fractional losses were registered by United Gas, and United Light and Power A.

Cities Service was hammered down about a point, breaking 26. Missouri Kansas Pipe Line lost 1 1-4, Cosden declined 1 1-2. Standard Oil of Ohio advanced 2 points in light trading and other standards were steady.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Listed bonds displayed a firm tone for a time today, but trends soon became irregular, as call money unexpectedly rose from 2 to 2 1-2, then to 3 per cent. The market was a little more active than it has been during recent sessions, with sales aggregating $9,750,000 par value. The price average for 10 utilities rose 1-10 of a point to 100 flat, a new high, and the 10 industrials moved a shade higher, but the rails failed to make progress.

The upturn in call money appeared to be temporary, reflecting withdrawals of funds placed in the market for employment over the triple holiday, and delayed return of mid-year interest and dividend checks to the banks.

Despite the fact that continued plentitude of credit seems assured, various factors still operate against sustained rise in listed bonds. New issues are steadily making their appearance. The treasury will offer $50,000,000 in bills July 14. The city of Philadelphia awarded $15,000,000 in 4 and 4 1-4s today to Lehman Brothers and Chase Securities corporation at par. It was announced that $12,000,000 Commonwealth Edison 1st, mortgage 4 1-2s, will be offered shortly. Several other municipal and utilities issues are planned.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Thousands of carloads of wheat arriving from the harvest fields and piling up the visible supply sent wheat values downward today. Receipts of wheat at ten points in the southwest today totaled in excess of 5,000 cars, and the domestic stock of wheat in sight piled up a 2,473,000 bushel increase for the week, with virtually no wheat taken by exporters during the last three days. Wheat prices reached fresh low price records, and also oats.

The wheat market closed nervous at but little over the day's bottom figures, 2 1-4 at 2 7-8c a bushel lower than Thursday's finish. Corn closed 7-8 at 1 5-8c down, oats 7-8 at 1 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 15c.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by the action of grain.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Charlie Murray, "policeman of the films," and George Sidney are featured together in "Around the Corner," another of their delightful comedies which presents the struggles and attainments of two very different races which have been united because of their many characteristics, and on the same bill which opens at the Palace theatre tomorrow where it will be shown through Tuesday, "Bride of the Regiment" with Vivienne Segal and Allan Prior, has been scheduled.

Walter Pidgeon and Myrna Loy in one of the love scenes of "Bride of the Regiment."

"Around the Corner" is all about Officer O'Grady, an Irish cop and Kaplan, a Jewish pawnbroker, who through an act of fate are given the care of a young girl. There is much speculation as to what the child's name shall be and at last they hit upon a scheme and she is known as Rosie O'Grady. Rosie blooms into a very beautiful young lady and both O'Grady and Kaplan pick a husband for her. Of course it is to be expected that O'Grady will pick one of his own kind and he does. He selects Terry Callahan, a rising young pugilist as Rosie's future husband. This does not suit Kaplan, who picks out Moe Levine for her. The climax is surprising and delightful and only the team of Murray and Sidney could put such a production across.

Daring from start to finish is "Bride of the Regiment" and beautiful Vivienne Segal is seductive and alluring in her role. This is a musical production and the story centers around the bride of a few hours. An excellent cast has been chosen to support the leads and among the stars is Louise Fazenda, always popular.

"On the Level," the story of racketeers and riveters with Victor McLaglen, William Harrigan and Lilyan Tashman, will be shown at the Palace for the last times today. McLaglen, who has a vast number of male and female admirers is as pleasing as ever and portrays his part with his usual charm.

GALES FERRY

In the absence of Rev. Harold H. Critchlow, the Sunday morning service at the Community Methodist Episcopal church was conducted by Miss Florence Stevens, a deaconess from the Fall River, Mass., Home. The theme of her address was Preaching Through Service and Interest in Humanity. The church quartet sang at the offertory The Cross is in the Field.

At the church school session the junior department met with the senior school and sang a song of welcome at the opening service program. Miss Stevens told a story to the children and sang a hymn, I Was a Wandering Sheep.

The Epworth league evening service was in charge of Dudley C. Perkins, the topic being Why Do We Have Sunday?

It was announced on the church calendars that the pastor would be in charge of the Sunday services July 13 and 27 and Rev. Myron E. Genter July 20. An afternoon meeting of the Ladies' Aid society will be held Thursday at the vestry.

The Sunday school picnic, announced for Wednesday at Bluff Point, Groton, has been changed to Thursday on account of the New London County Kitchen Tour arranged under the auspices of the County Farm bureau home economics department. Arrangements for the picnic are in charge of Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, superintendent of the junior department.

Monday evening, July 14, all interested in the annual Community picnic and Old Home day are to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker to consider arrangements.

Mrs. Randolph Mathewson, of Chicopee, Mass., has been a guest for the past week of her sister-in-law, Miss Susan Mathewson.

Mrs. Mary Presby and Miss Ella Killips, of Norwich, were guests for the Fourth of Mr. and Mrs. J. Otis Winchester, at their summer cottage in the village.

Donald Irwin and E. L. Meanley, of New York, were entertained over the holiday and week-end at the home of Mrs. L. R. Aplin.

ONLY THREE BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED DURING FIRST WEEK OF JULY

Only three building permits were granted during the first week in July by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft and these were for smaller jobs such as alterations and a two-car garage. Considerable work was accomplished on building projects in Norwich and vicinity during the week, despite the fact that there was a holiday in the week.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Taft were as follows:

To the Brothers of Joseph, Inc., to alter their building on West Main street. The roof of the building is to be raised and a new front put in. The front will be of stucco finish. There will be a porch on the building with brick stairs leading up to it. The estimated cost is $6,500.

To P. F. Sweeney, contractor, to add to and alter the present frame dwelling owned by Benjamin Lahn at 26 Warren street. The addition will be 12x16 feet and will give another room to the house. The interior of the building will be remodeled and refinished. Several partitions will be removed and changed and new hardwood floors put in. The estimated cost is $2,800.

To Joe DePolo to erect a frame two-car garage on Chestnut street. The garage will be 18x16 feet with stone foundation and walls. The estimated cost is $75.

Work at the Norton Memorial gymnasium at the Norwich Free Academy is well along, the exterior work having been practically completed by William S. Spencer, who has the contract. The work of pointing the stone work and washing down the building is being done; after which the staging will be removed. The roof is all on and the interior work is in full swing. In the gymnasium the glazed brick walls have been finished and the work of plastering will start next week. The steel sash has been set in place and the window lights will be set very shortly.

In Montville, Contractor P. F. Sweeney is erecting a new brick building for Pappas Brothers. The work is well along, the brick walls having been erected and the roof put on. The interior work is being done at the present time.

Contractor Sweeney has brought the new house for Harry Diachyshyn at the corner of Broadway and Elmwood avenue well along during the past week. The house is closed in and the interior work is being done along with the work of erecting the brick porch and steps.

Homer J. Monty has completed one house on Colt street and has another boarded in. The houses are of the six room and bath type and are to be finished in hardwood and hard-finish plaster.

Other work in the city has also progressed well during the past week.

BUILDING IN PUTNAM SHOWS MORE ACTIVITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 8 — The present month promises much in the way of building. The slow pace at which construction has been treading since early spring is being quickened in this respect and will perhaps soar to its greatest height during July.

The month will see the completion of two of Putnam's most noteworthy enterprises—The modern banking house of the Cargill Trust company and the one million gallon standpipe of the municipal water company. July will also see the beginning of the sidewalk and street improvement campaign and the reconstruction of the city water piping system. Both projects have been elaborately planned for and are expected to be underway before the end of the month.

Plans for the erection of new buildings for home, commercial and faternal purposes have been formulated and within a week the first stages of their execution by local contractors will be under way.

Lower Main street, beginning at a point near the intersection of May street, will enjoy much of the benefit to be derived from the building programme to be carried out this month. On the sandlot corner at Main and May streets, for many years an eyesore, a modern two story garage is under construction. When completed it will be occupied by the Place Motor company, now located on Bridge street. The foundation has already been laid and early appearances bleaned from the shaping of the ground floor, are that the structure will be one of the city's finest commercial buildings when complete. It is being built of brick and steel. The interior is to be of fire resisting material and a facade on the Main street front will be of terra cotta brick. The exterior portions of the building will embody a modernistic architectural design throughout. The decorations within, plumbing and wiring, will be in accord with present day creations. The first floor will house the office and show rooms, while an up to date paint shop and repair quarters will complete the general layout of the second story, according to present plans.

The Polish American club is preparing the cellar walls for a modern one and a half story building which will serve as a faternal home. The building will take its place on the lot adjoining the property of the Putnam Aerie of Eagles, whose lodge house is on the site on Providence street.

Fred Authier is the owner of a beautiful two-story frame dwelling on Church street. The building, which is a modern home of bungalow design is receiving its finishing touches and will be ready for occupancy within a few weeks.

Also among the houses nearing completion in the various residential districts is the bungalow on Mechanics street being erected by the Wheaton and Building and Lumber company, owners of the property.

The superintendent in charge of the work at the Cargill Trust company's building on Main street said yesterday that with conditions favorable, the building which has been under construction for a year and three months will receive its final vamping this month. He was unable to set a definite date for the driving of the last nail, but executives of the bank are hopeful that their new home will be ready for occupancy before August 1st, and are presently making plans for a formal opening. Exterior work on the building has been finished for several weeks.

WESTERLY

For the last week in June, Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building and zoning permits:

June 21. Benjamin H. Peabody, Jr. Erect bungalow, 28 feet by 18 feet on Lawton avenue, Misquamicut.

June 28. Mrs Mary C. Joslin. Erect garage, 10 feet by 18 feet, off Watch Hill road.

June 23. Mrs Elisabeth McCarthy, 33 Chester avenue. Build addition, 10 feet by 16 feet to present garage on Chester avenue.

June 23. George W. Emlen, Haversham. Build one-story addition, 16 feet by 18 feet to living room in house at Haversham.

June 25. Arthur E. Frazer, Babcock road. Move two buildings from Thompson's Corners to lot on Babcock road, and build cellar, 30 feet by 18 feet, under two-story building and use other building for garage, 15 feet by 14 feet.

June 25. Mrs. Henry M. Morris, Weekapaug. Erect summer camp, 8 feet by 12 feet.

June 25. Raymond Barber, Shore road. Build two-car garage, 20 feet by 30 feet, on Shore road.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were nine sales of real estate, two more than during the same week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $22,355 and $21,800.

In New London there were two sales of real estate during the past week, a decrease of eight sales from the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $19,830 and $92,551.

NEW LONDON

An increase of $245,092 in the value represented in building permits issued is shown in the reports of Building Inspector Gunn for the six months ending June 30, as compared with the first six months of last year.

The reports show that the outlay represented in building permits issued for the first six months of this year amounts to $926,297, as compared with $681,205 for the same period in 1929.

The gain is in the increased number of non-residential buildings for which permits were issued the first half of 1930, the reports showing that there has been only 145 building permits isued for the first half of the year, as compared with 207 for the same time last year. The value increase is largely due to the beginning of work this year on the Allyn Gallery of Art, additions to the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals, and the addition to the Savings Bank of New London.

A decided slump is found in the number of new houses started the first half of 1930, there being 25 permits for this type of building issued thus far this year as compared with 50 for the first six months of 1929.

A house being built for M. F. Dwyer in Rogers street has been inclosed. The structure is of frame construction, 24 by 40 feet. According to private plans the house will have five rooms and bath on each floor and will be arranged for two family occupancy.

A one family house being built for George Sadinsky in Rosemary street has been framed in. The house is of frame construction with a stone foundation. A garage is provided under the west side, where advantage is taken of the downgrade of the hill to afford a straight driveway into the west end of the basement. Work is being done by the day from private plans.

Building Permits

E. C. Cruise, dwelling, Ledyard street, $9,300.

A Sacknus, garage, 38 Pacific street, $300.

Wm. Ganey, frame addition, 96 Williams street, $250.

Number of permits for the week, 3; estimated cost of buildings, $9,850.

PORCELAIN LIGHT FIXTURES OFFERED

Long life and permanent beauty are two qualities claimed for porcelain lighting fixtures. The fine china porcelain from which these fixtures are made is said to be proof against chipping, staining, tarnishing and peeling; lustre and colors are "fixed" and cannot fade.

Beside ceiling units and wall brackets, this line of lighting fixtures includes closets units, graceful in design and operated by means of a cord pendant from the switching mechanism; door switches may be used to operate these lights. Wall brackets for the bedroom may be had with an inconspicuous convenience outlet permitting the use of curling iron, violet ray attachment or vibrator.

SOFT WATER BY NEW INVENTION

An automatic water softener, operating electricity through a brine tank, a recent development, is distinctly encouraging in the age old battle of the housewife against the ravages of hard water on skin and textile. The "ring around the bathtub" famed by humorists, the discoloration of linens and the coarsening of silks and woolens, the clogging of drain pipes and the chafing of delicate skins, all are included in the objective of the anti-hard water campaign.

An automatic infiltration of salt from a brine tank has been found effective in one method of attack, an electric signal giving notice of the need for additional salt in the tank, which takes the place of the old-fashioned rain-water cistern now in many homes.

A single unit installation, with but three pipe connections necessary to hook it up to the established water system, has been worked out, bringing soft water into the home along with automatic refrigeration, automatic heat regulation and similar improvements of home equipment.

CARE NECESSARY IN USE OF MODERNISM

Whether or not the modern movement in interior decoration will dominate other styles to any great extent in the future, or will prove to be merely transitory in its effect, it is nevertheless a form of artistic expression which is making itself felt with gradually increasing persistence as the understanding of its principles becomes more widespread.

It is interesting because it is new, but the home builder who is attracted by its originality will do well to devote a certain amount of time to studying its underlying ideas in order to be able to distinguish what is really beautiful from that which is merely eccentric or "different."

FIRE PROTECTION

With fire extinguishers of proper type strategically placed about the home a fire can easily be smothered almost immediately. By this inexpensive means rare books and other objects which can never be duplicated or replaced are given needed protection.

ELECTRICAL DEVICE AID TO HOUSEWIFE

There is no more reason why modern-minded women should chop and beat and mix by hand than there is for scrubbing clothes on a washboard or cleaning rugs with a broom. Every irksome task connected with food preparation may be performed by a single device run by electricity. With equal ease this device will whip potatoes to creamy fluffiness or beat the white of a single egg.

It is difficult to say which of its many advantages women value most highly. Meals for two or meals for ten, in the smallest home or the largest are prepared in a fraction of the customary time and with fewer utensils to wash. At every step precious minutes are saved which total quickly into hours of leisure. Added savor of foods is said to result from the use of this handy piece of equipment for ingredients are thoroughly prepared and blended in the initial stages.

GOOD REFRIGERATION NEEDS 50 DEGREES

Two factors govern food preservation. One is constant temperature, which should range between 40 and 45 degrees; the other is dryness. An atmosphere that is warm and moist is ideal for breeding bacteria. Bacteria, yeasts and molds are the most insidious of all causes of food spoilage. Growth of these, like all plants, is influenced by temperature, moisture and light. These are the reasons why the refrigerator, if it is to be a health guard, must provide dry, cold air and exclude light.

Because the mechanical refrigerators, whether operated by electricity, gas or oil, do this, their appeal is one primarily of health. One can test their equipment by placing a reliable thermometer in the food chamber. If this at any time indicates a temperature above 50 degrees, there is danger of food spoilage, and danger to health, particularly if food for small children is kept in the refrigerator.

COLOR ADDS CHARM TO SUNPORCH RUGS

The most satisfactory floor covering for the porch or sun parlor is linoleum, satisfactory as to appearance, as to wearing qualities and as to the ease with which it may be kept in good condition.

The homekeeper wishes to make her household duties as light as possible when the warm days come, and one of the best ways of doing this is to have a linoleum rug on the porch or in the sun porch.

The beautiful tile patterns are especially suited to use in the outdoor living room. There are endless color combinations. Most people find that a pattern which does not involve too striking contrasts in the tiles is the most pleasing. A dull neutral color scheme may be worked out, making the floor just a background for the gayer furnishings of the porch, or a very bright and conspicuous design may be selected.

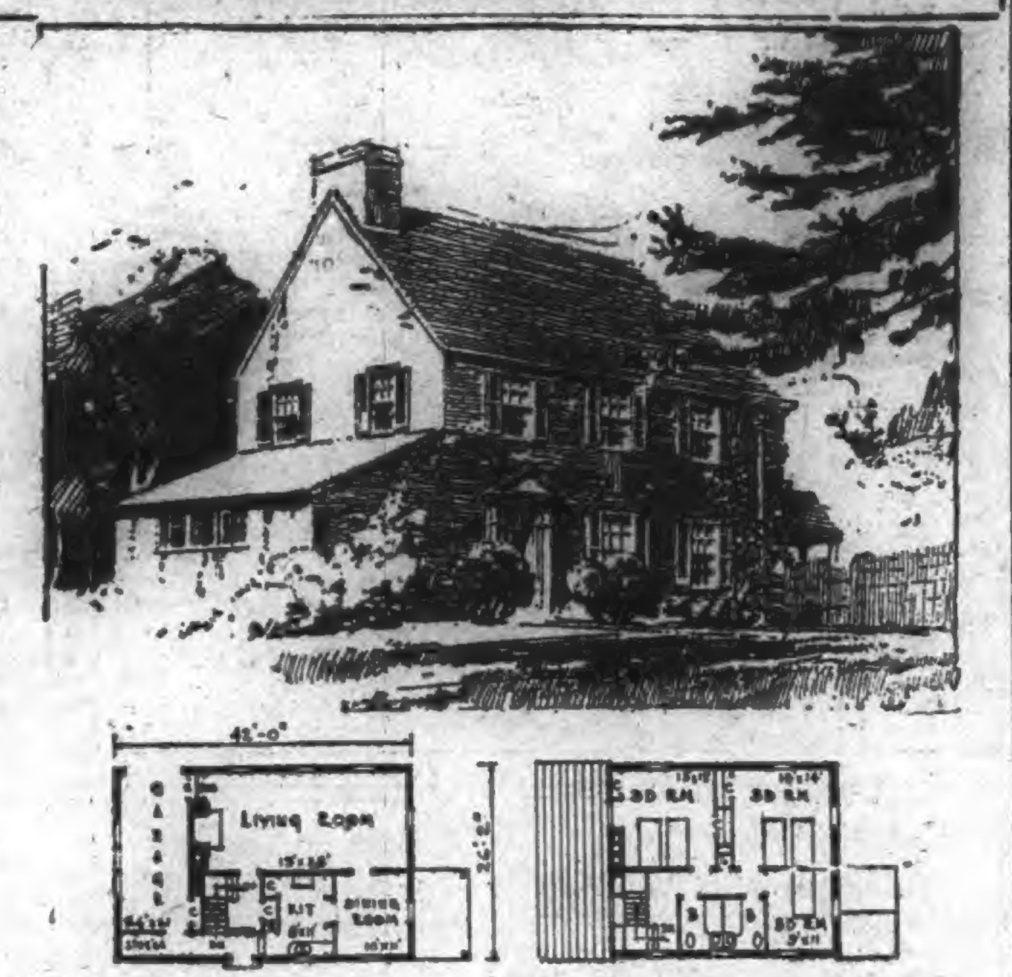
There are patterns of many other designs for those who do not fancy tile. Only personal taste need be the guide in selecting a linoleum floor covering for the porch.

COLORFUL MARBLE

The modern vogue for more and more color in the home finds satisfactory expression in fireplaces with mantels, facings or hearths of marble. Not only are the more simple designs reasonable in price, but also they are durable and have no maintenance cost.

A stalk of rhubarb 18 inches long and six inches in circumference was grown by A. H. Walker of Pittsburgh, Kas.

THIS HOUSE IS COLONIAL AT ITS BEST



All the best features of the colonial house are contained in this home, which is specifically a Pennsylvania colonial design, but not necessarily limited to that state.

The material may be either brick or the local grey stone it actually built in Pennsylvania. The woodwork, painted white, follows the excellent taste of the early colonial builder. The detail is of the simplest, with nothing in sight except what is necessary for structural purposes. The roof may be either slate or wooden shingles.

Within, the house departs from the colonial arrangement and follows the best in up-to-date design. The garage, for example, is added at the end under a shed roof which carries out the style of the house, and is balanced at the other end by the porch. The garage may be entered through the hall without going through any other rooms, which is a desirable feature.

The house is designed to front toward the west, providing a southern exposure for the porch and living room. The latter is the largest of the rooms and has a fireplace to add to the colonial effect.

The three bedrooms on the second floor all are well lighted and there are two bathrooms. Closet from the front by a fence as sug-space is ample on both floors. There rooms, which presumably would be that used by the owner.

A garden may be planned in connection with the porch, screened gested in the sketch of the house. Proper landscaping will add much to the beauty of this design.

Size of the lot should be at least 60 by 100 feet. The cost of construction will vary from $10,000 to $12,000.

OVERCOATING WITH SHINGLES LENDS AIR OF "YOUTH"

There is more to modernizing an old house than just making a bathroom out of a clothes closet, cutting a window here and there where light is needed, and removing a partition to construct a large room out of two small ones. True, architectural remodeling of this sort often is necessary, but used alone it cannot bring a house up to contemporary standards.

For example, a house in a middle western town was the disgrace of the block. On a street of attractive modern homes it stood out like a sore thumb.

A building and loan association took it in hand for renovation. A small corner porch was incorporated into the living room, and the roof line brought down over it in a graceful sweep. The bathroom downstairs was converted into a breakfast room, a clothes closet upstairs into a bathroom, and the attic into a sleeping porch. Important as these changes were, there was still something lacking. The exterior "dated." This was not wholly a matter of line—especially as the remodeled roof was charming—but seemed to the owners to be rather a question of surface. In other words, the clapboard siding, while appropriate for some houses, succeeded in making this one appear about 50 years old.

"Shingles should be used to soften and give character to an exterior that is obviously too stark and uninteresting," decided the building association. So shingles were used. But while the rough texture of the shingles played a considerable part in modernising the exterior, the stained finish was of equal importance. This gave the house not only color but further durability. The shingles were prepared by dipping them in stain before laying. Paint could have been used as well. The best dipping method is to have a barrel containg strain or paint and dip a dozen or two shingles at a time, butt end down, to a depth of six or eight inches, and to stand them in a trough to catch the drippings. They should be allowed to dry several days before being laid. After they are laid, a second coat should be applied with a brush in order to fill the cracks and joints.

Shingle stains come in a variety of subdued colors and are very suitable for the shingle house which emphasizes quaintness and a weathered appearance. Painted shingles give an entirely different effect, equally interesting, but mainly desirable when a smart, crisp, bright appearance is the end in view. Shingles of two harmonious colors, laid at random, give a variegated effect which is more appropriate for the roof than for siding. This effect helps to soften the roof which an absence of trees makes stark.

At the first signs of weathering, shingles on either siding or roof should be given a new protective coating. Neglect allows the nails to rust, and as a result, in severe weather, the shingles become loosened and blow away.

HERE ARE WAYS TO GET RID OF ANTS

The kitchen or pantry, in spite of all that the housewife can do, occasionally is infested with those miserable pests, called ants, but fortunately ways have been discovered which are very effective in getting rid of them.

According to scientists at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, there are two kinds of ants which infest the kitchen or pantry—those which prefer sugar and those which like greasy foods.

The recommended way of poisoning ants is to take part of tartar emetic with 10 parts of sugar and dissolve in 100 parts of water and spread this mixture on chips of wood or small pieces of glass and put in the ant trails, making sure that no cats, dogs, or other pets can reach these baits. The poison may be combined in about the same proportions with lard for the grease loving ants.

Another way of ridding the house of ants is to put greasy bones or sugar sponges in the ant trail and, when ants have gathered on these in large numbers, plunge the bone or sponge into hot water.

The use of calcium cyanide is another easy and effective way of destroying ants. This chemical is a gray powder or crystal. When the ant hill can be found, pour half a cupful or so into several holes poked in the hill and then cover the hill with an inverted tub or similar object in order to hold the gas over the hill. The gas being heavy penetrates the nest, killing the ants.

Indiana Taxes Higher

INDINAAPOLIS—(AP)— Since 1926, Indiana taxes have increased $18,910,704. Property owners will pay a tatal of $151,050,088 in taxes this year, an oncrease of $7,201,553 over 1929.

WASHDAY BACKACHE EASILY BANISHED

The real hardship of wash day has been due to the fact that the laundress had to stoop over while washing, rinsing and bluing the clothes. Now laundry trays of varying heights and sizes do away with the weary arms and aching backs which came to the housewife as a result of her labors.

Cast of cement of special composition one particularly inexpensive set of trays may be procured in sizes ranging from a single compartment tub which measures 25 by 24 inches to the three compartment tub, 90 by 24 inches. Equipped with steel supporting frames, metal rims and wringer guards these trays will give satisfactory life-time service.

Faucets are chromium plated, one being threaded to permit hose connection. Constructed in a single unit water cannot seep between compartment and trays may be easily cleaned.

BEST KITCHEN FEATURE

Probably the most outstanding feature of the modern kitchen is the cabinet. By the flexibility of its various units which may be used separately or assembled into a group, it does more for space and step saving than any other factor of kitchen equipment.

DRAIN THE WATER PIPES

Are you going away on a vacation and leaving your house unoccupied this summer? If it is more than 10 years old, it would be advisable to have the water drained out of all of the plumbing pipes. Small leaks sometimes develop. If the family is away, a small leak may grow into a big one before the neighbors will notice the water coming out of the house.

OLD COINS ABOUND IN FARMER'S LAND

PLEASANT GROVE, N. J. —(AP)— Almost every time Grover G. Apgar plows his lot he turns up some kind of money.

During the last two years he has plowed up British, Spanish, Dutch, German and American coins. The oldest legible date reads 1735.

Settlement of this section dates back to colonial times. A country store, located before 1835 on what now is Apgar's land, is believed to account for the coins.

DESERT PLANT STUDIED FOR FOOD POSSIBILITIES

WASHINGTON— (AP) —A luxuriant food plant discovered growing wild in aird hills of southesat California is being studied by the department of agriculture to find a wider use for it.

The plant is called ammobroma, or "sand-root." By sapping most of its food from the roots of a small desert shrub, it grows 10 to 20 times as large as the host.

The long stems, resembling large stalks of asparagus, have been found both appetizing and nourishing.

TOBACCO FOR WRAPPING CIGARS GROWN IN SHADE

BAINBRIDGE, Ga. —(AP)— Tobacco used for wrapping most of the cigars smoked in the United States grows under shade, and practically all the shade dfields are within a radius of 10 miles of Bainbridge.

Leading tobacco growers of this section say great care must be taken in raising of tobacco in the shade, and a heavy expense is incurred in equipping the fields for that purpose.

Sade tobacco grows only in a certain kind of soil, that is found in small areas of south Georgia and northwest Florida.

LONG GRAIN RICE GROWN IN ARKANSAS LOWLANDS

STUTTGART, Ark. —(AP)— A new, distinctly domestic type of rice is under cultivation in the Arkansas lowlands.

Planters of central Arkansas have produced a rice of exceptional yield and with long grain, that is considered superior to fast growing, small grained Chinese varieties.

Cultivation follows much the same procedure used for centuries in the Orient, except that modern wells supply water. The average well flows at a rate of approximately 1,200 gallons a minute, caring for 200 acres of rice under normal conditions.

Record Prune Crop

SAN JOSE, Calif —(AP)— The California state market service estimates California's 1930 prune crop at 334,000 tnos, more than twice the production of last year.

Big Lettuce Crop

SACRAMENTO, Calif. —(AP)— The Imperial valley of California produced 23 per cent of the 1929 lettuce crop of the United States. It was worth $10,000,000 to the growers and more in eastern markerts.

BROTHERS and SISTERS.

IN MEMORIAM

Rosetta B. Mallison

In sad and loving memory of our beloved wife and mother who passed from this life just six years ago, July 7, 1924.

Quick and sudden was the call.
Your sudden death suprised us all.
The shock was great, the blow severe.
We little thought your death so near.
Some may think you are forgotten
And our grieving hearts are healed.
But little they know of the sorrow
Within our hearts is concealed.

GRADE WARNING CROSSING BY C. V. RAILROAD HEAD

Gambling with human life and happiness through carelessness at railway grade crossings is warned against by J. W. Redmond, general counsel of the Central Vermont railway, who advises to be "certain and be safe."

Summer finds more motorists on the highways of the Green Mountain state than any other season of the year, according to Judge Redmond. The Central Vermont is doing its part to help keep them safe by enlisting its enginemen trainmen and yardmen in a special summer campaign to avoid crossing accidents.

"The major responsibility for safety at crossings, however, rests upon the individual motorist," Judge Redmond continues. "To bring trains to a stop at every highway crossing is plainly out of the question. On the other hand every motorist can assure his own absolute safety at crossings by being cautious. Humanity, duty and self-interest unite in opposition to such fatal gambling as is shown in carelessness at crossings."

ANNONCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Eugene Pallette had hardly completed his third characterization of the hard-boiled Sergeant Heath in the S. S. Van Dine murder thrillers when he was assigned to undertake another western role like the one he portrayed in "The Virginian." This time he went into the cast of "The Border Legion," with Richard Arlen, Fay Wray and Jack Holt.

Pallette's earliest roles in motion pictures were western roles. He rode horseback, roped steers and kept up a rollicking fire of comedy in the old Nestor and Triangle companies. In "The Border Legion," which closes an engagement at Warner's Broadway today, Pallette has the quaintly-named role of "Bunco," a member of the outlaw band headed by Holt.

MORE OF PALMER BROS.' MATERIAL FOUND AT MRS. DARROW'S, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 7—Mrs. Louise Darrow, 258 Huntington street, who was arrested early Sunday morning charged with conducting a disorderly house, was in the police court this morning, but not on that charge, for the complaint was amended to theft. The case was continued until tomorrow and the woman was held in bail of $1,000. She could not provide a surety on her bond so was committed to jail to await the convening of court.

Mrs. Darrow, who has been employed for a long time at the mill of Palmer Bros., Washington street, Saturday night conducted a party for several of her girl friends. About 2 o'clock Sunday morning two of the girls started to purchase packages of cigarettes and all stores being closed they walked to Crystal avenue, intending to make their purchase in a dining car. Near the car was George, (Cowboy) Sheehan, who has a long police record for intoxication and breach of the peace. He accosted the girls and engaged them in conversation and incidentally purchased the cigarettes. He then accompanied the girls back to the house and was seen by Patrolman George Perkins. Knowing Sheehan's reputation and realizing the lateness of the hour when Sheehan and the girls were entering the house, Perkins made known his observation at police headquarters. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and the automobile patrol officer, accompanied by Perkins entered the place and finding Mrs. Darrow, Sheehan and the girls there, arrested the girls, and charged Sheehan with intoxication and breach of the peace.

In the court today Sheehan pleaded not guilty to both complaints and he did not have difficulty in convincing the court of his innocence, for he related all that occurred from the time that he met the girls until he was arrested in such a definite manner that Judge Daniel M. Cronin believed Sheehan's testimony, so that the complaint against the young man was amended to resisting an officer, which act, he admitted. He was fined $25 and costs and went to jail, from which institution, he was released but recently, after serving a sentence for intoxication. Sheehan also informed the court that he was abused by the arresting officers for he said, that when he was being taken to the cell room he was beaten.

The officers in making their search of the Darrow house for liquor, which they did not find, although Sheehan testified that Mrs. Darrow had given him two bottles of beer, discovered a considerable amount of raw material used by Palmer Brothers in the manufacture of quilts, which was identified as property of the manufacturers who have employed the woman. A further search today resulted in loot of the estimated value of between $500 and $1,000 being found and seized.

It is believed that Mrs. Darrow secreted the material on her person from time to time and in that manner carried on the alleged thieving.

Five babies were born at Lawrence-Memorial hospital over the week-end.

John R. Rowley, 82, died Saturday evening at his residence, Center Groton, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife and a son, Andrew Rowley of New London. Mr. Rowley was born in Portland, Conn., and was a farmer.

FUNERAL

Thomas F. Morton

The funeral of Thomas F. Morton, who was fatally injured by being struck by an automobile in Waterford Wednesday night, was held this afternoon at Union lodge rooms, Union lodge, the services being conducted by members of the lodge and with Charles C. Perkins chaplain. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Albert Litinsky, 34 Neptune avenue: Leon and Arnold Bernstein, 31 Brewer street; Miss Nellie Avery, Groton; Marian Meritt, 60 Mountain avenue, Mrs. Seth Barron and infant son, Old Mystic; Mrs. Edward Bank, Fishers Island, N. An automobile driven by Norman C. Beckwith, 32 Mercer street, hit a little girl named McInnis, residing at 232 Colman street, this morning near the home of the child when the youngster ran from the sidewalk and in front of the car. She was taken to the office of a physician where it was revealed that the girl had sustained injuries no more serious than slight cuts and bruises.

Norwich Girl Returned

The New London police were requested last night by the Norwich police to institute a search for Josephine Brosteck, 15, of 43 Mt. Pleasant street, who had been missing from her home since early in the day. While a watch was being kept for the girl and three hours after she was reported missing, a sister informed the police that the girl had returned to her home.

Albert Mix, formerly of New London, now employed in New York, is spending a few days in this city.

Raymond Pinsky, of 132 Winthrop street, was arrested this morning by State Police Officer Eric Swanson and Patrolman Dennis Murphy charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was also charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to report his change of address. Pinsky will be in court tomorrow.

Henry A. Coburn, Noank, employed at the plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries, Groton, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Coburn, whose home is in Hartford, was arrested last evening by Patrolman Joseph Sullivan.

FINE OF $25 AND COSTS— DROVE PAST STANDING CAR

Peter Alessi, 59 Center street, Middletown, charged with violation of the state law in driving an automobile past a motionless trolley car while the latter is receiving and discharging passengers, was fined $25 and costs. Alessi was driving on Bank street Sunday afternoon and when a trolley car stopped to receive passengers the driver refused to give the passengers opportunity to board the car until his auto had speeded by, some of the passengers barely escaping being hit. Alessi's act was observed by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Dennis Murphy, who arrested the driver.

Sebastian Raposa, was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $20 and costs. He was arrested on Harrison street Sunday where he insisted in engaging a man in physical combat. Raposa was clearly the aggravator of the fight for his opponent endeavored to prevent an exchange of blows. When the fight was hottest, Raposa was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell and Patrolman Frank Philopena.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Curtiss and Henry Jones, the latter's brother, all colored, who reside at 207 Vauxhall street, were charged with the theft of Curtiss' father's Essex coach. The charges, however, were nolled. The automobile was taken Saturday night by the youthful Curtiss and when the parent discovered the car missing he requested the arrest of the trio, which was made several hours later by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Clyde Murphy when the officers sighted the car on State street.

Joseph M. Boyle, 17 Granite street, was charged with reckless driving, but the count was nolled.

Albert Peck, 361 Huntington street, charged with speeding had the charge nolled.

Woman Forfeits $15 Bond

Frank Vocolina, 53 Prest street, was charged with passing an automatic danger signal at Bank and Howard streets, as was Eva M. Anderson, 49 Gordon street, Hartford, both drivers having been arrested Saturday by Patrolman George Bruhns. Vocolina was fined $5. As Miss Anderson failed to appear in court, her bond of $15 was forfeited.

Thomas L. Davis, Negro, of Portland, Me., and Frank Hudson, Negro, of Pittsburgh, Pa., were charged with train riding and were sentenced to 30 days in jail. Davis and Hudson were arrested Sunday when detected stealing a ride on a New Haven railroad freight.

John Steinhardt, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was charged with driving without a license. He failed to present himself in court so his bond of $15 was forfeited.

Howard Robbins, Camden, N. J., was charged with vagrancy, but he was given a nolle.

Arthur Atkinson, 96 Main street, Niantic, charged with reckless driving on Williams street had his case continued until tomorrow.

Slacker Husband Arrested

James Carver was charged with non-support and his case was continued to August 7. Carver was arrested today by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh following Mrs. Carver making complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer that her husband refused to support her.

Twelve Go to Jail

As a result of the police rounding up a gang of bummers, who refuse to work only at intervals and who spend most of their time drinking North Bank street hooch and then loiter about the streets after they become intoxicated, there were 15 of such offenders of the law to face Judge Cronin. In most instances a fine or jail sentence was imposed. Among the cases of intoxication were two women, both Negresses, who were found drunk on the street Saturday. Both were given suspensions of judgment. Because of the penalties imposed upon the inebriates 12 of their number went to jail.

Callers seldom came again

ANOTHER disappointment. Another call cut short with a polite excuse—a vague promise to come again. She nearly cried when they were gone. She wanted friends so. Why couldn't she win them?

Then an old school chum she hadn't seen in years—a doctor's wife—came to visit her. Friends drop in to see her often—she's invited everywhere since she adopted the simple safeguard that keeps perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—watch out for "B. O."

NEW LONDON COUNCIL WILL NOT SELL ALERT FIRE HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 7—The city council at its meeting tonight turned down the offer of Charles L. Smiddy for the purchase of the Allen Hook and Ladder house on Bank street, adjoining property now owned by Mr. Smiddy. The city has in contemplation the erection of a combination firehouse and the Allen Hook and Ladder house is one of the buildings to be done away with. The city building is on the corner of Tilley and Bank streets and must soon be rebuilt.

The council voted to acquire land from the estate of William Munger of Montville, which is on the reservoir watershed that is to accommodate the Coast Guard academy.

Twenty-one permits for buildings and alterations were granted.

The council voted to sell 57 lengths of 16-inch cast iron water pipe to M. Benvenuti and Son for $1,733.09.

A contract to re-cover the concrete roof of the municipal building was awarded to F. A. Dahll and Co. of New Haven, for $850. Other bidders were the Economy Co., $900 and the Thames Sheet Metal Co. $1,140.50.

The city entered into an agreement with the Connecticut Co. to attach traffic signals to the poles of the company at the intersection of Broad street and Connecticut avenue, Hempstead and Jay streets, Truman and Belden streets, Montauk avenue at Bank, and elsewhere if deemed necessary. The city is to pay $10 a year each connection and assume all liability of accidents.

Council Fox, for the administration committee, reported an amendment to the zoning ordinance providing for four-car garages to two-family dwellings. A water zone was established to affect Pequot avenue and vicinity, limiting the height of buildings and restricting the size of wharves.

The ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks, etc., hereafter was read and adopted.

An ordinance providing for the laying of 3064 feet of sidewalk on Williams street and Mohegan avenue was read. The council will meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to adopt this ordinance.

At the request of the board of school visitors the transfer of $35,000 from one school fund to repair and put in condition the Harbour school was adopted.

The school board reported the transfer of eight desks from the School of Commerce, which has been abandoned, to the city. Councilor Fox wanted to know what became of the other equipment of the school, that cost $1,000. This included bookkeeping apparatus, typewriting equipment. Supt. Hanson was in the meeting and this brought from him the admission that the furniture of the school, its equipment, etc., was also voted to be transferred to the council, except the typewriters which will be used by the night school.

Councilor Scott expressed the opinion that the proceeding was unusual as the city now owned all the equipment. Instead of a vote being passed to give the board a receipt for the property, the council voted to accept it.

The Italian Ladies' Aid society was given permission to hold a tag day.

A petition was presented for changing the name of Harris court, as that thoroughfare is now open to Montauk avenue and becomes a street. Councilor Fox objected to the change. He said the name had been identified with that section for many years and he did not want any fancy name attached to the street.

Mrs. G. F. DeWolfe and 33 others remonstrated against the changing of the High School of Commerce. The remonstrance received the slight courtesy of filing it.

City Manager Holt was granted two weeks leave of absence, beginning Wednesday.

THINK SOLOMON'S CHECKS STOLEN FROM N. Y. MAILS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 7—Alfred J. Solomon, a youthful Negro who resides at 52 West 129th street, New York and who was temporarily staying at 73 Hempstead street, until arrested this afternoon, appears to be in line to face trial in New York on a serious charge for it is believed that he stole from the mails. When arrested he had in his possession three checks recently stolen in New York and which were negotiable, two of them having been issued by mortgage companies. The other check was drawn on the account of the city of New York. An officer will come to this city from New York and escort the prisoner back there for trial for he is simply held here on a technical charge of being a fugitive from justice.

Solomon had been in the city but a day or two and this afternoon went to the store of Joseph Fine, State street supposedly for the purpose of purchasing a suit of clothes that he might negotiate one of the checks. While being shown the clothing, Solomon suddenly left the store, leaving behind him a check of the Bond & Mortgage company of New York for $173.35 drawn in favor of Bernard McEnaney, 243 West 116th street, New York. Fine reported the incident to the police and a short time later Solomon was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell on Main street. When searched at police headquarters, Solomon possessed also a check for $137.50, drawn by the New York Title and Mortgage company of Brooklyn in favor of Mary Agnes Walsh, of 308 West 116th street, New York and a third check drawn on the account of the city of New York by the American Trust company in favor of Sylvia Goldshine, 935 Longwood avenue, the Bronx, for $56.55.

Solomon when questioned declared that the checks were given to him by a colored man he met while on the train from New York to New London and that the former was to receive $2 for each check cashed, besides being given anything that was purchased through the negotiation of the checks. Solomon said that he did not arrange to meet the alleged stranger and does not know his identity nor his whereabouts. The police are positive that this part of the story as to how Solomon became possessed of the checks is absolutely false, especially as the New York police when communicated with said that the checks were stolen a few days ago.

While being questioned Solomon became revengeful, even to a state of violence, so much so that he was placed under restraint. During the questioning, Solomon suddenly declared that he would do bodily harm to Officer Cockell and pleaded that the officer be brought before him that he could fulfil his threat. He even seized an envelope opener that was on a desk in the detective bureau and intimated that he would use a knife on the officer if the opportunity ever presented itself. Solomon was then handcuffed and kept in that condition until he was locked up.

When Solomon's suit case was searched it was found to contain expensive apparel, including silk underwear and much of it, besides expensive haberdashery and pajamas. He had $41 in his clothing also.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT HOOVER'S TREATY MESSAGE TO THE SENATE

reap in their hostility and ill-will the full measure of the additional burden which we may thus impose upon them. The very entry of the United States into such courses as this would invite the consolidation of the rest of the world against us and bring our peace and independence into jeopardy. We have only to look at the state of Europe in 1914 to find ample evidence of the futility and danger of competition in arms.

Pact Cuts Armaments

"It will be remembered that in response to recommendations from the senate a conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, for limitation of thosecategories of naval arms not covered by the Washington treaty of 1921 was held at Geneva in 1927. That conference failed because the United States could not agree to the large size of fleets demanded by other governments. The standards set up at that time would have required an ultimate fleet of about 1,400,000 tons for the United States. As against this the total United States fleet set out under this treaty will be about 1,120,000 tons.

"Defense is the primary function of government, and therefore our first concern in examination of any act of this character is the test of its adequacy in defense. No critic has yet asserted that with the navies provided in this agreement together with our army, our aerial defense and our national resources, we cannot defend ourselves, and certainly we want no military establishment for the purpose of domination of other nations. Our naval defense position under this treaty is the more clear if we examine our present naval strength in comparison to the present strength of the other nations, and then examine the improvement in this proportion which will result from this treaty. This improvement arises fro mthe anticipation of parity in battleships to be reached ten years hence under the Washington arms treaty and the fact that other nations have been building in the classes of ships not limited by the treaty, while we, until lately, lagged behind.

Compares Other Fleets

"On the first of January last the total naval tonnage, disregarding paper fleets, and taking only those ships actually built and building, was, for the United States 1,180,000 tons; for the British empire, 1,332,000 tons; for Japan 768,000 tons. That is, if the United States navy is to be taken as 100, then the British navy equals 113 and the Japanese navy 65.

Under this treaty the United States will have 1,123,000 tons; Great Britain 1,151,000 tons, and Japan 714,000 tons, or a ratio of 100 for United States to 102.4 for Great Britain and 63.6 for Japan. The slightly larger tonnage ratio mentioned for Great Britain is due to the fact that her cruiser fleet will be constituted more largely of smaller vessels, weaker in gun power, but the United States has the option to duplicate the exact tonnage and gun caliber of the British cruiser fleet if we desire to exercise it.

Big Improvement

"The relative improvement in the position of the United States under this treaty is even better than this statement would indicate. In the more important categories, battleships, aircraft carriers, eight-inch and six-inch cruisers—that is, omitting the secondary arms of destroyers and submarines—the fleet built and actually building on January 1 of this year was 809,000 tons in the United States, 1,088,000 tons in Great Britain and 568,000 tons in Japan, or upon the basis of 100 for the United States it was 134 for Great Britain and seventy for Japan. Under this treaty the United States will on January 1, 1937, possess completed 911,000 tons of these major units, Great Britain 948,000 tons and Japan 556,000 tons.

"In addition, the United States will have one 10,000 ton eight-inch cruiser two-thirds completed. This will give a ratio in these categories of 100 for the United States to 102.9 for Great Britain and 60.8 for Japan. The reason for the excess British tonnage is again as mentioned above. In other words, the United States, in these categories, increases by 102,000 tons, Great Britain decreases by 140,000 tons and Japan decreases by 12,000 tons. These re-adjustments of units are to take place during the next six years. The treaty then comes to an end except for such arrangements as may be made then for its continuance.

"The major discussion has been directed almost wholly to the fact that the United States is to have eighteen cruisers with eight-inch guns, with an aggregate tonnage of 180,000 tons, as against Great Britain's fifteen such ships, with a tonnage of 146,000 tons and Japan's twelve such ships of a tonnage of 108,400 tons; the United States supplementing this tonnage with cruisers armed with six-inch guns up to a total of 208,800 tons. The larger gross tonnage to Great Britain as stated being compensation for the larger gun caliber of the American cruiser fleet, but as said the United States has the option to duplicate the British fleet, if it so desires.

"Criticism of this arrangement arises from the fact that the general board of the United States navy recommended that to reach parity with Great Britain the United States should have three more of the 10-000-ton cruisers (twenty-one instead of eighteen), with eight-inch guns, and a total of 315,000 tons or 8,000 tons less total cruiser tonnage than this treaty provides. Thus this treaty provides that instead of this 30,000 tons more of eight-inch ships recommended by the general board, we will have 83,000 tons of ships armed with six-inch guns, there being no limitation upon the size of cruisers up to 10,000 tons. Therefore, criticism revolves around less than 3 per cent of our whole fleet, and even within this 3 per cent comes the lesser question of whether 30,000 tons of ships armed with eight-inch guns are better than 38,000 tons armed with six-inch guns.

"The opinion of our high naval authorities is divided on the relative merits of these alternatives. Many earnestly believe that the larger tonnage of six inch ships is more advantageous and others vice versa. However, those who seek to make this the outstanding feature of criticism fail to mention that under the London treaty the obligation of the Washington arms treaty of 1921 is so altered that Great Britain scraps 133,900 tons of battleships armed with 13 1-2 inch guns, the United States scraps 70,000 tons of battleships which would not otherwise and Japan scraps 26,300 tons.

"These arrangements are made not only for reduction of arms but to anticipate the ultimate parity between the United States and Great Britain in battleships which would not otherwise be realized for several years.

Gain in Battleships

"There is in this provision a relative gain in proportions compared with the British fleet of 63,300 tons of battleships with 13 1-2-inch guns. This is of vastly more importance than the dispute as to the relative combatant strength of 38,000 tons of six-inch cruisers against 30,000 tons of eight-inch cruisers. Indeed it would seem that such criticism must be based upon an undisclosed desire to break down all limitation of arms.

"To those who seek earnestly and properly for education in warships, I would point out that as compared with January first of this year, the total aggregate navies of the three powers under this treaty will have been reduced by nearly 300,000 tons. Had a settlement been made at Geneva in 1927 upon the only proposal possible at that time, the fleets of the three powers would have been approximately 680,000 tons greater than under the treaty now in consideration.

"The economic burdens and the diversion of taxes from welfare purposes which would be imposed upon ourselves and other nations by the failure of this treaty are worth consideration.

"If we assume that our present naval program, except for this treaty, is to complete the ships authorized by congress and those authorized and necessary to be replaced under the Washington arms treaty, and to maintain a destroyer fleet of about 225,000 tons and a submarine fleet of 90,000 tons, such a fleet will not reach parity with Great Britain, yet would cost in construction over $500,000,000 more during the next six years than the fleet provided under this treaty.

Savings of Billions

"If we were to accept the Geneva conference base as the end of naval strength under competitive building for the three governments, the savings in construction and operation by the treaty is literally billions of dollars.

"The question before us now is not whether we shall have a treaty with either three more 8-inch crusiers or four less 6-inch cruisers, or whether we shall have a larger reduction in tonnage. It is whether we shall have this treaty or no treaty. It is a question as to whether we shall move strongly toward limitation and reduction in naval arms or whether we shall have no limitation or reduction and shall enter upon a disastrous period of competitive armament.

"This treaty does mark an important step in disarmament and in world peace. It is important for many reasons that it should be dealt with at once. The subject has been under discussion since the Geneva conference three years ago. The lines of this treaty have been known and under discussion since last summer. The actual document has been before the American people and before the senate for nearly three months. It has been favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee. Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known, and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States. If we fail now the world will be again plunged backward from its progress toward peace."

THREE CASES NOLLED ON ILLEGAL FIRE CHARGE

WILLIMANTIC, July 7—Three of five cases of illegal setting of fires in which prominent Columbia residents were involved, were nolled without costs at a session of the Columbia town court held in the presence of a large gallery at the town hall tonight. The accused, who were discharged by Justice of the Peace J. Banks Jones of Hebron, who had been called in to hear the cases, were Justices of the Peace Hubert P. Collins, Ralph H. Buell and Justin A. Isham.

The nolles were on the ground that weather conditions were such as to make the kindling of fires permissible and that there was no evidence in the case of Mr. Collins to prove who had kindled the grass fire. The cases of Nicola Naumez and Annie Ambrose were continued for two weeks at the request of Raymond Clark, who represented the accused.

COUNCIL CONFIRMS C. A. HAGBERG AS PRESIDENT OF CITY WATER BOARD

At the monthly meeting of the court of common council Monday evening in the council chambers at the court house the appointment of Charles A. Hagberg as president of theb oard of water commissioners at a salary of $500 per annum was confirmed.

The meeting was called to order by His Honor Mayor Lee Roy Robbins at 8:03 o'clock and the minutes of the previous meeting were approved without reading, according to the usual custom, after which City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read the return of certificate of publication on the resolutions for the establishment of grades and walks on McKinley avenue and Boswell avenue.

Sidewalk Grades Established

A hearing on these resolutions was declared open by Mayor Robbins, but as no one appeared in favor or against them, it was closed and the mayor asked the council for its action. They were both adopted. The first calls for the establishment of sidewalk grades on the easterly side of McKinley avenue from Rockwell street, northerly, and the second for the fixing of sidewalk grades on the northwesterly side of Boswell avenue from Hickory street northerly.

Petitions Presented

At 8:08 o'clock Mayor Robbins declared a recess to his office, until 8:27 o'clock, when a number of petitions were presented as follows:

From tax payers and residents of Cliff street extension for an additional light at No. 198. Referred to the police committee with power.

From Charles W. Burton for the installation of a bug light on a pole opposite his residence at No. 736 North Main street. Referred to police committee with power.

Laurel Hill Bridge Lights

The mayor asked the police committee to investigate the lighting conditions on Laurel Hill bridge, as he said that he was informed that it is very dark there and one or two additional lights are needed.

The mayor also asked that committee to look into the question of lights on Broadway from Huntington place northerly to Park Congregational church, and see if it were not feasible to install another street light on the street.

Alderman Maurice Looby of the public works department recommended that Avery street be made a city street and it was so voted. Residents in that section previously petitioned the council to accept the street as a city street.

Settlement of Claim

Action upon the appointment of Charles A. Hagberg as president of the board of water commissioners was taken upon the reading of a communication from the water board, Edmund Hindle, clerk. His appointment was confirmed by the council.

Alderman Looby of the public works committee recommended that the petition of Marcella Kiecolt and others for relocation of a manhole in front of 163-165 North Main street be disallowed; adopted. NORWICH TOWN

Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, hold its picnic today (Tuesday) at Mohegan Park. A number who do not have automobiles will come from Norwich Town, and various locations in the city. Through the kindness of two members who have cars, arrangements have been made to meet such members of the chapter coming from either direction, between 10:30 and 11:30 a. m. at the Rockwell street entrance, near the new Sheltering Arms, McKinley avenue extension. Each person attending is expecting to carry the necessary dishes, etc.

Following nearly two weeks wedding trip touring the New England states by automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Singleton Stott, Jr., (Grace Mildred Wheeler) returned recently to Norwich Town. They are now located at their home on Plain Hill road. Mr. and Mrs. Stott will be at home to friends after August first.

Park Congregational church united with Norwich Town Congregational church Sunday morning. The first paragraph on the church calendar read: It is our joy and privilege to welcome the members of Park church congregation to our service today. Let us hope that these union services, that of last Sunday and today, inaugurated this year, may become a regular feature of community church life in years ahead.

The pastor of the welcoming church Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached inspiringly on "The Relation of One's Avocation to His Vocation."

The Young People's service in the evening had for its topic, "Joys and Dangers Away From Home." Miss Margaret Chapin was leader.

The mid-week service of the Congregational church is to be omitted this week, on account of the church school picnic Thursday, July 10th. Ocean Beach is the objective. A special trolley will leave Avery's bridge at 8:30 a. m. and stop at principal points along the route. Those attending will be expected to carry lunches. The picnic committee, Charles W. Barber, Miss Rose Durr and Mrs. Burton W. Jopson, has formulated special plans for the party at the beach. Contributions are being received to defray expenses of the outing.

The Vacation Bible school under the auspices of Norwich Council of Religious Education opened Monday at 9 a. m. at the Congregational chapel. Many wholesome things are learned in the vacation school, and the children always seem to have a good time in the process.

Mrs. Charles Gremley, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainard, of Mystic, were guests independence day of Mrs. Brainard's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, who also had as callers that afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gremley, Jr., and children, Mildred and Richard Gremley, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gremley and little daughter, Barbara, all of Mystic.

In Norwich Town many radio owners have been having unpleasant experiences in trying to listen to the programs from day to day. This trouble which has caused unusual static for about two months, is particularly noticeable to residents near Harland's Corner. It has been suggested that possibly there is a leak somewhere which is the cause of the disturbance.

Fluffy cakes . . .
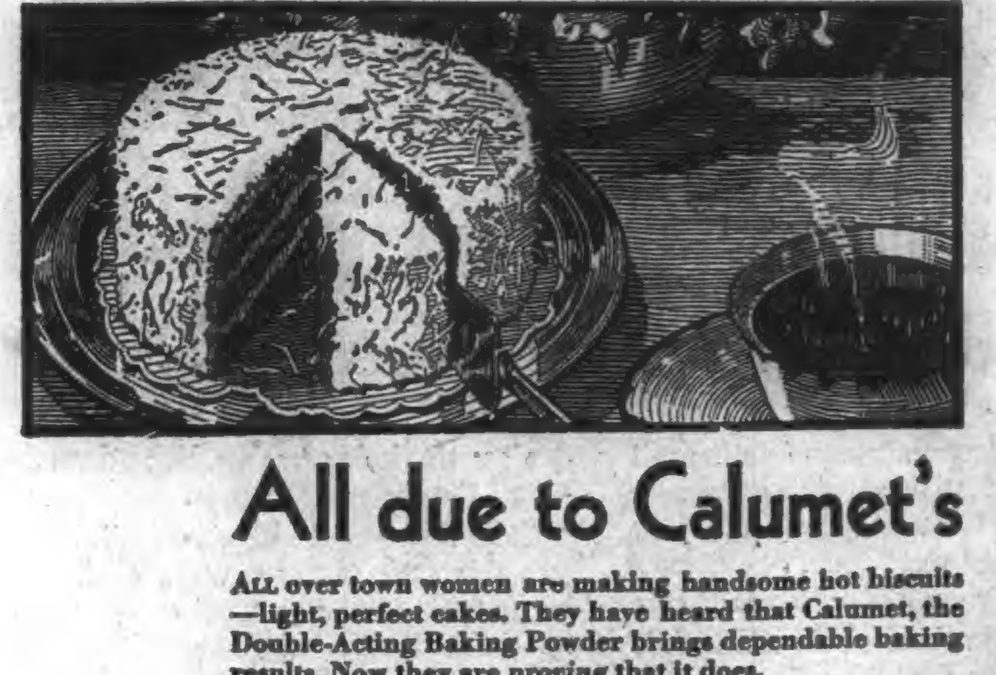
all over town



All due to Calumet's DOUBLE-ACTION

ALL over town women are making handsome hot biscuits —light, perfect cakes. They have heard that Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder brings dependable baking results. Now they are proving that it does.

Calumet's first action—in the mixing bowl—starts the rising. Its second action—in the oven—carries that rising through to a triumphant finish even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature accurately. Make a Calumet cake today—see why Calumet has become the most popular baking powder in the world.

Only One Level Teaspoon of Calumet to a Cup of Sifted Flour!

That's the usual Calumet proportion. Be sure to follow it even though you may have been using nearly twice as much with other baking powders. You'll be delighted with this economy! And more than delighted with the results Calumet gives you. Perfect texture! Perfect flavor!

All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action. Not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action — Double-Action. Get a can of Calumet from your grocer today. Notice Calumet comes in full-sized one pound cans.

MAKE THIS TEST—See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that takes place in your mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture rises to the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that takes place in your oven. Make this test today. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

VETERANS AGENCIES NOW UNDER SINGLE CONTROL

Brigadier General Hines Named Administrator of the New Establishment, Which President Hoover Says Is One of the Most Important Functions In the Goverment-Consolidated Budgets For the Present Fiscal Year Total Approximately $800,000,000 — General Wood to Continue As Head of Soldier's Home.

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—All veterans agencies of the government today were brought under single control by President Hoover, with Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, for several years head of the veterans bureau, as administrator.

Mr. Hoover, in announcing he had prepared the executive order to carry into effect provisions of the bill passed by congress at his request, said the new establishment "becomes one of the most important functions in the government" and represents the most significant reorganization of the governmetal machinery during the present administration.

The act, which became effective with the issuance of the president's order, brings the veterans bureau, an independent establishment, the pensions bureau from the department of interior and the soldiers home from the war department all under the veterans administration.

The consolidated budgets of these three services for the present fiscal year total approximately $800,000,000. The president expects, however, important economies to be effected through the consolidation and coordination. These are to be brought about, he said, through administration of hospitalization and domiciluary activities and in the better handling of fiscal relations with veterans throughout the entire organization.

Certain functions are to be transferred from one division to the other but the president said these changes would come gradually and without disturbance to their administration.

General Hines, who the president said was remaining with the new establishment to give the chief executive the advantage of his wide experience during the reorganization, has been offered an attractive commercial position and the president indicated his tenure would be temporary.

General George H. Wood is to be continued as head of the soldiers home, with the board of managers probably constituted into an advisory board.

The pensions bureau will be administered by an acting commissioner of pensions for the present and the veterans bureau by an acting director.

MAJ. GEN. W. C. NEVILLE DEAD FROM HEART DISEASE

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—A veteran of two wars, two punitive expeditions and a rebellion, Major General Wendell C. Neville, 60, commandant of the marine corps, died today of heart disease.

The sturdy heart that carried him through the World war, the Spanish-American war and other militant episodes, and brought him countless honors and decorations, finally failed at the home of his daughters, Mrs. John P. W. Vest, at Edgewater Beach, Md.

General Neville had been in ill health for several months, since he suffered a stroke and spent a few weeks in the Naval hospital. He returned to duty, and last Thursday he went on leave to recuperate further before continuing with his arduous work as head of the marine corps. With his death, Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler became the ranking officer in the marine corps. Brigadier General Ben H. Fuller, assistant commander, immediately was appointed acting commandant.

General Neville's war experience began with the battles of Guantanamo and Cusco in the Spanish-American conflict.

He commanded the famous Fifth Regiment in the Verdun and Chateau Thierry sectors, and the equally well-known Fourth Brigade of marines in ensuing operations near Soissons, St. Mihiel, Champaigne and the Meuse Argonne.

On March 5, 1929, he became commandant of the Marine corps with the rank of major general.

Among his decorations were distinguished service medals of his own country's army and navy, a Legion of Honor, six Croix de Guerre awards, the French Fouraggere, a brevet and a victory medal, the Marine Corps Expeditionary ribbon and medals for the Spanish, West Indies, Chinese, Philippine and Mexican campaigns.

Mrs. Neville died several years ago. Mrs. Vest, the wife of a navy lieutenant, was the only child.

TO ADMIT RUSSIAN LUMBER TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Assistant Secretary Lowman ruled today that six shiploads of Russian lumber imported by the A. C. Dutton Lumber company at Poughkeepsie, New York, should be admitted to this country as it had not been proved that it was produced by convict labor.

Two shiploads of the lumber arrived at Poughkeepsie and Providence, Rhode Island, last week and were denied entrance by customs officials under the tariff act which provides that articles produced wholly or in part in any foreign country by convict labor shall not be entitled to entry.

Four other shiploads of lumber are on the high seas and Lowman instructed customs collectors that they also should be admitted unless instructions to the contrary were issued in meantime.

Lowman's decision was the result of a hearing held yesterday at which importers of pulp wood and the Amtorg Trading corporation the Russian commercial organization, testified the lumber had not been produced by convict labor.

TWO SMALL BOYS, BROTHERS, DROWNED WHILE BATHING

KENSINGTON, July 8—(AP)—John Chapman, 7, and his brother, James, 4, drowned today after stepping into a deep hole while bathing in Railroad pond.

The hole into which the boys fell is about ten feet deep and at one time served as the cellar of a dwelling which once occupied the site of the pond.

Physicians worked for three hours over the boys, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman, before pronouncing them dead.

C. L. Lewis, Berlin town prosecutor, directed the recovery of the boys' bodies.

MANGANELLA MURDER JURY IS COMPLETED

NEW HAVEN, July 8.—(AP)—The jury which will sit in the case of Anthony Manganella, charged with the slaying of Giovanni Cerillo, was completed late this afternoon.

With the selection of the last juror, court was adjourned until tomorrow morning, when the hearing of testimony will be started. Manganella, who is charged with murder in the first degree, went on trial this morning in superior court before Judge Frederick M. Peasley.

Cerillo, a storekeeper, was slain two years ago during a dispute over four cents.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS BATTLE REBEL ARMIES

SHANGHAI, July 8—(AP)—While increasing banditry ravaged its southern provinces, the Nationalist government battled today to turn back invading rebel armies from the north.

A new Nationalist offensive was reported in Shantung province to repel northerners who recently captured Tsinan and swept southward and eastward in a great arc reaching from Yenchow to Weihsien. Hostilities began near Weihsien, government troops striving to recapture Tsinan and drive rebels across the Yellow river.

Reinforced by troops from eastern Honan, Nationalists were reported endeavoring to turn the left wing of the huge northern battle line across Honan and Shantung provinces, after failing to dent rebel defenses in the center at Kaifeng, Honan.

Apparently despairing of carrying Kaifeng by assault as Nationalists expected him to do a few days ago, President Chiang Kai-Shek said he was planning to wear down the asserted poorly supplied rebel armies and defeat them in a month. His finance minister, T. V. Soong, however, thought six months would be required.

Although attacked fiercely by rebels in Honan and Shantung, the government was forced to give heed to increasing banditry ravaging its southern provinces.

Seven hundred brigands were killed in northwestern Kiangsi but other hordes ravaged Hupeh, Hunan, Chekiang and Fukien provinces.

MOTHER JONES CONGRATULATES ROCKEFELLER ON BIRTHDAY

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8—(AP)—The years, whose irresistible march few human enmities can withstand, completed another victory today as John D. Rockefeller on his 91st birthday received a congratulatory message from his one-time bitter foe, "Mother" Jones, labor leader.

Less than a score of those patient, invincible years have passed since "Mother" Jones went to jail after her denunciation of the Rockefellers—a denunciation delivered in the white heat of her wrath that flamed up during the Colorado mine wars.

But "Mother" Jones is 100 years old now, peacefully living out what is left of life for her in a quiet, secluded country home in Maryland.

And John D. Rockefeller is 91, a mild and benevolent old gentleman, who dispenses millions of dollars and hundreds of bright new dimes as he lives on, in a leisurely and pleasant monotony, toward the century mark.

So today from Silver Springs, Md., to Pocantico Hills, N. Y., came the following message that only time could make possible.

"Congratulations on the arrival of your 91st birthday. Thank God, we have some men in the world as good as you. We never needed them as much as we do today. Most sincere wishes that you may be blessed with many more."

, g9$.N-$KIY,.ETAOIN ..ETAOIN—

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—The death of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, British novelist and creator of "Sherlock Holmes," found first edition of his original series of detective stores selling at relatively high figures, but his later volumes are in slight demand, it was disclosed by New York book dealers today.

"Sign of the Four," one of the earliest and rarest of his writings, was quoted at $250 for a first edition. His "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" and "Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes" rank next in value, the two volumes selling as a set at from $225 to $250.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" and "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" apparently stimulate less interest among book collectors, for they are priced at from $25 to $30 each.

DATES SET FOR FOUR EXECUTIONS AT SING SING

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—(AP)—The court of appeals, having affirmed today the conviction of four men awaiting electrocution at Sing Sing prison, tonight fixed the dates for their executions.

Claude Udwin, Jesse Thomas and William Force, Auburn prisoners convicted of first degree murder committed during the prison riot last December, will die during the week of Aug 25 unless executive clemency intervenes. The week of Aug. 18 was fixed as the time for execution of Hyman Hirsch, alias Sam Rosen, convicted in general sessions of murdering Dr. Jacob Gross, a dentist during a hold up.

BERLIN, July 8—(AP)—Metropolitan dailies claiming to be able to give a reliable forecast of the German government's reply to Briand's paneuropa memorandum state that Briand's proposition is regarded as coming within the purview of the league of nations.

The aged cardinal, who is 93, overtaxed his strength in church ceremonies on Ascension day and became very ill yesterday. In the evening he was reported somewhat improved, but during the night his heart weakened.

WINGING ACROSS SOUTH ATLANTIC TO AFRICA

NATAL, Brazil, July 8—(AP)—Roaring down the length of Lake Bomfim in the seaplane with which he made the first westward South Atlantic mail flight, Jean Mermoz, crack French airmail pilot, took off today for a non-stop flight back to Africa.

Eighteen hundred miles of ocean separated him from his objective, Dakar, in French Equatorial Africa. The South Atlantic has never been successfully crossed from west to east, and Mermoz if successful will win the laurels of a pioneer pilot.

Mermoz, who got away at 4:32 p. m. (2:32 p. m. E.S.T.), hoped to better the time of his first flight on May 12-13. He crossed from St. Louis, Senegal, in 20 hours and 16 minutes, making the first air mail trip under bad weather conditions.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 8.—(AP)—Five persons were rescued and three passengers were believed drowned when the German flying boat D 864 flying in the Stettin-Kalmar-Stockholm service was forced down in the sea near Bornholm yesterday and later overturned.

The pilot, mechanic and a Swedish passenger were picked up by the Danish schooner Maja and the Dutch vessel Spitz saved two more passengers whose names have not yet been reported. Three passengers were reported missing and it was feared they perished.

ACCIDENTAL POKE IN EYE RESTORED SIGHT

SYDNEY, Australia, July 8—(AP)—Totally blind in his right eye for 33 years, Stephen McCormack, manager of the Griffith Fruit company, has had his eyesight restored by an accidental finger poke in the eye.

A piece of stone thrown up by a horse's hoof had blinded him. Specialists were baffled.

Thirty-three years later McCormack was exercising with a medicine ball when a companion accidentally poked a finger in his blind eye. He was seized with excruciating pains in the head and suddenly his eyesight returned.

RECALL ELECTION IN DETROIT ON JULY 22

DETROIT, July 8.—(AP)—Tuesday July 22, today was set as the date for an election on the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Richard W. Reading, city clerk, set the date following the dissolution in circuit court of a restraining order sought by the mayor to prevent the election.

Counsel for Mayor Bowles indicated they would make no further attempt to prevent an election on the recall issue, stating they would appeal "to the court of the people."

CLAIMED STEEL CORPORATION CONCEALED $5,000,000 ITEM

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 8—(AP)—Attorneys for stockholders opposed to the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation intimated today the latter concern concealed an item of $5,000,000 in its 1929 property report for "good will."

The intimation was made while James A. Campbell, 76 year old veteran chairman of the board for the Youngstown company, testified as a hostile witness in the injunction suit in Mahoning county common pleas court to prevent completion of the merger.

MRS. HOOVER WILL RETURN TO PRESIDENTAL CAMP

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, home again in the white house after a month's rest in the mountains, will make her sojourn here only temporary. Already, after two days in the city, she is planning to return to the restful seclusion of the president's camp on the Rapidan.

She probably will spend the greater part of her time there until she goes west with the president. The bracing, pine-scented air and the complete relaxation have proven an ideal antidote for months of strenuous activity as first lady of the land.

EAST RIVER "SWEPT UP" FOR N. Y. YACHT CLUB

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—A "white wing" tug swept up flotsam in New York waters today for the members of the New York Yacht club.

The tug and a scow picked up eight tons of driftwood in the East river and removed it as a menace to navigation. The floating mass included eight logs, bolted together and large enough to have damaged even a large vessel.

The Yacht club has chartered the tug for the rest of the season, to patrol the river from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

FORECAST REVISION OF BERENGUER CABINET

MADRID, July 8—(AP)—Revision of the Berenguer cabinet after the return of King Alfonso from London at the end of this month was forecast today in political circles.

Gains in influence by the conservative party leader, it was said, might cause the revision. Discussion of possible changes did not, however, include the resignation of Premier Berenguer himself who, it was said, would continue in office until after the proposed parliamentary elections at the end of the year.

Cabinet selections are being made by observers. Former Minister Bergamin, now maintaining a neutral status in political affairs, is one of the possibilities discussed. Friends of Sanchez Guerra are urging his desirability, although Sanchez himself is considered outside of the possibilities because of his repudiation of King Alfonso.

JOINT REGULATIONS FOR INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—The first of the joint regulations to be issued by Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell regarding the handling of industrial alcohol were made public tonight, continuing in effect the regulations that were in force on June 30 when the prohibition bureau was transferred to the department of justice.

Under the transfer bill, the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury were given joint authority over the handling of industrial alcohol.

The orders issued tonight provide that the bureau of industrial alcohol, the commissioner of industrial alcohol, the supervisor of permits, and the assistant supervisor of permits shall handle applications instead of the prohibition bureau and prohibition officials.

YOUTH INJURED WHEN HOMEMADE PLANE FELL

BALTIMORE, July 8—(AP)—Phillip Dystky, 16, was slightly injured today when the airplane he had made at home fell after it had reached an altitude of about five feet. Dystky with two companions constructed the ship in the basement of his home.

The youthful would-be-aviator, with no training in construction or operation of airplanes, took the ship to a field in a suburb today for a trial flight after completing it last week.

Passing motorists took the lad to a hospital where an examination was made to determine the extent of his injuries.

The plane, powered with a four-cylinder motor and having a wing spread of 12 feet, was not badly damaged.

GERMAN PUBLISHERS LOSE APPEAL IN TROTZKY CASE

DRESDEN, Germany, July 8—(AP)—The Karl Reissner Publishing company lost its appeal against a verdict of the lower courts whereby Leon Trotzky, exiled soviet leader, was exonerated from Reissner's charge of having violated a book contract.

Before being exiled from Russia, Trotzky had disposed of the rights to his memoirs to Reissner. On learning however, that Reissner had previously published a work by Alexander Kerensky, chief of the Russian government before the bolshevik revolution, in which Trotzky and Lenin were virtually accused of treason, he declined to surrender his memoirs.

The publisher thereupon brought suit for fulfillment of the contract. The courts sided with Trotzky.

FUNERAL OF SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE ON FRIDAY

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle will be buried Friday in the garden of his home at Crowborough, Sussex, a few yards from the outdoor study where the creator of Sherlock Holmes spent many days devising the plots of his stories.

Lady Conan Doyle and the family, in choosing the site of the tomb, made plain that they wished the funeral to take place within the grounds of the estate. There will be no church ritual.

However brief and informal the burial ceremony may be, one member of the family said it would be open to "any sympathizers who may enter the grounds and attend the funeral."

FARMER KILLED BY FEDERAL DRY AGENT

LONDON, Ky., July 8—(AP)—Homer Mackey, a 25 year old farmer, was killed near here today in a raid on his farm led by Guy Tuggle, a federal prohibition agent.

Helton, Tuggle and Robert Selvy of London composed the raiding party which went from here. It was reported here that they found only a half pint of whisky in Mackey's pocket.

Joseph Mackey, father of the slain man, said his son fled when he saw the officers and was shot by Frank Helton, a constable. Mackey swore out a warrant charging murder.

LINDBERGH BABY NAMED CHARLES AUGUSTUS, JR.

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—A statement was issued tonight at the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow in Englewood, N. J. that Col. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Lindbergh have named their son, born June 22 at the ambassador's home, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

M[illegible]tery Witness At [illegible]hicago Crime Probe

Strange Person, Heavily Veiled and Wearing Goggles, Appeared Before Investigating Committee.

CHICAGO, July 8—(AP)—A mysterious witness, dressed as a woman but with the physique of a man, today appeared before the investigating committee delving into the assassination of Alfred Lingle, Tribune crime reporter.

This strange person, heavily veiled and wearing goggles, lent drama to the inquiry but provided no public information toward solution of the case that has brought many charges of alliance between organized crime and politics.

The new witness appeared unexpectedly carrying a suitcase as though she or he had arrived by train. The newcomer was taken into the offices of Charles F. Rathbun, Tribune attorney and special assistant state's attorney. After more than an hour of conference the veiled person was taken to the detective bureau.

Photographs taken of the mystery witness as she left the investigators office disclosed unusual features indicating the veiled person might be a man, disguised to frustrate recognition.

The photograph revealed the person as of unusually large stature for a woman, with calloused hands, the photographer said.

A reporter for the Times who saw the witness transferred from the investigators' office to the detective bureau, said he found in the police car afterward a card engraved with the name "Irene Kelly" of Minneapolis.

In the meantime, Louis Clementi, reputed underworld character who police said was wanted for questioning about the Lingle case, walked into detective headquarters and gave himself up to Chief of Detectives John Norton. He was held for investigation.

The grand jury investigation of the Lingle slaying went forward today, along with the opening of an inquiry by the Chicago Church federation which launched a secret investigation of its own.

A dispatch from St. Louis said Harry Brundige, reporter for a St. Louis newspaper who wrote several articles charging unprofessional conduct of unnamed Chicago newspapermen, was willing to go before the grand jury but saw no reason for a preliminary conference with the state's attorney. Brundige, basing his articles on the alleged alliance of Lingle with certain gangsters and officials, contended other Chicago newspapermen were "racketeers."

LOS ANGELES COURT CONTINUES FOSTER HEARING

LOS ANGELES, July 8—(AP)—Warning detectives against removal of Frankie Foster, Chicago gangster, from jail here until a complete inquiry has been made into the contention Foster was not in Chicago when Alfred Lingle, reporter, was killed, Superior Judge Walton Wood today continued hearing on a writ of habeas corpus until July 15.

"I want to see that this petitioner is given his constitutional rights" the court said. "We will thrash out this question before he is turned over to Chicago officers for extradition to Illinois."

Foster, captured here in a roundup of Chicago gangsters, and since indicted for the killing, told the court he could prove he was not in Chicago June 9, the day Lingle was slain. He asked for time to produce witnesses.

NAMED GRAND EXALTED RULER OF THE B. P. O. E.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—(AP)—Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., who was elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks today, told the 66th annual reunion of the Grand lodge that what the world needs is not kings and dictators, but kind hearts.

"In our haste to pursue the material things of life," he said, "we are neglecting the things that are more important. Anomalous as it may seem in a democratic land, we are losing our liberties. We are hedged about with laws and limitations. What we need is to rebuild the cleansing fires of fraternity on the hearthstone of every lodge in the order, so that the warmth of these fires may be felt throughout the land. To stress these things will be my program."

Other officers elected by the Grand lodge were: Grand esteemed leading knight, Martin J. Cunningham, of Danbury, Conn.; grand esteemed loyal knight, Leonard R. Ellis, of Hot prings, Ark.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, Joseph T. Farrar, of Pooco, Utah; grand secretary, J. Edgar Masters, of Charleroi, Pa.; grand treasurer, Lloyd Maxwell, of Marshalltown, Ia.; grand tyler, L. P. McCready, of Miami, Fla.; grand inner guard, John . Holliday, of Washington, Ind.; for members of the board of trustees, James S. Richardson, of Cincinnati.

BOILING LAVA FLOWING FROM MT. VESUVIUS

NAPLES, Italy, July 8.—(AP)—Boiling lava tonight continued to flow in the crater of Mount Vesuvius, which yesterday broke into eruptive activity, but issued from a single mouth instead of, as yesterday, from three mouths.

This mouth, however, had widened to a diameter of 38 feet, and in a channel 35 feet wide the lava flowed out at a rate of about 1 foot a second.

In 24 hours the zone covered by the flow has doubled. But the explosive activity of the eruptive cone continues to be moderate, and Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian observatory, still believes it will eventually die down without causing serious damage.

SENATE IN ROW OVER TREATY PACT PAPERS

Ratification of Naval Treaty Is Submerged In Quarrel Over the Right of the Senate to Documents Relating to the London Parley—Senator Swanson Urges Approval of the Treaty In Two Hour Address—Pres. Hoover Asserts Publication of Some of the Documents Would Not Be Compatible With Public Interest.

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Ratification of the London naval treaty was urged before the senate in the opening debate today by Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking democrat on the foreign relations and naval committees, but the treaty was soon submerged in a quarrel over the right of the senate to documents relating to the London parley.

Before filled galleries and Secretary Stimson, the head of the American delegation, Senator Swanson put the case of the treaty proponents with the plea that its ratification was in the best interests of the United States both from a "selfish, military standpoint" and from "a higher and nobler purpose."

However, as the Virginian concluded his two hour address, the senate reverted to its dispute over the McKellar resolution requesting President Hoover to give the senate all papers and documents relating to the pact.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, who is in charge of the treaty, announced he was willing to accept the resolution but after three hours of debate led by Senators Johnson, republican, California and McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, the senate adjourned without reaching a vote.

Senator Borah suggested an amendment to the McKellar resolution to request the papers "if compatible with public interest." McKellar refused the amendment and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, then proposed the amendment but no vote was reached.

Treaty advocates apparently were willing to adopt the resolution in the interest of speeding up debate. President Hoover has sent some of the documents to the foreign relations committee but he has withheld part of them, asserting their publication would not be compatible with public interest. There is no expectation in the senate that he will send them up even if the McKellar resolution is adopted.

Senators Johnson and McKellar conceded today they could do nothing about it if the president declined. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, has offered to show in confidence the notes exchanged between Ambassador Dawes and the government prior to the London parley. These are the notes which have been withheld.

Two quorum calls today revealed only one more than the necessary 49 members present to transact business and treaty advocates showed some concern.

Two members will leave tomorrow, Senators Barkley, Kentucky, and Connally, Texas, both democrats, as American delegates to the interparliamentary union in London. Before leaving Senator Barkley spoke today in behalf of the treaty, urging its ratification in the interest of peace. He feared rejection of the treaty would invite a "disastrous naval race."

Senator Johnson called attention to a statement in the Diplomatic Review, a Japanese publication, stating there was a gentleman's agreement whereby America would build only 15 of the 18 cruisers authorized by the treaty.

Senator Reed, one of the London delegates, quickly denied any such agreement and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, another of the delegates asked Johnson if he believed it. He replied he did not in the face of denial by the American delegates but contended, in view of such statements, the senate ought to have all papers relating to the treaty.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, another of the treaty opponents, asked if President Hoover was attempting to "conceal something." He pointed out the president had given the foreign relations committee some of the papers in confidence and he wanted to know why all of them could not be given the committee in confidence, Johnson said if the president demanded they be kept in confidence by the senate he would agree to it.

However, Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, argued it had been shown in the past that the senate could not pledge itself to keep things in confidence.

"I am going to place a little confidence in the president," said Glenn.

"It's not a question of confidence in the president," retorted Johnson. "It is a question whether you have got any manhood as a United States senator to demand that which is rightfully yours."

McKellar quoted from the message of President Hoover about "misrepresentation and misinformation" about the treaty.

"Is is any wonder that there is misinformation and misrepresentation when the president refused all the documents?" he asked. "The senate and the president are equally responsible for making treaties. Under these circumstances each has a right to what the other has in the way of information."

Swanson told the senate the treaty gives America a well balanced fleet for the first time; assures American naval supremacy in the western hemisphere and saves the taxpayers $1,000,000 in checking naval competition.

DISORDERS CAUSE SIX DEATHS IN EGYPT

CAIRO, July 8—(AP)—Egypt's internal political dissensions today assumed a threatening and warlike aspect.

Six persons were killed and 49 wounded at Mansourah in a violent clash between supporters of Nahas Pasha, Wafd leader who recently resigned the premiership, and troops and police.

The town tonight still was in a state of ferment, but was officially stated to be well under control of the authorities.

The rioting broke out after the automobile of Nahas Pasha, with twenty or thirty nationalist students clinging to it, burst through a police cordon barring the way. It was brought to a dead stop by a line of Egyptian soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Mansourah is a hotbed of nationalist sentiment and a Wafd stronghold and the action of the troops quickly brought on the riot.

A volley of stones and bottles filled with sand was hurled into their ranks by the nationalist crowd. Hand to hand fighting raged in front of Shinawi Bey's house, where Nahas Pasha had lunched, and when it had continued for some time the police opened fire.

Three police and soldiers and three rioters were killed.

GENERAL REVISION OF FREIGHT RATE SCHEDULES

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Plans for a general revision of classified freight rate schedules in the northeastern quarter of the United States and in western trunk line territory reaching from Lake Michigan to the Rocky Mountains and from Kansas to the Canadian border, were announced today by the interstate commerce commission.

Several months will be allowed for preparation of the new rate systems prescribed.

In the west, the commission said the probable effect of the new schedules would be to increase earnings of the railroads concerned by about $12,000,000 a year, though farm products were excluded from the rate increases permitted.

In the eastern quarter, no estimates of the effect of the schedules on earnings were presented but some of the increases and deductions proposed are expected to result in some degree of heightened railroad earnings, though as in the west the new schedules forbid increases in freight charges on fruits, vegetables, hay, and for the time being, dairy products.

One of the prime objects of the double revision is to equalize classified freight charges over all the territory treated. The chief method of accomplishing this was the promulgation of mileage scales applying generally between all points.

In the east the general single scale fixed as reasonable a charge of 30 cents per 100 pounds on first class shipments for distances of five miles; which would rise to $1.12 for distances of 500 miles and terminate at $1.45 for distances of 800 miles. Charges for other freight classifications and for intermediate distances to those given would be related to the first class schedules.

Northern territory in Michigan, New England, northern New York and certain branch line areas in West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky would be subject to higher rates than those fixed by the general scale.

ANOTHER MEETING ASKED TO DECIDE AUDIT MATTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, July 8—The possibility that the town taxpayers would be called upon to meet in special meeting for the third time to take further action on the matter of an audit of the town books and vouchers loomed once more today. It was learned that a petition has been going the rounds to gain the necessary signatures for such a meeting. It is proposed that the voters rescind the vote of the special meeting of May 1, when a committee of three was appointed to draw up a contract with a certified public accountant for an audit of the books. Upon rescinding the vote, the voters would then be asked to approve the appointment of a new committee to be composed of nine well known business men and manufacturers, this committee to have full and absolute power to draw up and execute a contract for the auditing of the books.

Among the names of citizens mentioned as potential members of the new committee of nine were: A. I. Bill, W. D. Grant, H. C. Lathrop, Attorney E. Frank Bugbee, James H. Hurley, Fred H. Turner, Raymond A. Parker and John Reilly. As near as could be learned none of the three members of the original committee, Attorney William A. Arnold, Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Taxpayers' Protective association, and Henry A. Bugbee were included in the tentative list.

As the audit situation now stands and has been standing for over two months, a contract had been drawn up between the special committee of three and Walter A. Musgrave, certified public accountant, but this contract has remained unsigned by the board of selectmen. The outstanding reason advanced by the selectmen for failure to sign the contract was that the terms were not the lowest submitted by various accountants and further, that the terms were not sufficiently specific. There exists, since the first meeting held on the matter, an appropriation of $10,000 to have the audit carried out. The movement for an audit of the town books began early last spring as an objective of the Taxpayers' Protective association. A meeting was held and an audit voted upon but the minutes of that meeting failed to show exactly what town books were to be audited. The result was that the second meeting was held May 1 to clarify the situation by specifying that "all" town books including those of the town treasurer, tax collector, etc., be audited. It was subsequent to this meeting that the "hitch" over the terms of the contract arose.

A proposal of the Willimantic chamber of commerce that a town finance board be established is not expected to be included in the warning of the forthcoming special meeting. This proposal, the acceptance of which is intended to prevent future recurrence of difficulty and misunderstanding in town finances will likely be brought before the voters at some time after the audit controversy is settled.

The North Windham fire department elected the following officers at its fifth annual meeting held in the fire house Monday night with 20 members present: Chief, Wilbur G. Stevens; assistant chief, Hansel Kammeritz; foreman, Lester M. Hartson; assistant foreman, Walter Wallen; treasurer, John Phillips; secretary, Richard E. Wright; executive board, Leslie Hartson, chairman, Harry Hecker and Charles Tucker; finance committee, Burt Latham, Harold Cahill and Ellsworth Weeks. Chief Stevens appointed Clarence Maine, Elmer Balcom, Edward Butcher and Henry Travernick as truck drivers.

The department is in excellent condition. Plans for development include the purchase of a centrifugal pump, designed and built by Hansel Kammeritz, one of the members, for equipment to the Reo chemical truck. The pump will have a capacity of several hundred gallons a minute. A supply of hose for the machine is also to be purchased.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

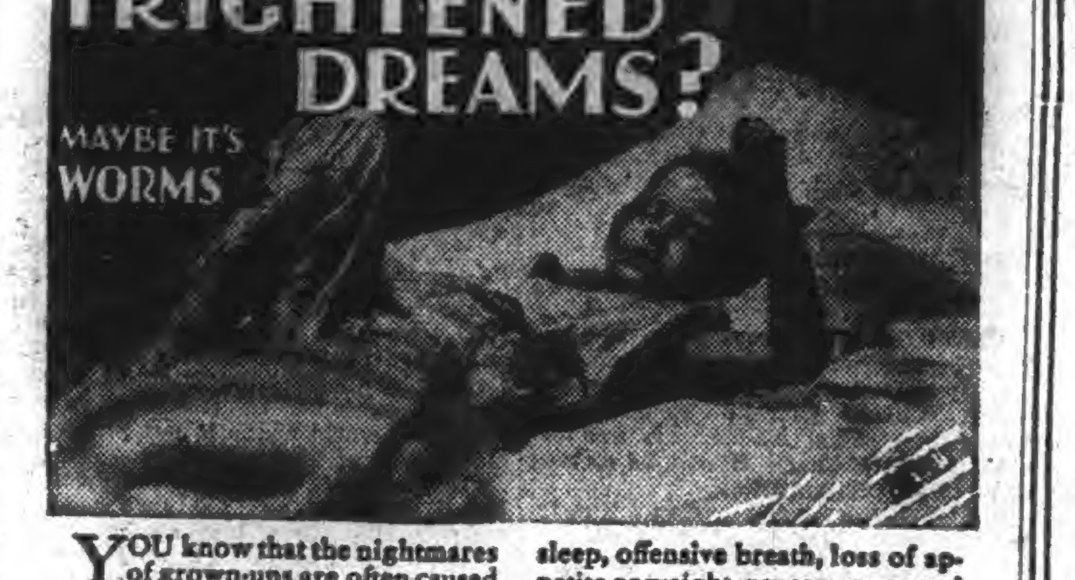
FRIGHTENED DREAMS?

MAYBE IT'S WORMS



YOU know that the nightmares of grown-ups are often caused by indigestion. Do you realize that your little one's frightened dreams may be due to worms? They are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

STATE POLICE SEIZE CHOICE LIQUORS AT PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, July —A quantity of champagne and some choice imported liquors, whiskey, creme de menthe, gin and the inevitable alcohol was included in the most important seizure of the kind made in months by state officers of the Danielson barracks at Plainfield about 4 o'clock this morning.

Gordon Schleffer, 85 Woodland street Providence, was the operator of the richly laden rum car, a Willys Knight sedan. The wholesale value of the liquor seized is estimated at around $1100. It was being closely guarded at the barracks on North Main street here this afternoon.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart and State Officers Elton Nolan and H. Theodore Strand made the seizure, halting the car as it came along the highway near the home of County Game Warden Thomas Daniels. The machine is believed to have been bound out of Providence with its cargo of about 100 bottles of various kinds of blue heaven when the officers nabbed it, and its destination is said to have been Middletown.

There was blackberry cordial, White Satin gin, and McTavish Scotch, Old Crow and William Penn whiskies and a variety of liqueurs in the lot.

This afternoon Schleffer was presented in the town court of Plainfield and was fined $400 and costs, on charges of transportation and keeping with intent to sell. Myron Corrodetsky of 3 1-2 Lippitt street, Providence, who was riding with Schleffer when the state officers halted the liquor car, was fined $100 and costs as an accessory to transportation. Both paid and went their way.

This afternoon at the home in the Howard hill section of Foster funeral services for Henry K. Luther were conducted by Rev. Frederick M. Buker of Anthony, R. I. The bearers were Arthur Henry, Walter Henry, Everett Howard and Walter Adler. Burial was in the new Rockland cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Drops Dead.

Philip Vanasse, 41, dropped dead this morning as he entered the mill at Moosup where he has been employed. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. It is said that there was no indication that Mr. Vanasse was in other than his usual condition when he left his home to follow out his daily routine of labor.

Mr. Vanasse was a native of Canada, but had been a resident of Moosup for 25 years. He leaves his wife and five children, Henry, Annette, Alexander, Doris and Theresa. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

Another batch of commercial vehicle operators has been rounded up by state officers of the Danielson barracks, this time in the town of Sterling and Plainfield. The majority of those who will go to court will be charged with operating such machines without the necessary reflector equipment.

Reed, Sterling; Isadore Smulowictz, Moosup; Anthony Farroria of Providence was ordered into court because his machine was not equipped with a windshield wiper. An additional charge against Gold is that he was doing a junk business in Connecticut without being licensed to engage in such enterprise in this state.

Eight competitors engaged in the registered shoot of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, the fourth of the present season. W. J. Stainton was high in the 100 16-yard target event with 96. L. S. Ingalls second with 94. Lewis H. Bradley third with 92. J. A. Carter won the distance handicap with 47 out of 50 from 19 yards, and E. C. Griffith was second with 45. Lewis H. Bradley won the doubles with 45 out of 50, while W. J. Stainton was second with 42.

More splendid weather today made it possible for those attending Chautauqua to enjoy the afternoon and evening programs under practically ideal conditions. This morning there was a boys and girls' hour conducted by Marjorie Turner Todd. The afternoon program was furnished by the Versatile Entertainers, in a feature program that was pleasing to young and old, and examples of American folk craft were demonstrated by Marjorie Turner Todd for the young people. This evening a talented company presented the intriguing mystery play, Dead Man's Holiday. Patrons thoroughly enjoyed the program offerings today.

It is estimated that 500 Finnish people assembled in Brooklyn and Canterbury over the past week end for a three days' annual outing, the last day of which, unhappily, was spoiled by rain. The visitors came from many places in New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island and had a delightful time. Picnic parties were held on the banks of the Quinebaug river. These gatherings have become an annual event in this territory.

From the town court this morning Zotique Dion went back to the county jail at Brooklyn to serve a sentence of 30 days for intoxication. Another case before Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis today was that of Edward Greene of Foster. He was fined $1 and costs for operating, in this town, a motor vehicle without having a license to do so. He explained that he was driving because his wife, who has an operator's license, was too ill to operate the machine herself, on their way to their home.

JEWETT CITY

NORWICH MAN FINDS POEM ABOUT FAMED OLD MILL

Jonas L. Herbert, a former postmaster of Voluntown and Glasgo, also a one-time baker of Jewett City, now of 642 Main street, Norwich, has discovered among some of his old records a copy of the one-time famous local poem, written in 1890.

The verses tell the story of an ancient "Mill of Many Names," which away back before the Civil war was built in the backwoods of Voluntown, near the foot of Ekonk hill. This grim old structure was situated on the banks of Great Meadow brook and was first known around a hundred years ago as Kennedy's mill. Failing in his industry, John Kennedy left the mill, where it stood a monument among the wrecks of time. For years it was left to moulder and decay, until one day the poem runs, a local sportsman found the mosquitoes that bred in the old stagnant pond grown so large that he actually shot one, believing it to be a woodcock. The locality was named, after that episode became known, Skeeterville. Still later, some time prior to the Civil war, Erasmus Campbell from Rhode Island tried his hand there at making "Nigger Cloth," with the name changed to "Erasmus Campbell's Ville." The sketch then presents to present-day readers such ancient characters, noted in their day, as "Uncle Tom," the mail carrier, Maxon on the hill, and Dr. Daniel with his old black pipe and little cathartic pill, Rodman Ben, the jack spinner, Charlie the politician, and Miner's where the boys used to come and quench their thirst with good New England rum. Then came Elisha Potter, another prewar owner. The lines tell that he didn't understand the making of Nigger cloth, so a man named Dixon from Sterling Hill bought in, and the mill's name changed again to the Potter & Dixon Mill. At length there came the cruel war that made more business still and many a soldier wore the rags that were picked at this old mill. Later owners changed the name to Farnum's Shoddy Mill. Then came another purchaser, Charles H. Kinne. He put in new machinery and chose the name of "Meadow Ville" as the title for his plant. He used too good stock and lost out on his venture. Then came purchasers from Occum, three men, who put in Crompton looms, and altered the name to the Merino Mill. Their plans, like those of their predecessors, miscarried, with the result that the property was taken over by the Willis Lock Co.; they christened the ancient mill "Industry Ville." Finally this mill of many names went up one night in smoke and flames, it being learned that an incendiary had put the torch to it. Speaking of Jedediah, the boss carder, and Uncle Gideon, who kept the store, the author tells that like the old mill they are gone. The name the sportsman gave the place is the one that clings to it still, for throughout the region hereabouts, it is known yet as "Skeeter Ville."

PUTNAM

OVER 100 ARE ENROLLED IN VACATION SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 8.—It's vacation time, play time and school time all combined into one and rolled into a daily period of two and a half hours for about 110 Putnam children who are enrolled in the Daily Vacation school of the Windham County Council of Religious Education, now in session at the First Baptist church on Woodstock avenue.

Monday morning saw the opening of the school. A record number of students, representative of the primary and junior departments of the Sunday school classes of the city's various churches, appeared. The student body was enlarged this morning with the application for enrollment of several additional youngsters eager to join the initial class in the prescribed course of study which includes religious instruction, woodcraft, paper and handwork, recreation, world friendship and health projects.

Miss Gertrude Perry, daughter of City Engineer and Mrs. George W. Perry of Providence street, is secretary of the school. Miss Perry has been an exponent of this work for the past few years and her association with the society again this season is certain to insure success for the enterprise. Miss Thelma Bosworth is registrar and with Miss Alice Perry of Grove street she shares the leadership of the primary department.

The handwork and woodcraft work of the primary and junior departments is being supervised by Miss Esther MacNaught of Abington, a specialist in this field of endeavor. Miss Helen Varbedian, who was graduated from Putnam high school in June, herself a talented artist, is directing the part music is playing in the school programme. Others who are assisting the superintendent with the instruction are: Rev. E. P. Wright, rector of St. Philip's church; Rev. H. H. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist church; Rev. G. B. Hawkes, of Abington; Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Miss Marjorie Benoit, Miss Edna Kent, Miss Corrine Wilson, Miss Louise Sherman, Miss Chrysie Anas and Miss Sara Rhodes, of Putnam; Miss Gladys Evans, of Mechanicsville, and Miss Dorothy Whitehouse, of Pomfret. An advanced student in the carpentry department of the state trade school, through the courtesy of H. H. Ellis, principal of the school, has been assigned to assist Miss MacNaught in the woodcraft instruction work.

Miss Perry, secretary of the school, said this morning that the school is fostered by the various churches of the city who have contributed to the fund. She said that expenses in connection with the operation of the school are unusually large this year due to the amount of equipment purchased and the large enrollment of students. Private contributions to defray the additional expenses will be asked, Miss Perry said this morning.

The vacation school will terminate on July 18. The closing exercises will consist of a picnic to be held at Roseland lake in South Woodstock. The closing exercises will be preceded by an exhibition of work of the young pupils. The proposed exhibition will be opened to the public and will be announced at a later date.

CONTRACT FOR PIPING IS NOT YET AWARDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 8.—Sealed proposals for pipe valves, connections, excavation and other material to be used in the reconstruction of the piping system of the city water company submitted by various firms were opened last Thursday in the office of Ralph E. Thurston chairman of the board of water commissioners. The bids were divided into sections. One set of prices was submitted on 16-inch pipe, another on 12-inch and 8-inch pipe and a third on valves and hydrants.

The Herbert Kennedy company submitted a low figure of $16,018.60 on pipes. Their proposal was submitted in competition with five other leading pipe manufacturing concerns. Chief Thurston said this afternoon that the board of water commissioners had not as yet released the contract for the supplying of the material to any definite concern. He said that this matter would not be discharged until another meeting of the board of water commissioners is held. Symonds & Stevens, hydraulic engineers of Boston, retained by the water commission to direct the technical work of the reconstruction plans, will be consulted before the contracts are issued.

The Headquarters company of the 43rd Division, C. N. G., Putnam military unit, is scheduled to entrain for Camp Devens at Ayer, Mass., on Aug 2, Captain John J. McGarry, commanding officer of the company, said today.

Putnam plot, the little patch of green, is lending much color to Union square these days. About two weeks ago Charles A. Ryan of the Independent taxi force undertook to revamp the plot, which lost most of its beauty due to the absence of care and the collection of coal dust from passing locomotives. The letters of the word "Putnam" were relaid and painted. Mr. Ryan then extended his efforts to the planting of several plants of a variety of species and reseeded the surface with grass seed. The result has been the enhancing of the beauty of the little spot situated in the heart of the city's business section. Mr. Ryan has proved to be a horticulturist with a wealth of experience. His flowers took to root and some one of these days the small area of green in Union square will be clothed in a mass of blossoms. Among the collection of plants Mr. Ryan set out were two shamrocks from the Emerald Isle, which are attracting much attention from admiring passersby.

VACATION TERRITORY

We are now in the midst of the vacation season and this part of Connecticut has a large number of summer visitors, those who are at the shore places, those who are spending a period at one of the summer camps and those who are touring this part of the country.

Vacations are important. Everyone should have the opportunity to enjoy them and get the benefit which can be derived from them. They are periods of rest and recreation which furnish a tonic for the remainder of the year, and it makes little difference what is desired, the most exacting can get his wants filled in New England.

To the shores, lakes and mountains of this part of the country it is estimated that 18,000 boys and girls have come to enjoy and profit from the outdoor life. They have come by boat, by rail, by auto, and the more than 500 camps are hives of activity in one form or another. It is inevitable that such camps should mean much to the particular localities in which they have been established. They are to the country what the shore resorts are to the seacoast. They have sought out the delightful lakes and ponds and they have developed in size and attractions from year to year until they have become thoroughly established and fixtures upon which dependence can be placed each year.

In addition to these there are the country boarding houses and hotels which cater to thousands of big city residents, those who have little opportunity to enjoy the great outdoors, to get wholesome food and fresh air and to see how nature operates. This business has, in many instances, brought successful results to the farmer who was formerly trying to eke out a living by tilling the soil. He has developed a new business which also furnishes a better outlet for his farm products.

In all these directions this part of Connecticut has displayed marked development in the last two decades without reaching the saturation point. The attractions have been here far beyond the recall of memory, but it is only within recent years that they have been brought to the present state of utilization. Residents in this part of the country have not overlooked the existing charms, but they have a strong appeal for those who are deprived of the privilege of enjoying them except during vacation days.

THE NEW VETS BUREAU

The selection of General Hines as the head of the consolidated bureau dealing with veterans' affairs was a logical one. He is in touch with an important part of the work at the present time and is in a position to extend his control to include such other agencies as have been consolidated under legislation recently adopted.

General Hines is now director of the veterans' bureau. This was a new governmental activity made necessary by the war. There was in the first place the insurance plan for the benefit of dependents of deceased veterans. Then there was the rehabilitation work which was included therewith and after that came the bonus insurance plan, hospitalization work and other similar activities which had to be administered by that bureau.

At the same time there was the pension bureau, which was functioning along its usual lines, caring for the Civil war veterans and later the Spanish war veterans. This made two agencies that were not exactly alike but operating along much the same lines. It was apparent that there was an opportunity to bring them together and eliminate much duplication. There was the same chance for consolidation there which has been recognized in other directions. The possibilities of bringing them together under one head was studied and the recommendations received favorable action from congress.

How huge a part of the government service these combined agencies represent is shown by the estimate that next year the consolidated budget will approximate $800,000,000 and that through consolidation it will be possible to effect a saving of $11,000,000. This means, of course, that the dropping of certain employes will be possible, or else that the added duties placed upon the consolidated bureau will not necessitate the employment of any additional clerks. It means that one bureau is going to do the work of two and that much of the expense which now goes for administration purposes will be available for the services which are being rendered by the government in behalf of the veterans of the several wars.

The government is fortunate in being able to retain the services of General Hines in carrying through this consolidation and administrating the work of the new agency during the readjustment days.

LESS NOISE

It is too much to expect that there will ever be developed a noiseless city, but there are plenty of opportunities for decreasing much of the needless noise which features cities, large and small.

New York has had a commission at work studying the situation in that city. It has been devoting its efforts to scientific tests and inquiries, with the result that it finds that "the continual pressure of strident sound to which New Yorkers are subjected tends to produce impairment of hearing, to introduce harmful strain upon the nervous system, leading to neurasthenic and psychasthenic states, to cause loss of efficiency of workers and thinkers, and finally to interfere so gravely with sound, refreshing sleep that rest is difficult and, in some cases, impossible."

That such conclusions should be reached after a six months' inquiry is by no means surprising. That it is an easier task to disclose such a situation than it is to correct it seems probable, and yet the commission points out that it has been able to get the cooperation of captains of vessels in the harbor to curtail the whistling, the cooperation of owners of fleets of trucks to eliminate the use of cutouts and the needless blowing of horns, the installation of muffled turnstiles in subways and the enactment of legislation for the curbing of loud speakers.

Noises grow with the use of streets and the increase in the size of communities. Some relief has been afforded automatically by the large increase in the rubber tired vehicles and smooth pavements in contrast to the days of iron tires, block pavements and horse-drawn vehicles. And yet, with the change there have come the noises incident to the operation of autos, the rattle and bang of old machines, the blatant and frequently-blown auto horns. There are many other noises incidental to industry which may yield to study and effort but there is a great opportunity for the individual to eliminate much that he adds to the daily din. Instead of seeing how much noise can be made, there is always the chance to see how much can be eliminated. As the commission reports, the price of noise is a high and needless one, and if New York can set an example in quietness it will be accomplishing a most important and needed effort.

UNCLAIMED SECURITIES

With all the scramble for money whether employment is good or bad, the regular reports by the government of money which belongs to others but which has never been collected from Uncle Sam disclose what probably represents the carelessness or misfortune of many people.

In connection with the issue of government bonds and the redemption of the same, there comes a time when interest stops. Notification is given of the calling of the bonds for payment with the expectation that they will be presented and the money collected. For the most part, the holders of such securities do not neglect such a matter. That some do for one reason or another is shown by the fact that the United States treasury has never been asked to pay out the sum of $31,716,860 which belongs to holders of those obligations. This means that for years the government has had the use of this sizeable sum without interest and that, aside from the principal, there is more than a million dollars in interest being lost each year.

What has happened to these securities no one knows. The presumption is that some of them have been lost, some have been destroyed by fire or otherwise through mistake, and it is likely that there have been some patriotic citizens who have actually destroyed them with the idea of giving the money to the government.

The situation is one which reveals the importance of taking special care of securities. They should be placed where thieves and fire cannot get them, where they will be safe and not be forgotten and when the time comes for redemption they should be cashed as soon as possible in order that there should be as little loss of interest as possible.

With the use which most people have for money, the opportunities for employing such funds for worthy causes and the urgings to avoid economic losses, it is surprising that such unclaimed funds have been allowed to accumulate to such an amount.

A. CONAN DOYLE

Not all of A. Conan Doyle's writings were confined to the exploitation of his famous character, Sherlock Holmes, for he wrote much other delightful fiction, but it was through the creation of Sherlock Holmes that he was best known. There is no doubt but what he made his name through that character and the appeal which his work had to the lovers of detective stories was widespread. It has been impossible to hear one name without having it bring the other to mind, and it will long be so, for there cannot fail to be the same keen interest in his books by coming generations.

That he should have given up his detective story writing during the last years of his life a explained by himself in the statement that he devoted his years of effort to the development of Sherlock Holmes that he might obtain a reputation and following for the serious presentation of spiritism. That was the subject to which he devoted his time and efforts for the past decade or so. It was a decided change from previous years, though he had long been a student in that field. But, as he indicated, it was because of his prominence as a writer of fiction that he hoped to carry his readers along with him in his spiritualistic reasonings.

That he experienced some evidence of this is probable. That he saw a decrease in popularity through his departure from his field of fiction an entrance into another would not be surprising, but that cannot take away from him the credit for the clever work and the keen reasoning that he did with the character that became as famous as did its creator.

He was a fascinating writer, no matter what the subject might be, several of his volumes having dealt with the Boer and World wars.

SCHOOL DAYS

When Jimmy Brown first came into Miss Morrison's class of fourth-graders she thought he was the sweetest 10-year-old she ever had seen. A few days later she decided he was sweet but mischievous; a few days after that she decided he was less sweet and very naughty, and shortly after that an incident occurred which decided her to do something she'd threatened before—summon Jimmy's father.

It was the incident of the perfume which first changed Miss Morrison's opinion of Jimmy. Coming in after recess she found the room pervaded with the pungent, overwhelming odor of cheap scent which must have been poured, ounces of it, over the floor, the window sills and the desks.

"Who did it?" she demanded, eyeing Reginald Tobin. Reginald maintained his innocence. Miss Morrison went the rounds of the class, leaving Jimmy Brown to the last as farthest removed from suspicion.

"Jimmy," she finally asked, "was it you?"

"Yes,m." Somehow she couldn't be severe.

Never, she said, trying to be stern, "let this happen again."

For several days Jimmy was a model pupil. Then a second atrocity occurred. In the midst of the arithmetic lesson a resounding clang came from the depths of Miss Morrison's desk. Frantically she reached in and drew out an alarm clock that had been set to ring at this auspicious hour.

"Jimmy," said Miss Morrison, "are you responsible for this?"

"Yes'm."

"I've a good mind," said she, "to call your father." But Jimmy looked up so appealingly that she relented and the alarm clock incident also closed with a mild reprimand.

But a greater catastrophe was imminent. Not long after this Miss Morrison was listening to the English recitation when she chanced to look down and into the bright eyes of a small white mouse. She squealed and jumped up on her chair That mouse was but one of many at large in the room. The class was thrown into a panic. With the greatest difficulty the mice were captured and order was restored.

"Jimmy," said Miss Morrison severely, "are these your mice?"

"Yes'm." There was but one thing to do and she did it.

Before school next morning Jimmy Brown's father, summoned, came up to see Miss Morrison. The instant she saw him she knew why she'd never been able to punish his son. He had the same appealingness, the mischievous twinkle, the sweetness of Jimmy.

"Well," he smiled, "I hear Jimmy's been up to some of my old tricks." Miss Morrison had to laugh.

"I guess," went on Jimmy senior, "Jimmy needs what he's never had—a woman's influence. You see, his mother died when he was a tiny lad"

"Oh!" She hadn't known that.

"If you'd only be a bit patient with us both," said Mr. Brown, "I'll try to teach him better and maybe you and I together—"

"Of course," Miss Morrison blushed adorably.

"I feel," said Jimmy's father, "that I should come up often to talk to you—about Jimmy."

"Yes," she said softly, "I wish you would."

After that Mr. Brown found numerous occasions when he felt compelled to see Miss Morrison. And Jimmy become a model pupil. One day he presented Miss Morrison a box of choice roses from his father's garden. Another day he brought her a collection of rare books from his father's library. Then one night, when Jimmy was tucked into bed, he saw his father dressing with particular care and asked him where he was bound.

"I'm going," said Jimmy's dad, "over to Miss Morrison's house." Jimmy looked alarmed.

"Haven't I been a good boy, daddy?" His lips quivered.

"Yes," said Mr. Brown, "a very good boy."

"I'm sorry," said Jimmy contritely, "that I was ever a bad boy, daddy."

"Well," said his father, "I'm not sorry you were bad. I'm really glad about it. The moment I saw your teacher I knew we both needed her—Jimmy." His father bent down and kissed his ear. "I'm going to ask Miss Morrison tonight to be your future mother."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Half Alive

By J. Clarence Funk, Sc. D., Bureau Public Health Education, Harrisburg, Pa.

The other day an express train rounded a curve and hit an automobile. A physician who happened to be a passenger examined the injured driver and sorrowfully exclaimed, "Half alive!" A few hours later the unfortunate traveler died in a hospital of a near-by city, thus paying the penalty for his carelessness and indiscretion.

Newspapers give front page headlines to such events. People read the stories with awe, perhaps with an inward shudder, and silently pray that such a fate will not be theirs. And so far, so good.

But while thousands are in this way impressed with the spectacular, they are often blind to the fact they themselves are chronically only about half alive. They do not seem to grasp the fact that carelessness and indiscretion are leading them to an untimely death quite as inevitably as they did the train-racing automobilist. And thus far, not so good!

A tremendous number of persons are more directly responsible for their premature death than is nature itself, which usually gets all the blame. And being half alive is one of the popular ways of quietly attaining such an undesired end.

For instance, on the next trip down town, if you happen to live in a large community, observe the people whom you meet on the street A careful inspection will indicate beyond question that a number of them do not present the appearance of vigor and vitality usually associated with abundant health. Many of them, and perhaps more than would be willing to admit it, are either in or approaching the half-alive class.

Now it is quite true that this world is a wonderful place in which to be, even marvelous adventure to travel life's present-day pathway with a body fully alive.

One should not forget that health, not money nor position, is the first essential of success, the mainstay of real happiness, and that half-aliveness is a poor substitute.

Nature, while being an exacting task master, is not a hard one. It demands that the body daily receive fresh air, exercise, sufficient food (neither too much nor too little), proper elimination and adequate sleep. It also insists upon the absence of excesses of all kinds. All of which is indeed little to ask for the joy of possessing a one hundred per cent efficient physiological economy. This being so, why do so few people strive for the ultimate in health, happiness and long life? It is a glorious objective. Begin by getting out of the half-alive class if you are in it. The chance is at your door and there is no better way to start.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Why Mrs. Muskrat Didn't Miss the Young Muskrats

Whatever is, you're bound to find,
A cause or reason has behind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Jerry Muskrat's children had gone out into the Great World to make homes for themselves. All of them had gone down to the Big River, for you see, they wanted to see something of the Great World, and the Smiling Pool was not a big enough place for them. Now, you would have thought that their mother would have missed them sadly. She didn't She didn't seem to miss them at all.

Peter Rabbit noticed this. "I should think you would be very lonesome, Mrs. Muskrat," said Peter.

"Is Mrs. Peter very lonesome when the last of her children goes out into the Great World?" asked Mrs. Muskrat.

Peter considered for a moment. "Well, said he, "sometime it seems to me there isn't any last. You know, one family is hardly out of the way when another one takes its place. It seems to me sometimes as if there are babies in the dear Old Briar-patch all the time through the summer."

Mrs. Muskrat grinned. "We mothers do not have much time to be lonesome," said she. And without another word she disappeared under water and Peter saw no more of her that day.

Jerry Muskrat spent most of his time taking things easy. There was plenty to eat and little difficulty in getting it. There was no work demanding his attention. So Jerry swam about, visited and had a good time generally. Peter Rabbit happened to remember that when Mrs. Muskrat had had that big family in the house in the bank of the Smiling Pool, Jerry had had to go elsewhere.

"I suppose," said Peter to Jerry, "that now the family has gone, you are back in that home of yours in the bank."

Jerry grinned. "Supporting so doesn't make it so," said he.

"What do you mean by that?" demanded Peter.

"Just what I said," replied Jerry.

"Do you mean that you are not living there?" Peter asked.

"You've guessed it," said Jerry.

"I should think you would be very lonesome, Mrs. Muskrat," said Peter

Peter at once became very curious. "Why?" he demanded. "Why aren't you living there?"

"For the same reason that I didn't live there before," replied Jerry, and grinned again.

"You mean—you mean,"——began Peter.

"Exactly," said Jerry, interrupting. "That is just what I mean."

"How many this time?" Peter inquired.

Jerry shook his head. "I don't know yet," said he. "Probably plenty."

"Now I know," said Peter, "why Mrs. Muskrat hasn't seemed to miss the children who went out into the Great World."

"That's it," replied Jerry. "She had something else to take up her mind. By the way, Peter, what about your own family? Haven't you any babies over in the dear Old Briar-patch?"

"I did have when I left home," grinned Peter. "Some of them were beginning to think that they knew all that I could teach them. So by the time I get home again they may have started off into the Great World. Your children don't seem to worry you much, Jerry."

"Nor do yours seem to worry you much, Peter," replied Jerry. "But then, I guess the mothers do worrying enough for the whole family. Worrying seems to be part of a mother's job. Hello! Here comes Longlegs the Heron! No, it isn't Longlegs! Now, who can he be and where did he come from?"

Sky Notes Through the Leeward Islands

An air cruise along the Leeward Islands, the Caribbean chain that Columbus visited and named in his second voyage, is described in a communication to the National Geographic society by Frederick Simpich, flying with the society's West Indies-South America aerial survey party. "We are in the wake of Columbus now," the communication says. "On his second voyage Columbus sailed along this same chain of islands, and gave many their names. The rattle and bang of our huge all-metal flying boat, with nothing but water to look at in all directions, makes me sleepy. But suddenly I feel the ship begin to climb and turn, and there is the odd little island of Saba. Stevens has signaled the pilots to wheel about it for pictures.

"The Dutch have owned Saba and lived here for 300 years. Dutchmen on Saba are sailors, and good boat builders. From the air now I see men sawing lumber. They build small fishing boats high up on Saba's hills and slide them down to sea. We make out crooked paths, cut in the rocky isle, leading up from the beaches. We see many scattered houses, and a church. Here and there we observe women working in tiny tilled fields; these are potato patches, my book says. That is one aspect of air travel: you miss the familiar touch and smell of things with which, in riding on the ground, you have close contact. Nor can air passengers stop and ask questions; you get only a quick glance, and are gone. Before I finish this paragraph Saba is receding astern. So I turn to my map and there ahead, but off to our right, is St. Kitts and Nevis, where Admiral Nelson married the widow Nisbet and where Alexander Hamilton was born.

"St. Kitts is the mother colony of British West Indies. English settled here about the time Captain John Smith built Jamestown in Virginia. Like other islands hereabouts, the early story of St. Kitts is a tale of struggle among English, French, Spaniards and Caribs for possession. Then peace, slavery and huge prosperity from sugar and the rum trade, until world-wide changes of the past few decades sadly upset the ancient and goodly order.

"Looking out over our big yellow wing, I see ahead now the island of Antigua. It is the seat of government of the British-owned Leeward Island colony. We make for St. Johns, its capital city, flying along clear blue water under which we see beautiful coral beds; then over the city with its two-towered cathedral of the Church of England, and thence out over the country. Below is a checkerboard of roads and sugar plantations with many ruined mills and odd stone towers where big wind wheels once turned rollers to squeeze out the cane juice. With its trim fields and gardens, its neat homes, good roads and sandy beaches, and groves here and there, Antigua from the air looks much like the country around Santa Barbara, California.

"Now we alight, and on the pier are crowds of people, waiting to welcome us. Word has gone far down ocean lanes that a group of Americans is coming, with many cameras, to make a pictorial story of this increasingly-popular air path across the West Indies. But that isn't why crowds always greet us, wherever we stop. What they really want is to see the great air-liner and get a free ride over the old home town, before we fly away to the next port! 'Like many other islands down this way, our big trouble is lack of water,' said a British official when we were ashore. 'And then, too, the world sugar stagnation adds to our hard times.'

"He drove me across the island to famous old 'English Harbour.' There, as if preserved or reconstructed for museum use, is a perfect example of the old-time British West Indian naval dockyard, just as it existed in the long, long ago. Huge anchors, old wooden figure-heads from sailing ships, a 'Cordage and Canvas Store,' immense wooden capstans used for 'careening' ships two centuries ago—and a great stone block and giant ring-bolt for tying up the ship when careened; an old stone sundial, and great cisterns and pipes by which His Majesty's ships at the quay were stocked with fresh water; and then, the house where Admiral Horatio Nelson lived: his chairs, a queer fountainlike pool in the kitchen which kept ants from getting at the admiral's gingerbread, and some old maps and woodcuts of his time.

"These once rich islands were in the eyes of the whole world in those days. Europe was sugar-mad. On St. Kitts, at famous Brimstone hill, a mere handful of English troops made their memorable stand against 8,000 French under the Marquis de Bouille. Though overcome in the end, this check to the French made it possible for Rodney to conquer their fleet—and save the West Indies for the British.

"But the white man's sun is setting in this romantic island world he has ruled so long. Wars are no more, and the fight to survive is now an economic-racial struggle. Whites lose because they do not take root in tropic lands. Nineteen out of twenty of the many thousands here now are descendants of slaves."

Rebuke.

Joe has been unsuccessfully hinting for an air rifle, and finally to satisfy that yearning for guns, he carved and whittled a very creditable looking rifle from a stick of wood. His father, on examining it, was amused and rather touched to find that the lad had lettered this label on the gunstock: "Nonexplosive!"

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Herman Roser & Son, Inc., Glastonbury.

Originally one of the many small country tanneries common in the 18th century, Herman Roser & Son, Inc., is one of the only three tanneries now remaining in Connecticut.

Edward Hubbard, who had been operating the old Hubbard tannery on Nelpsic Road, Glastonbury, in 1854 took Isaac Broadhead into partnership, and they put up a small building, with dam and waterwheel for grinding bark, on the site of the present plant. This original building is still a part of the present tannery.

In 1886, Herman Roser of Stuttgart, Germany, purchased the business, thereby continuing in the industry with which his family had been identified since the 15th century. He began specializing in pigskin leather, and from a small beginning gradually built up this trade.

At that time most of the raw skins same from nearby towns in Connecticut, and the leather was sold chiefly for saddles. Now the whole world is scoured for the best raw skins and the finished article is noted for its quality and adaptability in the whole field of leather-using goods.

Twenty years ago the process of tanning required over a year, but scientific methods have cut this to three months or less. In 1901 the first finishing machine was installed and now the plant is unsurpassed for modern and efficient leather-working equipment.

Roser's pigskin is used for saddles, leggings, golf bags, shoes, luggage of all kinds, bookbindings, door panels, furniture, automobile and deluxe railway car upholstery, pocketbooks, memorandum books, brief cases, ladies hand bags, tobacco pouches, garters, belts, suspenders and novelties.

In 1918 the business was incorporated and today Herman Roser & Son, Inc., is among the three largest producers of pigskin in the world and the only one making this leather exclusively.

Herman Roser is still active in the business and is assisted by his three sons.

The officers of the corporation are: Herman Roser, president; John H. Roser, treasurer; Ernest W. Worsdell, secretary; Martin L. Roser, superintendent.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 8—But for the accident of illness within its small congressional delegation, Utah would have been more heard from on both sides of the tariff row than any other state in the Union.

She not only provided the chairman of the senate finance committee in the person of the veteran, Smoot; but also the third ranking democrat on the committee, King.

King was priming for the battle long before actual tariff making began. He has a pronounced leaning toward figures and detailed work, and had a lot of experience in law making, both in the state legislature and in the house before he entered the senate. He was counted on by his democratic colleagues in preparing for the tariff warfare.

When his health forced his withdrawal from senate activities for virtually all of the tariff sessions, the task that would have been his devolved upon Barkley of Kentucky, a ways and means veteran from the house but King's junior on the finance committee.

Watched

Having been re-elected in 1928, King faced no gruelling battle at home at the conclusion of the session. He appeared now and then on the senate floor but as a spectator after his return from a trip abroad made in search of health. He still was under rigid orders from his doctors not to do any work. Up to almost the last moment there was doubt on how he would vote in the final show down on the tariff bill.

The junior Utah senator was greatly disappointed by his inability to play a leading part in the tariff battle.

Soon after illness forced him into a Washington hospital for observation, the Bystander met him on the street. He then said he was bending every effort toward recovering sufficiently to get back to the senate floor. That he did not succeed in doing—despite the months of wrangling that followed.

Critic

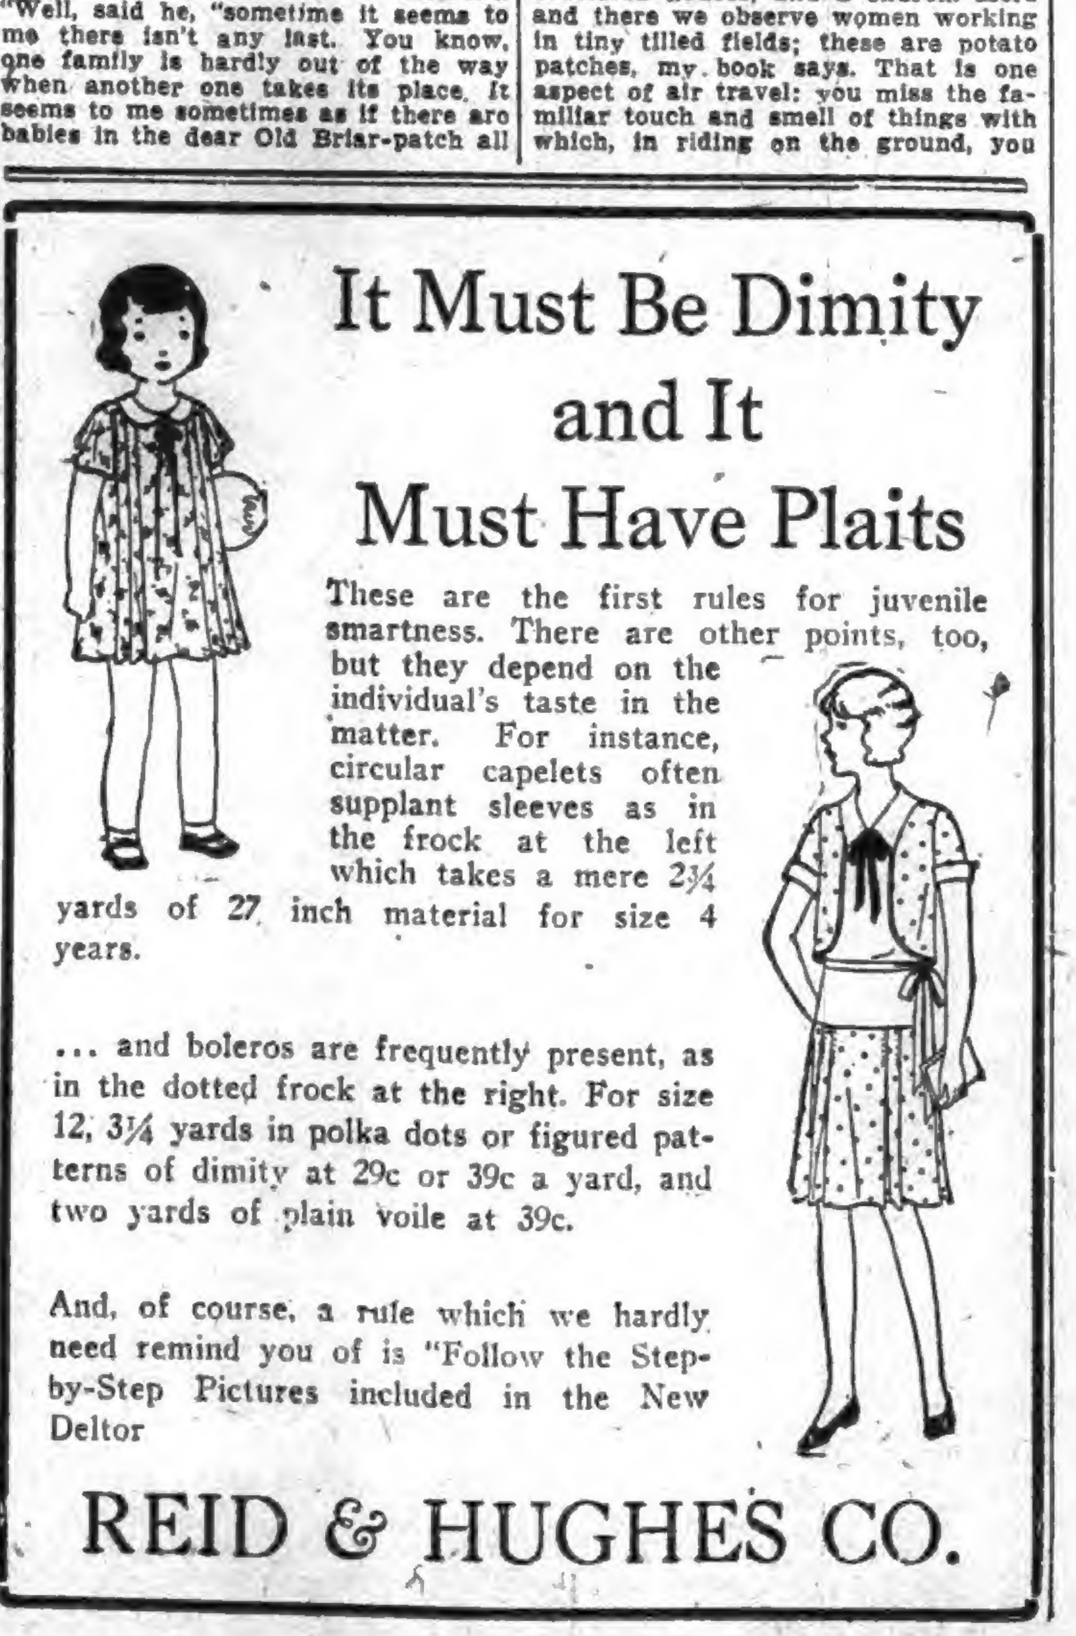
Due to Senator King's self-appointed function as critic of small bills, his absence was regarded by senate attaches as having possibly helped matters along considerably when the job of cleaning up the senate calendar in mid June, preparatory to adjournment, was undertaken.

On a single day, in a matter of minutes almost, the senate passed 51 bills, showing it could travel at high legislative speed when it so desired.

"But it could not have happened had Senator King been here," a very experienced senate observer said to the Bystander. "He would have demanded at least explanation of many of them."

As a matter of fact the senate made such progress that day that Vice President Curtis was induced to shorten his routine formula for putting through bills almost to the minimum wordage established by George Moses as president pro tem.

But for that the score would have stood probably at 40 bills instead of 51 for the day



It Must Be Dimity and It Must Have Plaits

These are the first rules for juvenile smartness. There are other points, too, but they depend on the individual's taste in the matter. For instance, circular capelets often supplant sleeves as in the frock at the left which takes a mere 2¾ yards of 27 inch material for size 4 years.

... and boleros are frequently present, as in the dotted frock at the right. For size 12, 3¼ yards in polka dots or figured patterns of dimity at 29c or 39c a yard, and two yards of plain voile at 39c.

And, of course, a rule which we hardly need remind you of is "Follow the Step-by-Step Pictures included in the New Deltor

ONE SAILOR KILLED, ANOTHER HURT WHEN AUTO HIT POLE AND ROCKS

One sailor was killed and his sailor companion was badly injured when the automobile driven by the first named crashed into a pole and rocks at Red Top on the Military highway between 1:30 and 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The men were on their way back to the submarine base at Groton after attending a reception in this city which followed the marriage on Tuesday afternoon of one of their shipmates, Edward Leo Drager of St. Louis, Mo., to Miss Mary T. Gibson of 149 Franklin street.

The man who lost his life was John Joseph Kasparowitz, 32, of Revere, Mass., an engineman on the submarine 0-3. The injured man was Thomas R. Baker, seaman, first class, attached to the submarine S-3. The bridegroom had loaned them his Chevrolet roadster to get back to the submarine base and they left here, it is understood, about 1 o'clock in the morning. Kasparowitz was the driver and from an investigation conducted by State Policemen William McKenzie and Arthur Whitmarsh of the Groton barracks it appeared as though the car went into a sharp turn of the road at a speed that was too rapid to permit them to complete the curve and the car left the road and crashed into a telephone pole, breaking the pole off at the base, then continued on for some distance and crashed into a boulder weighing half a ton, caromed off this boulder into a small one weighing 350 pounds and overturned. Measurements taken by the state troopers indicated that the car traveled more than 150 feet after hitting the pole.

Baker probably owes his life to the fact that he was thrown clear of the car which was completely demolished and he landed in the soft dirt of an embankment. His collar bone was fractured and he has scalp injuries and multiple abrasions, lacerations and contusions about the entire body.

Kasparowitz was crushed against the steering wheel and pinned beneath the wreckage and his neck was broken, his skull was doubly fractured and his left hand was crushed.

Kasparowitz was still breathing when Patrick H. Donovan, 15 Mechanic street, Stonington, drove up and the two sailors were rushed by him to the sick bay at the base hospital. Kasparowitz, however, expired five minutes after being admitted. Baker was given immediate treatment and it was said that he will recover.

The scene of the crash was visited and the body of Kasparowitz was viewed by Dr. Frank W. Hewes, medical examiner of the town of Groton and acting examiner for the town of Ledyard and permission was given for removal of the body to the undertaking parlors in New London. The body was being held there pending word from the victim's mother, Mrs. Frances Kasparowitz, in Revere who has been notified of her son's death.

The crash was the second serious one in which Baker has been involved within a year. Last August a car in which he was riding on the New London-Norwich road in Waterford overturned several times after crashing into a pole and Baker was seriously injured and for a time it appeared as though he would die. As a result of the injuries received upon that occasion Baker spent more than four months in the hospital.

The state troopers investigating the fatal collision learned that Kasparowitz had no license in this state to operate an automobile and efforts are being made to determine if he was licensed in any other state.

WILL TRY CONDEMNATION TO GET M'COOK LAND

Blocked by the supreme court in its effort to take a portion of the McCook property at Crescent beach under authority of a special act adopted for that purpose, the state tuberculosis commission has started another action, this time invoking the general condemnation statute, it was learned this week.

At a meeting on June 23, the commission, composed of Dr. Stephen J. Maher of New Haven, chairman; Charles H. Allen of Rockville and Arthur R. Kimball of Waterbury, voted to proceed against the property under the general condemnation law with the determination of acquiring a strip of 382 feet of shore front of land owned by the heirs of Eliza S. McCook. The commission maintains this strip is necessary for the construction of an adequate new building for tubercular children at Seaside. The commission, Dr. Maher has admitted, has asked the attorney-general to proceed under the general law and, it is understood, that office has already taken the preliminary steps preparatory to bringing the case into court again.

However, it will be some time before the case actually comes into court because notice of the action must be served on all the heirs, one of whom is now living in China.

The commission insists the desired 382 feet is the minimum of land essential to its plan for the new Seaside sanitarium. The McCook heirs refuse to give up this land although they have offered to deed to the state as a gift sixty feet of land, which, the commission insists, is not adequate. Therefore, in the 1923 session of the legislature, a special act was adopted authorizing the state to condemn the property but the act was not carried into action until 1925. The case went to the supreme court which last year held the act, and 1,500 others which were signed by governors more than three days after the adjournment of the general assembly, to be unconstitutional.

The land wanted by the state totals about five and one-half acres. An effort of the commission to obtain information as to the willingness or unwillingness of the McCook heirs to sell that portion of the estate has proved unsuccessful despite a series of letters exchanged by the commission and State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and Charles Welles Gross, counsel for the McCooks. This correspondence started on November 25, 1929. The commission asserts the McCook lawyers have avoided replying to their question concerning sale of the land, the latter countering with an inquiry regarding the state's willingness to accept the deed of 60 feet of the land.

WOMAN STOLE GOODS FROM PALMER BROS. MILL

More than 2,000 yards of silk and cotton spooling and other materials identified by Palmers Bros. officials as having been stolen from the company's mill in Washington street in that city were found in the home of Mrs. Louise Darrow, 51, one of the mill employes, when the police raided her house at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. At the time the police were after George (Cowboy) Sheehan, whom they had seen enter the house. When the police demanded entrance, Mrs. Darrow said she was alone in the house, but Sheehan was found hiding in one room and Richard Keyes, Eleanor Theroux and Rosamond Keyes all of Norwich, were found in another.

The goods were found in three trunks. The case of Mrs. Darrow, who confessed to the theft from the mill, was continued in court until Thursday, at which time it is believed the police investigation will have been completed. Bonds in her case were fixed at $1,000 and in default she was committed to jail.

HEREDITY HAS BEARING ON LENGTH OF LIFE

That heredity has a direct bearing on length of life is claimed by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company who point out in the current issue of the company's statistical bulletin that "persons with long-lived parents have an average life-time at least two to three years greater than those with a poor parental longevity."

It is explained by the statisticians, however, that the gain in expectation of life from good heredity is not as large as that obtained by the improvement in social and health conditions in recent years, and is much less than that still attainable by such means.

"From the point of view of longevity," the Bulletin states, "environment influences are still more powerful than heredity, important as that may be."

RHODE ISLAND LAUNCHES DRIVE AGAINST SPEEDERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 8—In a friendly, but nevertheless obvious and determined way, the state police department of the neighboring state of Rhode Island has launched a crusade against the operating with excessive speed of motor vehicles traversing the highways of that state. The automobile owners and drivers of Rhode Island have been warned of the impending crusade through columns of newsprint appearing in Rhode Island papers during the past week and the executive officers of the department have successfully undertaken the task of warning out-of-state drivers of the proposed war on speeders.

The declaration of hostilities towards reckless and speeding motor vehicle operators was explained in an obvious and clean cut manner by Captain J. H. Harwood, executive officer of the department and commandant at the headquarters barracks at North Scituate, R. I., in an interview today. The message of Captain Harwood is of vital importance to Connecticut and other New England motorists and should be thoroughly digested by them before entering the state.

In outlining plans of the department to eliminate speed drivers from the Rhode Island highways, Captain Harwood referred to statistics on file in his office which disclosed the remarkable results of the crusade against speed and recklessness as applied to the operation of an automobile. The records showed Rhode Island to be the only state out of the entire 48, to reduce its number of fatalities growing out of automobile mishaps, during the first six months of 1930. The analysis of the records, Captain Harwood said, traced the cause of all fatal accidents directly to the use of excessive speed.

With an aim to further reduce the number of deaths caused by the automobile on the highways of Rhode Island, the state police with the cooperation of town and city police of the state, town councils and the state board of public roads, formulated tentative plans for a wholesale drive against speed and other forms of reckless driving. The state police department, patrolling the entire system of constructed highways in the state was enlisted to bear the greater part of the campaign to increase the standards of safety.

Captain Harwood stated that the department took into consideration the fact that such a feat could not be fairly and properly launched unless due warning was given to the thousands of out-of-state motorists traversing the Rhode Island highways daily. Accordingly, an order of 10,000 flyers containing notice of the crusade was printed and beginning last Thursday and continuing throughout the week-end holiday period, the notices were distributed to out-of-state autoists by Rhode Island state troopers stationed on the highways of Route 1 and 1-A in the western portion of the state. So effective were the flyers in attaining the desired results that additional quantities of the flyers were printed and were issued to motorists invading Rhode Island from all points.

The notice was printed on a white sheet, bearing the seal of the Rhode Island state police department, under which was the warning advising that a large percentage of the fatal accidents occurring in the state of Rhode Island were caused by excessive speeding of out-of-state motorists. The notice said the law provides that speeds of more than 20 miles an hour in closely populated districts and 35 miles an hour in the open country shall be presumptive evidence of the fact that the driver is using improper care in the operating of his vehicle. Scores of Connecticut drivers were provided with the flyers over the week-end as they entered the state.

Captain Harwood, commenting further on the large scale drive, said that two methods will be employed by the state police in dealing with violators of the warning. Flagrant cases will be prosecuted and in instances where a minor infraction of speed ruling is noted by highway patrolmen, the violation will be called to the attention of the driver and a notification of the operator's tendency toward recklessness will be reported to the motor vehicle departments of their respective states. In Connecticut Captain Harwood said that a duplicate report will be directed to the state motor vehicle commissioner at Hartford. In many cases Captain Harwood intimated, the right of the driver to operate in Rhode Island will be suspended.

Captain Harwood placed particular emphasis upon the fact that Rhode Island's action is by no means a threat to Connecticut or any other out-of-state motorists. "I merely infer, that out of state drivers are included in this crusade because statistics show that during the week-end holiday of last week, out of state motorists were the cause of the three fatal accidents which occurred on our highways during the period. I sincerely hope that they will accept our warning, as one made in a friendly way and in the cause of safety."

PRONE PRESSURE METHOD TO SAVE FROM DROWNING

At this season of the year, when so much of recreation activity is taken on or near the water, the state board of health makes public in its bulletin this week the way to save a life from drowning by the prone pressure method.

No elaborate equipment is needed to save a life from drowning, all that is necessary is to know the "Prone Pressure Method" and act immediately. This method is simple to learn, easy to apply and will not unduly tax the strength of the rescuer if he happens to be alone.

On removal from the water place patient stomach down on a flat surface, quickly opening the mouth to remove any foreign substance which might obstruct breathing—but not wasting any time in such preliminaries as every moment is precious. One arm of patient should be bent at the elbow letting the head rest on this, with face sidewise so that water may be dispelled from the lungs; the other arm should be stretched full length above.

Rescue measures should begin at once and continue rythmically until natural breathing is established—this may take four or more hours. The procedure is as follows:

First—Kneel, and straddle the patient below the hips placing hands on small of the back with fingers over the lowest ribs, tips of fingers just out of sight.

Second—With arms straight, while counting one, two, swing forward bearing weight on body firmly but not violently.

Third—Swing backwards while counting one, straightening up and thus relieving pressure—this allows air to be drawn into the lungs.

Fourth—Rest in this position for two counts.

Fifth—Repeat these movements rythmically, forward and backward, without interruption, about twelve to fifteen a minute, until natural breathing is restored.

Sixth—Meanwhile, if assistance is at hand, a physician should be sent for, patient's tight clothing should be loosened at neck, chest or waist, and patient should be kept warm.

Patient should not be moved from this spot until he is breathing normally and then should be carried in a lying position to a place where he can be kept warm and receive expert medical attention.

An illustrated leaflet on this subject will be sent on request, addressed to the Connecticut State Department of Health, Hartford, Connecticut.

Troop 7 on Overnight Hike.

Saturday afternoon ten scouts from Troop 7 under the leadership of Acting Scoutmaster John Boldrighine went to Fort Shantok to camp over night. Upon arrival they pitched tents and played games until supper time.

For supper a delicious hunter's stew was made by one patrol. The other patrol made breakfast, consisting of pancakes, bacon and eggs and cocoa.

The scouts arrived back in the city at 1 o'clock after an enjoyable time. Transportation was furnished through the kindness of Albert Bourne. Those making the trip were William Galligan, Henry and Adam Butkiewicz, James McNulty, Howard Randall, James Calkins, Walter Strenkowski, Edwin Lawton and Melvin Cook.

BREED THEATER CLOSED BY WARNER BROS. ORDERS

Late Monday night, by a telegram received from Warner Bros. Corp., directions were given to Joseph Nejime to close the Breed theater. Mr. Nejime has been acting as manager since the Warner Corporation took over the theater lease from the Nejime brothers on June 27th.

Under the management of the two Nejime brothers, Paul and Joseph, who took over the theater from M. J. Zuckerman, in 1920, the house has had an unusually successful career as it has had competent management which has maintained a high standard for the pictures to be shown and has stood well in popular favor because of the obliging disposition and co-operative spirit shown by the Nejime brothers towards all local interests. Free shows have been given in conjunction with charitable organizations and the Nejimes made two big feature local hits when they took moving pictures of an Academy-Bulkeley football game and the entire Armistice celebration parade.

General Manager Scurtis of New York and District Manager Kaufman of New Haven, two Warner Bros. officials, are expected here today (Wednesday) and their decision will probably determine the future of the Breed.

CAVALRY AT NIANTIC IN BATTLE TACTICS

The smoke of battle and the crash of firing will descend upon Niantic today (Wednesday) when Troops A and B of the 122nd Cavalry, who are in encampment there, become for the time being the Red and Blue armies, and engage in mimic combat.

At 1:15 p. m., Captain L. S. Tracy, in command of Troop B, which for the nonce will be metamorphosed into the Red army, will leave camp, and proceed to Rogers lake, where supplies are cached. Troop B, composing the Blue army, will follow at some time thereafter, under the leadership of Lieutenant M. A. Wilson, to attack the other group and, if possible, make off with the supplies.

The Red army will carry rations and forage for one day, in their knapsacks and about their persons, and each will have 600 rounds of ammunition. To the Blues, the same amount of firing material will be allotted, and when that amount is exhausted the war will be over, whether or not the precious supplies have been captured.

AUTOS IN COLLISION AT CHELSEA BANK CORNER

As an aftermath of an automobile collision at the Chelsea Savings bank, corner of Cliff and Main streets, shortly before 11:30 Tuesday evening, Michael Jaskiewicz, 36, of 136 Washington street, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning.

The accused, traveling towards Franklin square on Main street, ran into a machine operated by John F. March of 18 Linden Parkway, which had come up Main street from the square and was turning around by the bank. The Jaskiewicz car rammed into the other broadside and pushed it up against the sidewalk in front of R. F. Smith's store, damaging its right front and rear right fenders and its running board. The body was also dented. The front part of the other machine was also damaged.

The accident was investigated by Officer Hugh McAvoy.

MILITARY AVIATORS BUSY AT GROTON AIRPORT

Missions with cavalry and field artillery units of the National Guard were carried out Tuesday by the 43rd division, Air Service, in its second day of training at its camp at Trumbull field, at Groton airport.

Besides the regular machine gun practice at the range on Fred Stone's ranch, the 118th Observation squadron went on a radio mission with the 122nd cavalry unit encamped at Niantic, and the 118th Photo section carried out a photographic mission with the 192nd Field Artillery. The photo section plans to make a mosaic map of the territory around Groton and Niantic during the two weeks of camp.

Mileski and Polinsky were charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, and Antoniack with breach of the peace and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. All three were held for trial in the justice court. It is alleged that they drove to a gasoline service station and after engaging in an argument with the attendant, attempted to wreck the place.

GLENNA COLLETT TO PLAY IN SHENECOSSETT TOURNEY

Miss Glenna Collett, national women's golf champion, will play in the 12th annual invitation tournament of the Shenecossett Country club next week, after an absence of three years from the Eastern Point golf links.

G. Wyman Carroll, Jr., chairman of the Shenecossett tournament committee, announced that Miss Collett will be one of the four women who will compete in a special four-ball exhibition match Sunday afternoon.

Two events have been scheduled as preliminaries to the women's tournament which begins next week. Saturday afternoon the club will stage a mixed foursome tournament. Many of the entries in the invitation tournament are expected to compete.

Sunday's feature will be the four-ball exhibition match, beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Collett, the present national titleholder, will be paired with Mrs. Helen B. Stetson of Philadelphia, national champion in 1926. Their opponents will be Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia and Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Canada, both of whom have held the national championship. The match is open to the public without admission charge.

The match will be played over the 18-hole distance.

Chairman Carroll estimates that 300 women will compete in the invitation tournament. The qualifying round will be played Monday, with the 32 best scorers slated for the championship division. Match play will begin Tuesday and will continue daily until Friday, when the 18-hole final match will be played for the Griswold trophy.

Miss Maureen Orcutt of New York, Metropolitan champion, and Miss Helen Hicks of Hewlitt, L. I., holder of the Canadian championship, are to be in the tournament.

Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., will defend the Griswold trophy which she won in 1929.

There will be two chances that the Griswold trophy will be retired this year. Miss Collett, who won the first trophy permanently in 1924, and Mrs. Hurd, both have won two legs on the trophy now up for competition.

QUAKES BELOW SURFACE MAY BRING ON LIGHTNING

WASHINGTON—(AP)— If stories of thunder and lightning accompanying earthquakes are not simple coincidence, the explanation may lie in a report to the American Geophysical society by Dr. Ross Gunn.

He holds that contraction of the earth may give rise to disturbing magnetic fields, and that "long period variations of the earth's magnetic field and pseudo-magnetic varations accompanying earthquakes must be related in some manner to the conducregions inside the earth."

Dr. Gunn says that the usual earthquake is limited to the earth's crust but that if the earth movement extends into deeper layers a local magnetic disturbance may be expected.

YELLOW VS. WHITE TURNIPS

It is not infrequent to encounter a debate between housewives as to the relative value of yellow and white turnips, some maintaining that the yellow turnips or rutabagas are of more uniformly good quality than the white turnips. This applies only to the winter turnips, the matured roots.

The rutabaga or yellow turnip is to be grown for its mature roots to be stored for winter use. The white turnip is of more delicate flavor in its young stage and may be eaten when half grown, when it is a vegetable of unusual delicacy. The yellow turnip does not make a style of root growth to make it available for use in the early stage but for the mature root, it does maintain uniformly sweet and mild quality and is an exceptionally good keeper.

The roots of the rutabaga run to much larger sizes than do those of the turnip. Rutabaga seed should be planted at once as it needs a little longer season of growth to develop its big roots than does the white turnip. It luxuriates in the same conditions of rich mellow soil and once started will go along and stand all manner of neglect and still produce big roots for winter.

It needs thinning even more than the white turnip for the roots must be given ample room to grow. Eight inches to a foot apart in the row should be allowed for each plant. The thinning should be attended to rigorously and it is much better to sow in rows than in the old-fashioned broadcast manner. Thinning is a much easier and methodical task under row conditions.

Then, too, in a row it is a simple manner to run the wheel hoe up and down the rows and keep down the weeds all summer instead of letting the patch grow up to weeds as is usually the custom with a turnip patch. The rutabagas will appreciate the attention and proceed to show it by developing fine large roots. The faster the growth and the better the growing conditions the tenderer will be the flesh. The woody, pithy types are due to drought and poor soil.

CUICI AND COX SET NEW RECORDS ON INTERLACHEN COURSE IN PRACTICE

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8—(AP)—Golf such as Interlachen had never seen before was pulled out of its narrow fairways and lively greens today when two 69's were shot in practice rounds preliminary to the national open which begins Thursday.

Two players who previously have been held to 75's and more, walked off the 18th green this afternoon with the new course record, first Henry Ciuci, young pro from Stratford, Conn., and soon afterward Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, a product of the public links.

They bested by a single stroke the record set yesterday by Bobby Jones, defending champion, and Leo Diegel, ranking professional. Par is 72, or 36 strokes for each nine, but Ciuci shot the first half in 34, two under par, coming home one under. His result was obtained with only four birdies. He shot par on every other hole excepting one, one of the most consistent rounds recorded in the practices.

Cox opened with a pair of spectacular birdies after par on the first with another birdie on the sixth for a 33 on the outgoing nine. That score for the distance has been beaten only once, by Walter Hagen, twice champion, who turned in a sizzling 32 late yesterday but whose pace broke on the home nine to return him par for the round. Cox, in common with Hagen and most of the other entries, ran into great difficulties on the second nine, but turned in par 36, to earn his 69 for the round.

Gibson Dunlap, the young Princeton university star who holds the national intercollegiate championship, indicated that the old timers will have to consider him in the championship play, when he turned in a 70, two under par, after two hours of play under broiling sun. He was one under par on each nine.

Clear skies and an intense sun for a week have had their effect on the course. Gene Sarazen, former champion, banged out a 38 on the first nine today, and hurried back to the clubhouse to get away from the sun, reporting that the course is at least four strokes easier this week than last.

The rough has dried out and the fairways have become harder giving low but hard driven balls up to 50 yards additional advantage through long rolls. The greens, however, continue to give all but the expert approach shots, plenty of trouble, bounding even high looped balls off into traps. Many of the greens are elevated, which has added to this difficulty.

T. P. Perkins, former British champion, and a veteran of tournaments, turned in a 73, one over par, late today. Ray Mangum, Dallas, went around in par, sharing honors with Tom Creavy, of New York. Chick Evans, of Chicago, who won the open in 1916 with the record of 286 for the four rounds in Minneapolis, is the only one of the former champions entered who was not on the links today.

Cards for Ciuci, Cox and Dunlop, with par, follow:

Par out	443	534	445—36
Ciuci out	443	434	444—34
Cox out	432	534	345—33
Dunlop out	533	444	444—35
Par in	455	344	434—36—72
Ciuci in	345	344	441—35—69
Cox in	456	354	334—36—69
Dunlop in	356	344	344—35—70

Jones, still the top-heavy favorite to win the 72-hole medal play joust which starts Thursday, was content to let the heat have its way and merely loafed around. He teamed up with a foursome, which included Jimmy Johnston of St. Paul, national amateur king, and spent most of the round experimenting. His game appeared slightly off, however, and while no accurate count was possible because of second and third shots from identical lies, he was several strokes over par figures at least when he walked lazily off the eighteenth green. Johnston played Minnekhada, a neighborhood course, in the morning, and was content with a 70 captured there. On Interlachen, along with Bobby, he appeared far off his game, shanking his irons and pulling slightly now and then off the tee.

Hagen, George Von Elm, Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Johnny Farrell, Bill Mehlhorn, Ed Dudley and Cyril Tolley, regarded as the "threatening nine" to Bobby's crown, refused to combat the sun today and practiced much like the champion did. All seemed satisfied with their games and none seemed much awed by the difficulties of the course.

With the big push-off just two days off, every entry was on hand today for practice but Charles "Chick" Evans, of Chicago, former holder of the title. Evans advised he would be on hand early tomorrow for two practice rounds and a long training spell with the putter which has spoiled his game for several years.

Three members of the Walker cup team wired their withdrawals from the championship test today. They were Roland MacKenzie, of Washington, Francis Ouimet, titleholder back in 1913, and Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Ore. Business reasons or necessity for a rest were their reasons for withdrawing. Their absence trimmed the starting field down to 147.

JOHNNY GOODMAN COMES TO INTERLACHEN IN TRAV. HOUSE

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, Omaha's midget master of the links, had to hitch-hike last fall to Pebble Beach, where he eliminated Bobby Jones from the National amateur in an early round and won wide notice.

But not this year. Now he travels pretentiously and brings his hotel right along. In a house on wheels, Goodman, with two Nebraska friends, has set up housekeeping just off Interlachen, where Thursday he will make his bid for the National Open crown.

In the outing car is a gas stove, a radio and a writing desk, with plenty of space for swinging an iron. Goodman lacked one thing, running water, but he remedied that. He located a water pipe, obtained a long hose, and ran its nozzle right up to his kitchen sink.

MAUREEN SHOOTS BRILLIANT GAME TO LEAD FIELD

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 8—(AP)—Maureen Orcutt, of Lido, N. Y., with a 76, three over men's par, today led the first half of the field of more than 100 entrants in the qualifying round of the first annual New York state women's golf tournament on the East course of the Oak Hill Country club here.

Glenna Collett, national women's champion, the favorite, turned in an 82. Helen Hicks, of Hewitt, was among the leaders with 81 and Peggy Wattles, western New York women's champion, took 91. Match play will start tomorrow.

OWLS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM ROBERTSON TEAM

The Robert Gair Owls took a close and fast game from the Robertson Paper Box Co., Tuesday evening at the Gair diamond at Uncasville by the score of 8 to 7. The Owls took the lead in the first inning and kept it until the first of the sixth when the Boxmakers put four runs over the plate, putting them two runs to the good. In the last half of the frame Canistral of the Owls opened with a slashing hit to left field and O'Grady sent him to second on an infield out. Murphy hit a two-bagger to left field advancing him to third. Welchel singled scoring two runs, tying the count. In the last of the seventh McInnis made first on a base on balls and Kiley, hard-hitting rightfielder of the Owls, broke up another ball game with a clean hit that scored McInnis with the winning run. Kiley was the leading Owl hitter with a single and a double and McKinney for the opposition, had two singles. The score:

JEWETT CITY, July 8—The Campers lost to the Fisk team in this evening's game in the Jewett City Twilight league by the score of 12 to 5. Costly errors by the Q. O'DOUL STRENGTHENS HOLD AND SIMMONS PASSES GEHRIG

(By The Associated Press)

More changes in the standing of the Big Six turned up yesterday as Al Simmons gained the batting leadership of the American league and Frank O'Doul tightened his hold on the top of the National. Simmons only held his own in the averages, remaining at .387 by hitting three times in eight attempts, but his rival, Lou Gehrig, made but one hit in seven times at bat and dropped six points to .386.

O'Doul, hitting two out of three, added three more points to his average and Chuck Klein registered a one-point gain with two hits in four times up. Paul Waner dropped back, barely holding third place from Simmons by hitting once in five tries. Babe Ruth again was idle.

The standing:

BATTALINO TRAINING AT SAME CAMP WITH MANDELL

HARTFORD, July 8—Bat Battilino and Sammy Mandell two champions making ready to put their crowns at stake, are now training in the same spot.

The lightweight champion more than a week ago set up his camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., at the big boxing area conducted by the noted trainer, Gus Wilson and Saturday Battalino left Hartford for Orangeburg where he will put in his last week of training for the world's featherweight championship battle with Ignacio Fernandez, which is set for the night of July 14 at the Hurley stadium in East Hartford.

The decision to have Battilino do his intensive training away from Hartford was arrived at hurriedly Friday; it was thought that the champion would be benefited by a change of scenery, by getting away from the familiar haunts where he has trained for every bout and it was felt that the bracing air and warming sunshine of the country about Orangeburg would be ideal for him.

Then too the Wilson camp is headquarters for many boxers and Bat will be able to get a variety of sparring partners which was not the case in Hartford.

BOTTLERS HAND IDEALS SOUND TROUNCING IN CITY LEAGUE GAME

The Thermos team of the City league strengthened their hold on first place by taking a comparatively easy 11 to 2 game from the Ideal outfit at the campus last evening.

Nickerson, star twirler for the Thermos clan, pitched air-tight ball, limiting the opposition to four safe blows, while his teammates drove Pepin to the showers in the second inning and continuing their onslaught on Shahan, collecting a total of 11 runs on 11 hits. Shahan's wildness accounted for some of these, he giving seven bases on balls.

The hitting of N. Lemieux, Thermos third sacker, with four hits out of four trips to the plate including a home run, which cleared the center field fence, proved the feature of the game.

After the Ideals had taken the lead in the first inning, when F. Smith, lead-off man, hit safely, went to second on a sacrifice and later scoring on an error, the Bottler bats began to function in the second with the result that six runs had crossed the plate, driving Pepin to cover. With a five-run lead they seemed content to coast along the remainder of the contest, adding five more runs in the fifth and seventh.

The Ideals could do little with the offerings of Nickerson, hitting but one ball to the outfield. The score:

FULLER HURLS HITLESS GAME FOR ELKS

Fuleir, pitching for the Elks, entered the Junior league hall-of-fame Tuesday evening when he blanked the Polish National Athletic club 19 to 0, without a hit. The Elks' star twirler was in great form, striking out twelve men in turning in his hitless performance.

While Fuller was holding the P. N. A. C., the Elks went on a batting rampage, collecting 17 hits, nine of which were doubles.

The Elks started off in the first stanza with six runs, followed with two more in the second and added seven in the third. They let down slightly from that point, gathering two in the fourth, none in the fifth and two more in the sixth.

The Polish club really had no chance to score, the only men to reach first being three on passes and one on an error.

Carter was the real leader with the stick collecting three hits out of five tries although Houghton hammered out a single on his only trip to the plate. The score:

Game Tonight

Tonight's in the Junior league, the I. Y. M. C. meets the Rotary in what should be a good ball game. The Italian club held the Elks down last week to a 4 to 3 score, while the Rotary defeated the P. N. A. C., 14 to 2. Both outfits have evidently very strong lineups and should give a good exhibition in tonight's contest.

Caron and McKenna will in all probability work for the Rotary while Connell and Angelone will no doubt be the Italian club's battery.

Game starts at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

YANKEES GET EVEN BREAK WIH ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—The Yankees' losing streak was extended to seven games as the Philadelphia Athletics won the first half of today's double-header, 4 to 0, but it was broken in the second contest when New York triumphed 9 to 4. The Philadelphia defeat helped the victorious Washington Senators add a half game to their lead.

George Pipgras managed to get through the second game, mainly by striking out eight Athletics, although he allowed eleven hits and received ragged support. The Yanks collected 13 blows off four pitchers. Cooke and Chapman hit home runs.

George Walberg, who was supposed to have a sore arm held the Yanks to three hits in the opener and gave them their second shutout of the year. Bing Miller's home run brought three of the four Philadelphia runs, all scored off Henry Johnson in the first inning. Charley Ruffing relieved Johnson and allowed two hits and fanned nine in 8 1-3 innings. The score:

A Challenge

The Versailles Cubs would like to play any fast team out of town Sunday. Any team accepting challenge call 617-5 between 12-12:30. Although the Cubs would like to play Baltic S. A. C. in a three game series it seems that they will be denied the chance to prove that they are a better all around ball club as Mr. Collins insists that the Cubs must get a reputation before playing his club who have the reputation of losing practically every game played this season. Mr. Collins ought to accept the challenge or come right out like a good sport and admit he's afraid of the outcome of a three game series.

COLLINS PITCHES BRILLIANT BALL TO BEAT GIANTS

PHILADELPHIA, July 8—(AP)—Phil Collins displayed some of his most effective pitching today and the Phillies backed it up with hard and timely hitting to defeat the New York Giants, 8 to 1.

Collins pitched shutout ball until the ninth inning, when he eased up and allowed four hits and the lone Giant run. The Phillies opened fire on Bill Walker in the third inning and continued against Heving and Pruett for a total of 14 hits. Frank O'Doul hit a home run in the fifth inning. The score:

ZACHARY HALTS DODGERS AND BRAVES WIN GAME

BROOKLYN, July 8—(AP)—Old Tom Zachary halted the league leading Brooklyn Robins today, giving them only nine hits, well scattered, and the Boston Braves gained a 4 to 1 victory.

A home run by Johnny Frederick was the only Brooklyn score and the few other times that the Robins threatened, Boston's fine infield play stopped them. The Braves made four double plays and the Robins three.

The Robins used four pitchers but all of Boston's runs came off Watson Clark, the starter. Maranville's single in the first was followed by Wally Berger's 24th home run while two hits, an infield out and Zachary's sacrifice brought two more tallies in the fourth. The score:

MOONEY DENIED PARDON BY GOVERNOR YOUNG

LOS ANGELES, July 8—(AP)—Thomas J. Mooney, militant labor leader serving a life sentence with Warren K. Billings for the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, today was denied a pardon by Governor C. C. Young.

The governor's action ended another chapter in Mooney's 13 year battle for freedom. He suffered similar defeats before when two of Governor Young's predecessors refused to pardon him.

Governor Young followed recommendations of the state supreme court which last week refused to recommend a pardon for Billings, and of advisory pardon board, which last night took similar action on Mooney's plea.

"Until some further light is shed upon the case, which I do not now possess," the governor said, "I manifestly must accept the conclusions of the supreme court and the advisory pardon board."

The governor said he considered the cases parallel and both men either were innocent or guilty of the outrage that caused ten deaths and injured forty persons.

Some hope was offered Mooney by Governor Young in the suggestion the supreme court grant a hearing if proof were offered that perjured testimony was responsible for the convictions.

"I would respectfully suggest to the members of the supreme court," the governor said, "should John McDonald, or any other material witness who had repudiated his former testimony, appear before them for the purpose of proving such repudiations as trustworthy, and that their former testimony was perjured, it may be only just and right to consider the propriety of giving hearing to such witnesses in the case of Billings, just as I should desire to do in the case of Mooney.

"Until the truth of the repudiating affidavits can be definitely established, no one can question the decision of the supreme court or the reasoning of the advisory pardon board, for there are certainly some portions of McDonald's affidavits which appear patently untrustworthy."

RUMORS OF MOVE TO OUST HUSTON

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—A showdown on the status of Claudius Huston as chairman of the republican national committee is confidently predicted in republican circles at Thursday's meeting of party officers.

Mutual friends of Huston and the disgruntled republicans on Capitol Hill were busy today and tonight in a round of councils. Some believed Mr. Huston would retire after Thursday's meeting, others were not so sure and there were rumors of a move to ought him as chairman.

Fuel was added to the day's discussions by the publication in Rutland, Vt., of a statement attributed to Earle Kinsley, national committeeman for that state, that President Hoover had asked him to become acting chairman of the national committee.

The White house immediately issued the following statement:

"The president has had no communication with Mr. Kinsley whatsoever."

Kinsley, a mutual friend of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Huston, served with Chairman Work in national headquarters during the 1928 campaign. He is regarded as a likely choice to serve temporarily.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, is regarded as the most likely successor to Huston, but republican leaders in their conferences today were more interested in when and whether Mr. Huston was going to resign.

It is known that some of the national committee officers who will confer here Thursday with Huston are prepared to tell him of the antagonism to him within the party. However, these officers have no power to oust him.

TARDIEU GOVERNMENT WITHSTOOD TWO ASSAULTS

PARIS, July 8—(AP)—Twice during the same day and once in each house of parliament, the government of Premier Tardieu, withstood energetic assaults of its opponents and came out victorious. Its margin was the narrowest in the senate, where it prevailed by only five votes.

The clash in the senate was provoked when the opposition raised the question of laicisation of schools in the department of Gers.

Religious instruction has for a long time been banished from the schools, but the religious issue is often raised for political purposes. The leaders of the opposition utilized the question today in an effort to detach from the government those moderate radicals who are faithful to the idea of excluding religion from public education and of rendering all grades of instruction free for everybody.

The attack on the government was based on a charge that a prefect in the Department of Gers had forbidden functionaries to attend a demonstration at Auch in favor of lay schools.

The maneuver of the opposition was well directed and put the government in danger. Tardieu was compelled to mount the rostrum. He contested the facts as reported by the opposition and supported the prefect, declaring this official had acted rightly because the manifestation was a political maneouver directed against the government and could not be permitted without undermining the government's authority.

The vote required verification and when it was announced before the official recount that the government had a majority of only ten the whole senate was in a state of turmoil. Several senators changed their votes, and when the official result was announced the government was found to have been sustained by 140 against 135 votes.

When the news arrived in the chamber of deputies that the government was in difficulty in the senate, groups of the opposition became active.

TRADING AGAIN EXTREMELY DULL IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—The financial markets were in two frames of mind today. Generally speaking, prices of stocks and commodities declined in the morning and rallied in the afternoon as professionals switched from the selling to the buying side. Net gains in equity shares were small, but some of the early losses had been sizeable, so that the market gave a reasonably good demonstration of its resistance. Trading was again extremely dull.

July wheat broke to 86 cents a bushel, the lowest in 17 years, during the early trading in Chicago, reflecting the weakness of Liverpool, as well as heavy shipments of winter wheat from the southwest. However, the recovery from the bottom was sharp and the closing price of 89 1-4 represented a net improvement of 1 3-8. The other months were up about a cent. Corn, oats and other provisions were likewise weak in the forenoon, but likewise came back. The softness of cotton was attributed to the bearish government crop report which estimated July 1 acreage at 97.2 per cent of the 1929 figure, a disappointing reduction in view of efforts to effect a ten per cent cut. Cotton futures closed unchanged, 70 cents a bale lower, having sold off from $1 to $1.50 earlier.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Treasury receipts for July 3 were $7,293,198.60; expenditures $11,764,519.43; balance $302,057,170.77.

BOND SALES

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—Official bond sales on the New York stock exchange today were $9,066,000. January 1 to date, $1,520,026,000.

Directors of Cluett, Peabody and Company, Inc., today reduced the annual dividend basis to $3 by declaring a quarterly payment of 75 cents a common share. The stock had been on a $5 for nine years, but the management considered it "prudent at this time to make this reduction in rate."

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8 —(AP)—Trading on the curb market established a new record in slow motion today, with a turnover of 381,900 shares, the smallest in about two years. Price movements were irregular and uncertain. Closing quotations averaged slightly lower. The more active issues sagged substantially during the morning, recording several new low levels for the year or longer, but rallied in sympathy with the big board before the close. Net changes at the finish were mostly a point or less.

Electric Bond & Share was again the center of activity, selling off 2 points to 73 during the morning, then rallying to close at 75 1-4, up 1 1-4 net. Hydro-Electric dropped 2 3-4 to within a point of its low, and Associated Gas A lost a point. American Super-Power, Niagara Hudson and other active features mostly closed off fractionally. In the natural gas group, Missouri Kansas Pipe Line was a soft spot, losing more than 2 points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Money seeking investment flowed into the listed bond market at a moderate rate today to facilitate the advancement of high grade issues toward new high prices for the year. While the sales volume dropped appreciably from Monday, the technical position of the market is so strong that the demand for high grade bonds was sufficient to carry a wide list of railroad issues into higher ground, some of them closing at new highs.

A few utilities followed the leadership of the railroad list, and despite light trading several United States governments established the highest prices of the year. Some soft spots developed in the foreign list, but an unusually strong demand aided prices. Stock privilege issues rose and fell with the swing of stocks and the general level of the group at the close was only slightly lower.

New highs were established by Baltimore & Ohio 6s, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh 4 1-2s, New Orleans Terminal 4s, New York Central 4s, Pennsylvania general 4 1-2s, and several issues, notably Atchison general 4s, Pennsylvania debenture 4 1-2s, Canadian Pacific 4s, and Canadian National Railway 5s, equalled the best figure of the year on the day's movement.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 8—(AP)—Black rust menacing United States wheat and curtailing wheat yields in France, did a good deal to bring about higher prices here today for wheat. The rise in wheat values, however, was preceded by a new smashing of low price records cutting down materially the ten cents a bushel difference that until today has separated recent bottom levels from the lowest reached 17 years ago. Breaks in stock exchange quotations were largely blamed for today's fresh downward swing of wheat prices, but enlarged export buying of wheat was afterward a factor in turning the wheat market upward.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at nearly the top point reached, 5-8a1 3-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at 3-4a1 1-2c advance, oats 1-8a1-4c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Provisions were firm as a result of buying credited to eastern account.

NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—Schulte-United 5 cent to $1 stores, reported June sales of $2,164,460 with 101 units in operation at the end of June, an increase of 46.9 per cent over sales of $1,473,039 in the same month last year, when 71 stores were in operation. Sales for the six months ended June 30, totaled $11,783,250, compared with $6,086,727 in the corresponding period last year.

P. D. Saylor, president of Canada Dry Ginger ale, said today that profits of the company for June exceeded those of June last year, and that the next few months are expected to bring better business

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The New Austin Car

William R. Frisbie, head of the concern by the same name, who is the Reo, Austin dealer for this territory, is a very happy man these days for he has an Austin coupe to show. At the Frisbie showroom all this week a special display of the Austin is being conducted for the benefit of those who would appreciate the opportunity to see the car, inspect it, sit in it and learn the mechanical merits of this American counterpart of the famous British car.

With an eight-year record of success on the other side of the Atlantic, in England, Scotland, the European countries, South Africa and Australia, the Austin coupe, roadster and special delivery models come to the American public as time-tested and proven automotive vehicles. It is a distinctly American product save that the precise British mechanical specifications are observed to the letter. Built at Butler, Pa., in an American factory by American workmen, a project financed with American money the Austin car is truly American and appeals for public acceptance on that basis.

The new bantam Austin car rests on a wheelbase of 75 inches. Its tread is 40 inches, or over 12 inches less than that of the standard car. Its total width is only 53 inches. These dimensions permit a short turning radius and, of course, make the car unusually handy in taking advantage of traffic openings. The car has a ground clearance of 8 3-8 inches, and weighs only 1,130 pounds. One of the principal claims of the manufacturers is that its ease of parking will make it favored for use in congested centers.

From an engineering standpoint the Austin car does not offer any radical departures from ordinary practice. It is a small car built along accepted lines with every unit designed particularly for this application.

In calling this car the "bantam," the makers have had in mind its alert, snappy appearance and its quick accurate performance. A very good idea of the maneuvering possibilities of this little car may be gained from the knowledge that its turning radius is but 16 feet. It can make a complete turn in a 32-foot circle. See adv.

Broadway Theater

Regis Toomey, youthful graduate of the University of Pittsburgh smiled his way into motion pictures when an alert manager caught a flash of that smile across the footlights in a Los Angeles theater. Toomey at the time was playing in the musical show, "Hit the Deck," and had never given a thought to entering film work. The manager, however, sold him the idea and his screen debut was made in "Alibi," followed by a featured role which Richard Dix in "The Wheel of Life."

In "Crazy That Way" directed by Hamilton MacFadden and based on Vincent Lawrence's successful stage play, "In Love With Love," Toomey plays one of Joan Bennett's discarded suitors. It has been hailed everywhere as one of the smartest, best directed and best enacted farce comedies that has yet come to the screen. Surrounded by a superlative list of "short" subjects including an "Our Gang" comedy, "Crazy That Way," will be the attraction at Warner's Broadway three days starting today.

LIGHT IN PINCHED IN BIG TELESCOPE

DELAWARE, Ohio —(AP)— Larger telescopes will reval more stars, but there is doubt whether greater instruments ever can make the distant stars appear larger.

Dr. Harlan T. Stetson, director of Perkins observatory here, says that looking through a telescope at a star shows a tiny spot of light which grows enormously brighter with every increase in the size of the telescope lens.

But because of the peculiar properties of light, it actually becomes smaller in size with every increase in aperture of the telescope.

"DON'T WORRY"

Don't worry. In this tangled skein
Of life, a worrying thought
But complicates the kinks of pain
And tightens up each knot.
Make Will the master of your mood.
Through anxious fear and doubt.
No peace, no pleasure and no good
Was ever brought about.

Don't worry. Do the best you can
And let hope conquer care.
No more is asked of any man
Than he has strength to bear.
The back is fitted for the load:
Your burdens all were planned;
And if you sing along the road
Kind Fate will lend a hand.

Don't worry. Fortune is a dame
You have to woo with smiles:
Whate'er her mood you must not blame
Nor criticise her wiles.
Trust God in shadow and in sun,
And luck will come your way,
But never since old Time begun
Has worry won the day.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox (1855-1919).

OLD APPLE TREE

Beauty is part of you,
God was the start of you,
Love at the heart of you
Buds into life—
Sprung from the sable sod
Clung to thy bit of clod,
Hung to the heart of God,
Lovely in strife.

Fruit at the core of you,
Richness in store for you,
Winds have made war with you
There on the hill
Leaves were a shroud for you,
Now but a cloud for you,
Skies have allowed to you,
Beautiful, still.

Faith is the link of you,
Hope's at the brink of you,
Only to think of you
Means much to me
Beauty's a part of you,
Love's at the heart of you,
Eden the start of you,
Old apple tree.
—Peggy Reid, in the Detroit News.

BELIEF THAT CIRCUS TOOK FROM NEW LONDON TUESDAY OVER $30,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 8—Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's circus exhibited in Waterford today, two performances being given. Judging by the throngs at the afternoon as well as the evening show, no one would ever believe that hard times existed in this city, for the attendance was exceedingly large. So great were the crowds that it was estimated that New Londoners and residents in this city paid close to $30,000 to see the performances and the greater part of the money is taken out of the city. In fact all of the money other than that paid for the actual expenses, principally foodstuffs for the performers, employes and animals, is taken from New London.

The Connecticut company handled thousands of men, women and children in transporting the diversion seekers to the circus grounds on Broad street extension and to do this many employes on the Norwich divisions were on duty with cars from Norwich. The trolley company had Chief Inspector Reuben Ladd and Inspector Prescott, both from Norwich, here to assist in the operation of cars, while eight or ten trolley crews and four big cars came to New London and figured in the transportation of the crowds. When the afternoon performance was concluded 14 cars awaited the exit of the crowd from the tents and these were quickly filled, but were insufficient in number to bring all into the city who desired to make the trip. Because of the large crowd left behind the company caused four cars to return to the grounds after their arrival at the State street terminal. The crowd started early in the afternoon and evening to go to the grounds and it is estimated that there were 2,000 automobiles quartered at the dozen or more parking stands. Several state police and city officials performed traffic duty in the vicinity of the show grounds. The circus came to New London from Providence and went from here to Hartford.

POSTAL AUTHORITIES TO HANDLE SOLOMON CASE

In the Solomon check case, tonight Chief Inspector John O'Brien of the New York department informed the New London police that New York city would not handle Solomon's case, for it had been turned over to the postal authorities, inasmuch as the checks were stolen from the mails. A post office inspector, it is anticipated, will come to New London during the week to arrange for Solomon's return to New York.

Yacht Jezebel in Port.

The palatial craft was brought into port where the extent of the damage has not been determined yet.

Shovel Stalled On Bridge.

Trolley traffic on both the New London and Norwich lines was interrupted for fully 15 minutes late this afternoon when a steam shovel became stalled on the Thames river highway bridge while enroute to Providence. The stalling of the shovel prevented the passage of automobiles over the bridge and as a result automobiles were stalled from the bridge through Crystal avenue, to Main to State street for part of the time, and for a mile on Thames street, Groton. Because of the stalled automobiles, trolley cars could not pass through Main street.

Third And Final Reading.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held this afternoon at 5 o'clock for the purpose of permitting the third and final reading of the ordinance which provides for the laying of over 3,000 feet of sidewalk on Mohegan avenue and Williams street. The city officials desire that the work on the construction of the walks be started at once and for that reason the meeting last night, which heard the ordinance have its second reading adjourned until today that the final reading could be made.

Burglars gave attention to the Bridge Place filling station, Groton, last night, for this morning it was discovered that entrance to the building had been made during the night, but so far as could be determined no loot was obtained, except a revolver, which was taken from a desk. Entrance was gained by smashing a front window and which is in complete view of passersby. It is believed that the break was made during the early morning hours when but few automobiles pass. That the intruders worked hurriedly was evidenced by the fact that the entire office was scattered with papers, books, etc., where the crooks searched for money or articles of value.

ISAAC A. SNELL SHOT SCHULTZ SADDLE HORSE

During a fit of rage because of two saddle horses entering on his property in the Lake Konomoc section of Waterford, Isaac A. Snell, 76, and deformed, shot and killed the animals, which were owned by Nicholas Schultz. The horses were young and valuable. Last evening the horses were roaming about the Schultz farm and wandered to the adjoining farm of Snell. The latter went to his home and procuring a 12-gauge shot gun, followed the animals and then shot them in the head. The horses succeeded in getting back on the property of the owner, where they died. This morning Schultz found the carcasses and reported to the state police, Groton barracks. Officer James Dygert went to the Schultz farm where he interrogated Schultz. Suspicion pointed to Snell as the killer of the horses and when the officer went to the home of the latter, Snell finally confessed. He was arrested, but not locked up, being allowed his freedom on his own recognizance. Snell will be in the Waterford town court next Monday charged with wilful and malicious destruction of property.

CASE OF WILLIS GEORGE GOES OVER TO TUESDAY

Willis George, U. S. Coast Guard, was in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. His case was continued to next Tuesday. In default of a surety on his bond of $500, George was committed to jail. George last Thursday night, it is claimed, went to the locker room, 218 Main street and while William Marshall, the attendant, was there alone. George ordered Marshall to remove clothing from several of the lockers and place the garments in a suit case and threatened to kill Marshall when the latter hesitated in complying with the sailor's order. George even displayed a knife, the blade of which he pressed against Marshall's body to show that the bluejacket meant business. George also is alleged to have struck Marshall several blows on the face. When suspicion indicated that George was guilty of the assault his arrest was made by coast guard officers and since then and until yesterday when he was delivered to the custody of Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh, the sailor had been a prisoner in the brig at the coast guard academy. Marshall has identified George as the man who assaulted and threatened him. George has made a flat denial of being guilty and has declared that he was aboard the destroyer Fanning at the time Marshall claims to have been attacked and threatened.

WESTERLY COMMERCE CHAMBER HOPES FOR 100 MEMBERSHIP

WESTERLY, July 8—The July meeting of Westerly chamber of commerce was called to order by the president, Dr. John Champlin with 25 members present Monday night.

For the municipal improvement committee, Harry R. Milner reported that engineers of the Connecticut and Rhode Island highway departments were to have a joint meeting at an early date for inspection of Pawcatuck river bridge. He declared that a second bridge should not be lost sight of, in order to take care of the truck and bus traffic. Town Solicitor Ferguson said he had obtained an opinion that as far as the state of Rhode Island was concerned the state board of public roads had the necessary power to build a bridge without a special act of legislation and without Broad street becoming a state highway.

A report of the membership committee in a letter from Wells R. Fowler showed 29 active members June 5 and since that time there were 54 members, to which figure 25 of the Westerly retail board membership had been added, making a total of 79. By next month it is hoped that there will be 100 members.

Frank A. Sullivan, moderator of the Misquamicut fire district, on request of Thomas Collins, reported that the fire district had ascertained that there were no existing public rights of way to the beach until a six-foot one was reached west of the Atlantic beach casino and then there were six-foot rights of way at 1,000 foot intervals.

He said that a year ago the town of Westerly lost an opportunity to secure a right of way to the beach on property, part of which had now been sold. Further discussion showed that residents of Crandall avenue had no direct access to the beach until a point was reached several hundred feet beyond Crandall street extension. This was explained by Walter C. Hiscox, who declared that his grandfather, in selling lots from his original farm, owned the property to the beach at this point, and only the lots sold by him gave the purchasers rights of way over this beach entrance. At the close of the meeting adjournment was taken to the office of the Westerly town clerk where the chamber members were shown motion pictures, taken by H. L. Burdick on the A. A. A. visit to Westerly and its beaches. The projector was Chamber President H. Russell Burdick.

Clerk Herbert P. Clark of the third district court, Westerly, was among the Westerly circus visitors in New London on Tuesday evening.

Dr. John M. O'Connell and George P. Chapman, past exalted rulers of Westerly lodge, No. 678, B. P. O. E., are at Atlantic City, N. J., attending the National Elk convention, as delegates.

Raymond O'Neil has returned to Waterbury after being the guest of his parents in Pawcatuck.

Miss Mary A. Burdick, has returned to Norwich after visiting with her sister, Miss Bernice B. Burdick, in Westerly.

The death of Alvah H. Burdick, well-known resident of South County, where many relatives reside, occurred almost instantly on Monday evening at his home in Carolina, R. I., when he started to turn off a water pump through which passed 4400 volts of electricity from a broken power line running near the house, thought to have been torn down in recent storm.

Mr. Burdick met death a few minutes after he had returned home from work at the plant of the Columbia Narrow Fabric company in Shannock.

Drs. Milton Duckworth and Herbert E. Rouse were called.

Besides his wife, Mary, Mr. Burdick is survived by four children, Mrs. Leonard Hood, Mrs. Ronald C. Dove, wife of Dr. Dove of Westerly, Claude H. and Harold C. Burdick; a brother LaVerne Burdick and a sister, Mrs. Carrie Tucker.

Mr. Burdick was a past grand of Friendship lodge, I. O. O. F., of Carolina. Some years ago he was prominent in sports circles of the South County, being a baseball player and umpire. His son, Claude H. Burdick, was one of the leading twirlers of the locality for several years.

Following last Saturday evening's raid by Westerly police William Carroll Johnson, of Gavitt lane, off Oak street, was arraigned at a late hour Monday night before Acting Judge H. P. Clark in the third district court on a charge of tampering with the wires and meter of the South County Public Service company, located in the cellar of his home. A plea of not guilty was entered for Johnson and the case continued until next Friday morning for hearing. Johnson was required to furnish surety in the sum of $300 for his appearance which was given by his parents.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMITTEES REPORT

In the report Tuesday of Monday night's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, lack of space prevented publication of the following items:

For the retail trades committee, the association president, James MacCormick, stated that that committee was made the goat in settling questions of advertising on various programs. He mentioned that the Westerly high school, Wheeler school and Kingston college publications had been approved but the programs of the Elks carnival, union labor paper, Westerly Yacht club regatta and Ashaway grange fair had been turned down. He requested that a committee be named from the chamber to be known as a committee on endorsements, as the retail board did not care to pass for the whole town.

For the publicity committee, Frank A. Sullivan declared that in response to newspaper advertising, 188 requests had been received for publicity matters and 357 folders had been sent to various clubs, a total of 545 responses. He presented a resolution, approved by the chamber, to be presented to the Rhode Island state board of public roads for the rebuilding of the shore road, from Haversham to the Westerly-Watch Hill road.

For the health and sanitation committee, report came from Dr. John Champlin, Jr., to show in the recent clean-up campaign 52 loads of refuse had been removed in Pawcatuck and 300 loads in Westerly.

President Champlin, for the special committee on the Fourth of July regatta in the Pawcatuck river, declared that nation-wide publicity had been obtained in the breaking of nine records by the motor boats and that the total attendance and fireworks display had exceeded expectations.

An invitation was received from the Rhode Island Chamber of Commerce to attend its summer outing on July 16 by the Warwick Chamber of Commerce, at Warwick Country club.

An invitation was read also from the city of Boston, by Colonel John S. Berger, indorsed by Mayor Curley, to attend the New England Industrial exposition, in that city in June, 1931.

A resolution was adopted, after discussion, that a sidewalk be constructed on the east side of the High street railroad bridge to take care of the school children and retail store traffic at that point. A second resolution directed the Westerly town council and the Westerly highway commission to urge the New Haven Railroad Co. to construct a sidewalk on this side of the bridge and the town would take care of the sidewalk approaches. H. L. Burdick stated that the New Haven railroad plans a new bridge at this point for the new four-tracking of the main line road but it was the sense of this meeting that the matter should be cared for at once.

It was also voted that proper authorities be directed to see that the highway from Westerly to Watch Hill is kept in a more orderly condition and free from roadside rubbish and refuse. Henry L. Burdick, for the traffic committee, reported progress in having New Haven express train Nos. 27 and 187 make the Westerly station stop. He also reported on the recent Westerly visit of the Automobile Association of America and the cooperation obtained from local sources, together with their appreciation by the visitors.

He appeared before the Rhode Island meeting of the interstate commerce commission at Providence and offered Westerly testimony against the divorcing of railroads and steam lines of the New Haven railroad. On the recent auto traffic survey over the Pawcatuck river bridge, he stated that the figures showed the traffic about balanced in easterly and westerly directions and for the 39 hours from 7 a. m. until 8 p. m., in the three days traffic showed a total of 30,513 automobiles on which he said the association is now preparing an analysis. Further traffic census will be taken later with the opening of Granite and the completion of West Broad street.

It was stated that the signs showing right turns on the red traffic light, both at Main and Elm streets, would soon be in position.

Heap were at the piano for the musical numbers. The girls of the school had on exhibition some laundry bags, dish towels, napkins that were fringed, and dolls, and the boys showed door stops, tooth brush holders, whisk broom holders, garden ornaments and bird houses. All the articles found ready sale, the proceeds of the evening to be used to add to the fund which the church school is raising for the purpose of purchasing a stereopticon machine to be presented to Woodrow Ging, a Chinese student at the Hartford Theological seminary, to be used by him when he returns to China as a missionary. The school was under direction of Rev. and Mrs. William Penner, and they were assisted by Miss Edith L. Heap, Miss Ruth Grimshaw, Miss Margaret Sticht and Miss Jean Copeland.

Georges Fleishmann, well known former local resident who now resides in Bucharest, Rumania, where he is in the employ of a large wholesale grain company, writes an interesting letter of the latest political events in the Balkan kingdom to Taftville friends. At the time of writing the letter, Prince Carol had arrived at the Rumanian capital, and was believed to be about to proclaim himself king. The city's residents had gone wild, and were parading the streets, shouting and making demonstrations, "not so much," writes Mr. Fleishmann, "because they want Carol, but because his return loosens the grip on the peasants of the wealthy and powerful Bratianu family which has ruled the kingdom for years with a rod of iron." Mr. Fleishmann writes that if Carol is made king the people expect no changes in government and business will go on as before. On one of his business trips to Transylvania, Mr. Fleishmann found existing a strong feeling that Hungary and Rumania be united in a dual kingdom after the fashion of the pre-war Austro-Hungarian empire. During the month of August, Mr. Fleishmann expects to go for his vacation to Baltchik on the Black sea, and he also plans to visit the Bulgarian city of Varna.

EXPECTS AGE PENSIONS TO BE ON 1931 PROGRAMME

Attention devoted to the matter of state pensions for the aged at the conference of governors in Utah last week will no doubt add to the strength of the movement for this law in the 1931 Connecticut legislature. The movement for old age pensions in Connecticut already has much more strength than has appeared on the surface in past sessions of the legislature and already some observers who usually are competent to gauge political trends are predicting that the next session will enact legislation to provide pensions for the aged.

For a number of sessions in Hartford the old age pension bill was a hopeless gesture from the start because of the socialist support of the measure. The backing given to the project by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, and later by the democratic members of the legislature in previous sessions seemed to have little weight, but in the 1929 session the Manufacturers' association of Connecticut, while opposing the measures proposed at that time, volunteered to make a fact finding survey to be submitted to the 1931 session. This work is still in process, and no intimation has been given of what it will show.

Old age pension measures have been adopted in 12 states, Montana, Nevada, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Colorado, Maryland, California, Minnesota, Utah, Wyoming, Massachusetts and New York. Massachusetts and New York adopted their measures within the past year.

NO PROSECUTION FOR CHAINING UP HER SON

NEW LONDON, July 8—(AP)—F. H. Wyant, state humane agent, last night said that after an investigation he had found no grounds for prosecuting Mrs. Anna Dummire, who was charged with having chained her son, Clifford, 12, to a chair on and off during the past three years to keep him from going out nights.

Wyant said that his investigation had failed to disclose any cruelty on Mrs. Dummire's part. He added that the boy would be placed under the supervision of a state welfare agent, who will attempt to correct the boy's habit, so that a chain will not have to be resorted to, to keep him home nights.

Judge Edward M. Yeomans sat here Monday in the superior court for a hearing on a motion to dissolve injunction obtained by the West Haven Laundry company against Harry Brian and Henry Monzillo, both of New Haven. Judge Yeomans reserved decision.

It was claimed in the injunction suit that the two defendants broke an agreement by starting in the laundry business after severing their connection with the West Haven Laundry company with which they had previously been employed.

Judge Yeomans took the place of Judge Allyn L. Brown before whom the hearing was to come, but who found himself very busy with other matters.

The first bell alarm of the month came in at 2.24 in the afternoon from Box 116, Washington square, for a fire in the store of J. B Barstow and Son at No. 23 Water street. It was located in the rear of the third story of the building and resulted in slight damage, being extinguished with three gallons of chemical.

The flame from a gas plate used in heating plumbers irons is thought to have ignited the fumes from a can of gasoline, which was located nearly on the bench.

Engines 1 and 5, Truck 1, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan responded.

At 5:15 o'clock in the afternoon the fire department was called out for a fire in the two story residence at No. 64 Washington street, owned by Frank and Christine Pasqualini and occupied by James D. Keeley and others. The occupants were frying potatoes on a gas range in the kitchen and in some manner the curtains were ignited. There was also some damage to the woodwork. Engine 1 and 5 and Chief Henry R. Taft responded.

WILL JOIN HER HUSBAND IN JAIL IN NORWICH

Mrs. Mary Korpacz of 89 College stret, Providence, R. I., will join her husband for 15 days at the county jail in this city. She was sentenced to that institution Monday by Judge Warren B. Burrows in the United States district court at Hartford on her plea of guilty to a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. Her husband is now in jail on a liquor charge, serving a six months' sentence.

Mrs. Korpacz was arrested by federal agents several weeks ago enroute from Providence to Willimantic. In the car in which she was a passenger were 40 gallons of alcohol. The driver of the car, Sebastian Muscarella of Waterford, stated in court last week that the woman had invited him to come to the Rhode Island city to assist her in the delivery of liquor into Conecticut. Muscarella was given a month in jail on his plea of guilty.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney John A. Danaher told the court today that it was evident that the woman was continuing in her husband's trade and recommended that the sentence be imposed. The woman's three children are to be cared for by a neighbor during her period of incarceration.

The bantam car is here!

You who thrill to smartness, the sleek beauty of efficient design, the thrift of economical peformance—by all means see this jaunty bantam car.

It is now on exhibition—note the address below.

It will surprise you that so much motor car efficiency could be assembled in so small a space. In here is not only room but comfort—even for six footers and two hundred pounders. The springs are long and supple. There are four-wheel brakes—an ample compartment for packages—everything that you expect in a car.

Yet with this difference—the Austin is far friendlier to your pocketbook.

Its cost is but ¾ of a cent a mile for gas, oil and tires! You can actually save money by keeping an Austin along with your larger car—it costs so little to run.

And what a car! It speeds to forty in second—does better than fifty in high. Small and adroit it darts through traffic, turns completely around with one swing on the average city street and parks in spaces that other cars despair of.

More than 500 cups and medals, won in eight years of competition with cars of all classes the world over, testify to the soundness of Austin's mechanical design. We now present it for your approval.

See it—at the address below.

SENATE VOTE TODAY ON TREATY PAPERS FORECAST

London Naval Pact Proponents Openly Disturbed Over Delay That Has Developed—All Sides Agreed That McKellar Resolution Requesting Diplomatic Correspondence Will Pass, But With Some Modification — Three Amendments Were Pending When Senate Adjourned Yesterday After Five Hours of Feverish Debate.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Five more hours of feverish debate by the senate ended today without action on the McKellar resolution requesting production of the diplomatic correspondence leading up to negotiation of the London navy treaty.

Treaty proponents were openly disturbed over the delay, but predicted a vote tomorrow and a resumption of debate on the treaty itself.

All sides seemed agreed tonight that the resolution would pass, but with some modification. Pending at adjournment were three amendments.

One, by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader and a delegate to London, would request the papers "if not incompatible with public interest." Another, by Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, would call for their consideration by the senate in "closed executive session." A third, by Senator George, democrat, Georgia, would permit President Hoover, in transmitting the documents, to make such recommendations as he saw fit as to how they should be considered.

Advocates of the resolution contended it was not a question of publicity, but one of asserting one of the senate's constitutional privileges in obtaining the papers before voting on the treaty. One of them, Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, said unless he could see the documents he would "either refuse to vote or vote against the treaty."

All of the leading senatorial debaters got into action before adjournment, with both Senators Robinson and Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, another member of the American delegation to London, arguing the president had a right to withhold that portion of the correspondence which he might regard as of a strictly confidential nature.

At one point, Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, a treaty opponent, charged Reed was "wrongfully in possession" of the secret papers, his right to them having ended with the termination of his foreign mission.

Reed, who has invited any senator to inspect the documents on condition they hold them in confidence and who renewed that offer today, proposed to have Secretary Stimson present them to Moses in a very formal manner if the New Hampshire senator refused to receive them "from my tainted hands."

Moses declined the offer. With a smile he said he would "not put the 'Laird of Stanmore' to that much trouble." He apparently referred to the fact that Secretary Stimson occupied while abroad a residence near London called "Stanmore."

Arguing for his amendment, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, said many of the messages exchanged between the president and the state department on the one hand and Ambassador Dawes and other diplomats abroad were in code and if made public would "provoke resentment on the part of the signatories of the treaty."

He added that the documents were "absolutely trivial so far as reflecting any light on the treaty after it was negotiated," and to him there was "an element of comedy in the matter that would be apparent if senators could read some of these secret messages."

Urging adoption of the resolution without change, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, said if the papers were "laughable" and of little consequence "why not send them here and have it over with."

"Under the Constitution," he said, "we are entitled to them if we desire properly to function as a body. If we are to pass on the treaty we are entitled to the same information the president had when he passed on it or his representatives had when they passed on it."

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who as chairman of the foreign relations committee, is in charge of the treaty on the floor, said it was "not a question of a contract between the senate and the president."

"The president can send the papers here if he desires to, with such instructions as he sees fit," he said. "If he wants them considered in confidence we can be relied upon to consider them that way."

CRIME PROBE RUNS UP AGAINST STONE WALL

CHICAGO, July 9—(AP)—Investigation of charges of racketeering among Chicago newspaper reporters, inspired by the assassination of Alfred Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, ran up against a stone wall today when the St. Louis Star held to its decision not to send its reporter to Chicago to divulge information unless he could go directly to a grand jury.

Harry T. Brundige, the St. Louis newspaperman, has offered to talk to the Cook County grand jury, not to the prosecutors.

William A. Rittenhouse, assistant state's attorney, said the grand jury could not be burdened with rumors and that the reporter must show his hand.

"Brundige must go through the usual procedure before appearing before the grand jury," the prosecutor said. "He must first be questioned by a member of my staff to see if he has knowledge of violation of the criminal code. If he shows he has this knowledge he will be taken before the grand jury in five minutes. It is a hard-working body and we cannot burden it with rumors."

To this, The St. Louis Star replied in an editor's note that in view of Rittenhouse's unwillingness to send Brundige before the jurors without preliminary questioning the newspaper regarded the incident as closed.

In his published articles Brundige had referred to the slain Tribune reporter as not the only Chicago newspaperman holding a questionable liaison with gangland

CHARGED WITH OPERATING 18-ROOM GAMBLING HOUSE

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—A dapper young man who said his name was George Herrick and a Negro who said he was William Sullivan, valet, were arragined in magistrate's court today charged with having maintained an 18-room gambling house, occupying the entire eighth floor of a Park avenue apartment hotel.

They were then taken before the U. S. commissioner, in federal court, because police detectives said they found, in addition to cards and dice, liquor in their luxurious and extensive quarters. Herrick was held in $500 bail on the liquor charge for hearing July 123.

ELKS PLAN $20,000,000 FUND FOR WELFARE WORK

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9.—(AP)—Establishment of a $20,000,000 fund for the promotion of welfare activities was recommended to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in the report of the Elks National foundation, made today at the annual meeting of the Grand lodge.

According to the foundation's plans, only the interest from the permanent fund would be used, to "foster, promote and assist in financing the welfare activities of the order."

The report, submitted by John F. Malley, of Springfield, Mass., past grand exalted ruler, said that the fund will be raised voluntarily without any direct or indirect levies.

LEVITT WINS FIGHT ON GRADE CROSSINGS

BRIDGEPORT, July 9.—(AP)—Prof Albert Levitt, independent antagonist of the republican organization of the state of Connecticut, won a complete victory today, in one step of his single-handed fight against the public utilities commission, to compel the removal of grade crossings as required by law. The supreme court of errors, in a decision handed down here, upheld Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court, in his order that a peremptory writ issue directing the attorney-general of Connecticut to file a complaint to require the removal of the members of the public utilities commission for neglect of duty.

The Redding professor initiated the action against the attorney-general after he had attempted to force the public utilities commission to proceed under the statutes, to require the railroads to remove one grade crossing per year for each 50 miles of railroad. Levitt tried the case himself, Deputy Attorney-General Ernest L. Averill appearing for the state.

MAY TAKE LEVITT CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

HARTFORD, July 9—(AP)—The state of Connecticut may take the Levitt case for ouster proceedings against the public utilities commission to the United States supreme court, Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill told the Hartford Courant tonight, upon being informed of the state supreme court of errors decision upholding the mandamus writ.

Grounds for such an appeal, Col. Averill said, were laid in the appeal to the state supreme court when the constitutionality of the statute governing the removal of the public utilities commission was attacked.

WOMAN FILES BIGAMY CHARGE AGAINST EWALD

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Alleged marital difficulties of the past today arose to add to the woes of City Magistrate George F. Ewald, under a federal indictment charging mail fraud in promotion and sale of mine stock.

Mrs. Bettie Schwartz Ewald, describing herself as the magistrate's divorced wife, appeared at the district attorney's office and asked that a bigamy charge be filed against him.

She said that she and Ewald were married in Jersey City April 7, 1908, and lived together for more than a year, that a child was born to them in a New York hospital, was placed in a nursing home and disappeared. She said it was her belief that the baby had been spirited away by the magistrate and told of an unsuccessful 20-year search to find the girl.

$250,000 LIQUOR CARGO AND $100,000 YACHT SEIZED

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Making a surprise raid by land and water, police, customs men and prohibition agents arrested 23 men, seized a $100,000 yacht, a $250,000 liquor cargo, seven trucks and touring cars and a speed boat early today at Scarborough fashionable Westchester county residential section on the Hudson river.

Four of the alleged rum runners escaped, and one of those arrested, Philip Piscitelli, 30, of Allentown, Pa., was shot by the raiders. He is in a serious condition in an Ossining, N. Y. hospital.

The Scarborough police department, suspicious when the yacht, the Valcyon, slipped down the Hudson in the dead of night to halt near a pier, gave the tip which resulted in the biggest liquor haul in recent months.

State police and prohibition agents were notified and two customs patrol boats were dispatched up the river to investigate. About dawn, the decks of the yacht bustled with activity, and the trucks and automobiles arrived at the dock, one by one. Then the alleged rum runners began transferring the liquor from the Halcyon to the land carriers, using the speed boat for the task.

The land police forces closed in when the patrol boats hove into sight. Completely surprised and with both means of escape cut off, the rum crew offered little resistance, although they far outnumbered the raiders.

Piscitelli was shot when the officers said he made a motion as if to draw a gun.

The Halcyon, customs officials discovered, had been cleared out of Chicago for Nyack, N. Y., coming through the lakes and Erie canal to Albany and on down the Hudson.

Prohibition Administrator McCampbell, elated at the success and extent of the seizure, expressed the belief that the Halcyn had taken on its cargo at Chicago. He said all of the men taken in the raid would be questioned closely to determine whether Chicago racketeers are extending their liquor running into New York.

LEGION'S LEGISLATIVE REQUESTS NOW LAWS

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—The legislative slate of the American Legion virtually has been wiped clean by the recently enacted laws that have been placed upon the nation's statute books.

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the organization, speaking over a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting company, said tonight "Practically every important and outstanding legislative request of the American Legion has been enacted into law."

Expressing gratitude to congress and President Hoover for their consideration and attitude, he said "the president has not been as liberal as some had hoped" but "he has shown a sympathetic attitude with reference to this legislation."

Enumerating the various Legion proposals that were written into law during the first session of the seventy-first congress, Bodenhamer listed the Rogers hospital bill calling for $16,000,000 of construction; the Hawley bill extending the time for applying for adjusted compensation; the Williamson bill consolidating veterans activities; the Reed-Snell resolution calling for a study of universal draft, and, finally, the veterans pension bill over which congress labored so long during the last days of the session.

Many other laws in which the Legion was interested were passed, he said, including the $100,000 appropriation for the department of labor to aid in solving unemployment, the bills liberalizing the gold star mothers act, and the ten year extension of veterans preference in homestead entries.

One measure remains before congress, he said. This calls for additional funds for 4,500 more beds to accommodate the waiting list of disabled men in hospitals.

WILL INCREASE RAILROAD EARNINGS BY $40,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Net earnings of railroads operating in the northeastern quarter of the United States will be increased approximately $40,000,000 per annum as a result of the new classified freight schedules approved yesterday by the interstate commerce commission.

This was the opinion today of rate experts after 24 hours of study of the lengthy decision and its details. Officially, the commerce commission withheld any statement on the subject, but individual members confirmed the estimate as conforming entirely to their expectations.

The new schedules will become effective on or about November 1 under arrangements promulgated.

Though difficulty of determining the altered earnings from a new rate system is ordinarily very great, during its consideration of the various proposals for revision of classified rates, the commission obtained extensive calculations from all eastern carriers as to the effect on revenues of proposals before it.

Senator Fess Slated To Succeed Huston

Republican Chieftains to Demand Retirement of National Chairman At Today's Meeting of Party Officers.

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Fo[illegible] of Chairman Claudius Huston, of t[illegible] republican national committee, closed in on him tonight as the most bitter party row of years neared a showdown here tomorrow.

The republican leaders who are demanding Huston's immediate retirement moved today to put their case before him at tomorrow's meeting of party officers which was called by Huston to discuss campaign plans.

There was a division of opinion tonight in the absence of Huston as to what answer he would make but some of his intimates were confident he would stand by his post until President Hoover asks for his retirement.

Friends of the president believe he will do this, if necessary. Significance was attached to the statements issued today by two party men who left the white house calling for Huston's resignation.

Representative Wood of Indiana, a friend of Huston, and the chairman of the republican congressional committee, said after a call upon President Hoover that he believed Mr. Huston should retire "in the interests of the party." Earl Kinsley, national committeeman for Vermont, who was quoted yesterday as saying he had been requested to become acting chairman, denied this as he left the white house today, but, he, too, believed Huston should go.

Determined to thrash out the matter with Huston, the party leaders arranged for proxies tomorrow of these officers who cannot be present. The officers themselves, however, are without power to remove Huston. It was said tonight a majority of those who will attend are opposed to Huston's continuance.

If Huston fights it out, it will require action by the national executive committee to oust him. This committee can be called upon a petition of a majority of its members.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, has been slated to become the national chairman if and when Huston goes, with Robert Lucas, of Kentucky, commissioner of internal revenue, to be the executive officer in charge of organization work.

Considerable speculation has attached to the part of Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, in the Huston controversy and to the part he will take in the meeting tomorrow.

Senator Moses said today he had not discussed, with Huston, the question of his retaining the chairmanship since last spring. At that time he said he did advise Mr. Huston to "stick."

HUSTON DOES NOT INTEND TO RESIGN

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Returning to the capital tonight for a conference with republican leaders, Claudius Huston emphatically stated he did not intend to resign his chairmanship of the republican national committee at tomorrow's meeting.

FLYING BOAT DISASTER DEATH TOLL FIVE

BERLIN, July 9—(AP)—The sea today gave up new tidings of the fate of an American doctor, his youthful woman assistant and three others of the ill-fated Lufthansa flying boat lost yesterday off Bornholm, coast of Norway.

Details of the tragedy in which Dr. John L. Burkholder, 42, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and Miss Ruth Patricia Northrop, 26, of Philadelphia, perished reveal a disaster of the air and sea which has had no counterpart in commercial aviation.

After hours of uncertainty and conflicting reports, the Berlin headquarters of the airline today pieced the story together from radio and other messages from torpedo boats and the rescue ship, Maja, a Danish craft, which picked up the pilot, mechanic and one passenger of the German plane D-864, forced down in a storm yesterday.

Their summer tour of Europe cut short by death in the stormy Baltic, the Americans simply disappeared beneath the turbulent waters. Not the slenderest hope was held out today by Lufthansa that the Stockholm-Stettin flying liner's lost passengers would be found alive.

The big flying boat rode the sea for about three hours after coming down. Then a giant wave hit her, crumpled her wings and sent her like a shot to the bottom. Three of those on board were rescued by the Maja. The other five vanished from sight and tonight had not been found although patrols maintained a vigil in the vicinity of the wreck.

The possibility that some members of the party might be clinging to wreckage was discounted. The plane carried pneumatic life belts, which are supposed to remain buoyant only a few hours.

WOMAN REPORTED DEAD RETURNS TO HER JOB

SEVILLE, Spain, July 9—(AP)—Antonia Vargas, a worker in a local olive factory, who threw Seville into a spontaneous general strike on June 23 when police and workers agreed she was dead, had the city by the ears again today when she suddenly returned to her job hale and hearty.

Re-appearing at her customary position, the would-be deceased told her fellow workers they did not know what they were talking about when they charged the police with having killed her during a labor demonstration. Equally emphatically she chided the police for reporting her as dead from natural causes.

She had merely gone off on a little informal vacation of her own, she said, and that was all there was to her "demise."

FOILED IN ROBBERY, HOLDUP MAN SUICIDED

FORSYTH, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—C. A. Bonner, a workman at Canton, committed suicide today after an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Citizens bank at Forsyth.

Bonner walked into the bank soon after noon and presented a check to Roland Anderson, cashier, who was alone. He then drew a pistol and ordered the cashier to throw up his hands.

Anderson ducked under the cage, snatched a pistol and opened fire. Bonner fled through crowds outside the bank, ran to his automobile a half block away and fired one shot into his head. He died 30 minutes later.

One note in his pockets identified him and another read: "Sweetie: Now you will believe I love you. Charlie."

CARDINAL VANNUTELLI, DEAN OF SACRED COLLEGE, DIED YESTERDAY

VATICAN CITY, July 9.—(AP)—The body of Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred college, who died today, lay in state tonight in the throne room of his apartment in D'Ataria palace while preparations were made for his burial on Saturday

The prelate died early this evening of uremic poisoning and heart disease, ailments which the prince of the Catholic church had combatted successfully for many years.

The prelate, who ranked higher than any other in the Catholic church excepting the pope, will be buried, it was believed tonight with services in which all of the Curia, cardinals resident in Rome, will participate. His body will repose probably in the Church of St. Ignatius, Monsignor Respighi, secretary of the Congregation of Rites, in charg of the funeral, has been besieged by requests that Cardinal Vannutelli be buried in the Cathedral of Ostia which he dedicated only a few months ago at exercises that overtaxed his strength, brought on a cold, and precipitated his end.

The cathedral is in Rome's old seaport where the prelate served as bishop for nearly two decades. It was Cardinal Vannutelli's dream of many years and was built practically through his personal efforts.

There were several other places in which, it was suggested, the cardinal might be buried. These were the four Basilicas of Rome. Of these Santa Maria Maggiore, Cardinal Vannutelli's titular church, it was believed, would receive preference.

The venerable prelate tonight received special prayers of the pope and all church dignitaries and profound mourning pervaded the holy see. The prelate died almost immediately after receiving a final benediction from his holiness at 5 o'clock this evening.

The cardinal expired at 5:12 p. m. With him were Monsignor Guerri, under-vicar of D'Ataria, and Monsignor. Bertini, his private secretary.

This evening Attorney Angelini Rotta, a justice, signed the cardinal's death certificate and sealed up all of his effects according to the Vatican law.

The death of Cardinal Vannutelli left many United States and Canadian churches without a cardinal protector. The dean of the Sacred college was the protector of the Congregation of Our Lord, Montreal, Sisters of Divine Providence of Canada.

GERMAN MINE DISASTER TAKES HEAVY DEATH TOLL

Bodies of 67 Dead Taken From Mine Wrecked By Coal Gas Explosion—Many Others Suffering From Gas Poisoning Brought to Surface By Rescue Parties—Attempts Being Made to Reach 73 Others Still Entombed—Rescuers Overcome In Gas Filled Shaft.

NEURODE, Germany, July 9.—(AP)—Bodies of 67 miners tonight were removed from the Wenceslaus mine near here which today was wrecked by an explosion of coal gas. About 50 others suffering from gas poisoning have been taken out of the mine by rescuing parties. Authorities tonight hope to save a majority of 73 others still entombed.

Experienced mining engineers helped the rescue workers, who, despite their gas masks, were obliged to dart in and out of the shaft, remaining but a few minutes at a time.

They then staggered to the surface to be revived before another trip underground. A number of the rescuers were overcome.

OCEAN FLIERS FORCED DOWN BY OIL LEAK

DAKAR, Senegal, July 9—(AP)—An oil leak spoiled what promised to be a brilliant round trip commercial and postal flight between France and South America soon after ten o'clock this morning.

The gallant effort of the French pilot, Jean Mermoz, to cover the route both ways and thus to demonstrate the feasibility of regular postal and commercial service by air between Paris and Buenos Aires came to naught through a slight accident to the plane's oil pipes.

Mermoz was deeply disappointed at the ending of the flight for which he had made so much preparation. He had discovered the leak about nine o'clock this morning when about 12 hours out of Natal but it did not then appear to be serious and he informed Dakar by wireless he expected to arrive between five and six o'clock

Dakar prepared with the greatest enthusiasm for a rousing reception, and welcome to the aviators.

Some time later the plane came down and the Patrol Boat Phocee picked up the crew at a point 7 degrees north latitude and 24 west longitude. When he came down Mermoz had enough fuel left to reach Dakar easily and the whole crew had been in the highest spirits

As they approached the African side of the Atlantic and the success of their venture appeared to be certain.

They were not more disappointed than Dakar where delight at the prospective success of the round air trip was general. The disappointment was somewhat mitigated by the fact that despite the oil leak regular postal air line and commercial service between France, Africa and South America appeared assured.

In order to lose as little time as possible in the dispatch of the air mail, the Phocee decided to turn the pouches over to a second faster boat that also was patrolling the air men's route.

LABOR GOVERNMENT NARROWLY ESCAPES DEFEAT

LONDON, July 9—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald's labor government had its narrowest escape from defeat during its present tenure of office tonight defeating by a bare majority of three votes—and these all liberals—a liberal amendment to the finance bill.

With the aid of the liberals themselves, the prime minister managed to muster 278 votes to 275. His previous narrow escape was several months ago on a coal mines measure when the government got a majority of only eight.

It was generally conceded tonight that if the government had met defeat on the finance amendment, it either would have resigned or would have dissolved parliament. The amendment was designed to provide for the nonimposition of income tax on profits which could be proved to have been spent upon the purchase, installation, direction or improvement of a plant or machinery with a view to the modernization or improvement of such plant or machinery.

The liberals, realizing that a new election was imminent in case of a government defeat, stepped in and saved the day by beating their own amendment—nobody apparently desiring a new election at the present time.

While recently Mr. MacDonald said he might accept a slight majority as a real censure and resign, parliamentary observers anticipated no such political development as a result of the finance vote. It was said that Mr. MacDonald was fully satisfied with the results, particularly as the division had been precipitated fully an hour before it was expected in the hope of catching the government before all its forces were available.

The conservatives voted solidly against the government Four liberals voted for the government, these being E. D. Simon, Sir William Edge, Sir Robert Aske and Percy Harris. There were a number of abstentions on the liberal benches also. Three independents voted with the government.

Previously the laborites had scored a victory by a much bigger margin on a liberal amendment proposing that the rate of income on company reserves invested in plant machinery lands or buildings, should be at the rate of four shillings instead of four and six pence. This amendment was introduced by Major H. Nathan and was supported by the conservatives.

EARL CARROLL'S "VANITIES" RAIDED BY POLICE

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Police raided the Eighth Edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" after the matinee today and arrested nine of the production's principals on a charge of putting on an indecent show.

Warrants for the arrest of Carroll and Lotti was not found.

Amsterdam theatre, could not be served. Carroll was said to be out of town and Lottie was not found.

The raiders entered a stage door bearing the inscription "Through this portal pass the most beautiful girls in the world," and waited until the matinee was over. Then they made the arrests.

In the meantime a huge crowd gathered outside and chorus girls, leaning from dressing room windows, jeered police who were guarding the theatre.

Those arrested were Irene Ahleberg, 19, who won the title "Miss America" this year; Constance Trevor, 22, Eileen Wenzel, 20, known as "Miss St. Louis"; Frances Joyce, 19, "Miss San Francisco"; Kay Carroll, 22, Naomi Ray, 22, Jimmie Savo, 34, Betty Veronica, 18, and Faith Bacon, 20.

A dance by Miss Bacon, in which her only covering apparently was a white ostrich fan or two, had caused comment by those who saw the show. All the others arrested appeared in a scene called "A Window at Merles" in which living show girls impersonated wax models.

The accused persons were released on $500 bail each and it was announced that the show would go on tonight.

This year's edition of the "Vanities" was described by some critics as having the "nudest" cast in the history of the American theatre. Its lines were also considered unusually broad.

EMBEZZLEMENT CASE IS APPEALED TO HIGH COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, July 9—Charged with embezzlement and theft in police court this morning, Clarence Wilson, 17, of Windham, appealed to the next criminal term of the superior court when found guilty and fined. The charges, as read by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher were that Wilson, a former employe at the Sinclair Gasoline company filling station on North Windham road, had embezzled the sum of $28.28 from June 18 to 28, and stolen two tires valued at $30 on June 27. Through Attorney W. A. King, a plea of not guilty was entered but after a conference this was substituted for a demurrer which was overruled by Judge Frank H. Foss. A fine of $25 on the first count and $10 on the second were imposed. Prosecutor Gaucher stated that the embezzlement represented a certain number of gallons of gasoline that were not accounted for by Wilson in the check-up. Harry M. Everett has been manager of the station in question.

State Policeman Victor J. Clark of the Stafford Springs barracks made the arrest, the case having been continued from a previous date until today. The theft count is alleged to be the result of an order placed by Wilson for two tires with the Firestone representative in the name of Mr. Everett without the latter's knowledge.

Mr. Bunyan, a graduate of Bacon academy, class of 1916, has been mathematics instructor for the past three years, at the University extension at Milwaukee, a branch of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. He was previously mathematics instructor at Madison where several years ago he received his M. A. degree. At commencement at the University of Wisconsin June 23, the degree of doctor of philosophy was conferred on him. The following excerpt from a University of Wisconsin publication is of interest to many friends here: "L. H. Bunyan, popular mathematics instructor at the University extension, was elected to membership in Sigma Xi at the recent spring meeting of that organization. To be elected to the fraternity, a national honorary research fraternity, is a signal honor as the group is composed of mathematicians and scientists who have won recognition within their fields of endeavor. With Mr. Bunyan's election, the mathematic department includes three members of Sigma Xi, Doctor Parkin, Dr. Roth and Dr. Bunyan. The rigid entrance requirements are such that within the last few years only three or four men within the mathematical field have been admitted. It is indeed a credit to the university that so great a number of its faculty have won their way to membership."

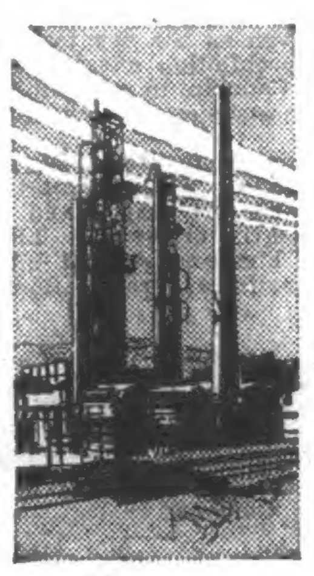
HERE was born an INDUSTRY that changed the habits of half the world

When Edwin L. Drake struck oil with his primitive drilling rig, near Titusville, Pennsylvania, in 1859, he little dreamed that he was giving birth to an industry that would change the habits of half the civilized world.



Today millions of automobiles bring new freedom to people of every status. Airplanes soar with loads of mail and freight and passengers. Motor boats skim the surface of lakes and rivers at whirlwind paces. Virtually all of life's major activities sped up with the advent of the internal combustion engine, an achievement that would have been impossible but for efficient lubricating oils.

The Drake name that identified the world's first oil well today identifies the highest grade of lubricating oil made from petroleum. If you appreciate the benefits that oil has afforded, you will appreciate the added value of this double-mileage oil. Buy it where you see the sign of the first oil well.

DANIELSON

MEMORIAL WINDOWS AT ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH DEDICATED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, July 9—At St. Alban's church this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the presence of the donor, George P. Miller of Bridgeport, three handsome stained glass windows were dedicated at a service conducted by the rector, Rev. J. Rees Jones. The windows are in the sanctuary, the central one over the altar, and depict scenes from the life of Christ. They are given by Mr. Miller in memory of Willard Day, Catherine Brown Day and Annie Day.

The service was a shortened evensong and with the singing of hymns. The presentation was made by the church warden, James E. Milner, the acceptance being by Rev. Mr. Jones, who made the dedicatory prayers.

The service was attended by many members of the church as well as by some of the members of the Colonel Daniel Putnam association, which today held its biennial meeting at the Elms on Church street and attended a service conducted by Rev. Mr. Jones at Old Trinity church on Church street, at 3 o'clock.

Another series of thunderstorms bombarded Danielson and the surrounding countryside this afternoon, beginning shortly after 2 o'clock and continuing on through the afternoon. The storms were not of the severity of the one of Sunday night, the lightning being less severe, but the rainfall was considerable. Up to early evening no damage had been reported.

Again this morning at the session of the town court men arrested here, as previously told in this column, for operating motor vehicles not equipped with reflectors were fined $1.00 each and costs by Deputy Judge Charles S. Francis. It has been a surprising thing, even to some of the state officers that so many trucks have been going over the highways without reflectors in direct violation of one provision of the motor vehicle code for this state.

An interesting suggestion for holding tourists in this section longer than they would otherwise stay was heard today. The proposal has to do with erecting ornate signs along trunk line highways entering the territory and setting forth upon them something of the historic sights to be seen hereabouts—the field at Brooklyn where General Israel Putnam left his plow when he hurriedly rode off to Bunker Hill, his monument nearby, the old Putnam homestead, the wolf den, Old Trinity church and other such worthwhile things. It is held that many tourists likely would be sufficiently interested to stop over for a time and view these things. Naturally, one objective back of all of this is commercial, for tourists who stay about for a time spend money. On the other hand, it is good advertising, and almost national in its scope, for all this part of Windham county, for cars representing about every state in the union are seen here during the course of a summer season.

The more than $1,000 worth of liquor seized from an automobile in Plainfield yesterday morning, is to be destroyed as soon as the necessary order is obtained from the superior court. It is estimated that the loss to the owners, taken with the fines of $500 and costs, will run in the neighborhood of $1,700.

This afternoon at one o'clock at the home on Broad street funeral services for Mrs. Ellen M. Burroughs were conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Mr. Abbott. Sidney W. Bard, Charles S. Francis, Sidney H. Perry, Harold Holehouse, Walter I. Chase and Henry A. McEwen were the bearers. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements. There were many beautiful floral pieces.

This was the third day of this season's series of Chautauqua entertainments in Danielson. This morning there was a boys' and girls' hour. The afternoon entertainment was presented by the All-Arts dectette, and the program was novel and brilliant.

The dectette also appeared this evening in the feature prelude. This evening also C. Ray Hansen, former assistant prosecutor at Chicago, gave an address on Government by Gangland in which he described the sinister influence of organized crime on business and politics.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gorman were recent visitors in Providence.

Our July clearance sale opens Friday, July 11 and continues through July 19. Wonderful assortment of bargains in silk and chiffon hosiery and cotton undies; gloves in kid, silk and chamoisette, corsets and bandeaus.—Adv.

J. F. Lewis is covering the rural mail route out of the Danielson office during the absence of the regular carrier, A. W. Logee, who is in camp with the Service battery.

Another thunder shower this afternoon was responsible for sounding the fire alarm in single blasts, minutes apart.

Joseph C. Marion of New Bedford, a former resident of Danielson, is spending a vacation visiting with friends here and hereabouts.

Do not miss the biggest event of the year, Danielson's July co-operative clearance sale; starts Friday, July 11, at 9 a. m., ends Saturday, July 19, at 9:30 p. m. Tremendous reductions prevail throughout the various stores. For details study advertisements in The Windham County Transcript.—Adv.

It is understood that the corn borer quarantine arrangements that were effective in this territory last summer after corn began to come onto the market will be in force again within a few weeks, with check ups of ever car by uniformed inspectors.

State officers of the local barracks made four more arrests in Plainfield today, three of them because men were operating trucks without reflectors, the other because the truck was an unregistered vehicle. Sales of reflectors are said to have increased in the territory since the crusade against trucks without them was inaugurated.

Mrs. J. Arthur Atwood is chairman of the local committee that will work in the interest of increasing the fund for the nurses' home at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Marble of Cleveland are visiting here. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Marble was Miss Elizabeth Woodworth, principal of the Danielson grammar school.

Mrs. Earl Wood and daughters Phyllis and Jacqueline of Cottage street have gone to Watch Hill for the summer season. Mr. Wood will spend week ends at the resort.

County Agent Raymond E. Wing of the Farmers' association quotes M. P. Zappe of the New Haven experiment station as stating that "apple maggot flies are just beginning to emerge from the ground, and that July 10 would be about the right time for the first spray and July 25 for the second." Windham county fruit growers will want to spray at the very first opportunity to control these flies.

Members of the class recently graduated from St. James' school had an outing at Columbia lake today.

Many Danielson motorists had their first chance today to inspect the new Austin car, as a New Jersey man operating one stopped here for a time.

This week sidewalk construction work by the borough is underway in Winter street.

Local people interested in the Service battery, now in camp at Niantic, learn that one of the diversions for members of the 192nd Field Artillery and their guests at camp next Saturday will be a polo game. That afternoon also will bring a horse show as an additional attraction. The pageant will come on Sunday.

Miss Mignonne Morin has returned here after spending a vacation in New York and at Norfolk, Va.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM MAY GET NEW INDUSTRY FOR CITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 9 — Ever on the alert for new prospects the new industries committee of the chamber of commerce announced today that a well known American novelty manufacturing concern having a yearly payroll of $200,000 is within a step of locating in Putnam. Three executive representatives of the concern were in this city yesterday conferring with members of the committee on the establishing of a plant here. President Walter N. King of the chamber stated that the name of the company is being withheld at the request of officials.

The Adams Manufacturing company's plant on Main street is the factory which the new concern is desirous of acquiring. According to Mr. King the concern would occupy 60,000 square feet of floor space and would give employment to 150 hands at the present, increasing it as the demand for products increases. The Adams company is removing to Shelton, Conn., where it is entering into a consolidation with its plant in that community and it is expected the factory will be vacant during the latter part of the summer.

The statement of Mr. King is one of the most welcome pieces of news heard in the city's industrial circles in many weeks.

According to Mrs. A. A. Vonsiatsky, general chairman of the nurses home campaign committee of the Day Kimball hospital a total of $3,575 had been raised towards the $25,000 additional funds as the first week of the campaign ended tonight.

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR 1930-31 IS $77,200

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 9—The citizens of the town will be asked to appropriate the sum of $77,200 to be used for the operation of the public schools for the ensuing fiscal year, at the annual town meeting to be held in October. This amount which has been budgetted was approved at the July meeting of the town school committee held Tuesday evening in the law offices of Torrey and Geissler.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin submitted the proposed budget for the approval of the board. A unanimous vote was passed on the motion. The bill submitted by the superintendent was identical with the budget of 1929-30 and is itemized as follows:

General control—School board and business office $400; supervision $4,100; compulsary attendance and census $50; other expenses of general control $150.

Instruction—Music supervision $1,100, principals salaries $7,900; teachers salaries, men, $3,200; teachers salaries, women, $33,000; teachers salaries, evening, $400.

Textbooks $1,500; stationery and supplies $3,000; music books $200; tuition fees $600; graduation and other expenses $375.

Operation—Janitors wages $3,000; fuel, water and light $6,800; cafeterias $800; other expenses $75.

Maintainence—Repairs $3,500; replacement of equipment $1,100.

Auxiliary agencies—Libraries and apparatus $400; promotion of health $3,750; transportation $3,500; total $77,200.

It was reported during the meeting last year that the fiscal year ended without a deficit on the books. The board was elated over the fact that the year closed without the operation budget being exceeded. Bills for the current month were voted paid, after which a motion to adjourn was entertained.

It was announced at the meeting and luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club, held at noon today at the Putnam inn, that the organization would supervise the campaign for funds for the nurses home of the Day Kimball hospital, which was launched this week. The part the Rotary club will play in the drive which is being conducted throughout the eastern part of the county, will be locally. President Alex Gilman of the club, a member of the board of trustees of the hospital will appoint a Rotary club campaign committee to take charge of the work.

Sidney P. Butler of West Woodstock, formerly associated with the American Red Cross, was the speaker at today's luncheon. His subject was, "The Philosophy of Community Service."

It was announced at the meeting that an invitation has been received from the officials of Camp Woodstock for the local club to send a representative delegation to the camp to attend the exercises that will be held on Rotary Club Service day July 17. Clubs from Windham and Tolland counties will assemble at Black Pond on this day.

Rev. Everett S. Lyons of Thompson, superintendent of the daily vacation school of the Windham county council of religious education, reported today that 10 additional enrollments of children in the primary and junior departments of the school were noted at the opening of today's session. The school is functioning smoothly and its success from all standpoints is assured.

All reports and current rumors, to the effect that the agricultural area on the Putnam-Pomfret road, known as the William May farm would be converted into a modern race track for the promotion of horseracing in this vicinity, have been exploded with the report that Charles Van Brunt Cushman, wealthy Pomfret resident, horseman and owner of the property is contemplating the purchase of an airplane, with the object in view of erecting a hangar on the farm and the establishing of a suitable emergency landing field on its broad acres.

Bernard Bulger returned to his home in this city today after being discharged from the Hopedale hospital in Providence where he underwent an operation this week.

Upon entering a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle, while under the influence of liquor, resulted in a fine of $100 and costs and suspension of operators license, being imposed upon David Favereau, familiarly known as "Zaggy" of North Grosvenordale this morning, who was before city court this morning.

"With Byrd at the South Pole," today and Friday at the Bradley.—adv.

Superior court officials said this afternoon that as yet, there has been no decision handed down in the marriage annulment action of Jean Coleman Legg of Thompson, which was tried during the May term of civil court in Putnam. Judge Arthur F. Ells of Litchfield listened to evidence in the case and upon resting of counsel representing both parties, Judge Ells reserved decision and shortly afterwards adjourned the session for the term. Judge Ells is enjoying his annual vacation and it is believed that the case will not be decided by the court until fall. Mrs. Legg sought an annulment of her marriage to John Francis Legg of Worcester, on the grounds that his divorce decree previously awarded him had not become final when their marriage was solemnized.

MARY LAFRAMBOISE WINS GREEN POND DIVING TEST

Mary LaFramboise, 14-year-old star of the Ashland Diving Troupe of Jewett City, now a resident of Turner's Falls, Mass., was the winner of the ladies' diving contest at Green Pond, Mass., Sunday last. The young lady needs no further introduction to lovers of aquatic sports in Jewett City as she for a number of years thrilled local audiences and given keen competition in water meets throughout New England.

Hand-Planted Wood Lot

During the World war, along toward its close, there were conducted here a series of check-ups on the waterpower possibilities of the Quinebaug river. At that time, experienced lumberjacks inspected the farms and wooded sections all through this vicinity, to arrive at the number of feet of available lumber. On the one-time Daniel L. Phillips farm, now owned by Morton H. Bartlett, there is a stand of timber, which can claim a decidedly unusual origin. When Mr. Phillips was 20, he and his father conceived the idea of having a wood lot, the trees in which should be grown from nuts which they themselves should plant. The finest acorns, hickory nuts and chestnuts were selected and planted in long rows like corn. A half-century has passed, and Mr. Phillips was over at the farm the other day to look at his hand-sown wood lot. The fine chestnuts all died during the blight a few years ago, the hickory trees never seemed to amount to much, but the beautiful 50-year-old oaks are a growth worth while to see. They measure more than a foot through at their butts.

RUMOR THAT HENRY FORD HAD COME TO BUY FIRST MILL

Somebody must have gotten a fine kick over the story that flew all about the borough, Wednesday. Naturally, with the big Fisk mill shut down, everybody hereabouts is keenly interested in any report that may look favorable for an early start. In midforenoon, a big limousine with a high-hatted and liveried chauffeur stopped in front of the mill office and a man climbed out from the cushioned seats in the rear. The report started there. The next man who told about it on the street said that the man was Henry Ford, and that he was here to buy the mill. William Bromley, the Ford salesman, hearing about it, said that now it was plain to him why he had received notification to have his salesroom all spick and span. First Selectman D. F. Finn declared he had received more than a dozen telephone calls relative to the distinguished visitor. Word came also from Glasgo that Mr. Ford was due to show up there at any minute, as he was desirous of buying some "Miner" property there. Even the staid boroughites developed mild excitement, with not a few believing that the millenium, or something like it, was actually here. Evening came, with the result that no items of sale had been received for record, and no trace of Henry could be found.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK ENDED WITH VARIED PROGRAM

The last day of Chautauqua in Jewett City was Tuesday. In the afternoon the Merrymakers made merry with a varied program of songs, dances and comedy. C. Ray Hansen was the afternoon speaker, describing the sinister influence of organized crime upon business and politics, which may be just as menacing to Jewett City as to Chicago. He gave three possible means of elimination of corruption, not only in Chicago but in other cities of the United States: Stricter enforcement of the immigration laws and a provision that would allow undesirable persons to be deported within a period of 15 years after arrival in this country; child character training, with the idea that they will carry the teaching into their homes; and the third was a greater interest by the upright, clean-living citizens of the towns in the political life of each community. The evening program was by the Merrymakers, supplemented with interesting exhibits of homecraft.

RELIEVING THE MAIN LINES

Rhode Island is getting ready to provide for a greater distribution of its highway traffic. It has widened roads and is still at it, but it appreciates the necessity of getting through traffic out of the centers, away from the bottle necks and where it will not contribute to the congestion in narrow and busy streets.

According to announcement made by the state board of public roads and the Providence representative of the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture, a new belt line highway is to be constructed from Wrentham, Mass., to Washington, R. I., to be a bypass skirting the congested centers of Providence, Pawtucket, Central Falls and the Pawtuxet valley villages.

This means that it will take traffic from the Nooseneck road and carry it across Rhode Island without subjecting it to the handicaps which are always found in cities. It will be an advantage to the large and small communities and it will be an aid to the motorists who are concerned in reaching their destination.

This idea of reducing distance and eliminating centers is getting increased attention because of the crying need that exists for such changes. With Rhode Island arranging to take care of such traffic by providing alternate routes, the idea may well get consideration in Connecticut through the development of the cross roads, the reduction of distance and the removal of the present congestion that is forced upon certain communities because traffic has no other outlet.

With Rhode Island seeking to bring relief to some of its much used highways, the opportunity would seem to be at hand for Connecticut and Rhode Island to do a bit of cooperating and by building roads that would meet on the state line to the east of Voluntown provide another route for the traffic between points in southeastern Connecticut and Providence or for that traffic which is going beyond Providence and could make use of the belt line that is to be constructed.

By the building of a modern road from Preston City to Voluntown and then to the state line, Connecticut would be relieving main line traffic and such an outlet would also be a relief for congestion on one or more of the much used Rhode Island roads.

SPEEDBOAT NUISANCE

Speed has been the cause of many fatalities and many accidents. This is as true on the water as on the highway. The speedboat has been involved in accidents which involve humanity in a manner which calls for more regulations than exist at the present time and, like the automobile, must expect a curbing of its activities in the interest of safety.

Residents at the lake at East Hampton have become much disturbed over the manner in which speedboats are operated on that body of water, to the annoyance of cottagers and as a menace to the safety of bathers and the occupants of other craft.

Much indignation is felt by residents at Lake Quassapaug, near Waterbury, where a man in swimming was run over by the operator of a motor boat and severely hurt, and it is hinted that some action may result that will establish regulations looking to the prevention of any more accidents of the kind.

Speedboats cover much distance in a short time and it is not always that the person at the wheel has a commanding view of what is ahead of him. Under such conditions, the swimmer has little or no chance to get out of the way and if he is not observed the boat is driven against or over him in a manner that is bound to have serious results.

The hazard for swimmers from boats has always existed, but in a minor degree compared with the situation created by the fast motor boats. Where such speed is involved, the responsibility of protecting the swimmer or bather must rest with the motor boat operator, or it is the intention to have it if the speedboat owners do not assume it and give the swimmers a fair deal. There is no more chance for the swimmer to dodge the speedboat than there is for the schooner to get out of the way of an ocean liner. The fact is that the schooner isn't required to. The responsibility rests with the liner to safeguard the slow craft.

Along with the effort for more protection from the reckless motor boat drivers, it will not be surprising if there is a demand for the muffling of the noise which they make when being operated. Speed and noise of that kind may well be rated as nuisances which should be abated.

BOULDER DAM

After a long fight, for and against, the money has been provided for the initial operations on the Colorado river that will eventually produce Boulder dam. Congress has made the appropriation and the order has been given to start work at once. This means the construction of a huge wall in that canyon that will block the flood waters of the river, send them back for 160 miles and produce a body of water that will be used for the production of electric current and for the irrigation of a vast area in the southwest. It is estimated that the total cost will be about $165,000,000 and while the government is providing the money for the construction it is figured that it will recover it and interest from the sale of the current that is generated and sold to communities in that part of the country and California.

While this project is located on the boundary between Arizona and Nevada, it was necessary for six of the seven interested states to ratify the Colorado river compact. This was negotiated eight years ago and all of them—Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico—with the exception of Arizona have given their approval. It is the intention of Arizona to carry the matter to the courts, because it claims it wants water and not power, but in the allocation of power and water the interests of Arizona were taken care of as if it had been one of the ratifying states. Arizona feels that it has been unjustly treated, although it did not send a representative to the conference at which the allocation of power and water rights was made. It is one of the states which has been given a large interest in the rights.

The Boulder dam project is one that will require much time as well as money. It is another one of those instances where government money is being employed instead of private capital. It received much opposition on that ground, because of the precedent that it would be setting, and no matter what the result is that objection will continue to be raised. Just how much it will accomplish in the way of flood control in that region is for the future to disclose.

DECENT TREATMENT

Boston has a new police commissioner and among the other things he is doing is the effort to prevent profanity among the policemen and his condemnation of the tongue lashings that are given to minor traffic law violators.

The commissioner has undertaken a real job. There is no getting away from the fact that there is ground for the use of coarse and profane language by traffic policemen, that it is grossly unfair to take the attitude that every violator of certain regulations is doing so deliberately and that honest mistakes by those confused as to what the requirements are do not call for abuse by uniformed officials.

If the Boston commissioner is able to impress upon his men that courtesy must be made to take the place of past improper conduct, he will accomplish much. He has already started in by penalizing one policeman with 75 extra hours of duty for his conduct, and the inference is that others can expect the same treatment for like offenses.

Whether this move is a gesture or a permanent policy that is going to be insisted upon will be disclosed in time. Boston probably furnishes quite as many complications for the stranger as other cities do. That being so, it must have been apparent long since that a kind word and desired advice will accomplish far more than bad language and a bawling out. There are, unquestionably, plenty of instances where motorists try the patience of the police, do it intentionally in their endeavor to disregard regulations and may perhaps deserve what they receive, but that doesn't mean that decent treatment should not be accorded to all. That is what the public has a right to expect and if the commissioner has his way it is what it will receive. It is a public service which must give due consideration to the public at all times.

SAVED BY RADIO

Favorable conditions apparently favored Jean Mermoz and his crew in their attempted flight from Brazil to Africa when they were forced down in mid-ocean, for they were rescued without delay or difficulty, and the mail which they were transporting was saved.

It was another case where much credit rests with the insistence upon having radio equipment. But for that fact there is no telling what might have been their fate. Fortified with radio and with vessels patrolling their course, there had been provision against adverse developments. When it became apparent that the trouble in the oiling system was of such a character that it could not be fixed and the plane could not go on, there was quick resort to communication with the nearest patrolling vessel and a disclosure of their plight. With the plane and the vessel heading for each other, the emergency was met, as the vessel soon picked up the airmen and their mail.

Such cases as this, like the recent westward flight across the Atlantic from Ireland to Newfoundland, serve to demonstrate the importance of radio equipment for trans-Atlantic fliers. It involves additional weight, but the protection is such that none should consider such a flight without it.

It may not be so that all those who have been lost would have reached their destination safely had they carried wireless, but it is quite evident that they would have had means of finding out where they were and communicating with those who were anxious as to their safety if they had possessed the means of doing so. Provision against the uncertainty and the hazards of ocean flying is no more than all planes making such a trip should be required to make, and certainly no better reasons for it could be asked than those furnished by the experience of ocean fliers in general.

CHILDREN

Like sudden sunlight flooding a shadowed room Gilbert Webster came into Amy's world. Edith Vane's voice over the telephone asking her to dinner. A few whispered words in the hall. "Gilbert Webster—business friend of Roger's. A widower, I believe. Terribly devoted to his children." Across the library beside Edith, the men rising deferentially; gray eyes smiling down upon her—a firm hand closing over hers—and Amy knew that the pattern of her life had altered—forever.

"Too good to be true. Too wonderful to last." Over and over again she breathed it during those gay, audacious autumn weeks—sort of incantation to ward off disaster to her heart. When you have come thirty-three years of commonplace, adventureless living—work, a few friends, a little well-earned laughter—it is difficult to believe you have the latent loveliness to hold the heart of a man like Gilbert Webster.

As they sped over moonlit roads or dined happily together in quiet out-of-the-way places new to Amy, he talked to her, man fashion, of the things nearest his heart—but mostly of his children.

"They are good kids, Ivan and Rosalie. We've been so close since their mother died four years ago. I haven't tried to tie them to me, but we have a sort of genial, unworded pact that no one of us will do anything to break into the happiness of the others. They will be home from school at Christmas. You will like them—they are good kids."

Till Christmas. Till Christmas. Although neither of them put it into words, Amy knew that her happiness rested in the pink palms of these two youngsters. Gilbert Webster might cherish her with his eyes; his heart might cry out to her as hers did to him. But he was loyal. He would not be first to break this pact of friendship with his children.

Three days before Christmas she met them. They stood solidly side by side in the lobby of the Graystone—Rosalie, slight and childish even for 16, but secure behind an aura of cultivated worldiness; Ivan, a year older, silent, defensive, injured. The girl scarcely extended a limp hand. Her eyes, too bright from recent tears, surveyed Amy bleakly and turned away. "Let's go in to dinner," said Ivan. He might have said, "Let's get this over with."

Across the table Gilbert gave Amy one stricken look. Gravely she smiled back at him and turned to the business of chatting with these two young people. Squaring his shoulders, Gilbert began to talk of things that interested them—skillfully drawing them out about themselves, valiantly trying to show them off at their best. Rosalie chattered in high staccato of "Bab" and "Tish" and "Billie"; a glamorous undergraduate world that shut Amy out.

Silently Amy and Gilbert went back to her tiny, snug apartment. She switched on the lights and stood drooping in their soft, golden glow. For a moment Gilbert stood beside her, staring stiffly into nowhere. Then he caught her in his arms, held her for a long, still moment, and let her go.

"I shall be with the children a lot these few days," he said dully.

"Yes—of course. They are here such a little time." That was all, and the door, closing after him, seemed to click out a chapter of her life.

Christmas eve. Three whole days and no word. No word save a box of roses, cardless, awaiting her when she came home from work. This, then, was his way of telling her that it was over.

Over. She would see him again perhaps. But what of it? All the happy dreams she had conjured, all the delightful anticipation of being part of his pleasant world — over. Gradually he would withdraw; she would grit her teeth and try to rebuild her life as it was before—rebuild it flimsily over a great, echoing vault of loneliness.

Somewhere a bell was ringing insistently. It was her own. She dragged her way across the room and drew the latch. In the dim doorway stood Rosalie, hatless, her small, sophisticated face transformed into wide eyed, childish wonder above her fluffy furs. Behind her, his downy pointed chin on a level with her ear, Ivan.

"Amy," cried the girl. "We've come for you."

"Me?" Amy's lips formed the word silently.

"We came in from skating this afternoon—Ivan and I—and found dad in the library—his head was in his hands. He had been—been— crying." The word was hardly more than a breath. Ivan took a step forward. With an effort he steadied his voice.

"We've been cads. Our dad has never denied us anything that he could give us. We—well, we just couldn't do that to him. So when we realized how much you mattered, we just came for you right away. Families ought to be together—on Christmas."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9— Fate decreed that Stephen Porter of Pennsylvania should die on the very eve of accomplishment of a task he set himself 20 years ago.

The Federal narcotic bureau, proposed by him in his first term in congress, was due to come into being July 1st and Porter died, after two years of illness, June 26th.

To the end, however, the hard-fighting Pennsylvanian was a vital factor, despite his absence from "the hill" in getting that legislation through.

Even in his illness he was dominating the question of who should be first director of the bureau, trying, he said, to persuade a man now earning $100,000 a year to accept instead a $9,000 salary because of the great public service he might render.

Foundation in Medicine

Two years as a medical student before he switched to the law and, inevitably it sometimes seems, to politics underlay Steve Porter's abiding interest in the drug control question. He never relaxed his efforts toward that objective.

Ultimately he was to know international fame as head of the American delegation to the League of Nations' narcotics control conference in Geneva, and to display there and later at home in clashes with Lord Robert Cecil, that same fighting spirit which marked his congressional career.

Yet it was a wholly different question that gave Porter his opportunity to wield so great an influence in drug control matters.

Chairmen of the house foreign affairs committee get little opportunity as a rule. The senate's domination of foreign relations questions under the constitution is too great for that.

But Porter headed the house committee in those hectic days after the war and sponsored the resolution which ended the war with Germany.

To do that he had to triumph over such opponents as the late Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, a former secretary of state and author of the senate's differing proposal. Thereafter Porter was an important figure in Washington official life.

Teammate

By a queer twist of chance, Porter's death leaves his committee to his fellow Pennsylvanian, Henry Temple.

Temple is one of the few ordained preachers in congress although it was his twist to pedagogy and to political science that led him into politics. He was professor of history and science at Washington and Jefferson when the triangular battle of 1912 gave him his first house seat as a progressive-erpublican. He rates now as a straight republican.

For two years Temple has been functioning as committee head in Porter's absence, and doing a good job although a less dramatic personality. Still, Porter added greatly to the prestige of the assignment as it now passes to Temple as a heritage of seniority.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Beautiful Stranger

On strangers don't, I pray, intrude;
'Tis most unkind as well as rude.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool and Jerry Muskrat sat on the end of a log a little below him. Jerry had just seen a stranger approaching. At first he had taken him to be Longlegs the Heron. Peter had thought it was Longlegs, too. The stranger flew like Longlegs. His head was drawn back between his shoulders; his long legs were held straight out behind him, and his great wings were beating in slow, steady strokes; all of which was very like Longlegs the Great Blue Heron. But in one other respect he was wholly different."

"He's all white!" exclaimed Peter. "Any way, he looks all white. Perhaps it's the way the light strikes him."

Jerry Muskrat shook his head. "No." said he, "it isn't the light. That fellow is all white. I hope he'll stop here."

As if he had heard Jerry's hope, the stranger swung once around the Smiling Pool, then dropped his long legs and alighted on the edge of the bulrushes at the upper end of the Smiling Pool. Peter and Jerry simply stared. They were most impolite about it. They were most rude. But they were to be excused, for never had either seen any one at all like this stranger. To begin with, this stranger was not quite so big as Longlegs the Great Blue Heron, but in shape he was the same. There was no doubt at all in the mind of either Jerry or Peter that this was a member of the Heron family. He was all white—beautiful snowy white—save his legs and feet, which were black, and his bill, which was yellow. Being white, he looked larger than he really was. In fact, at first Jerry and Peter hadn't realized that he wasn't as large as Longlegs.

When they got a good look at his back, Peter gave a little gasp. "Oh!" he exclaimed. "Just look at those feathers on his back! Did you ever see anything lovelier, Jerry Muskrat? Did you?"

"He's all white," exclaimed Peter

Jerry shook his head. "I never did," said he. "All my life I have lived here at the Smiling Pool or down along the Big River. I've seen several of the Heron cousins—Longlegs the Great Blue Heron, Quawk the Night Heron, Poke the Little Green Heron and Pumper the Bittern, but never any one like this fellow. Never have I seen any feathers like those on this one's back.

They were lovely. They were what are known as plumes. They were not like ordinary feathers. They were what are called loose-webbed. It made them appear very delicate and dainty and there were very many of these feathers. It is no wonder that Peter and Jerry gazed in round-eyed wonder at this beautiful bird.

For some little time this beautiful stranger stood straight and still, his long white neck stretched to its full length. He stood just as Jerry and Peter had seen Longlegs the Heron stand many times. He was making sure that all was safe. Neither Peter nor Jerry moved. They sat as still as the stranger stood.

At last the stranger drew in his neck and took two or three rather stately steps. Then that long, dagger-like bill was shot down like a flash and a second later Peter and Jerry saw a frog start headfirst down that long throat. Gradually the stranger moved toward Peter and Jerry. Peter was, you know, upon the bank, while Jerry was down below on the end of an old log. Both of them were so full of curiosity that they could hardly wait for the stranger to get near enough for them to speak to him.

YOUR HEALTH

Happiness And Exercise

By Florence D. Alden
Director Department of Physical Education for Women, University of Oregon.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

As joy even in physical exercise is one of the largest factors in the normal development sought, the daily dozen with its reiterant "1, 2, 3, change" does not serve as well as a rollicking folk dance or an exciting game of hand ball. By the same reasoning, a "constitutional" is not as effective as beating your business rival in golf. A half hour's canter on a spirited flesh and blood animal that challenged his whole attention would have done an ex-president more good than hours of exercise on a mechanical horse. The next time some member of your family says "I cannot see the logic of paying for stoking the furnace and mowing the lawn, and then paying for exercise" you have your answer ready.

The mind and the body are free to grow under the spell of the "pleasant" emotions. This is part of the scientific background of the recreative movement. But as home and business relations occupy most of our working hours we must have the recreative attitude in those as well. Cultivate a sense of humor about yourself, a light touch in your relations with people, and the play spirit in your work as well as in your play, and your chances of health will be high.

Stories That Recall Others

Admiration.

Thirteen-year-old Bill was taking the center of the floor, much to the disgust and ineffectual admonition of his parents. He talked and he "cut up" and he did nothing his parents told him to do. On the way home ten-year-old Dick remarked: "I like that Bill Jones. He's so strict with his parents!"

Learns the Trick.

Edward, the small son of a prominent citizen, was enjoying the first fishing trip with his father. After having had his hook baited a number of times, he decided to try it for himself. Presently he said: "Oh, look, daddy, I have learned to thread my hook."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., Hartford.

As early as 1714 there were attempts made to invent a typewriter, although records show it was about 1873 when the first attempt was made to manufacture them. When one looks back to the word picturing by savages, the hieroglyphics of old Egype, the parchment epistles of the middle ages, the development of paper manufacture, the invention of printing, steel pens, etc.—all of which are successive steps in the evolution of the typewriter—one realizes the tremendous progress made in this development.

After some 57 years of manufacturing the typewriter, thus freeing the business world of pen slavery, the savings to business are incalculable. The effect on human society has been revolutionary. The machine has among other things developed the art of recording thought to a pronounced degree with its steel letters, methods of inking the words to the paper, speed, durability, etc.

The executive, who years ago was forced to spend many hours writing his business letters with a pen, now dictates his letters in a very short while to a competent stenographer. And again we see the result of the use of the typewriter when we consider the remarkable development of shorthand. This, with the typewriter, has been responsible for saving many hours of the executive to give to his business the highest quality of brain labor, and more valuable personal attention to his problems.

The typewriter industry in America is now a potent factor in the success and progress of the United States, and in fact, business throughout the world. Many more machine are produced here than in all other parts of the world put together. It is looked upon as an American development throughout the civilized world, and its steel letters and keyboard arrangements cover practically all languages of the world. Connecticut can well be proud of its typewriter production. Here in Hartford is the largest typewriter center of the world.

The Royal Typewriter company was organized about 26 years ago in New York. In 1908 they erected in Hartford, what was then, and is now, considered an ideal type of plant for typewriter manufacturing. The buildings are of red brick with white stone trimmings in the Gothic style of architecture as adapted to the modern "H" type of factory building. Its white windows, prominent corner towers roofed with green tile, and its castellated outline present a very pleasing design, which has been followed with all its additional buildings. From that time until now there are some 18 buildings, comprising over one-half million feet of floor space with some 3,500 people employed on their product.

The Royal Typewriter company make a standard machine for business, which has earned a great reputation for design and durability. It also is one of the largest—if not the largest—producer of portable typewriters in the world. This company's Interfold billing machine is meeting with great success, especially in wholesale houses. In the company's huge plant at Hartford many hundreds of machines are produced daily, which go all over the world embracing all known languages. "Compare the Work" is the motto of the company, and its progressive leadership is spoken of favorably by the business world.

The officers of the company are: H. H. Vreeland, chairman of the board of directors; E. C. Faustmann, president; E. B. Hess, vice president; Charles B. Cook, vice president; F. J. Carney, treasurer; R. Brigham, assistant treasurer; H. A. Way, secretary; J. H. Forshay, assistant secretary.

THE HOME OF PRES. MADISON

This home, located in Montpelier, was, at one time, in danger of being taken by an invading army. As Mrs. Madison was escaping she snatched up a portrait of Washington which now hangs in the Blue Room of the White House.

The immediate assumption of all responsibilities by an experienced and courteous staff is the result, if the service is placed in our hands.

FINED IN MONTVILLE FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

MONTVILLE, July 9—Raymond Pinsky of 20 Walker street, New London was arrested by State Trooper Swanson of the Groton barracks at about 12 p. m. Sunday for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor on a complaint entered by Sergeant Harold Martin of Uncasville who is stationed at the Niantic camp, 192nd Field Artillery, C. N. G. Mr. Martin testified that he was leaving his home at Uncasville for the Niantic camp Sunday evening about 9 o'clock when he observed the car being operated by Pinsky at the entrance to the state highway at Uncasville and when he blew his horn at him the Pinsky car shot across the road endangering the life of passing motorists. Then Pinsky proceeded to get back onto the road and went about 50 feet north when he drove to his left again, sending another car off the road, and then righted himself again and drove into Main street, New London, where Mr. Martin stopped him to inquire about his license and also testified that he smelt alcohol on Pinsky's breath. Three hours later when Officer Swanson arrested Pinsky at his home in New London the officer also testified that he smelt the odor of alcohol and that Pinsky could not stand up straight.

Justice of the Peace Oscar Church asked Attorney Gruskin of New London, who represented Pinsky if he wanted to swear any of his witnesses in and Mr. Gruskin's answer was "No", but the justice said that he would like to hear the evidence of both sides before he would pronounce the sentence. Mr. Gruskin said that there was no use as he never did get justice in this court and that two or three of his cases had to be brought before the court of common pleas. Justice Church then convinced Attorney Gruskin that he never had a case that went to the common pleas court and after a little consideration by Attorney Gruskin, the lawyer offered to apologize.

After Justnce of the Peace Church had the evidence he found Pinsky guilty of driving under the influence of liquor and fined him $100 and costs which was immediately appealed by Attorney Gruskin. Now he can have a chance to say that one of his cases at this Montville justice court was taken to the court of common pleas.

LIGHTNING STRIKES RADIO AERIAL; CHIMNEY HOOK-UP BAD SAYS CHIEF

During the severe electrical storm which swept over this section of the state late Wednesday afternoon, a bolt of lightning struck the radio aerial wire attached to the chimney of the house owned and occupied by James Izzaralli, No. 2 Valley street, and entered the building, but did only a small amount of damage. Mr. Izzaralli's wife, who was in the yard at the time, narrowly escaped being struck by several bricks which were dislodged from the chimney. The building was also set on fire.

The bolt left in its wake melted aerial and ground wires for the radio and also scorched the telephone ground wire, which ran parrallel to the radio ground wire along a floor beam, which was set afire. A call was sent in to the fire department for assistance and Engine No. 2, Squad A and Chief Henry R. Taft responded, but their services were not needed for members of the family had squelched the blaze with a pail of water. It is the opinion of the fire officials that a small charge of the bolt jumped to the beam, 6x6, and the remainder of the charge found its way into the ground by way of the radio ground wire.

Chief Taft stated Wednesday evening that the attachment of the radio aerial to the chimney of a house was poor policy and created a hazard, pointing out that more serious damage might have resulted at the Izzaralli residence from such a hookup. He advised owners of radio sets to have their aerial wires connected to any other part of the building but the chimney.

TWO DOZEN SCOUTS REGISTER FOR CAMP

Twenty-four Norwich scouts have registered for camp thus far for this season according to the local scout headquarters, with from six to ten scouts expected for the first week. The camp this year as in previous years will be held at Camp Wakenah, the New London Boy Scout camp. Scouts should plan to reach camp at about 3 p. m. Friday. Those who desire transportation furnished are to be at the local scout headquarters at 2 p. m. to accompany Chief Sellman to camp.

A meeting of the officers and junior leaders was held Wednesday night in the Lions' cabin at Wakenah and the season's program was planned. The camp will be organized this year on a patrol basis following many of the suggestions found in the patrol leaders' handbook recently published. Scoutmasters and assistants will be encouraged to attend the camp and to take part in the program or to furnish special work for their own scouts.

Emblems this year will consist of a letter "C" for the gym shirt which will come plain, with a white background, and with a white background with a green border. These are very attractive, according to the scout executive. Bronze, gold and silver medals will be given in signalling, tracking, first aid, swimming, cooking, bugling, knife and axe, knot tying, camping, wall scaling, firemaking, handicraft, tent pitching, tower building, archery, canoeing, and bridge building. Plain camp letters with backgrounds can be secured by earning a certain number of points in activities.

Among the projects discussed at the first meeting of the camp staff were: Construction of a new campfire site on the lake, building of a signalling tower, regular periods for every scout to spend in row boats and canoes, usage of the outboard motor boat, tests, hikes, instruction in scoutcraft tests, baseball and athletic sports. Scouts desiring to earn National Rifle association medals for marksmanship will be given an opportunity at camp. Rifles should be left at headquarters before the camp period begins and will become the possession of the camp while the scout is in camp.

Many new activities have been planned for the camp this year according to the scout executive which will make the camp interesting for the veteran campers.

Cubs will be received during the first two weeks at camp and will have a special program and leadership of their own.

Norwich scouts who have already signed for camp are: Frances Aubrey, Charles Deauville, Walter Goring, Jordan James, Peter Christopher, George Peter, Raymond Hotchkiss, Nicholas Tarrant, William Powell, Franklin Powell, Lloyd Cochran, Cyril Tourtellotte, Russell Yerrington, Lewis Sussman, George D. Lichenstein, Herman Lieberman, Edward Brodeur, Harold Williams, Frank Caskey, Elvin Schelin. Cubs who have registered for camp thus far are: Joseph Worth, David A. James, John Tarrant, Harold Silverberg and Gurshun Silverberg. Many more scouts are expected to register as the season progresses. According to Scout Executive Fred Burdick, registrations from New London for this season's camp have exceeded all previous years.

It has been called to the attention of the local camping committee that there are several boys who should attend camp this summer who will not be able to do so unless funds are provided. Anyone desiring to furnish the means for a boy to attend Camp Wakenah for a week or longer can do so by notifying the local scout headquarters.

DEBATE MADE FEATURE FOR ROTARY MEETING

The Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Norwich Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel had a debate as its feature, in which Frank G. Aubrey had the affirmative and Albert M. Van Wagenen the negative of the question, "Resolved, that a city should subsidize industries to get to locate there."

Mr. Aubrey argued that ultimate benefits would be far greater than initial costs if a city should carry out this plan, while Mr. Van Wagenen argued that industries which asked this sort of financial help were not likely to prove successes. He spoke for making a town attractive to industries by having lower taxes, good highways and good educational facilities.

The three judges, Harold D. Larrabee, Charles B. Gilbert and Edward W. Jewett, gave their decision that the debate was a draw.

One new member, Bruce F. Rogers, was given the right hand of Rotary fellowship by President Harold D. Larrabee.

ONLY NEAR-BEER FOUND BY FEDERAL OFFICERS

Four federal men headed by Prohibition Agent Harry W. Avery of Willimantic, together with Officer Clifford Crary of the local police, paid a visit to an alleged speakeasy conducted by Gustave Rossoll at the corner of Market and Commerce street about 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A search of the building failed to reveal any illicit liquor, but between 50 and 75 cases of so-called near-beer and other light beverages containing an alcoholic content not in excess of one-half of one per cent, which is within the law, were found. Four patrons and the barkeep, Mr. Rossoll, were in the place when the raiding squad entered. No arrests were made.

Headed by John F. Sheern of Providence, president of the Rhode Island association, Loyal Order of Moose, a delegation of Moose members, together with their wives and Connecticut friends, on Saturday afternoon and evening gave N. Waldo Kennedy a birthday surprise at his home, General Lyon Tavern, in the town of Eastford. The visitation, wholly unexpected, was most enjoyable. Flowers, a number of personal gifts, a huge birthday cake and a sumptuous repast served beneath a wide-spreading maple, were provided. Toastmaster Sheern and others spoke of the more than 20 years' service rendered by Mr. Kennedy as district supervisor in various parts of the United States and as deputy supreme dictator of the L. O. HANOVER'S BERTHA WINS $10,000 STAKE AT CLEVELAND

NORTH RANDALL TRACK, Cleveland, July 9—(AP)—The 20th renewal of the $10,000 Championship Stallion stake was won here this afternoon in straight heats by Hanover's Bertha from the Hanover Shoe farms of Hanover Pa. She was driven by Tommy Berry and this was her second victory in a week, she having won the $6,500 Matron stake here last week.

In winning the Stallion stake Hanover's Bertha set a two world's records and a new stake record. She trotted the first heat in 2:02 flat, which is a new world's record for fillies and also equals the world's three year old record in a race for either sex. She also broke the stake record of 2:02 3-4 set by Col. Bosworth in the 1924 renewal of the event.

Main McElwyn, the Ben White entry, was installed favorite for the race and finished second to Hanover's Bertha in the first heat. He made a break at the first turn in the second heat and finished eighth.

May E. Grattan, owned by J. C. Thompson, of New York city, and driven by Earl Pitman, set a season's race record of 2:01 1-5 and 2:01 3-5 in the second event, a 2:09 pace. She won the first heat in 2:03 1-5. She previously won a $10,000 stake at Windsor, Conn., and one at Avon and her race today makes her almost a standout for the $25,000 American pacing derby at Kalamazoo next week.

MAJOR LEAGUES DECLARE FOR OPEN BREAK WITH "NON-DRAFT" CIRCUITS

CHICAGO, July 9—(AP)—American and National league club owners today declared for an absolute break of player relations after December 1, 1930, with five "non-draft" minor leagues, unless the latter accept the universal draft.

The decision was made in a joint meeting of the majors and included a determination to purchase no players nor to release any to the Pacific Coast league, the American association, the International league, Class AA leagues and the Three Eye and Western leagues, the latter of lower ranking.

The resolution not only demanded that the minor leagues involved, which have been subject since 1923 to a modified draft, agree to the universal selection system, but that a schedule of higher draft prices be inaugurated. There was only one dissenting vote on the resolution in spite of the fact that several major league clubs operate teams in the minor leagues involved as "farms."

Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis National league club, which owns or controls the Rochester club of the International league and the Danville club of the Three Eye league, favored the resolution, as did President William L. Veeck of the Chicago Cubs, which has the same relationship with Los Angeles of the Coast league and Reading of the International league. The name of the only dissenter was not revealed, but it was said he favored further attempts to negotiate with the minor leagues.

If the minor leagues fail to accept the universal draft the only relations possible with the majors will be to continue to draft those players who already have been sent to non-draft leagues under the modified arrangement under which they have operated since 1923.

The relations between major leagues and non-draft leagues during the past nine years have been considered extremely unsatisfactory. From the beginning of organized baseball until 1923 the universal draft was recognized.

Then the five leagues involved were freed from the draft rule. The situation was unsatisfactory to the major leagues in 1922 and they offered a compromise by which players sent to non-draft leagues, should be subject to the draft. The minors refused the compromise for a year, but later submitted to the modified draft.

The meeting was the first offer of the kind to be called for mid-season, and was held at this time to give the minors plenty of time to consider and act on the proposition at their regular meeting next winter. Suggestions for changes in the draft rules have been made in the regular winter joint meetings of the American and National leagues, but, it was said, had been ignored by the minors.

CITY LEAGUE STARTS SECOND ROUND TONIGHT

City league baseball goes into its second round of play tonight, with the Thermos Bottlers and Smoke Shop as the contestants. As previously announced the league schedule has been divided into three laps, but two postponed games of the first remaining to be played. The Citizens and Royals play one Friday and the other, between the Italians and Citizens, will be played later. In addition, there remains the playoff of the 2 all Smoker-Royal tie.

The Thermos and Smoke Shop clubs met in the opening clash of the season and Mike Nickerson shut out the West Side clan, allowing but a few scattered hits. In winning he outdueled Magnan, brother Riverview star, who is doing duty with the O'Brienmen this season. Since, the Bottlers have lodged themselves as City league leaders and tonight take the field a full game ahead of their closest competitors, the Citizens and Royals.

The champs of 1929, who right now are in the vicinity of the league cellar, are confident that tonight they will avenge the setback sustained at the hands of the Hastedmen early in the season. They appear certain that after tonight the Bottlers will no longer be league leaders.

While nothing definite was given out last night as to the starting hurlers of either club, it is understood that Nickerson and Magnan will hook up once again. Eccleston will backstop for the Bottlers and Mace Goldblatt will work behind the bat for the Smokers.

Citizen-Royal Game Off.

Uncertain weather conditions caused a second postponement of the Polish Citizen-Royal game last night, and for the first time of the season the City league fans were without their baseball. On the occasion of the previous postponement both clubs were on the field and they played an exhibition game.

Last night the field was in good shape but the storm of the afternoon created some doubt in the minds of the players of both clubs as to whether there would be a contest.

Al Bliven, president of the circuit, announced during the evening, that the Royals and Citizens will play Friday night as originally scheduled and that the Italians and Citizens will take the postponement.

RED SOX BREAK WINNING STREAK OF WASHINGTON

BOSTON, July 9—(AP)—The Red Sox broke the winning streak of the league leading Washington Senators, which had extended to 10 straight games, by taking the second game of a double header, 5 to 1, here today after the Senators won the opener, 5 to 2.

Milt Gaston kept the Senators' eight singles in the second game so well scattered that he was rarely in trouble.

The first game was interrupted for an hour by a thunderstorm just after the Senators had clinched the game with a four run rally in the sixth. It was also marred by an injury to Manush, who strained his groin and left immediately for Washington for treatment.

VELVETMEN TO PLAY ARMY-NAVY TEAM SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin and the Army and Navy will endeavor to tangle in the first game of their championship series at Martin field next Sunday, after heavy rains last week made the field unfit for play and caused a postponement in the hostilities.

Needless to say, the followers of each team are keyed to a high pitch, anxiously waiting for the clash next Sunday and backing their respective team to the limit.

It is rumored that the fans from the upper part of the village are banking on the Army and Navy to walk off with the initial game and are betting heavily on the service boys to capture the series.

Youthful femininity took one on the chin yesterday.

"Shorts" were counted out as proper wearing apparel for young women on the streets of Norwich.

Two young women campers from one of the camps surrounding Norwich appeared on the streets in an abbreviated costume of the Follies variety.

As may be expected there was grave danger of a traffic jam and married women pulled their husbands into stores out of harm's way. A local officer immediately informed the young women that sun may be a good thing for one's health but the public street was no place for a sun bath.

Young women of Norwich, when you walk abroad on our fair streets be sure that you are clothed according to the dictates of the good old crinoline days. No, Sarah, red flannel petticoats are not compulsory but no one can say they are not modest.

But if the authorities think that young women should not wear "shorts" what will happen when some young man with a more adventurous spirit than brains appears in fashion's latest garb?

If there isn't a riot when he appears then I'm a Grecian dancer. And if anybody should be arrested and incarcerated it ought to be the man who wears "shorts".

Can you imagine anything more pathetic than a man with knobby knees, weeping sinews and varicose veins wearing "shorts". It's bad enough to see them at the beaches let alone having to gaze upon them on our public streets.

Norwich in the future is to be short on shorts.

PHILLIES RALLY IN NINTH TO NOSE OUT GIANTS

PHILADELPHIA, July 9—(AP)—The Phillies put on a ninth inning rally against Carl Hubbell today that netted two runs and a 5 to 4 victory over the New York Giants. They made four hits in the ninth after being held to seven blows in eight innings, Klein's double sending in the winning tally. All the rest of the scoring was done in the first inning when the Giants made four runs and Philadelphia, three. Errors by Thompson and Thevenow gave the New Yorkers three of their runs. The victory gave the Phillies a 2 to 1 edge in the series.

REDS HANG ANOTHER DEFEAT ONTO THE CUBS

CINCINNATI, July 9—(AP) — The punchless seventh place Reds proved at least once this season they possess some sort of power by pasting four straight defeats upon the Champion Cubs winning today's game 4 to 3 in ten innings. In the final inning Stripp led off with a single. English fumbled Cuccinello's intended sacrifice and both were safe. Callaghan fanned but Root walked Crawford filling the bases. Durocher pulled the squeeze play and Stripp scored the winning run.

The Cubs had chances to win in the ninth and tenth but lacked the punch. Blair tripled in the ninth but English fanned for the third out. In the tenth Cuyler singled and Stephenson walked but Wilson, Grimm and Hartnett could not send them home.

"JONES AGAINST THE FIELD" AT INTERLACHEN TODAY; MILLER LAST TO GO

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

INTERLACHEN COUNTRY CLUB, Minneapolis, July 9—(AP)—The battle of the bunkered hills of Interlachen with Bobby Jones defending his national open golf crown against the cream of the American amateur and professional crop, begins tomorrow with every prospect that the king of the royal and ancient realm will have a fight on his hands as hot as the heat wave that has gripped wide open parts of the northwest.

Once again, on the eve of the greatest American golf classics, it is "Jones against the field." With the monarch of the fairways back from an all-conquering invasion of Great Britain, fit for another struggle, his followers are confident he will sustain his triumph march.

The sweltering gallery of ringside experts, in addition to a fair share of the field of 142 scheduled starters themselves, was not so sure that Bobby would win. Quite naturally they regarded the great Georgian as the man to beat, under any and all circumstances. Jones has demonstrated often enough for them that laws of averages, precedents and all that sort of thing can be tossed out so far as his golfing achievements are concerned. On the other hand, the professional challenge to Bobby's domination looks as the strongest combined attack mustered in many years.

Walter Hagen, keen and more anxious than ever to regain prestige he has lost on American links in the past few years, is generally regarded as the old guardsman likely to make trouble for Jones or anyone else who threatens to move out in front.

The most colorful of the professional veterans has come back from the far east primed to shoot some of his flashiest golf. As proof of this he has twice shot the outgoing nine in 32, four under par.

Well-liked, too, are the chances of such seasoned campaigners as Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, the vaudeville pair; Denny Shute of Columbus, Ohio, the slim sharp-shooter who came close to bagging the big prize a year ago and who has the game to subdue this testing course; Tommy Armour and MacDonald Smith, a brace of superlative iron players on a course where this ability pays dividends; youthful professionals like Horton Smith and Henry Ciuci of New York, who shot a sparkling 69 yesterday, three under par, and came back with a 71 today.

The chief opposition for the champion is expected to come from this group, with the chance always existing that some outsider may suddenly bob up from nowhere to send the galleries scurrying. If any amateur is to cross Bobby's path, it may be George Von Elm, a consistent medalist. Outside threats among the simon-pures include the popular home-town star, "Jimmy" Johnston, amateur champion, the veteran Chick Evans, back near the scene of former conquests; Don Moe, sensational Oregon youngster; and Johnny Goodman ubiquitous Nebraskan who upset Jones in the last National Amateur tournament.

Tomorrow calls for the first 18 holes of the 72 hole scoring battle, with 18 more on Friday and 36 Saturday. Since play-offs have become the fashion in this tournament, being necessary in each of the past three years, advance arrangements already have been made for an extra 36 holes Sunday for any who may be deadlocked at the top on Saturday.

The first round tomorrow should answer the question as to the extent of Interlachen's toughness. On the basis of sensational practice scores, old man par seems to have been softened up, but most of the experts, well as the players expect plenty of trouble to be encountered.

The course has eight par four holes that can be reached with an average drive and good mashie niblick pitch. On the other hand there are two par-four layouts of 478 and 444 yards, the first and the fourteenth. The rough is thick and deadly, the greens of a rolling, tricky type that may cause a lot of grief. In fact, personal experience on the greens caused Denny Shute to remark that "a lot of good putters will lose their reputations."

These difficulties, plus the intense heat, failed to check a final preliminary flare-up of low scoring today. While Jones was off fishing with his friend, "Jimmy" Johnston, prior to a late afternoon practice stroll, his professional rivals posted some brilliant work outs. Two of the best were scores of 70 each, two under par, by Tommy Armour and Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich. Par cracking rounds of 71 were posted by Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., Jock Collins of Dayton, Ohio, Denny Rouse of Chicago and Henry Ciuci of New York with Denny Shute reporting 72. Hagen, taking matters very easily carded an approximate 74.

Jack Burke of Houston, Texas, and Charlie Hall of Birmingham, Ala., will be the first two-some off the tee at Interlachen tomorrow in the opening drive for the national open golf championship. They start at 8:30 a. m., central standard time, and will be followed by pairs every five minutes until around 2:40 p. m.

These are some of the headline gallery attractions tomorrow and their starting times:

9:30 a. m. Cyril Tolley, Great Britain and George Smith, Chicago.

9:40 a. m. Horton Smith, New York, and Ralph Beach, Pikesville.

9:45 a. m. Bobby Jones, Atlanta, Ga., and Jock Hutchison, Chicago.

10 a. m. George Von Elm, Los Angeles, and Jack Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio.

10:45 a. m. Johnny Goodman, Omaha, and Alex Ayten, Springfield, Ill.

11.05 a. m. Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y.

11:10 a. m. Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico, and Chester Jones, Lawrence, Kan.

12:30 p. m. Gene Sarazen, Flushing, N. Y., and Dave Sutherland, Clayton, Mo.

1:40 p. m. Tommy Armour, Detroit, and Art Tveraa, Minneapolis.

1:50 p. m. Walter Hagen, New York, and James Thompson, Colorado Springs, Colo.

2:05 p. m. MacDonald Smith, Great Neck, N. Y., and George Voight, Douglaston, N. Y.

His sunburned neck swathed in a soft handkerchief, Jones concluded his practice by going nine holes with Johnston.

They were joined over the last three holes by Don Moe and Cyril Tolley. Jones, playing solely for some final experimental work, got good practice coming out of traps, whether that was his idea or not. He did very well at it but his putts were not dropping at calamity Jane's touch and the champion carded an approximate 38, two over par. He had birdies at the 370-yard second and 485 yard ninth holes but was in the traps on four other holes, either off the tee or on his second shots, which showed a tendency to slice.

As he came off the green, a friend who seemed to have no doubts about Bobby's golf made inquiry as to his fishing luck earlier in the day.

"We caught two, which was two more than we expected." replied Jones. Johnston, playing very steadily, shot a birdie on the ninth to post 35 for his nine hole workout.

The amateur champion was three up on the open champion so far as they went but the circumstances were not such as to make this significant.

MASSIE MILLER WILL BE LAST TO TEE OFF TODAY

Norwich's representative in the national open golf tourney, Massie B. Miller, professional at the Norwich Golf club, will be the last to tee off in today's quest of national golfing honors. Massie will be paired with another player by the name of Miller from Alabama. The Miller boys will start their round at 2:40 o'clock today.

Miller is accorded a much better chance of finishing high in the tournament through his remarkable playing on courses at Norwich and vicinity this year. It was only a few days before he left for Interlachen that Massie shot a 62 at the Willimantic club and no round at the local club has been above a 72 for the past few weeks. What Miller has done in the practice rounds at Interlachen is not known, but with his driving power and his ability with the niblick he should score well.

LEFTY DUGAS LOSES ONE POINT DURING PAST WEEK

Lefty Dugas, leading hitter of the Wichita club of the Western league, lost a point in his batting average last week, according to the official batting averages from the league headquarters. Dugas was at bat 44 times and secured 16 hits, which makes his season's average .345. He had two doubles, two triples and two home runs, the rest being singles. He now has 14 home runs to his credit.

Joe Faber increased his average by four points last week and is now hitting for .305. Faber had four doubles, one homer and 11 singles. He was at bat 40 times.

PLAY BY PLAY REPORT OF JONES TO BE BROADCAST

Owing to the universal public interest in the National Open Golf championship at Minneapolis the Columbia Broadcasting network has arranged daily descriptions of the play for today and tomorrow, and on Saturday, a two-hour broadcast, 6 to 8 p. m., E. D. S. T., by Ted Husing, announcer, with a portable transmitter which will permit him to accompany the gallery following Bobby Jones and describe every shot of the last eighteen holes.

This will be the first time a golf match has been put on the air play-by-play from the first tee to the last green.

Alex Arico Named 1931 Academy Baseball Captain

Alexander Arico, regular Academy first baseman for the past three years, was elected captain of the 1931 team at the annual banquet held at Weber Duck Inn, Wrentham, Mass., Wednesday evening, as the conclusion of a gala day for the 1930 squad. The team attended the double-header at Fenway park, Boston, in the afternoon and saw the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators split even in two well-played games.

Arico has been one of the mainstays of the successful Red and White outfits since 1928, and should make an ideal leader. Although not a heavy sticker, Alec makes up for this by his beautiful fielding and his head ball-playing. He batted over .300 his first two years and narrowly missed the charmed circle this past season.

ALEX ARICO
1931 N. F. A. Baseball Leader

Coach Earle E. Brigham, who has guided the Wildcats to 107 victories and only 27 defeats in his seven years of baseball coaching here, was presented a $5 gold piece by the squad as a token of appreciation of his work for them. Ralph Chubby Gibbs, 1930 captain, made the presentation.

Paul Bradlaw, treasurer of the Athletic association, reported the season another financial success. Although another sport, track, was financed from baseball and $200 was expended on the school band, there still remained a substantial surplus.

Other speakers were John Lafferty, representing the fans of the city, the two janitors, Jan and William Schaeffer, who helped greatly during the season. Twenty-nine made the trip, leaving at 8 a. m., and returning after midnight.

Heavy Thunder Storm.

While Tuesday was free from the usual late afternoon thunderstorm with its accompaniment of heavy down pour of rain with vivid flashes of lightning, Wednesday afternoon proved no exception to the case. About 5 p. m. dark clouds gathered in the northwest and at 5:30 p. m. the rain fell in torrents. At 5:40 p. m. a particularly bright flash of lightning was followed almost immediately by a blast on the fire whistle on the Union street fire station headquarters building showing that at least one circuit had been grounded or short circuited. Motor traffic was slowed down and the afternoon shoppers sought shelter in stores and public buildings.

Fourth of July holiday motorists who had occasion to pass along Westerly streets on the afternoon and evening before the holday have declared that in passing through cities and towns in Massachusetts and Connecticut at that time they were slowed down, but when they came to Westerly they were stopped altogether by motor traffic jams and one Massachusetts motorist reported taking ten minutes from the West Broad street R. R. bridge to the railroad station.

Blocked Traffic

A truck, carrying a steam shovel, went through Old Mystic Tuesday night about 10 o'clock. The truck had to back to the edge of the bridge and the shovel was unloaded and went over the bridge by its own power and was then loaded on the truck again. There was soon a tie-up in traffic, as the unwieldy thing moved so slowly.

Pride Impels the Finest Quality

IN 1646 the shoemakers of Boston, provoked by "much bad work produced by their craft," petitioned "Ye Governor of Ye Bay Colonie" that "all boots might be alike made well." So began America's pride in Craftsmanship.

Pride in the production of the finest Quality still lives. It is the spirit upon which in 1874 at Manchester, New Hampshire, Roger G. Sullivan founded 7-20-4—now the largest strictly hand-made cigar industry in the World.

Quality workmanship and the finest tobaccos have been traditional with 7-20-4 since its beginning. It is the same spirit today, after fifty-six years of public confidence—which refuses to lower its standard of manufacture at the sacrifice of the finest Cigar, Quality.

We cordially invite you to visit our factory

STOCKS SHOWED UPWARD TREND IN DULL SESSION OF MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Stocks advanced today, in common with grain, but the upward move was made in trading which, in dullness had been equalled only once this year. Sales totaled 1,358,000 shares against last Wednesday's two year low record of 1,231,000.

Nevertheless, the absence of selling was favorably construed and appeared to indicate at least a temporarily oversold condition. There was still no scramble to cover, for several big bear operators undoubtedly are unconvinced that lower levels cannot be attained.

Sentiment in brokerage circles appeared to be slightly more optimistic. Some of the commission house letters pointed out that the present level in the steel and automobile industries might well be the bottom, and also expressed the opinion that the market's technical position was strong.

The weather was an important influence in the strength of the grains and the steadiness of cotton, and therefore indirectly on the stock market which is keeping an eye on the Chicago wheat pit. July wheat advanced more than a cent on reports of high temperatures in the northwest and crop damage.

Closing prices were slightly less than a cent higher. Corn advanced from 1 to 1 3-4 cents on a bullish government weather report. A warm wave in the South Atlantic, east Gulf states and central cotton belt, overcame the weakness that had developed on the department of agriculture's acreage estimate, and cotton futures ranged from 4 points net lower to 7 net higher.

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Preliminary reports to the federal reserve system by 490 stores in leading cities of all federal reserve districts, show that department store sales in June, were 9 per cent smaller than in the corresponding month a year ago. Sales for the first half of the year were 4 per cent below teh level and the like period last year.

Directors of DeForest Radio company, have authorized an issue of $800,000 three year six per cent notes to provide funds for expected increases in business during the next few months and to provide payment of $300,000 in six per cent notes. Offering will be made to stockholders of record July 14.

The governing committee of the New York Stock exchange has voted to list on official notice of issuance 21,200 additional shares of $25 par value capital stock of the Borden company. The application for listing showed the stock was to be issued in connection with acquisition of the entire assets and business of several companies.

Offering is being made of $15,000,000 general and refunding mortgage 4 1-2 per cent gold bonds, series B. of the Reading company. The financing is described as the first for the company in 29 years, with the exception of equipments trusts.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—The curb market developed a firm tone today, in sympathy with the better tone of the big board, but trading held at low ebb, the day's turnover aggregating 390,500 shares. Most shares held to a trading range of a point or so.

The oils on the whole gave the best account of themselves reflecting favorable statistics drained substantially, and a sizeable inroad into the heavy stocks of gasoline in storage was reported. Humble gained nearly four points, and Gulf and Vacuum more than 2. Cities Service sagged a little, but was quickly supported, and close at 26 1-2 up 5-8.

The natural gas issues were steady to firm. The Dresser Manufacturing issues rose about a point on announcement that it had contracted to supply the couplings for the 24 inch line under construction from Texas to Chicago by Continental Construction company in which Cities Service is a dominant interest. Missouri Kansas Pipe Line, which is constructing a line from Texas to Indiana, was firm, rising a point.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—The strength of the rails stood out in the upward movement of bonds today. Increased activity among carrier liens and convertibles accounted largely for the improvement in the volume of sales which was $1,600,000 more than yesterday, amounting to $9,460,000.

The advance of rail liens and the strong demand for convertibles was partly ascribed to the readjustment of freight rates of western carriers to provide additional revenue. In the case of Missouri Pacific subsidiaries, strength was attributed to the interstate commerce commission's action in approving a consolidation. International Great Northern adjustment 6s, climbed 9 points and the first 6s, 2, while New Orleans Texas and Mexico 5s, B, gained 2.

Cleveland Union Terminal 4 1-2s, touched a new high and the 5 1-2s closed at a new high mark. New 1930 tops also were established by Southern Pacific 4, Pennsylvania debenture 4 1-2s, and Baltimore and Ohio, (Toledo and Cincinnati division 4s.)

Delaware and Hudson 5 1-2s, Denver Rio Grande and Western 5s, Big Four 5s, San Francisco 4 1-2s, Louisville and Arkansas 5s, and Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s, were among the most active issues, gaining about 1-2 point.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 9—(AP)—Heat waves robbing the soil of moisture and leaving burnt areas in grain fields over wide stretches northwest, hoisted wheat and corn values today.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 5-8a1 1-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 7-8a1 7-8c advanced, oats 1-4a3-4c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

Provisions owed their strength to the rise of cereals, notwithstanding downturns in the value of hogs.

POETRY

CAPTIVE TO THE CHILDREN

I have been captured, people;
I have been caught and bound;
I have been thrown upon my back,
Made helpless on the ground.
Captive to the children,
Surrender here I will
To music of their laughing hearts,
To magic of their will.

They harness and rein me,
To tell me gee and whoa;
They make-believe that I'm a power
To haul them and to tow;
A steamboat on the river,
A train upon the rail—
And I can never disobey;
It would not do to fail.

When Rome was making captives,
Those captives grieved and swore—
I am a captive to the child,
And want to be some more;
I want to go humbly
Before his ringing cheer
And let him bind me to his whims,
With never a thought of fear.
—Baltimore Sun.

GOING FOR WATER

The well was dry beside the door,
And so we went with pail and can
Across the fields behind the house
To seek the brook if it still ran;

Not loth to have excuse to go,
Because the autumn eve was fair
(Through chill) because the fields were ours,
And by the brook our woods were there.

We ran as if to meet the moon
That slowly dawned behind the trees—
The barren boughs without the leaves,
Without the birds, without the breeze.

But once within the woods, we paused
Like gnomes that hid us from the moon,
Ready to run to hiding new
With laughter when she found us soon.

Each laid on other a staying hand
To listen ere we dared to look,
And in the hush we joined to make
We heard, we knew we heard the brook.

A note as from a single place,
A slender tinkling fall that made
Now drops that floated on the pool
Like pearls, and now a silver blade.
—Robert Frost.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Bobby—Need I clean the tooth the dentist is going to pull tomorrow?—Everybody's.

"How can you bear to have all these lies told about you?"

"I don't mind, as long as they don't tell the truth!"—Gutierrez.

Smiff—You say that Dr. Chargem has a large practice?

Smoot—It is so large that when a patient has nothing the matter with him he tells him so.—The Pathfinder.

"Fritz, have you ever seen Mr. Smith kiss sister Annie?"

"Dad, I won't tell a lie. How do you think I got my novelty new box of toys?"—Buen Humor.

Lily—My fiance wrote to say he wanted to be married very soon to the most charming girl in the world.

Violet—The wretch! After promising to marry you?—Kasper, Stockholm.

"Doctor, will you allow my husband to have beer after supper?"

"Why?"

"Since you said he was not to drink beer after supper, he won't have his supper at all."—Kikeriki.

Boardinghouse Proprietress—There now, miss! So you've been specially recommended to my establishment on account of the food?

New Arrival—Yes. A friend of mine stayed here and she lost seven pounds in a fortnight.—Humorist.

One day a very pretty young lady with a poodle dog in her lap chanced to be riding on a street car. A prim lady sitting next to the girl sniffed. "What a fuss you make over that little dog. Don't you think it would be nicer if you had a little baby in your lap?" "No," the pretty one replied. "You see I'm not married."—Exchange.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The number of motor vehicles registered in Canada during 1929 was 1,193,889, an increase of 117,070.

The biggest animals are not extinct; certain species of living whales are larger than any known fossil animals.

An Atchison (Kas.) woman became tired of hearing her husband complain how hard it is to cut the grass. The husband became tired hearing his wife say how she hates doing dishes. So they have traded jobs. He washes the dishes. She cuts the grass.

In the last twenty-two seasons Captain Sam Goodman, acting as a life guard at Lake Hopatcong, N. J., has the record of saving 512 lives. In the winters he follows the same profession in Florida. In all the years he has done such work he has received only one gift, a wrist watch.

Chewing torpedoes proved an unhealthy pastime for Charles Boone, age fifty-seven, of Cherry Hill, Md. George Boone, a son, found the torpedo, of the Fourth of July variety. While walking home with his father he gave it to him, but the latter bit into it, thinking it was candy. The next thing he knew he was on the operating table having a surgeon sew up a hole in his face.

Franklin Hickling, twelve years old, discovered a crows nest with five eggs in it at Ludlow, Me. He took out three of the eggs and replaced them with hen eggs. When the crow returned, she threw out the two crow eggs and sat on the three hen eggs and after they were hatched Mrs. Crow sat on a limb and refused to acknowledge the parentage of the chicks. The lad took the chicks out and placed them with another mother, who accepted the responsibility.

At Santa Barbara, Cal., Raymond McGill, eight months old, overslept, and his mother, a guest at a hotel, wrapped some sheets about him to keep him in bed and left the room to obtain breakfast. When she returned the infant was missing. A frenzied search was started. Finally a maid remembered the bundle of laundry she had deposited in the fourth-floor chute. The searchers hurried to the basement. Raymond, unhurt, was gayly kicking about on the top of the pile of linen.

Digging for the foundation of the new Stock Exchange important remains of an ancient Roman theater came to light in Milan, Italy. The existence of the old amphitheater had been suspected for a long time, but the archaeological fragments recently excavated show that the theater must have been of considerable dimensions. Local archaeologists attribute the theater to early imperial times, and probably to the second half of the first century. It will not be possible to excavate the theater, as the contracts for the erection of the new Stock Exchange must be carried out, and property is too valuable in the center of Milan to sacrifice it for archeological reasons. At this same time pressure is being brought on the local superintendent of antiquities to insist that fragments of the ancient theater be incorporated in the ground floor of the modern structure, so that something of the old monument may remain.

"Sure! We know—You're Napoleon!"

LEADERSHIP is the coveted prize in every industry, and the rubber industry is no exception.

So it is only human that our aspiring friends occasionally indulge in the thrill of talking about Leadership, whether they have it or not.

We mention this in all good humor, and merely to explain the somewhat confusing advertising you see now and again, in which one rubber company or another blithely forgets its definitions and shoots the works.

The justification for such a fling is that the use of the term Leadership in most cases is qualified, even if obscurely, by being based on some subordinate phase of the business in which the advertiser claims to excel.

●

BUT what's all the shootin' for—is Leadership really an important matter?

We think it is, as the most dependable indorsement of a product that the public can find upon which to rely.

When a plurality of the world's motorists, for example, year after year singles out one make of tire as the highest representative of value and merit, that is tremendously important.

It affords the average buyer the finest and safest possible guidance in his purchasing—and for his good and our own we desire to keep that guidance clear.

DISPENSING, then, with equivocal claims, evasions, qualifications and adroit expression, what company actually holds Leadership in the rubber industry?

The public has decisively answered that question in concrete terms of dollars and cents, and has conferred the award upon Goodyear.

Goodyear in turn submits to you the solid facts which support its Leadership.

It does this in no spirit of boastfulness; on the contrary with a privileged sense of the responsibility which its outstanding position entails:

In both volume and value of annual sales, Goodyear is the largest rubber company in the world.

Goodyear consumes 1/6 of all the crude rubber used annually in the world—approximately 50% more than any other manufacturer.

Goodyear builds more than 1/4 of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers.

For years Goodyear has factory-equipped between 1/4 and 1/3 of all the new motor cars manufactured.

Goodyear exports approximately 40% of all the tires exported from the United States and Canada for other parts of the world.

Goodyear maintains the largest development laboratories and corps of experimental engineers of any rubber company in the world.

In the last seven years Goodyear's annual production of pneumatic tires has increased 172%, as against an increase of approximately 75% for the industry as a whole.

●

WITH special reference to tires, Goodyear holds Leadership because:

Goodyear has made more tires for motor vehicles than any other manufacturer—by millions.

Goodyear is making, today, more tires than any other manufacturer in the world—by millions.

Goodyear's tire business has increased faster in the last five years than any other manufacturer's—by millions.

More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind—by millions.

●

THERE'S the story, good people, figure it out for yourselves.

Certainly it means that in Goodyear Tires the average user finds a quality and a value which he cannot equal elsewhere.

Certainly it means that when you buy a Goodyear Tire you buy something good enough, outstandingly good enough, to have won a special and unrivalled place in the confidence of the public.

And when any other rubber company confuses you with talk about Leadership, just treat yourself to a knowing grin and say: "Sure! We know—You're Napoleon!"

SOLOMON, N. Y. NEGRO AT NEW LONDON ADMITS CHECK THEFT FROM MAILS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 9—Alfred J. Solomon, New York Negro sheik, was arrested here Monday charged with being a fugitive from justice, as a result of his having three checks in his possession which it was evident had been stolen, for each of the checks, whose aggregate face value and which were negotiable, was approximately $325, was made payable in favor of different men and woman residing in New York and in the vicinity where Solomon resided. A check-up of the case resulted in the New York police informing the New London detective bureau that the checks had been stolen and requesting that Solomon be held for the postal authorities. This afternoon Inspectors Daniel J. Looney and Frank A. Butler arrived in New London from New York and accompanied by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh, the officers went to the county jail and questioned Solomon at length. After a grilling of the Negro for an hour and a half he admitted that he had stolen the checks and they were only a part of a dozen or more of negotiable paper that he had stolen within a short time. Solomon confessed to having observed letter carriers enter houses and apartments in the Harlem district. He would then go to the letter boxes and remove such envelopes as indicated that they contained checks. He was successful in stealing at least twelve such envelopes and some of them he negotiated obtaining about $250. About July 1 Solomon stole the three checks that he had in his possession when he came to New London and his attempt to negotiate one of them for $178.85, drawn by the Bond & Mortgage company of New York in favor of Bernard McEnaney, was the direct cause of Solomon's arrest. He entered a State street clothing store and requested to be shown a suit of clothes. He displayed the check with which he said he intended to pay for his purchase but a few minutes later suddenly left the store and also the check. The police were notified of Solomon's act and the Negro was arrested a short time afterwards on Main street. The other checks were found in his clothing. Solomon said that while riding on a train to New London he met a Negro who gave him the checks and requested that Solomon cash them, but the alleged chance acquaintance, Solomon said, he did not know or did he have an appointment to meet him, that the money could be turned over to the stranger. Solomon's story was so ridiculously false that the New York police were informed of the checks being in his possession and it then resulted in it being disclosed that the checks had been stolen and a search was being made for the thief. Solomon maintained his original story until given the severe grilling this afternoon.

Could Not Sleep on Account of Itching. Cuticura Healed.

"My face and neck were covered with painful pimples. They were hard and some of them were very large and red. The pimples festered and scaled over, and I could not sleep nights on account of the itching and burning. The trouble lasted two years and disfigured my face.

"I tried other remedies but nothing seemed to help. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was healed in about two months, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap, together with the Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Erika Storm, 93 Barker St., Jamestown, N. Y.

Quarrelled Over Children

Mrs. Hannah Goldiner, 1 Mitchell charged with breach of the peace as she pleaded guilty and because of the circumstances that comprised the charge against her, Mrs. Goldiner was fined $50 and costs. The woman, wife of a sailor, engaged Monday in a wordy quarrel with a neighbor, Mrs. Eldborg Carlson and during the brawl, Mrs. Goldiner was accused of having bit Mrs. Carlson several blows on the face and when the latter was on the ground to have kicked her in the abdomen Mrs. Carlson said that the quarrel resulted over the dispute as to acts of the children of the two women and when Mrs. Goldiner went across the street to where Mrs. Carlson was standing she renewed the brawl by physically attacking the latter. Mrs. Carlson made complaint to Patrolman Louis Wheeler and the officer arrested Mrs. Goldiner. In court today, Mrs. Carlson walked with a limp due she said to the kicks received. Mrs. Goldiner after court adjourned declared that Mrs. Carlson precipitated the fight and was the aggressor. However, as Mrs. Goldiner had pleaded guilty she must pay the penalty imposed by the court.

Earl Laviene, a sailor attached to the submarine O-3, at the base was charged with reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs. He was arrested on Broad street last night by Automobile Patrol Officer William Corcoran and Patrolman Dennis Elwood. Bailey and Patrolman Dennis Murphy. Henry P. Hammacher, 6 Church street, Mystic, was also charged with reckless driving and on the same street, but the count was nolled and the driver ordered discharged. Hammacher was arrested by Patrolman Murphy.

Two cases of intoxication were tried. One man, an old offender, having been arrested two score of times, was fined $10 and costs. As he could not pay he went to jail for a stay of three weeks. The man was discharged only last week after having served 60 days in jail. The other man was given suspension of judgment.

Meryon Poplanski, Uncasville, was charged with being a suspicious person, but he was ordered discharged by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer for there was no evidence upon which to base a conviction. Poplanski was arrested last night by Patrolmen William Riordan and Lawrence Fardy when his actions aroused the suspicions of the officers.

Fifty kiddies receiving treatment at Seaside sanatorium, Niantic, some of them cripples, were guests of New London lodge of Elks yesterday. The officers had buses bring the children to New London and the children were taken to the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus where they saw the entire performances. They were given an abundance of candy, ice cream and other things to eat.

RECEIVED STOLEN MONEY— BUT WHITE HAS MADE GOOD

Harry White, of Howard street, employed as a truck driver, was in the police court this morning charged with theft, but because White returned the money, $160, he received from his son and with full knowledge that it had been stolen from former Patrolman Michael O'Neill, who had his pocket picked last month, the charge against him was nolled, when the case was called in the police court today. O'Neill and Sergeant William Casey, the latter a member of the Norwich police force, went to the circus grounds, Broad street extension last month and there witnessed the performance of the 101 Ranch and Wild West show. When the two men were in a crowd leaving the grounds O'Neill felt a slight tug at his pocket and feeling for his money, discovered it gone. O'Neill and Casey seized two young men, who were directly behind O'Neill and when they were searched the money was not found, for it had been dropped by one of the pair when grabbed by O'Neill and Casey. Later the money was found by White's son, who gave it to his father, who tendered the youth $10 and told the boy not to reveal anything of the finding of the cash. With the balance, White purchased a second-hand automobile. About two weeks ago, Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith obtained information that White's boy had found the money and when the youth was questioned it came out that the father had received the money and spent it, although he was aware that the money was that which O'Neill had lost.

John Mills, U. S. Coast Guard, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from painful injuries received by a fall this morning. Mills was operating an ice-making machine and lost his balance, falling seven feet to the ground. He suffered an injury to his chest and back.

A leak in the exhaust pipe of an automobile in the garage of Frank McDonald, 870 Bank street, early this morning was the cause of a machine that had been driven to the building bursting into flames. An alarm was sent in from Box 412, corner of Bank and Colman streets. The firemen arriving at the garage applied chemicals quickly and subdued the fire without damage of consequence.

Kozlin reported the accident at police headquarters, but the sailor did not. It is not known whether either of the owners was driving the colliding auto or whether it was driven by a sailor to whom the car had been loaned. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

By a strange coincidence Joan Bennett and Sharon Lynn, who appear as "pals" in the Fox Movietone production, "Crazy That Way," which opened a three day engagement at the Broadway Wednesday, are friendly rivals, in one respect. Off the screen each has been acclaimed the best-gowned girl in filmland. For the picture, Sophie Wachner, fashion creator for Fox Studios, had somewhat of a task designing several beautiful gowns to be worn by the two girls. Each was aware of the other's prestige and the screen will have to leave it to those who see the picture to select the winner.

Incidentally some mighty smart gowns, just a year ahead of the fashions, are shown in this corking story by Vincent Lawrence, formerly a most successful stage comedy and as a picture, said to be greatly enhanced.

The story of a girl who had many lovers but no love in her heart is the story of "Crazy That Way," Fox Movietone production directed by Hamilton MacFadden.

Palace Theatre.

A double-feature bill which surpasses all other double-feature bills thus far shown at the Palace theatre will be shown today and tomorrow when "Around the Corner" with Charlie Murray and George Sidney supported by a large cast and "Bride of the Regiment" starring Vivienne Segal, Allan Prior, Louise Fazenda and Myrna Loy assisted by many other favorites may be seen.

Rosie O'Grady, long famous in song and story is the heroine of "Around the Corner" and the story tells about Officer O'Grady and Kaplan, an Irish policeman and a Jewish pawnbroker who have been friends for many years, and the experiences they have with the little foundling that they discovered on their doorstep. They decide to keep her and after 18 years Rosie, as they decide to call her, is shown as the beautiful young girl she has grown to be.

"Bride of the Regiment" is one of the most daring and alluring films that has ever been produced. It describes the affairs of a newly married couple who are separated on the steps of the cathedral where the ceremony has just taken place. War has been declared and the new husband is torn between defending his country or remaining with his bride. He chooses the former and a series of surprising events makes the conclusion one which thrills and surprises.

"Bride of the Regiment" has been produced on one of the most elaborate scales ever used. There are color sequences and music and with a plot so filled with surprises the picture is most attractive.

Beginning Saturday and for four days, the Palace will present one of the season's greatest hits, Will Rogers in his latest scream, "So This Is London!"

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL'S GIFT TO FORMER CHAPLAIN

Evidence of the high esteem in which Rev. Myles Paul Galvin, now of New Hartford, former chaplain of the council, is held by the members of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus, was shown in the exceptionally large attendance for the "Father Galvin Night" conducted by the council at its home on Broadway Wednesday evening. As a token of their regard for him, shown in a material way, Rev. Fr. Galvin was given a substantial gift of gold.

At the banquet, served by the house committee and given in honor of their former chaplain, Patrick M. Coleman, grand knight, acted as toastmaster and called upon Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, of which Rev. Fr. Galvin was senior curate for many years, and Rev. Arthur J. Sullivan, curate of St. Mary's Memorial church, for remarks, who responded in an interesting vein.

A talk on his recent trip abroad was also made by Dr. Edward J. Brophy, which was received with enthusiatsic applause, as was the presentation address by Michael J. Curran, financial secretary. The topic of Mr. Curran's speech was on "Father Galvin, The Man."

Among the guests present was Rev. Charles William Corcoran, of Stamford, a former Norwich man, together with Rev. John J. Reilly and Rev. James P. Dargan, senior and junior curates, respectively, at St. Patrick's church.

Rev. Fr. Galvin is now pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, his first parish, at New Hartford. He had been associated with St. Patrick's parish for nearly 17 years.

PROVIDENCE RIVER MYSTERY HAS NORWICH ANGLE

The Norwich police were engaged Wednesday, without success, in an effort to find Mrs. J. Hall of Lake street, this city, after word had been received here from the Providence department that a card giving that address had been found with a bunch of men's clothes near the bank of the Providence river.

The card found with the clothing said "to notify Mrs. J. Hall, Lake street, Norwich, if anything happens."

The clothing is supposed to belong to Daniel Halsey, who had been stopping at the Church House in Providence, according to the information from the police of that city. They had been dragging the river in the belief that the owner of the clothes might have been drowned.

The clothing consisted of a leghorn straw hat, size 7, blue serge coat size 38 (label Webber and Heilbronner), blue cotton trousers, white shirt with lavender and white stripes.

There was nothing to show why the man named Halsey should want information given to the woman at the Norwich address.

NEW LONDON WOMAN IS NIECE OF DEAD CARDINAL

NEW LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—A warm and happy relationship which time and distance failed to affect, was terminated today between Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred college, and his niece, Mrs. Emma Crocicchia, wife of Dr. Anthony Crocicchia, of this city, with the prelate's death in Vatican City.

Before coming to America from Italy, 30 years ago, Mrs. Crocicchia, then Miss Emma Vannutelli, was married to Dr Crocicchia by Cardinal Vannutelli. Ten years later she returned to Italy to visit her uncle. In 1912, niece and uncle met for the last time when the latter came to the United States to attend the eucharistic conference as a representative of the pope.

Mrs. Crocicchia, whose father, the late Enrico Vannutelli, was a brother of the prelate, maintained a regular correspondence with Cardinal Vannutelli.

They have received their final instructions and have entered upon their duties, having pledged their best efforts to maintain their playground as the best in the country. THAMES BANK TELEPHONES NOW ON DIAL SYSTEM

The Thames Bank and Trust company has taken the lead in this section in having installed a dial telephone equipment for communicating between the different departments of the bank. It is the first of its kind that has been put in by the Southern New England Telephone company in the Norwich exchange.

The dial telephone system has been put into operation in the bank this week and is proving very satisfactory and efficient.

At some future time it is expected that the Norwich exchange will have a dial system installed but it is expected this change will not be for three or four years yet.

WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF SUPER-SAFETY AIRSHIP

A demonstration of the super-safety airship, for the manufacture of which a corporation known as The Triumvirate Trust has been organized in Norwich, is to be given in Hartford at the state armory between 2:30 and 3:30 this (Thursday) afternoon. The super-safety features are the invention of John F. Cooley.

In a statement given out Wednesday over the signatures of the executive committee of the trust, Edward A. Rich and John F. Cooley, the progress and scope of the corporation are explained, as follows:

"Now that we are about to organize for active business which can be of such large potential value to Norwich, it is well to briefly explain our business set-up for general information and nominate our intentions.

"Between the hours of 2:30 and 3:30 Thursday afternoon, at the state armory at Hartford, the safety character of our ship which is to be the foundation of our business will tell its own story, and the rest is as follows:

"The Triumvirate Trust. This name was adopted by the present owners of the super-safety aircraft invention and signifies ownership, control and government by three in a mutual interest and protective plan of trust relationship. These three are: C. W. Taggart, Edward A. Rich and J. F. Cooley. They function as follows:

"All external business of the trust is developed, carried on with, by and through a business organization who participate with the trust in all benefits therefrom. This organization is the Triumvirate Super-Safety Aircraft, Inc., called the holding company. It is legally incorporated under the laws of the state of Connecticut for the declared purpose of increasing business prosperity in this and other cities by active manufacturing development.

"This corporation is capitalized for $50,000, having 500 shares of 8 per cent cumulative, preferred stock at $100 par with special protective conditions, 2,000 shares of no par common with voting power, one share of common stock to be given with each share of preferred stock as issued.

"A sufficient amount of the preferred will be sold to defray the expenses attendant upon the construction, outfitting and launching of a large, standard representative ship of the super-safety type and of impressive proportions.

"It is expected that a heavy increase of capitalization will occur at the time of launching or immediately thereafter and the monetary returns from the sale of the securities then made through our brokers will be sufficient to establish a completely adequate manufacturing plant in this city, covering present needs and future expansion.

"All manufacturing establishments set up here or elsewhere shall be separate organizations under part or entire local control. They shall function for and be contributary to the holding company who together with the trust shall largely own and wholly control them upon a safe plan and policy, not incompatible with sound business methods and equitable mutual benefit.

"Norwich will not be asked to donate or subsidize these interests. A wholehearted participation, however, by Norwich is desired that by the power so conferred we may sooner reach a large measure of prosperity for all. It is our determined policy at the moment to induce a tide of workmen, artisans and experts, with their families and money for their payrolls to flow into this city and serve a large and constantly increasing industry which we confidently expect to establish here.

"As far as possible, we shall effect internal ownership here, that all earnings and revenues produced by this enterprise may remain in this city, thereby still further increasing its prosperity."

THURSDAY CLOSING FOR STORES IN AFTERNOON

In keeping with the policy of previous years, the announcement is made by the Merchants bureau of the chamber of commerce that beginning today, the stores of Norwich will observe every Thursday afternoon as a half holiday until and including Thursday, August 28. The stores will close at 12 o'clock noon and it is felt by the bureau that this year will find the same spirit of co-operation among the stores of the city whereby the salespeople will enjoy a half holiday a week during the months of July and August. It is hoped that the many patrons of the Norwich stores will also cooperate in this movement and do their Thursday buying during the morning hours.

STATE'S EXPORT TRADE INCREASES $5,500,000

Exports of merchandise from Connecticut were valued at $53,317,912 during 1929 compared with $47,796,768 during 1928, an increase of $5,521,144, according to statistics made public by the department of commerce.

Typewriters ranked first in order of value with foreign shipments totalling $5,523,143 and was followed in order by "other industrial machinery and parts" valued at $2,531,901; brass and bronze manufactures, $2,247,813; "other electrical machinery and apparatus", $2,018,572; ammunition, $1,803,382; and rubber tires, $1,755,130.

Musical instruments, soaps, printing machinery, engines for aircraft, lard, shellfish, corsets, needles, cutlery, flashlights, batteries, locks, and sewing thread were included in the diversified products sent from the state to foreign markets during the year.

DENIES THAT BEETLE IS JAPANESE SPECIE

According to Otto Ernst of Geduldig's Greenhouses the beetle found by Xavier Lambert of 224 Broad street, is not a Japanese beetle, as he claims that specie gains its livelihood nearer the ground. The insect, which has the appearance of a June bug, was detected by Mr. Lambert eating leaves on his grapevine. The June bug also thrives on leaves.

LURED TO NEW YORK BY BASEBALL OFFER

Neil Connors, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Connors of 30 North street, left his home here Tuesday for New York with a man who promised to put him under instruction of best baseball coaches in the business and that after he had been at the baseball school for two weeks, he would be given work at $40 a week. A brother of Neil advanced the $35 which was to be the cost of the course, but Wednesday morning a telegram came to the Connors home from New York reading as follows: "I lost the money Jack gave me. Telegraph $30 and description of me so that I may be identified at telegraph office.

(Signed) NEIL,
"No. 1440 Broadway."

Members of the Connors family are suspicious about the telegram and they came to police headquarters Wednesday morning to ask help to get Neil back from New York.

They were advised that the surest way to locate the young man would be to go to New York and watch for him at the address given. They also telephoned the New York police department and were told that the New York officers would not take Neil into custody without orders from the Norwich police.

The man with whom Neil went away first appeared here about a month ago when he saw Neil and told him he ought to go to New York to learn "big league" baseball.

Just suppose there were only ONE telephone in the world

THE ONLY TELEPHONE IN EXISTENCE
An instrument for transmitting speech by electricity. It could be used if there were other telephones to which it could be connected

If you had the only automobile in the United States, it would still serve your needs, and you would probably be proud to own the only motor vehicle in the country.

But if you had the only telephone in existence, what good would it do you? You couldn't use it to talk with a single person.

Only by being able to communicate with other people can you get real value from your telephone service. Because your telephone can be connected with every other one in Connecticut—as well as with nearly thirty million other telephones in four continents—that is why it can play so invaluable a part in your everyday activities.

To further extend this universal service—which is made possible by the collaboration of this company with the twenty-three others comprising the Bell System—is one of the obligations in our threefold objective:

"THE MOST TELEPHONE SERVICE, AND THE BEST, AT THE LEAST COST TO THE PUBLIC."

HUSTON SIDETRACKS FOES' DEMANDS FOR RESIGNATION

National Republican Chairman Tells Party Leaders He Will Make a Public Declaration Regarding His Chairmanship When Senate Adjourns—Political Circles Interpret Statement to Mean Huston Will Resign But Latter Informed Newspapermen That He Had Made No Promises.

WASHINGTON, July 10 — (AP) — Claudius Huston faced the irate officers of the republican national committee today and held off their threatened demands for his resignation as national chairman with a statement that he would discuss this "after the adjournment of the senate."

The statement was immediately subjected to the interpretation in political circles that Huston then would announce his resignation but the fighting chairman told newspapermen after the all day conference with his officers that "I made no promises."

The belligerent officers who went to the party conference today determined to tell Huston that, they believed his usefulness as chairman was at an end left the room saying they were satisfied with his statement.

Three of these officers who have been demanding that Huston quit—Daniel E. Pomeroy, of New Jersey, a vice chairman; Joseph R. Nutt, of Ohio, the treasurer; and James Francis Burke, the counsel—conferred with President Hoover before the meeting and again at the noon recess. It was after this last White house conference that the belligerency of the Huston foes faded noticeably.

Huston said he had received no word from Mr. Hoover, directly or indirectly. He said he had not talked with the president since last Sunday night when Mr. Hoover told Huston of the opposition to him. It was then the stories started that Huston would resign at today's meeting.

A solemn agreement was entered at the party conference today that all talking about the party's troubles would be ended.

It was agreed Huston should make any statements. He asked for an opportunity to be freed from the constant round of speculation about him, resulting from the gossip within the party.

Huston was smiling and genial as he subjected himself to a bombardment of questions by newspapermen at the close of the meeting. His lips quivered slightly at some very pointed questions, but he insisted he had not resigned; that he had not been asked to resign, and that he would speak only after the senate had adjourned.

Asked why he was waiting for an adjournment of the senate, he hesitated and replied: "There is no particular reason."

Entering the meeting today aware that he faced almost unanimous opposition from his officers, Huston took command of the conference and the subject of his chairmanship did not even get up for discussion at the morning session. He himself brought it up at the afternoon meeting.

"I discussed some of the erroneous and contradictory stories in the press about me and that opened a full and frank discussion," he said.

Huston's troubles with his party began after testimony was given the senate lobby committee that he had solicited funds for the Tennessee River Improvement association in behalf of the Muscle Shoals lobby and that he had placed those funds in his brokerage account before turning them over to the association, of which he was then president.

The general interpretation tonight was that Mr. Huston demanded to be let alone while under fire. His plea won after he told the leaders he would make a public declaration as soon as the senate adjourned. Many of them believe he will get out then but others still think Huston will seek to line up his forces for a finish fight.

However, President Hoover has been busy lately looking for a successor to Huston. Senator Fess, of Ohio, is favored for the post and Robert Lucas, of Kentucky, the commissioner of internal revenue, has been slated to be the chief executive officer.

PINCHOT PREPARES TO RUN ON INDEPENDENT TICKET

MILFORD, Pa., July 10—(AP)—Gifford Pinchot, whose nomination as the republican candidate for governor in the fall election has been attacked by his principal opponent in the May primary, says he does not intend to be caught napping if a court decision keeps him off the republican ticket.

The former governor announced today that the present situation with regard to the nomination makes it necessary for him to prepare to run on an independent ticket. To that end, he said, at the proper moment, he and his friends would pre-empt a ticket, statewide and in every congressional, senatorial and legislative district. A place on the ticket, he added, would be offered to every candidate nominated by the republican party in the primary.

Pinchot said "the attempt of certain public utilities and gang politicians under the leadership of Atterbury to steal the governorship is too raw to be tolerated." It is a "scandalous effort," Pinchot said, to disfranchise the republicans who voted for the winning candidates in the primary.

Atterbury, mentioned in the statement, is W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania.

The present unprecedented situation in the republican party in Pennsylvania was brought about by Francis Shunk Brown, Pinchot's principal opponent, challenging the legality of the ballots used in Luzerne county, the third most populous county in the state. The Luzerne county court, by majority action, permitted the ballots used in the county to be perforated with a set of figures on the margin such as are used in canceling bank checks. This was done to detect counterfeit ballots that might be stuffed into boxes in the interest of some candidate in the county.

The Brown supporters contended the perforation of the ballots constituted mutilation. Under the election laws mutilated ballots are invalid and cannot be counted.

The Luzerne county court declared the ballots legal and the Brown supporters have taken an appeal to the state supreme court. Pinchot carried Luzerne county by 26,000 and carried the entire state by 20,000 plurality. If the supreme court should declare the ballots illegal, the Luzerne vote would be thrown out and Brown would be in the lead.

The supreme court has fixed September 29 for hearing argument in the Luzerne case.

CLAIMS HERRICK OPERATED "FLOATING" GAMBLING PLACES

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—Counsel for George Herrick, arrested as the operator of a luxurious gambling casino in the most fashionable sector of Park avenue, assailed police today for the unwarranted invasion of a private home, but Police Commissioner Mulrooney charged that Herrick was a gambler whom detectives have been trailing for months.

The police commissioner said Herrick was accustomed to frequent the Central Park Casino, the Ritz Carlton and other fashionable resorts and to cultivate acquaintance with wealthy persons whom he introduced to whatever gambling establishments he happened to be conducting at the moment.

The alleged gambling parlor was raided yesterday by detectives who broke down one of four doors and found numerous green-covered tables marked for various games of chance, several bottles of liquor, and wraps indicating that 40 or 50 patrons had left hurriedly by another exit as the main door was being forced.

Mulrooney said Herrick had been running "floating" gambling places, moving frequently from one location to another, for many years. Formerly, he said, Herrick had marked out of town buyers as his patrons but more recently has turned his attention to society

SUTRO AND CO SUSPENDED FROM STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange's investigation of the pool operation in the stock of Manhattan Electric Supply Co., resulted in the suspension today of the membership of the old San Francisco house of Sutro & Co.

The brokerage firm was suspended for violation of the stock exchange rules in failure to exercise proper diligence in preventing "wash sales" by a customer of the firm's uptown New York office in 4th street.

The house was founded in 1858 but had been a member of the New York Stock exchange only since January, 1929, when it absorbed the New York firm of Robertson & Co. It is also a member of the San Francisco and Los Angeles stock exchanges, and maintains offices in Los Angeles and Oakland, in addition to New York and San Francisco.

What appeared to be the collapse of a pool manipulation early in May, when Manhattan Electric Supply crashed from $55.12 a share to $14, brought an investigation by Assistant General Watson Washburn, in charge of the state bureau of securities, and shortly thereafter, an investigation by the stock exchange.

The customer dealing through Sutro and Co. was identified by the firm as Charles H. McCarthy, against whom Mr. Washburn, as a result of his investigation, obtained a court order restraining him from further dealings in the stock. The order also restrained W. J. Goldman and Co. of New York, and five other individuals, three of whom were customers men for other stock exchange firms.

After announcement of the suspension of Sutro & Co., Mr. Washburn stated that he had conferred with officials of the stock exchange regarding the case, and that he was looking into the activity of the brokerage firm.

The stock exchange announcement, read from the rostrum, quoted Section 10, of Chapter 12, of the rules, as a basis for the action. The section reads: "Every member is required to use due diligence to learn the essential facts relative to every customer and to every order or account accepted by him; also as to the possible use of a name for the account of other than that of the party interested."

NEW HAVEN MAN DIED FROM SELF INFLICTED WOUNDS

NEW HAVEN, July 10—(AP)— Christanzo Mongellio, 53, died at New Haven hospital tonight of wounds which he inflicted on himself earlier in the day after he had attacked and injured Mrs. Mary Stassi, 27, his rooming house proprietress, with an axe.

Although reported critically injured shortly after the attack, Mrs. Stassi was found to have suffered only a severe head laceration. She was discharged from the hospital tonight shortly before Mongellio's death.

Mongellio, police said, attacked the woman after she had repulsed his amorous advances. He was found later in his room suffering from numerous wounds which he had inflicted on himself with a penknife and a ten inch ice pick.

Mongellio was unmarried and had been unemployed for the past four weeks.

THOUSANDS VIEW BODY OF LATE CARDINAL

VATICAN CITY, July 10—(AP)—Mourners by thousands from all ranks of society today passed the body of Vincenzo Cardinal Vannutelli as it lay in state in violet vestments in the throne room of D'Ataria palace.

Everywhere throughout Rome was manifest the mourning to which the populace joined with Vatican City over the passing yesterday of the 93-year-old dean of the Sacred college and high prince next to the pope of the Catholic church.

Arrangements went forward today for the funeral of the prelate, announced officially for 10 a. m. Saturday at the Church of St. Ignatius, when Cardinal Pignatelli di Belmonte, new dean of the cardinals, will officiate.

The throne room of Cardinal Vannutelli's palace within Vatican City today presented a sombre appearance, while reverent mourners passed the bier. The Duchess of Aosta went afoot from the Quirinal palace to kneel and pray beside it. President Giuriati, of the chamber of deputies, Prince Ruffo di Calabria, ceremonial officer of the royal court, on behalf of the reigning house, and many others were in the procession.

It became known today that Cardinal Vannutelli willed most of his property to his nephews, Galileo and Giuseppe.

The will stipulates that the body should be buried temporarily in Verano cemetery outside the walls of Rome in the chapel of Propaganda Fide, besides the remains of Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, his brother. The body probably will be placed later in a crypt of the Ostia cathedral.

NEGRO GOLD STAR MOTHERS WILL SAIL SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—War department efforts to secure accommodations of any major trans-Atlantic shipping line for the Negro gold star mothers and widows going abroad this summer at government expense have ended in failure.

The inability of any of the companies to accommodate the group of Negro mothers and widows sailing Saturday has resulted in the chartering by the War department by the Holland-America line, the North German Lloyd, the Cunard line, the Anchor line, the International Mercantile Marine company and the French line for their inability to meet requirements to accommodate the group.

To the American lines, affiliated with the United States lines, was assigned the charter for the group sailing on Saturday, the entire accommodations of the freighter-passenger vessel American Merchant being taken.

The cost of chartering the vessel, it was said, will bring the average for the transportation of the Negro mothers and widows to more per person than that for the white mothers and widows, many of whom sailed in cabin passage on vessels of the United States lines.

Of Saturday's group seven have indicated they do not desire to make the trip.

The War department has not been advised of the reason for these cancellations but it was said this is about the usual number who cancel their passages at the last moment. Fifty-eight mothers and widows are scheduled to sail.

HUGE MOTOR FELL 28 STORIES, KILLING WORKMAN

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—A five ton elevator motor fell 28 stories today in a building under construction in Seventh avenue, landing among a group of workmen in an elevator on the second floor, killing one and injuring five others.

John Haney, 30, was crushed to death, Jeremiah Troy and John Roulson were seriously injured. Three other men were slightly hurt.

Workmen were moving the motor from the 29th floor to a higher floor when it slipped from its sling and crashed down the narrow shaft and through the top of the other elevator.

A large crowd gathered immediately and saw a priest administer the last rites to the more seriously injured.

MANGANELLO MURDER CASE READY FOR JURY

NEW HAVEN, July 10—(AP)—With the completion of arguments by the state and defense, the case of Anthony Manganello, charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Giovanni Cirello, tonight was ready for the jury.

Only the charge to the jury by Judge Frederick M. Peasley remained before the jurors began their deliberation. The court will charge the jury tomorrow morning.

Several witnesses were called today by the defense before it rested its case. The defense attempted to show through them that Manganello shot Cirello, a storekeeper, to death in self defense after he had been slashed with a knife by the latter. The quarrel between the men arose over four cents.

Gangland Claims 47th Victim In Chicago

Racketeer Was Shot [illegible] In the Living Room [illegible] Own Home — [illegible] Is Known [illegible] the Police.

CHICAGO, July [illegible]—Recketeers took out their [illegible] of the year today.

He was Thomas Bonner, obscure racketeer, one time suspect in the $133,000 Green Park mail robbery. His killer, police said, was known and would be captured.

The living room of his own home was Bonner's execution hall, a rare but not a new departure for gangland's killings.

Callers knocked at the Bonner door early today, entered at his greeting and strolled into the parlor. From an adjoining room Mrs. Bonner heard her husband argue with one of the visitors.

"You've got me wrong on that," Bonner was protesting

There was the crack of a revolver and Bonner fell, a bullet through his head, his heavy body breaking a chair in its fall.

The police had known Bonner 11 years as a suspect in automobile thefts and confidence games, and for a time he was linked with Charles "Limpy" Cleaver in the Evergreen Park train holdup, but he was absolved of this.

The recent hijacking of $200,000 worth of whiskey from a government warehouse and subsequent recovery of part of the liquor in a raid at the Evergreen Park "Roma Inn" held a clue to the executioners, detectives said. They believe he was shot by an assassin who thought he had been double crossed, perhaps in the belief he had "squawked" about the whiskey at the Roma Inn.

The maniford investigations of the killing of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, to outward appearances were at a standstill with the rumored arrest and release in California of "Red" Forsythe, more of a mystery than it was reported last night.

Hearing that Forsythe, wanted as a suspect in the Lingle murder, had slipped through the clutches of Los Angeles officers, Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office telephoned a Chicago detective in the Coast City and was informed the gangster had at no time been in California.

FRANCE SUSPENDS SHIP PROGRAM UNTIL DECEMBER

PARIS, July 10—(AP)—Foreign Minister Briand today announced suspension of France's shipbuilding program until December to open the way for naval negotiations with Italy. He told the foreign relations committee of the chamber of deputies, at the same time, that "another war in Europe" is impossible and inadmissible."

M. Briend assured the committee there was no reason for "emotion concerning the relations between France and Italy. He said every move possible on the part of France had been made toward a satisfactory understanding with her neighbor country.

Disclosing that no more ships would be put on the stocks in the French building program before next December, Minister Briand said Premier Mussolini had been informed of that fact officially. M. Briand said Italy had thus been provided with plenty of time for renewal of the discussion of a treaty of disarmament under conditions that existed in French naval armament during the London naval conference.

The foreign minister asserted that France since the great war had ceded 120,000 square miles of former French territory on the Tripolitan frontier to Italy, thus removing any possible cause for feeling in that quarter. He added that although France had striven for a tripartite entente of France, Italy and Jugoslavia, Italy "had preferred" to negotiate with Jugoslavia separately.

In conclusion, the foreign minister asserted that while Italy had demanded naval parity the Italian government never had furnished figures on arguments to justify the claim.

SAYS ANTI-NEGRO RAVINGS DISCREDIT THE SOUTH

BLUE RIDGE, N. C., July 10—(AP)—Political capitalization of race prejudice was deplored in an address here today by R. B. Eleaser of Atlanta, on the ground that it broadcasts "the impression that the South is a land of nations and savages."

Mr. Eleaser, who is secretary of the commission for inter-racial co-operation, told the annual Y. W. C. A. community conference that "the anti-Negro ravings of political demagogues have done more than all else to discredit the South abroad and disturb its peace and tranquillity at home."

Theatrical Brokers Lose Suit Against Poli

Jury Returns Defendant's Verdict In Million Dollar Action to Recover Commission In Sale of Theatre Chain.

NEW HAVEN, July 10—(AP)—A verdict for the defendant was returned today by a jury in a $1,000,000 suit brought by the Austin F. Hancock company, New York theatrical brokers, against Sylvester Z. Poli, New Haven theater magnate. The suit was to recover commission which the plaintiff charged was due them for obtaining a purchaser for the Poli chain of theaters.

The jury brought in its verdict after six hours of deliberation. It returned to the court once for instruction and twice reported disagreement.

Counsel for the plaintiff immediately filed a motion for setting aside the verdict. A hearing on the motion must be held within five days.

The plaintiff charged in the suit that it had obtained the Stanley Company of America as a purchaser for the Poli theaters, but the defendant refused to go through with the deal. Later the theatres were sold to the Fox corporation.

In the motion for setting aside the verdict, counsel for the plaintiff charged that there were errors in Judge Edward M. Yeomans' charge to the jury and in remarks made by the court to the jury when a disagreement was reported. They also charged that improper remarks had been made by defense counsel before the jury when it returned for further instruction.

GERMAN MINE DISASTER DEATH LIST 162

NEURODE, Germany, July 10—(AP)—A death list of 162 miners seemed a certainty tonight as the rescue work in Wenceslaus coal mine, where the worst gas disaster in the history of German mining occurred yesterday, progressed.

With 92 dead recovered, those in charge of the rescue crews held out but scant hope that the 70 men still imprisoned in the gas-filled shafts might be found alive.

Swiftly spreading lethal gas, the ever lurking enemy of this Silesian mining district, tonight still hampered the work of recovering bodies.

The death dealing gas was not only swift but incredibly silent. The only man near enough to hear and see what happened, at first could not make anybody believe anything was wrong, for the mine sounded normal and the machinery in the gassed portions was running as usual.

This eyewitness' tale was all the more difficult to believe because the periodical gas survey had been completed only a few days before and the engineers thought they had solved the problem of guarding against gas fumes. Thirty-five manifestations of carbon dioxide last year had failed to cause a single death. The last accident of note in this mine was in 1928, when eight miners perished.

Yesterday's explosion occurred when a large gas pocket was tapped by blasting. The fumes spread so rapidly that only 40 of the 211 miners in the shafts were rescued alive.

The fact that the faces of the dead were blackened from the swirling coal dust led to early reports of disfigurement. According to the attending surgeons, however, most of the victims wore singularly peaceful and even smiling expressions.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION OF MINE CATASTROPHE

BERLIN, July 10—(AP)—The Neurode mine disaster occupied the attention of the Reichstag today.

The coalition parties presented a motion demanding of the government, "First, to determine as quickly as possible the cause of the disaster; second, to adopt measures for preventing a recurrence of catastrophes of this nature, and third to provide for the adequate support of the families of the dead miners."

BOSTON ELKS LODGE TO HAVE CHARTER RESTORED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 10—(AP)—As a result of a petition signed by John F. Malley, of Boston, past grand exalted ruler of the Elks, the Boston "mother lodge" of Massachusetts Elks, will have its charter restored December 1, next, provided certain conditions set up by the grand lodge are met.

This decision was disclosed tonight by the retiring grand exalted ruler, Col. Walter P. Andrews. It was the last official action of the retiring administration.

The charter of the lodge was revoked by the national body after a raid by prohibition officers. Col. Andrews said the Boston Elks will have to get "out of the hotel business, dispose of its present building and establish a lodge in other quarters."

If, in the estimation of the new national officers, the Boston lodge has complied with these conditions, the charter will be restored. If not, the revocation will stand.

U. S. WARSHIPS PATROL YANGTSE RIVER TO DRIVE OFF OUTLAW BANDS

SHANGHAI, July 10—(AP)—Widespread banditry today caused America, Great Britain and Japan to use gunboats for protection of foreign shipping against machine and rifle fire and consuls to warn their nationals to flee from the Middle Yangtse valley.

Co-operating in the common interest of humanity, warships patrolled the Yangtse between Kiukiang and Ichang to drive off outlaw bandits who pirated Chinese vessels and plundered many river towns.

Missionaries and other foreigners were reported in serious danger of being captured by bandits and held for ransom. They were urged to leave isolated places for Yangtse centers where foreigners warships could protect them.

All foreigners and many Chinese have left Shasi, river port above Hankow, which is threatened

Flying banners reading "Down with Imperialism, Capitalism, Foreigners and Religion," reds have virtually stopped shipping by peppering it with bullets from both banks of the Yangtse above Hankow.

Lawless bands are roving wide areas between Yochow and Changsha, Hunan Province, following government troops who scattered rebel armies and then departed to other areas of China's civil war, permitting bandits to prey upon the populace.

Freed of restraint as the government drained its military from Chekiang, Hunan, Hupeh, Fukien, and Kiangsi provinces to hold back northern rebel armies in Honan and Shantung, outlaw armies have despoiled South China. SENATE CALLS FOR TREATY PACT PAPERS

Modified Resolution Adopted, 53 to 4, Requesting President Hoover to Turn Over All Letters and Cablegrams Exchanged Among the Powers Prior to the London Naval Parley—Amendment to Resolution Makes It a Request For the Papers If Their Transmission Was Not Incompatible to the Public Interest.

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—After three days of spirited debate, the senate today adopted a modified McKellar resolution requesting President Hoover to transmit to the senate all correspondence bearing on the London Naval Treaty exchanged between the powers prior to its negotiation. The vote was 53 to 4.

As finally passed, the resolution would make the action of the president subject to whether he felt it would be harmful to the public interest. This is the attitude assumed by Mr. Hoover when he refused to transmit to the senate foreign relations committee all papers requested by it.

Opinion was divided tonight on whether the executive would accede to the senate's request. Some senators believed he would stand by his original position. Others thought he would produce the documents with a request that they be held in confidence.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, a delegate to London and a Hoover supporter, said the resolution as amended was satisfactory to him.

Disposition of the resolution cleared the way for resumption of debate on the treaty itself, although Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, fired the first gun for the treaty opposition during the resolution debate today. He asserted the pact failed to relieve the tax burden or given parity to American and British fleets.

Senator Hale, republican, Maine, who has been awaiting an opportunity to attack the pact, served notice he would speak the first thing tomorrow. Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee wanted Hale to speak today after the vote on the vote on the document resolution, but the naval committee chairman called attention to the lateness of the hour and said he would prefer not to make the address in two sections.

This led Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, another treaty opponent, to say there was no need to hurry the debate.

The amendment to the McKellar resolution giving the president the right to withhold documents he considered too confidential was offered by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority leader and the other senatorial delegate to London. It was adopted 38 to 17. Most of the treaty opponents were recorded in the opposition on this vote.

Those voting against the proposal on final adoption were Senators Black, Alabama; Copeland, New York and George and Harris, of Georgia, all democrats. They took the position that the Robinson amendment gave the president an excuse to keep the papers and that the senate should be the judge whether they would be held in confidence.

Senator George opposed the resolution on the final vote even though it contained a change suggested by him to permit the executive to make such recommendations as he saw fit as to the use of the papers by the senate. This phraseology, accepted by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, author of the resolution, was offset, George contended, by the Robinson amendment.

Nine democrats and 8 republicans opposed the Robinson amendment, including many treaty opponents and several senators who have threatened to vote against the pact in the secret documents are not forthcoming for consideration of the senate.

The democrats in opposition were Black, Copeland, George, Harris, McKellar, Pittman, Thomas, Oklahoma; Walsh, Massachusetts, and Walsh, Montana.

The republicans were Hale, Howell, Johnson, LaFollette, Norris, Nye, Oddie and Schall.

PLANE EXLODED IN AIR KILLING FIVE MEN

ARANSAS PASS, Tex., July 10—(AP)—Five Kansas City men who flew to the Gulf of Mexico on a fishing trip, four of them prominent business and professional men and the fifth a transport pilot, met death near here today when their airplane exploded in the air and crashed to the ground.

The dead:

Murat Boyle, 48, president of the Missouri Bar association and prominent civic leader in Kansas City.

Raymond Watson, 39, attorney and son of I. N. Watson, veteran member on the Kansas City bar.

R. J. Delano, 47, for the last 20 years a builder of apartments and residences in Kansas City and formerly chairman of the republican city committee.

Eugene Lynn, expert accountant and president of the Kansas City Golf association.

Gene Gabbert, a transport pilot of several years' experience and for the last year pilot for Dr. W. M. Cross, former city chemist of Kansas City who lent his plane for the fishing trip.

Witnesses of the crash said their attention was attracted by an explosion and looking skyward they saw the wings break from the six passenger monoplane. The fuselage hurtled down with the trapped victims and buried itself in the salt flats about five miles from here. The plane did not catch fire.

The wings were found 500 feet from the fuselage.

Persons who saw the plane fall and inspected the wreckage expressed the opinion that the ship had been struck by a bolt of lightning.

W. C. Maus, manager of the municipal airport at Corpus Christi, said he believed the plane was flying blind in a cloud at a high rate of speed and that when it emerged the pilot jerked the "stick" back so fast the wings crumpled. He discounted the lightning theory, since there was no sign of an explosion or fire about the wreckage.

DEATHS AND PROSTRATIONS CAUSED BY HEAT WAVE

CHICAGO, July 10—(AP)—Withering weather held its unrelenting grip on the middle west today with more than a dozen states experiencing 100 degrees or hotter. Numerous new prostrations and deaths were attributed to the heat wave which has hovered over the broad central plains all week.

Il Illinois, a severe rainstorm and high wind swept across the north part of the state, bringing temporary relief from the heat but causing extensive damage to telephone and telegraph lines, wrecking many silos and windmills and tramping down grain fields.

In Kansas many farmers reported they were doing their wheat harvest by moonlight to avoid the heat but at Minneapolis contestants in the national open golf championship toiled over the hills in a boiling sun that registered 100 degrees.

The St. Louis area reported two more deaths and a dozen or more prostrations. A street worker in Council Bluffs, Iowa, collapsed while at work and died later.

The wave stretched as far southwest as Arizona. It was 95 or near there in most of Ohio and Indiana and sections of Tennessee and Kentucky reported 100 or worse.

A third warrant was issued for Harry Dickinson, alleged companion of Miss McClenny.

TARDIEU GOVERNMENT BEATS OFF TWO ATTACKS

PARIS, July 10—(AP)—Premier Tardieu's government, fighting a series of skirmishes with an increasingly dangerous opposition this week, succeeded by strength and strategy today in beating off two attacks from the left of the chamber of deputies.

After a debate in which fist fights were often threatened and a good deal of personal scuffling went on between conservatives and socialists, the government defeated a motion of censure for penalties it imposed on leaders of the recent Paris postal strike.

Making the rejection a matter of confidence or in other words threatening to resign if the motion were passed, Premier Tardieu was victorious by a margin of 6 votes. The figures were 325 to 259.

By strategy, he dodged an open test of strength on another question connected with the same matter. After having made the vote a question of confidence, he withdrew the ultimatum, and the vote was left pending.

M. Tardieu, however, will have to meet further attacks in both houses tomorrow. After he had withdrawn the question of confidence, the chamber decided to thrash out the entire question of the postal employes on Friday, and it was reported in the lobbies tonight that the opposition would launch a vigorous attack against the government at the end of the debate.

SHIP REPORTED AGROUND FOUND SAFELY ANCHORED

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The good ship Florida, a power schooner owned by Barron G. Collier and boasting among its passengers Mayor James J. Walker, was reported aground today but later the report was reported groundless.

The Florida was found anchored safe and snug in the Fort Pond bay, near Montauk, and Mayor Walker, who had spent part of the day fishing from a smaller craft, returned from the ocean deep early tonight and boarded the yacht. Coast guardsmen said he had "caught a six-foot blue shark," which delayed his return to the Florida, thus giving rise to some transitory worry about his safety.

Just where the story that the yacht was aground started is hard to tell. But it was persistent enough to start the coast guard on a rescue mission and fuel was added to the flickering flames of rumor by an almost complete lack of information in official places here as to where the mayor was or what he was doing.

He left city hall Tuesday noon and yesterday telephoned in, but did not say where he was. When the report that the Florida was in trouble first started it was learned from the Todd shipyards, where the schooner is kept, that the mayor was aboard.

DOMINION STATUS IS URGED FOR INDIA

SIMLA, India, July 10—(AP)—The politicians of India were engaged today in debates which to a large extent will determine the auspices under which the roundtable conference will assemble in the autumn.

The council of state discussed a resolution presented in the name of Sir Phiroz Sethna, Indian liberal leader, which urged the necessity and desirability of the government's demanding the immediate grant of dominion status for India.

Sir Brojendra Lal Mitter, speaking on behalf of the government, made a conciliatory speech. The viceroy, he pointed out, had explained that the government regarded the attainment of the dominion status as "the natural completion of India's constitutional growth."

The Simon report was condemned on all hands, Sethna declared that if the government did not exercise imagination and statesmanship, the liberal party in India, which was fast diminishing might become extinct. He agreed ultimately to withdraw his resolution in view of Mitter's "satisfactory reply."

To-night: Get Rid of BURNING FEET

The New Right Way THE ENGLISH WAY

To take out the agony—banish all burning, aches and soreness—try the new 1930 way and in 15 to 20 minutes your foot troubles are over.

Just put two tablespoonfuls of Radox in a gallon of hot water and soak your feet for 20 minutes—you never had such a joyous, invigorating foot bath in all your life—you can just feel all the acid and poisons coming out of the stuffed up pores of your poor feet.

Do this to-night and to-morrow your feet will be so strong and sturdy and vigorous that you can walk all day long without discomfort.

It's the oxygyn in Radox that gets into the thousands of pores of your feet and chases out the poisons that have accumulated there for years—it's these acids and poisons that make your feet ache and burn and nothing in the world will get them out but Radox.

You can get a package of Radox at Lee & Osgood or any good drugstore—it is inexpensive and if it doesn't put new life and vigor into and bring blessed comfort to your distressed feet—money back.

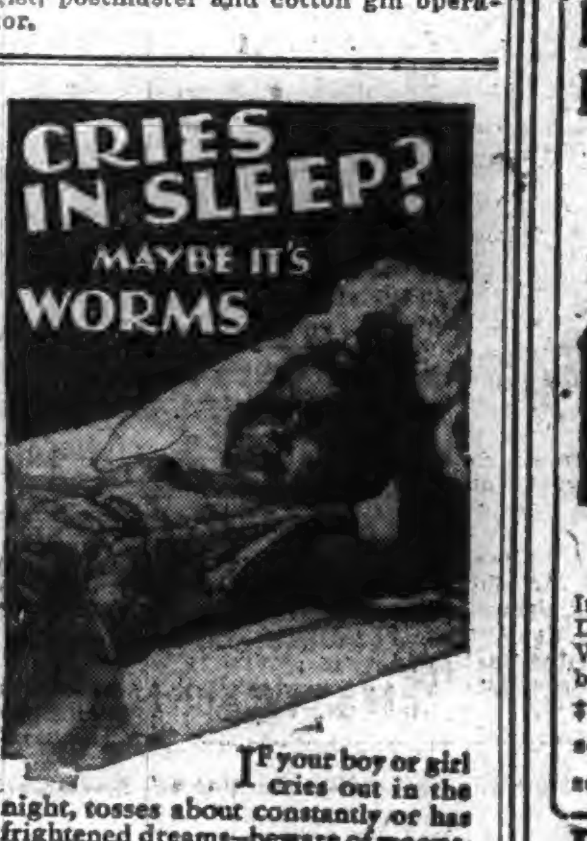
Washington Likes Green

WWASHINGTON July 10—(AP)—Green is the smart summer color in Washington.

It runs the gamut from ball gowns to beach togs and even the new tourist bags are favored more in green than any other color with their linings of green rubber.

A summery hat of pale green straw is bound round the edge with a narrow strip of green and white polka dot organdie.

Dr. R. P Richardson of Union City, Okla., also is a banker, farmer, druggist, postmaster and cotton gin operator.



If your boy or girl cries out in the night, tosses about constantly or has frightened dreams—beware of worms. They are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

RHEUMATISM PAIN NEEDLESS Relief in 7 to 10 minutes

A Good Recommendation

I have been suffering with a stiff back and pains in my feet for some time. At times, I could hardly get up from a chair. I tried several remedies and finally heard about your MUSCLETONE. The relief I received from it has been wonderful. The pain has left me completely and I am able to walk much better now. Nothing else seemed to help me until I started to use your MUSCLETONE and you may feel sure that I will recommend it to my many friends. Mrs. Emma Zahn, 120 Fourth St. Norwich, Ct.

Wonderful Remedy for Rheumatism

I think MUSCLTONE the most wonderful remedy for rheumatism I ever used. I have had rheumatism for a good many years. My limbs and ankles were swollen and the muscles were very sore. I used many kinds of liniments and medicines with but little relief. Your MUSCLETONE was being advertised in our paper so I bought a bottle and after a few applications the swelling has gone down and the pain is almost entirely gone. I can say it has helped me more than anything I ever used —and it is so pleasant to use. I have also used MUSCLETONE for a lame side and received wonderful relief. That is why I gladly recommend your remedy to all who have rheumatism. Mrs. Lucy A. Palmer, Clarks Falls, Conn.

Do you honestly want complete and lasting relief from the pains of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica or neuralgia? Science has proven these troubles needless. A new way has been found to end muscular agony and distress so quickly that it seems almost miraculous. Pain actually stops in 7 to 10 minutes and may be forgotten. Chronic cases and those unusually severe will of course require continued treatment for a while. Yet often less than a single bottle is enough for complete relief even in most severe conditions of long standing.

This new discovery is known as MUSCLETONE. It was found by Dr. Chapin, a famous physician of New York. Now almost a million people have used the MUSCLETONE treatment.

The amazing success of MUSCLETONE is due to the fact that it neutralizes accumulated toxins, absorbs them and relieves congested tissues. Pain goes. Joints become limber. Yet you take no violent drugs to upset the stomach. Nothing is taken internally. MUSCLETONE is applied directly to the part affected. It is bland and cool and soothing.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any good drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle and if you are not entirely satisfied, return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

DANIELSON

NOT TO HAVE CHAUTAUQUA IN DANIELSON NEXT YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July [illegible]—There will be no Chautauqua in Danielson next year. This was announced today incident to the closing entertainments of this year's series of programs, which have exteded through four days. Lack of sufficient support has made it impossible to go on, with guarantors making up deficits each year for several years past. Attendance has dwindled steadily year after year. When Chautauqua first came to Danielson, well over a decade ago, the attendance was gratifyingly large and there were no deficits. All that has materially changed. The automobile, the radio and various other means for diversion are held in large measure responsible for the falling off in interest and attendance.

Today's closing programs featured the Merrymakers. The tent was being taken down tonight. When Danielson will have Chautauqua again is very uncertain, but it will not be next year.

On Trip to Coast

Alex LaBelle and Philip Armington are rolling westward in the car they plan to have land them on the Pacific coast after they have done some visiting in cities en route, and they may possibly go to Alaska before Danielson sees them again.

They were to have had two companions, making a party of four, when they first planned the trip, which was inspired by a desire to see a relative of Mr. LaBelle's who has been in Alaska many years, prospecting and hunting big game as a diversion. If the Danielson young men decide to go to Alaska, they will head for the territory around the base of Mt. McKinley and do some big game hunting.

If they decide otherwise, they will see much of the far western United States before returning here, probably by the southern route out of California.

There is no prospect of the four miles of road in Canterbury and Lisbon needed to complete a state highway direct from the Massachusetts line near North Woodstock to Norwich being completed this year. A. T. J. Clark of Canterbury made this known while here today. He said, though, that there is every prospect of this final link being constructed in 1931. The route is regarded as certain of being one of the most popular with motorists in eastern Connecticut.

Do not miss the biggest event of the year, Danielson's July co-operative clearance sale, starting Friday, July 11 at 9 a. m., and ending Saturday, July 19, at 9:30 p. m. Tremendous reductions prevail throughout the various stores. For details study advertisements in the Windham County Transcript.—Adv.

At the office of the selectmen tax lists of 1920, 1921 and 1922, have been gone over and items that are beyond possibility of collection have been charged off. Others have been placed on what is known as a deferred collection list, and every effort will be made to obtain this money for the town. Unpaid items on lists from 1923 on also will be gone over at the office and similar classification and elimination made. First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast said this morning that he does not regard it as good business policy to continue to carry as prospective assets of the town, in its tax records, items of taxes that there is no possibility of collecting. Some of the persons against whom taxes are assessed have died, others have moved away and there are also items in the classifications mentioned that are there through assessment errors. These latter, however, are not being charged off.

Warnings are being broadcast to business organizations in towns hereabouts by the state chamber of commerce relative to the activities of a man and two women who are posing as representatives of a knitting mill. They take orders for ladies' undergarments, collect a deposit of $1.25 with each order and agree that the balance due shall be paid on delivery of the goods. The goods never come, and the $1.25 never comes back. They are traveling about the country in a maroon covered roadster. They use various aliases including Florence J. Knight, Florence J. Gilbert, Florence J. Miller, Myrtle M. Wilson, Myrtle M. Gilbert, William Wilson, W. H. Gilbert and Jack Vernon. The police should be promptly notified by anyone they may happen to solicit business of in Danielson or surrounding territory.

Captain Gordon J. Gale of the Service battery announces the following promotions from Niantic, where the battery is in camp with other organizations of the 192nd Field Artillery: Sergeant Charles D. Whitman to second lieutenant; Corporal Walter Pester to mess sergeant; Private Peter Kloc[illegible] to corporal; Private Carl Sears to corporal and assigned as company clerk; Private Francis G. Andrews to first class private; Private Montcalm Thomas to chauffeur, sixth class; Private Alfred Vevia to cook, fifth class.

This afternoon at the home in East Killingly funeral services for Frederick Passmore, who died suddenly the first of the week, were conducted by Rev. William Patterson of Onset, Mass., a personal friend of the deceased. During the service Mrs. Andrew J. Potter and Miss Eleatha Sheldon sang Jesus Knows and Cares, and Face to Face. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, Rev. Mr. Patterson conducting the committal service. The bearers were six brothers of Mrs. Passmore's, Byron, Arthur, Albert, Almond, Winfred and Clarence Carroll. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A correspondent in Wauregan writes that one of those attending the old-timers' baseball game there on the Fourth was Mark Bailey, his wife and daughter, formerly of Danielson, now resident in Saskatchewan. Mr. Bailey while in Albany on a long tour that he has been taking saw a newspaper item relative to the reunion that was planned and promptly headed for this section, arriving here the night before the Fourth. About 26 years ago Mr. Bailey was a resident of Danielson.

Among the various events planned to boost the nurses' home fund of the Day Kimball hospital some are to be held in this town and one in Brooklyn. The objective is $25,000, and of this sum upwards of $3,000 already has been secured.

On Tuesday of this week Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baribeault of the West Side observed the 51st anniversary of their wedding, and at a surprise party were presented gifts of linen and gold. Neighborhood friends came to greet them and tender congratulations. Last year they observed the golden anniversary of their wedding in elaborate fashion and with their children and children's children and many of their host of friends in attendance.

It is interesting information to a great many people to learn that the 192d Field Artillery, of which the Service battery of Danielson is a part, has a history dating back nearly 300 years. That is the significant fact back of the plan to present a great pageant at camp in Niantic the coming Sunday as a feature of this year's annual tour of field duty.

Episodes in the history of the regiment from the Indian, Revolutionary, Civil and World wars will be depicted, with the Service battery representing the post-war service.

It is anticipated that many Danielson people will be on hand for the event, planned for the early afternoon.

The camp has now settled down to its regular routine of work. The Danielson outfit is kept very busy, for, as its name implies, it renders service of various kinds to the regiment. All of the men have particular assignments. The boys will be in camp until July 20, so that those who do not have a chance to go from here to visit with them the coming week end may do so during the coming week.

Mention may be made of the fact that officers and men like to see people from back home, and they do everything possible to make their guests happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph and their daughter, Adoree, of New York are guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Morin.

Friday morning marks the opening of our July co-operative clearance sale. Many wonderful bargains in underwear, gloves, table linens, towels, etc. The Alice-Eleanor Shop.—Adv.

Some of the local members of the Putnam Country club were at the links this afternoon for the tournament games played with a team from Willimantic.

Ira A. Warren, superintendent of the fire alarm telegraph system, checked over all the circuits today following the electrical storms of yesterday. The system is working properly.

Judging from what numbers of boys said this morning, they will constitute themselves a reception committee for the circus when it arrives here early Friday morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Albert Jepson of Warehouse Point were brief visitors to Danielson. Rev. Mr. Jepson is a former rector of St. Alban's church.

The coming week Attorney E. L. Darbie, grand master of the Grand lodge of Masons in Connecticut will be in Toronto to attend a meeting of the Grand lodge of Canada.

Leslie Murray of Boston was a visitor at his home here today.

Donald White, who has been officer of the Jacobs Manufacturing company, is now in the advertising department of the Textile World.

Otto Johnson, of Boston, visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson, of Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dodge and children, of New Haven, visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson, Jr., of Allen Hill, Brooklyn.

PUTNAM

TELEPHONE CO. TO BUILD REPEATOR STAT. AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, July 10—It was learned this afternoon through a reliable source, that Windham county will have its first telephone repeater station, which is to be erected by the American Telephone and Telegraph company and will positively be completed by October first of the present year. The station is to be located in Danielson and will be linked up with the giant subterranean toll cable connecting Boston and New York. According to plans and specifications which were viewed today, the station will be located on Main street in Danielson, but the exact site is not shown on the blueprints. However it is understood in telephone circles that the building to house the special amplification apparatus will be erected at a spot on the Brooklyn road, near the Danielson borough limits.

A confirmation of the early reports was made this afternoon and a few details concerning the project were secured for publication. The erecting of the station is to involve the expenditure of a large sum of money. The building in itself is to be a modern fireproof structure. It is designed in order that it may be easily enlarged as the demand for its service increases. It will be 105 ft. in width and 106 feet long, and will be one story in height, with a basement. Its ultimate will be three stories, according to specifications. The structure will be of brick, steel and concrete construction.

Its exterior will be of rough texture red brick with limestone trimmings. A lime stone brick border will finish off the bottom of the building at the basement line and will have a cornice of limestone. The architecture employed in the drawings shows that the building will be one of unusual beauty. A stately entrance from the Main street front, leading from a walk encased with a wrought iron brass terminal fence, is pictured.

The interior is partitioned off into special rooms especially designed to house the highly sensitive apparatus to be used. The floor plan shows that the most up-to-date heating and electrical devices available will be installed.

Officials of the Putnam district of the Southern New England Telephone company, within whose jurisdiction the supervision of the Danielson exchange falls, were asked today concerning the exact location of the proposed repeater station. They were unable to state definitely, inasmuch as only sparse information concerning the station has been released by the executive authorities of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, with which the Southern New England company is affiliated.

The only other stations of the type soon to be erected at Danielson, located in Connecticut are in Hartford and New London. Estimates are now being solicited on the building from certain Putnam contractors, it was learned today.

The drive for the $25,000 additional funds for the Nurses Home of the Day Kimball hospital, now underway has been systematically arranged by its leaders and will be engineered according to elaborate plans during the forthcoming week. The $4,000 mark was in view tonight, as the first week of the campaign came to a close. Mrs. A. A. Vonsiatsky of Thompson, general chairman, announced that she was highly elated over the widespread response to the appeal for the proposed institution.

"Remember that if you fall asleep at the wheel you may never wake up," is the advice given by the motor vehicle department and it is right to the point and needed.

Probably there are not many drivers who need this advice, for the natural consequence of a machine getting out of control must be apparent to anyone who has done any driving, but there are those who needed it until the time came when they crashed into poles, fences or even store fronts because they had dozed at the wheel. If it were known, there have probably been many other instances where drivers have avoided serious trouble by the narrowest of margins just because they thought they could sleep and drive at the same time.

The machine pulled up to the side of the road with the driver curled up on the seat asleep gives evidence that fatigue has overtaken the man at the wheel, that he recognized his limitations and yielded to the call of Morpheus. He is a wise driver who will take a brief snooze until he can restore himself sufficiently to go on. Some people are much more susceptible to sleep attacks while driving than others. Being out in the air and watching attentively whatever there is to see is a sufficient lullaby for many who motor. It makes little difference for those who occupy anything but the driver's seat, but there it is important that the person should be awake to his responsibilities at all times. The drowsy driver is a danger in the highway. He not only imperils himself and those with him, but he is just as likely to plunge into the other lanes of traffic as he is to crash into a pole, a boulder or a building.

Long-distance driving taxes the wakefulness of a driver. He should be the first to recognize it. If it is possible for him to let another take the wheel there should be no delay. If there is no one else with him it is high time to stop and recuperate. It may mean the sacrifice of a bit of time but it means a contribution to safety that is important. It is far preferable to lose some time than to go to sleep at the wheel and cause the death of someone or never wake up.

RIVERS AND HARBORS

One of the big projects for which the late congress made appropriation, or rather a series of projects, concerns the development of rivers and harbors. The outlay for this work to be done at various points about the country involves $145,000,000 but it will not all be completed this year or next.

In connection with such legislation there is always a certain amount of log rolling. In order to get through certain needed improvements, a number which are less meritorious have to be favored. The rivers and harbors bill this year includes some such instances but, for the most part, there is recognition of the need of bettering the rivers and harbors that better facilities may be given to transportation. Some of the defects in the bill may be eliminated as time goes on for, while surveys are authorized, the projects have to get the endorsement of the government engineers before appropriations are made for their work upon them.

When it is realized, as has been pointed out by the president, that this legislation means "the final authorization of engineering work by which we construct and coordinate our great systems of waterways and harbors," and that it constitutes a group of projects greater in the aggregate than the Panama canal, it can be appreciated what is to be undertaken. It means the canalization of our river systems for the benefit of the mid-west in water traffic to the gulf and it means a deepening of the lake channels as a preliminary to the St. Lawrence development which has been under consideration for so long and is yet unauthorized.

That this action is only preliminary to the negotiation of an agreement with Canada whereby the St. Lawrence will be so improved that ocean-going vessels can enter and leave the Great Lakes without transfer of cargo seems probable. It is paving the way for better waterway transportation in several directions and in a way that should mean greater use of such a method of handling goods, both for domestic and foreign commerce. With more goods to be moved, it is inevitable that there should be facilities provided for moving them by water.

SHOOTING AT BALLOONS

It can be appreciated that those who are handy with a gun are more or less proud of it. They are fond of shooting and may have a preference for one type of target over another, but when they are unable to control their inclinations sufficiently to refrain from shooting at airplanes and balloons, or in otherwise endangering human life, it is a display of bad judgment, and the regret is that they cannot be detected in their acts.

Such persons are probably few and far between, but it has been brought to attention that during the recent national elimination balloon race pilots reported being fired upon while crossing Arkansas.

However much there are those who cannot resist the temptation to take pot shots at big birds, they should know better than to shoot at balloons, even though it is for no other purpose than to see if they hit such a target. They must know that there is a slight chance of testing their skill in this respect and learning whether they are successful without actually endangering life. It would be a feeble excuse for any such marksman, in case he succeeded in bringing down a balloon, to claim that he didn't mean any harm. It would be worse than those instances where the claim is made that it wasn't known that firearms were loaded. It is perfectly evident that those who shoot at balloons do it deliberately. If their rifle will not carry sufficiently far to hit the balloon it is a bit of good fortune on the part of the balloonists, but there is no valid excuse for subjecting them to that treatment. There is no ground for rating them as hawks and wild geese, to be shot at upon appearance.

Those who fire at balloons have not hit the mark. It may be that they are using that method of calling attention to the fact that they have discovered the balloons, quite the same as some hunters will extend what they call a salute by firing a shotgun into the air when they know the shot will not hit or inflict any injury. No one ever feels comfortable when being used as a target and the protests made by the balloonists are thoroughly justified. There is always danger in the exercise of too much freedom with firearms.

CANNOT SKIP READJUSTMENTS

Those who are prepared to carry on a business of a certain character do not welcome the thoughts of turning into new fields. They know, however, that it is the thing to do when conditions require it. The manufacturer who is making cotton cloth understands it and yields, though he may do it reluctantly, and it should be no different with the growers of cotton or the raisers of wheat.

It is the advice of the farm board, created for the purpose of providing relief to agriculture, that the wheat farmers should reduce their acreage of wheat and diversify their crops. They are urged to curtail so that the production will come more nearly to the country's demand and utilize their land not planted to wheat for the growing of other crops. The idea is to effect a limitation of the crop, to stop trying to compete with other wheat-growing nations for the foreign market and to get a better price for the wheat.

The same advice has been given to the growers of cotton. This was true in years before the farm board, when so much cotton was raised that it was a drug on the market. It is advice which has been advanced recently and there is evidenced a disposition among the cotton planters to devote part of their acreage to other crops.

It isn't to be supposed that the cotton planters are diversifying their crops because they like to. They are not raising other things because they are equipped to do that as well as raise cotton. They are being guided by the conditions, and the same should be true of the wheat raisers. It cannot be expected that by going on producing a surplus far in excess of requirements that the real trouble is going to be reached. The solution lies in a readjustment. The manufacturer has to face it. The cotton growers are facing it. The wheat growers cannot hope to escape facing it.

GENERAL NEVILLE

By the death of Major General Neville there has been removed one of the nation's prominent defenders. Not only has General Neville been in military service for the greater part of his life but he has participated in actual fighting afloat and ashore. When it is said of him that he was under fire in every grade of the marine corps from second lieutenant to major general and that his activities brought about his participation in engagements in Cuba, China, Philippines, Mexico and France, it shows that his career was not characterized by inactivity.

General Neville proved by his record that he was cut out for military service, but he had not grown up in that anticipation. By that same chance which determines many careers he learned of the opportunity to seek appointment to Annapolis. He got it, and that marked the beginning of long years of service which experienced no defeats. He possessed the qualifications of a fighting man, demonstrated the ability to lead and was steadily advanced until he was at death in command of the marine corps, in which branch of the service he had distinguished himself repeatedly and secured practically all the decorations that it is within the power of the country to give.

He was a leader who held the full confidence of his men, and no higher tribute can be paid him than has come from them. His leadership in France gained for him the name of "Follow Me" Neville and it is recorded that, following the armistice, he took time in France to write to the parents of every man who had been killed under his command. That such a leader should get results was inevitable and when death steps in it means a distinct loss in a most important part of the service.

With the order given for construction to start on Boulder dam, it is not unlikely that it will be finished before congress disposes of Muscle Shoals.

With 404 deaths from accidents on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, how long will it be before the lists of those escaping death over week-ends are printed?

The man who went over Niagara Falls in a barrel and took a mud turtle with him has proved that it is not always safe for a human being to go where a turtle can.

PATTY'S CHOICE

Patty Flynn was a small creature with a flare for the romantic and the picturesque, who spent her days in an office, filing unromantic and unpicturesque cards. When Philip Grant, the bookkeeper, asked her to go to the movies, she was mildly pleased. Philip was an unpretentious person, not bad looking, courteous, considerate. If Patty could have picked her choice from the office force she would have selected that dashing sales manager, Baxter Norton, but Mr. Grant had asked her and Mr. Norton had not. The picture had to do with cowboys, a train holdup and a rancher's beautiful daughter.

Philip surprised Patty right in the middle of the picture by saying, "I always thought I'd like to be a cowboy."

So startled was she at this revelation that she could not think for an instant of a fitting reply to make. For three whole months she had worked across the way from Philip Grant, and it had never occurred to her that the mind behind his uneventful face anticipated anything more thrilling or unusual than the amount on hand in petty cash, the day's sales, or the monthly trial balance. Finally she said, "I wish you were a cowboy."

"If I were one," observed Philip, prosaically, "I'd never have met you." Patty searched his face in the semi-darkness and was a little disappointed because she found his eyes focused with such intensity upon the screen.

A little later, however, he leaned toward her and whispered awkwardly, "You've got it all over the rancher's daughter for looks."

"Oh, Mr. Grant, you don't mean that," she murmured in delicious confusion.

But just then a desperado appeared on the scene, brandishing a gun, and the hero rammed the heroine through a trap door and faced the villain single handed. Patty waited in vain for Philip to say more about her being prettier than the rancher's daughter.

When the show was over they walked down the street and Patty thought, "I'll bet if Mr. Norton invited a girl to a movie he'd take her in his snappy little roadster, and afterward they'd go somewhere to dance and have a lunch."

"What do you say we turn in here and get an ice cream soda?" suggested Philip. And then a little later, on the front door step of the house where Patty roomed, "Maybe we could do this all over some evening."

"Maybe," said Patty unenthusiastically.

"How about tomorrow night?" urged Philip.

"I'm afraid I am going to be busy tomorrow evening," fibbed Patty.

The next day Mr. Norton breezed into the office, tumbled a bunch of names on Patty's desk and said, "Here, sort these, will you?" It was not Patty's work, but she took the names and labored with them for half an hour or more. Finally Norton returned for them and laughed airily. "Thanks, girlie. I'll take you to a movie some night."

"Is that so?" blazed Patty indignantly, rising to the occasion. "Maybe you'd better ask me whether I'd go with you first, Mr. Norton."

"How about this evening?" he suggested.

Patty sent a flurried glance toward Philip. He returned her look with an eager smile. Suddenly it seemed to Patty far more picturesque and romantic to have the opportunity of turning Mr. Norton down than to have the pleasure of accepting his invitation.

"No thanks," she replied, "I'm going out with Mr. Grant tonight." A blush of chagrin scorched Norton's face. He stalked away in a lordly manner.

"Did you mean that about tonight?" inquired Philip, hurrying over.

"Sure," replied Patty. "If the invitation still holds good."

"You bet it does," beamed Philip. "Gee, it seems to me I've always been waiting to meet just such a girl as you."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 10—Poking at random among the old valor records of the confederacy to which he has referred before, the Bystander came upon one that rivals for daring the exploits of Sergeant York in the World war.

It tells of the "capture of 30 of the enemy in a body" at a distance of "not more than a quarter mile from the main body of Pope's command" by Corporal W. A. Jamison, Troop C, 5th Virginia cavalry.

The incident occurred at the second battle of Manassas and with the approval of the confederate President Jefferson Davis, the corporal was raised to the rank of second lieutenant. He was aided "by only one man," the battle field account of his exploit states, noting also that the 30 men captured were "fully armed."

Nor was this all in Jamison's career as a southern trooper. Several times he was in rear guard actions later, twice having horses shot under him and once escaped with half a dozen bullet rips in his clothes.

From The Stretcher

Still another citation which caught the Bystander's eye was that given Lieut. W. F. J. Ross of Macon, company C. 2nd Georgia infantry, by Brigadier General A. R. Wright.

Speaking of an incident at Gettysburg, when the brigade had charged Union earthworks only to be hurled back in confusion, General Wright said no officer was left of the second battalion. The general personally took charge of halting it and reforming under fire.

Ross, shot through the body, was carried by. He saw the situation and had himself laid on the ground in front of the battalion.

"He actually took command," General Wright said, reforming the companies, appointing non-commissioned officers. The Georgian lay there all the rest of the day until another advance was ordered after dark. Then he was carried from the field, all but dead.

Ross's promotion to captain bears the signatures of Generals Anderson and A. P. Hill and that of Robert E. Lee himself.

Another Grim Story

Then here's another grim story among these confederate promotions for "valor and skill." It is that of Lieut. G. E. Plaster, 6th Virginia cavalry. His section was attacked by Pennsylvania troops at Mitford's ford while riding picket and thrown into confusion. Plaster galloped toward an old breast work from behind which the Pennsylvanians were coming. He sought to check them until his men could reform.

As he rode up, the commander of the attacking northern troops leaped his horse over the earthen barrier. Plaster engaged him with saber and pistol and killed Colonel Davis of the 8th Pennsylvania. He held his place alone for a time before his men made good their escape, then rode after them.

In the notation made by Davis in approving Plaster's promotion to captain are the words:

"The act of valor was striking and signal."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Getting Acquainted

To strangers always be polite;
You'll find it wise as well as right.
—Jerry Muskrat.

One the bank of the Smiling Pool sat Peter Rabbit perfectly still. On one end of an old log, which was half in and half out of water, sat Jerry Muskrat. He, too, was perfectly still. Both were watching the approach of a beautiful white stranger. With slow, stately steps the stranger was drawing near. At times he stood perfectly still for so long that Peter Rabbit nearly lost patience. Twice his long neck shot forward and his long yellow bill seized something in the water. Once it was a half-grown frog; once it was a minnow. The white stranger was fishing.

At last the stranger was near enough. He had not seen Jerry, nor had he seen Peter. That was because they had kept so still. Had they moved over so little, the keen eyes of the stranger would have seen them instantly. At last Peter ventured to thump lightly. Instantly the stranger was gazing at him with suspicious eyes. "Excuse me," said Peter. "I think you must be a stranger here at the Smiling Pool."

The stranger looked at Peter very hard. "Why do you think so?" he demanded.

"I think you must be a stranger here at the Smiling Pool"

"Because I visit the Smiling Pool often and never have I seen you before," replied Peter.

"And I live right here in the Smiling Pool," squeaked Jerry Muskrat, "and never have I seen you before."

The stranger turned a pair of bright eyes on Jerry. "Hello!" said he. "I begin to feel more at home. There are many of your family down where I come from."

"You mean," said Jerry, "that there are many Muskrats?"

"That's it," replied the stranger. "That's what I mean. I always feel at home with a few Muskrats around."

"If you please," said Peter in his most polite manner, "I would like to know who you are. I am Peter Rabbit."

There was a twinkle in the eyes of the stranger. "I am pleased to meet you, Peter Rabbit," said he. "I am Egret the White Heron."

"I knew you were a Heron!" cried Jerry Muskrat. "You must be cousin to Longlegs the Great Blue Heron."

The stranger nodded. "I am," said he, "and I am cousin to all the rest of the Herons. There are several of them, you know."

"And you are a stranger here, are you not?" cried Peter.

"Absolutely, Peter, absolutely! I never was here before in my life. It is a very pleasant place here and the fishing seems good." Egret spoke in a very croaking sort of voice.

"Have you been over on the Big River?" inquired Jerry Muskrat.

Egret nodded. "I followed the Big River to get here," said he.

"Why haven't you ever done it before?" inquired Peter.

"I have never been so far north before," replied Egret. "I've heard tell of how my family used to come as far north as this in the days of long ago, but this is the first time I have ventured up this way."

"Did you come up alone?" inquired Jerry Muskrat.

"No," replied Egret, "a few of my friends came along with me."

"I hope now that you are here that you will stay," said Peter, and he said it very nicely, as if he really meant it; which he did.

"Thank you," replied Egret. "It all depends on the fishing."

YOUR HEALTH

Prepare the Child's Mind

(By Robert L. Wiltberger, D. D. S., Washington)

Any doctor or dentist can tell in the first five minutes a child spends in his office what sort of home training that child has had; what sort of mental atmosphere surrounds it; what sort of authority the parents wield. These things show themselves not in words but in actions.

A boy of nine is brought to my office. Signs of tears as he comes in. Mother in a coaxing voice says: "Now show the doctor what a fine little man you can be." "Will he hurt? He's going to hurt me——" and he starts to cry. I get him into the chair and put a napkin around him, but it involves a struggle, coaxing, patience. I pick up an instrument. Instantly his hands fly over his mouth: "Don't put that thing in my mouth. You're going to hurt. O Mamma——." A sitting like that is a day's work.

Another lad comes in with his sister—eleven and nine. They are polite; curious in a natural childish way about my equipment; the mother greets me with: "We have been counting the days until we could come, Doctor." The boy would have said "ouch" once if my fingers had not been in his mouth, but under the circumstances merely grunted when the drill hurt. The little girl smiled at me and said: "Thank you very much, Doctor Wiltberger," as she got down out of the chair after a fairly trying half hour. But they were fresh when they left, and so was I.

What makes the difference? The parents. Some parents do not tell their children what is coming until they walk into the office. Some "prepare" them by warning them of the pain. Some talk in the children's presence of their own hatred of dental and medical offices, of their horror of operations, and act as though doctors and dentists were ogres who delight in inflicting pain. The parents of the boy and girl of whom I have told are totally different. They started taking the children to dentists when they were three or four, and treated it as a novel experience like a trip to the circus, to be anticipated and enjoyed. Naturally, on looking over these baby teeth no pain was involved. But the "buzz wheel," the paper cups, the tiny mirror were all interesting and the compressed air mouth wash gave them a great thrill. After that first trip "dentist" was a synonym for "friend" and they came to me, when the family moved to Washington, expecting to enjoy my company rather than to fear and detest me.

You parents with intelligence and a bit of forethought can prepare your children for the necessary and essential health measures, from brushing the teeth morning and night to having tonsils out—the easy, daily habit to the possibly painful surgical procedure—without the slightest element of deception. If you do, your children will form good health habits and will act like human beings at the school health examination, in the dental chair, at vaccination time, when the toxin-antitoxin needle pricks, and in other such times. If you fail, the youngsters will act like little frightened animals, and it will be your fault.

Little Talks on Thrift

Make Savings Plans On Permanent Basis—Not Just For Brief Period

There are few persons who have not at some time shown themselves able to save money. The trouble has been that a considerable portion of these persons have been unwilling to continue these thrifty practices.

Saving must be continuous. The person who pinches and saves every possible penny for a short time and then gives up and quits, will never reach the goal of independence or success. It is well always to have in mind the matter of moderation. Saving a reasonable amount regularly gives increasing stabilization and strength. There is such a thing as being carried away by enthusiasm. The miser is an example of this.

Goethe observed that, "enthusiasm is of the greatest value, when we are not carried away by it." This can be applied to saving money as well as to everything else in life.

Being thrifty does not mean that we must be an extremist in the matter of saving money or in giving up beneficial pleasures. Cultivate moderation. Do not save to the point of being a miser nor to the exclusion of the various uplifting elements that have a rightful place in our lives.

On the other hand, we must use moderation in the matter of pleasure and out of our earnings make sure that we are providing for the lean days that are sure to come.

Plan your savings along sensible lines.

Adjust them to your income and to the conditions of life as they surround you.

Do not try to save too much because it is far better to put away money systematically and persistently than to save intensively for a while and then give it up.

Even in thrift there is harm in over-enthusiasm.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

CHILD TRAINING

The Technique Of Discipline

Anna Mae Brady

In the lobby of a large hotel sat two mothers resting after a strenuous afternoon of shopping. They were not acquainted, but each had a little son, and these children being unhampered by conventionality soon formed an acquaintanceship.

It was not long before the boys had pushed aside the rug and were sliding over the shiny surface of the floor. They fell often, laughing noisily, and were perfectly unconscious of the looks of annoyance thrown in their direction by grown ups whose childhood was so far in the distance that they had perhaps forgotten it ever existed.

"Dick Kendal," called his mother in a shrill voice that told of frayed nerves and tired muscles, "Dick Kendal, I want you to come right here and sit down. You are always doing something I do not want you to do. Next time I'll leave you at home."

A few of the onlookers smiled their approval at the humiliation of Dick who sat down by his mother and began to kick viciously at the chair near him. His mother glared angrily as if his conduct were unforgivable. No doubt Dick would hear more about it later.

The other boy continued to run and slide across the floor bumping the wall and rebounding like a ball. He was entirely unaware of the fact that he was the center of attention.

"Paul," called his mother in a quiet voice, "wouldn't you like to have me read you a story out of the book we bought today?"

"Oh yes, mother," Paul cried coming quickly to her side. "The one about the animal circus. Won't you please read that one?"

"I'll be glad to," his mother told him. "But you'd better straighten up a bit first." Then, when the rug was replaced, putting her hand on his knee she said, smiling, "I couldn't have done that any better myself!"

Each mother was successful in having her son discontinue the noisy play that was irritating other people. But what a difference in their technique!

If one is continually being told that he is a bad boy he will come to think he is, and it follows of course that he is apt to be "bad." If, on the other hand, he is made to feel that he is a respected member of society, who wishes to do his part and who does it as well as he can, it follows just as surely that he will become like the picture he sees of himself. Moreover, the characteristics he develops in childhood, will form a big part in determining lasting attitudes both toward himself and toward life as well.

Mental pictures play a big part in human conduct—too big to be ignored by parents who are striving to lay the foundation for the future happiness and success of their children.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Sixth Nation May Copy District of Columbia.

Already a pattern for five other federal districts, the District of Columbia may soon be copied again, according to news from South America, that Colombia plans a "distrito federal" for its capital, Bogota.

Only the two English-speaking nations, the United States and Australia, do not permit the inhabitants of their federal districts to vote. Elsewhere citizens living in federal districts have the right of suffrage.

"Largest of the federal districts is that of Australia, and it is also the newest," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society. "The federal territory of Canberra where the Australian government set up housekeeping in 1927 contains 940 square miles. Ample boundaries were drawn for Canberra after an Australian commission visited the District of Columbia and learned that Washington had outgrown its territorial limits. The Australians made their federal territory more than 13 times as large as the District of Columbia.

"But Canberra, largest of federal districts, has also the smallest population—only 8,000 citizens. Conversely the federal district of Argentina, next to the smallest of such capital territories, with an area of only two square miles more than the 70 square mile spread of the District of Columbia, has the densest population. Buenos Aires, the Argentine capital lists 2,030,000 inhabitants.

"Three federal districts have larger populations than the District of Columbia; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Brazil's federal district with the capital Rio de Janeiro; and the federal district of Mexico with the capital Mexico City. Brazil's 'D. C.' has 1,360,000 inhabitants; Mexico's 906,000.

"Venezuela's federal district includes both the capital, Caracas, and the port, La Guaira, with a total population of 195,000.

"Only Brazil allows itself the luxury of two federal districts, the present one enfolding the exquisite Rio de Janerio and its environs, and the future federal district, a wild, forest-covered tract of 5,000 square miles reserved in the interior state of Goyaz. Progressive improvement and adornment of Rio de Janeiro, which is admittedly one of the world's most beautiful cities, helps postpone the day when Brazil may build a shining new capital in the wilderness.

"Washington and Canberra are the only ready-made capitals in federal districts unless Delhi district, India, be included in the class. On the outskirts of the ancient capital of India rises a new government city of mixed Grecian, Italian and Indian style, designed by English architects. Delhi district, an area of 593 square miles, was delimited a few years ago to accommodate the future capital of India. Recommendations in a recent report upon the federation of Indian states hint that Delhi district may soon become a true federal district.

"Chief executives of all six existing federal districts are appointed by the president or premier of the respective countries.

"Mexico City's mayor is the head of the Departmento del Distrito Federal, an appointee of the president, but not a member of his cabinet. He runs the capital with the co-operation of an advisory board made up of representatives elected to it by such organizations as the chamber of commerce, labor unions, real estate owners, manufacturers' associations, professional men's associations and women's clubs.

"Venezuela's federal district has a governor, Brazil's has a prefect, and Argentina's an intendente, each appointed by the president. Home rule has been most nearly achieved by Buenos Aires, whose intendente or mayor can be removed from office by the elected municipal council in case of neglect of duty, malfeasance in office or improper conduct. Washington's citizens cannot vote; in Buenos Aires citizens are fined for not going to the polls.

"Three senators and 10 deputies of Rio de Janeiro, elected in the federal district, represent the Brazilian capital's citizens. Rio de Janerio also has an elected municipal council serving under the prefect or mayor appointed by the president.

"Canberra, so similar to Washington, D. C., in local government, in street arrangement, and in general design, has certain unusual features that distinguish it from all other federal districts. No individual may own property in Canberra. The Canberran pays his government 5 per cent per year on the assessed value of his lot. The government may revalue the land at the end of 20 years. Plans for houses must be passed upon by a local board of architects because Australia is resolved that its new capital shall be beautiful. Canberra has no street cars and no overhead wires. Every city block has a playground, and 100,000 acres have been reserved for parks."

Stories That Recall Others

Not Quite.

While Bobby's father had a wonderful disposition, a pleasing personality and a keen sense of humor, he was not much on looks as all his friends knew.

One day a college friend was visiting in the home. He observed Bobby for some time and later remarked to the child's mother that Bobby was just like his daddy.

"No, I'm not," said Bobby, "we don't have the same 'spreshun on our faces."

Cannibalism.

Leslie lives in a big city and his opportunities to visit the country are limited, consequently he is "country green" as his country cousins witheringly put it.

On his first visit to the farm, when milking time came, he, of course, was an interested observer. Milk, as he knew it, came from the milkman, in bottles. One of the cows had a calf. When she was turned in with it and it began in a most vigorous manner the business of getting its breakfast, Leslie was terribly excited and worried.

"Oh, Mother! Mother!" he cried, "that calf is going to eat that cow up."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The F. B. Shuster Company, New Haven.

In 1866 John Adt conceived the idea of straightening wire by means of a revolving head, and cutting it to length at the same time. The automatic machine for straightening and cutting wire was developed. It was crude, compared with modern machines, but it was a wonderful advance in wire mill equipment in those days, and immediately proved itself so valuable that Mr. Adt, who was then located in Wolcottville, Conn., found it necessary to secure larger quarters, with better shipping facilities, and moved to New Haven in 1868.

As the demand increased, he again found it necessary to have more manufacturing space, and built a plant at State and Mill River streets, the site of the present enlarged plant.

When Mr. Adt died, in 1895, the business was purchased by Franklin B Shuster and later incorporated as The F. B. Shuster company. Mr. Shuster immediately improved the automatic wire straightening and cutting machinery, adding to it a varied line of wire working machinery, such as machines for straightening and cutting sheet steel and brass and for hexagons, squares, flats and many other shapes. Until these machines were introduced it was necessary to straighten shapes one way and then pass the bars through the machine the other way until they were straight. Shuster machines straighten bars both ways at one pass and are also equipped with automatic cut-off for straightening and cutting material from the coil.

Shuster straightening and cutting machinery has been constantly improved and veloped along the lines of modern engineering practice, and is regarded as standard equipment by all the wire mills, brass and cold drawn steel plants, as well as in the large and small plants manufacturing wire goods of various kinds. They cater to the plant using one small machine for wire 1-16 inch diameter as well as to the large plant using batteries of machines for stock many times this in diameter.

After the death of Mr. Shuster in 1911, his son, Elmore F. Shuster, became the active head of the company, and is now its president. The other officers are G. D. Philippe, vice president, and L. F. Shuster, secretary and assistant treasurer.

The If of the Social Life

If you can bite your lips while others babble
Or talk good sense when others spill the beans,
Or give with rare and joyous pleasure freely
While others keep their boodle in their jeans;
If you can smite as David smote Goliath
The giant wrongs that threaten everywhere,
And never lose your head with pride or passion,
Communing humbly with the Lord in prayer:
If you can stand for peace when peace is proper,
While multitudes about you yell for war,
If you can keep on sawing wood and whistle at it,
And feel that is the very thing a whistle's for;
If you can smile and keep on feeling pleasant
When evil-minded people slander you
And rub it in, insulting and provoking,
And you remain transparent, pure and true!
If you can brave the leadership of causes
Unpopular, but causes ever right,
While trimmers win both plenty and applauses
And would leave reformers buried out of sight!
If you can stand the censure of the lawless,
But keep your conscience clear and free from guilt,
You'll have something better far than empty honors—
A Manhood, Son, that God himself has built.

GILMANS LOSE APPEAL IN FAIRGROUNDS CASE

An appeal taken to the supreme court by George H. and Francis Gilman of this city from the judgment given by Judge Earnest C. Simpson of the superior court in the matter of the purchase of the county fairgrounds property at an auction sale is decided against the Gilmans by a decision handed down Thursday by the supreme court. Court Clerk John H. Walker was notified here Thursday that the supreme court had found "no error" in the case of Gilbert S. Raymond, receiver, of the New London County Agricultural society, against George H. and Francis Gilman, of this city.

Mr. Raymond, acting as receiver for the agricultural society, against which Martin E. Jensen a life member had brought suit to wind up its affairs conducted an auction sale of the fairgrounds property on May 1, 1929, at which the property was knocked down to the Gilmans on their bid of $15,750, subject to a $25,000 mortgage. A cash payment of $2,000 was made at the time, but later when Receiver Raymond demanded payment of the balance the Gilmans refused to make payment and set up the claim that the receiver could not give a valid title.

Judge Simpson heard trial of the case under the claims made by the Gilmans and gave decision for specific performance, ordering the Gilmans to pay to the receiver $13,750, with $275 interest, upon the tender to them of the deed approved by the court.

From this the Gilmans appealed to the supreme court which now rules against them.

In the long legal battles that have marked the case, Attorney Edmund W. Perkins has represented the receiver, while Attorney Gilman has been his own representative on the court proceedings.

GIVES CUSTODY OF CHILDREN TO MOTHER

Judge Allyn L. Brown, in the superior court here Thursday morning heard evidence in the petition of Evangelo Panagiotu, a pool room proprietor at 27 Thames street, asking that his wife, Olga Manoel Panagiotu be deprived of the custody of their two children and that they be put in his charge.

The court decision was against the petitioner, as Judge Brown ruled that the children remain in custody of the mother, but warned her that they must be in bed by 9 o'clock at night, except on nights when the boy goes to scout meetings. The father had claimed that she was not taking proper care of them but was allowing them to run the street at night. The mother claimed that she works in New London but told the court that the children are now with her sister at 25 High street, this city. Judge Brown stated that he thought a pool room was no place for the children and he could not see why the father should have them if he had no place to care for them.

Attorney Charles V. James was counsel for the father and the mother had for her counsel Attorneys Max Boyer and Aaron Elfenbein, both of New London, the last named newly admitted to the bar and making his first appearance in the superior court.

GRANGERS IN LEBANON MEETING SUPPORT DIRT ROAD MOVEMENT

Louis Tolles of Southington, state master and a prime mover in the dirt road movement, which the state grange has undertaken to further, was the guest of Lebanon grange, No. 21, Patrons of Husbandry, at a meeting held Thursday evening at grange hall Lebanon, with approximately 75 persons in attendance, who heard a number of instructive talks on the project. The object of the meeting was to stir up interest among the grange members in the town and surrounding places, so that an organization would be perfected later to assist the state grange.

Rev. Andrew G. Littlefield, master of the grange and pastor of the Lebanon Baptist church, acted as presiding officer and first called upon his daughter for a vocal selection, which was followed by a number by all, and the dirt road question was then taken up with remarks by George A. Ross of Lisbon, a representative in the legislature. After paying a glowing tribute to the memory of the late Elisha Waterman, late of Lebanon, and former county commissioner, Representative Ross spoke of the bill that was presented before the house and passed asking for $2,000,000, of which a million was to be spent in two years, for the repair of dirt roads, but was later downed in the senate.

The speaker pointed out that the representatives in the southwestern section of the state were not in favor of the proposition as strongly as those in the rest of the state, as attested by the vote made, which was given as follows: New Haven, 19 in favor and 21 against; Hartford, 30 to 13; New London, 24 to 6; Fairfield, 21 to 10; Windham, 23 to 1; Litchfield, 35 to 5; Middletown, 19 to 3, and Tolland, 21 to 0.

Representative Ross said the only way that the rural sections can secure an appropriation for the betterment of dirt roads was for them to elect men to represent them in the senate, who will vote in favor of the project. He also spoke of the terrible conditions that existed in his town, especially near his residence.

Merton H. Bartlett of Griswold, chairman of the New London county executive committee of the grange, stated that in his belief the only solution to the problem was to gravel the roads. He urged the gathering to make every effort to form a rural roads association in their towns, so that when the caucuses are held "you can elect the proper men, men whom you know will vote as you instruct them and will support the dirt roads proposition." He said that the combined efforts of the men and women are needed.

Julius Carley of Southington, in a talk that related to the grange organization, spoke of its benefits and went on to say that not only the state grange is backing this movement, but other strong organizations as well.

Referring to a statement made by State Highway Commissioner Macdonald that the department had under consideration building of a trunk line through Norwich at a cost of $1,000,000 for use of heavy traffic, Senator A. W. Lillibridge of Norwich stated that he did not believe in that proposition as he felt that it was not needed, as the present roads are in good condition. He set forth that it would be better to expend the money in the construction of roads in smaller towns.

Senator Lillibridge forecast that at the next session of the legislature a dirt roads department would be created to handle the situation. He said that the town of Norwich was not in the same predicament as other towns because the roads were in good condition as a result of the fine work of Selectman Charles Bushnell. "I don't see anything to hinder the little towns from getting what belongs to them," concluded the senator.

"I believe that a better system of highways in the rural sections will reduce taxation instead of increasing it," said State Master Tolles in his address. "It may not come about at the moment, but it will eventually," he said. He spoke of the large amount of money the farmer turns into the state treasurer, through taxation, but pointed out that only a small percentage is used in benefitting him. "We want some of this money to benefit us," he said.

"The building of bridges, splendid trunk lines and elimination of grades is a fine thing to do, but we are not ready for this sort of work," he continued. "Five-sixths of the traveled highways of the state are in need of repair and a large portion cannot be traveled at certain times of the year for the reason that is impassable because of mud. I believe they have gone far enough in the beautification of highways and that it is time they applied this money in dirt roads."

State Master Tolles claimed that there are 12,000 miles of highway in the state outside of the city streets, 2,000 of which are in state roads and about 10,000 in dirt roads, which, he said, means that five-sixths of the state is in mud. "We who know rural conditions are telling nothing but the truth when we say that Connecticut is in the mud," he said. He pointed out that $100,000,000 is to be spent in the state highway programme. He said that this money should be spread out and not confined to the trunk lines and other state highways.

"We are not asking for cement highways, but all we want are roads that are passable 12 months of the year," declared the state master. He went on to explain how they hope to have the organization function and urged all to support the movement, if they expected it to be successful.

Selectmen Harry L. Hull and Frank Mell, both of Lisbon, State Forester Lathrop of Lebanon, Frank S. Armstrong of Norwich, and others also spoke in favor of the movement, all agreeing that a certain amount of money should be spent on the dirt roads.

Before the meeting adjourned Mr. Mell gave two well-rendered recitations and State Master Tolles pleased with a duo of whistling numbers.

PAPER MILL EMPLOYE TO RECEIVE $500 PAYMENT

In a compromise agreement in a workmen's compensation case, which has been approved by Commissioner A. J. Bailey, payment of $500 is to be made to Louis Montessi of New London, an employe of the Robert Gair Co paper mill, who made a claim for an alleged injury in 1927.

Montessi's claim was that he had been struck by a plank which fell from a staging on Feb. 11, 1927, in consequence of which he sustained injury to his back, spine, sides and legs, and is still suffering from these injuries. The respondents disputed the claim on the ground that Montessi is not suffering from any disabling injury at the present time and that whatever disability followed the accident was due to his own systemic condition.

The compromise agreement was reached in settlement of the claim.

FIND NO REASON TO SUSPECT INCENDIARISM

The state police of Groton barracks, who have concluded a six-day investigation into the fire, which destroyed the Simeon Rosano residence, off Fox Hill, on the night of July 3, with a loss of $6,000, are of the opinion that the blaze resulted from a firecracker and that it was not of an incendiary nature, as at first thought.

It was reported by residents in the vicinity that a stranger had been seen prowling around the building for a week previously and the theory was advanced that he fired the house but the police found evidence that dispelled this supposition. They learned that persons in an automobile, which passed by the structure previous to the blaze, were setting off firecrackers. It is their belief that one of these tossed a lighted cracker near the house that resulted in the blaze.

There was no one in the building at the time, as the family was away for the holidays.

GRANGE GIVES FUND FOR PEOPLE'S STATE FOREST

It was stated Thursday by R. M. Ross, forester for the Connecticut Forest and Park association, that the Connecticut State grange, Pomonas and sub-granges have recently given $500 to the association's People's Forest fund. The fund is used for the purchase of land to increase the acreage of the People's State forest in the town of Barkhamsted in Litchfield county, which is one of Connecticut's 17 state forests.

This state forest of over 1,550 acres has been entirely given to the state by public-spirited parties interested in furthering the forestry and park work. Since 1924, when the forest was started, over 300 individuals and groups have contributed to the fund for purchase of land, gifts ranging from 25 cents to several thousands of dollars.

ADVERSE TO LATHROP ON GAS STATION APPEAL

An appeal taken by Harry L. Lathrop of 271 Washington street from the decision of the Norwich zoning board in refusing him permission to erect a gasoline filling station at the Washington street location has been denied by the supreme court of errors, according to a notice received here Thursday by Court Clerk John H. Walker. The supreme court memorandum stated that "no error" had been found in the case, the opinion being written by Justice G. W. Hinman. The case was argued before the supreme court in this city last April.

Mr. Lathrop, who had a garage and repair station with a gasoline pump on his property on Washington street before the enactment of zoning ordinances, applied for but was refused permission by the first selectman to erect a gasoline filling station which would be for the Beacon Oil company, which proposed to expend about $16,000 to put in the station. His property is in the Class B residential district and the selectman refused permission, as did also the joint zoning board of the city and town, to which Lathrop appealed.

From this ruling Lathrop appealed to the superior court, where Judge Earnest C. Simpson sustained the board and dismissed the appeal. The supreme court's decision now sustains Judge Simpson, and keeps Lathrop from establishing the gasoline station.

The town, city and zoning board were represented by Town Counsel H. H. Pettis, Corporation Counsel E. W. Perkins, with Attorney G. H. Gilman, and Attorney Arthur M. Brown represented residents of the Washington street neighborhood who objected to the gasoline station. The law firm of Hull, McGuire and Hull represented Mr. Lathrop.

COMPLETING TENNIS COURT ON HOLLYHOCK GROUNDS

The vacancy in the playground staff caused by the resignation of James Casey was filled Wednesday at a meeting of the recreation commission in the town hall by the appointment of Johnny Greene, star pitcher-outfielder of the Academy baseball team for three years. Greene has been assigned to the Academy campus and will have charge of all playground meets and baseball games.

A report given by William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission, showed that the attendance at the playgrounds since their official opening, June 30, was far in excess of the same period in previous years. He reported that new equipment recently purchased had been distributed and old material repaired.

The tennis court being erected at Hollyhock Island, a playground that is gaining in popularity daily, is almost completed and will be ready for play within a short time. This is the first court that the commission has built.

The meeting voted to install showers at the Lake street and Greeneville playgrounds and purchased additional portable equipment.

FARM STAY ARRANGED IN MORRILL DIVORCE SUIT

In the divorce suit of Mrs. Helen S. Morrill of Newport, R. I., against Everett D. Morrill of this city, Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court held a hearing here Thursday morning regarding the custody of their two minor children. They have been in the custody of Mrs. Morrill, but it was her testimony that her husband, on June 26, made a pretense to take Phyllis to the beach and since then had kept possession of the little girl. Mrs. Morrill has the boy, whose name is William.

In compliance with an order of court, Morrill was in court with the girl. He was represented by Attorney Arthur M. Brown and Mrs. Morrill had Attorney Edwin W. Higgins for her counsel.

An amicable arrangement was reached by which Mrs. Morrill is to spend the summer with the two children at a farm in Vermont conducted by Mr. Morrill's uncle and aunt. Judge Brown signed an order to that effect.

Acting on a warrant, Federal Prohibition Officer Harry W. Avery of South Windham, with Motor Officer Clifford Crary of the Norwich force, raided the place at 35 North Main street, alleged to be conducted by Dominick Falcone, and arrested there Thursday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock William Mallison, 64, who was found serving as bartender. Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins of Columbia who had been called in to try the case fined him $100 and costs, remitting $75 of the fine, owing to the needy condition of the Warner family.

LITTLE GAS NOW USED FOR LIGHT IN CONNECTICUT

Slightly more than eighty-five per cent of all the manufactured gas consumed in this state is being utilized for heating purposes either in the home or in the factory. The remainder is consumed in home and street lighting. Thirty years ago, the ratio of heating to lighting used in the gas industry would undoubtedly have been almost exactly reversed. Following the spread of the electric light, the gas industry in this state began to develop gas as a heating fuel and this unending campaign is now bringing approximately a ten per cent increase in the use of gas each year.

The greatest change in the employment of gas has occurred in the home where the greater bulk of the gas in this state is still being used. In the domestic field, the gas range accounts for the largest utilization of gas heat, but this is closely rivaled by the constantly increasing use of water heaters, both manually and automatically operated, and by similar gains in space heating equipment. The gas burning furnace, which has become practical only within recent years, has become an important factor in furthering the use of gas for home heating.

At the present time, industrial and commercial utilization of gas is advancing at a slightly more rapid pace than in the domestic category. A quarter of a century ago, gas heat in industry was practically unheard of, but its use is now rapidly coming to the fore, its advantages of ease and accuracy of control and its cleanliness resulting in the displacement of other types of fuel which have been long in use.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN CONNORS BOY CASE

There are no developments in the reported kidnapping of Neil, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Connors of No. 60 North street, who is believed to have gone to New York with a stranger to attend a school for baseball instruction according to the state police of Groton barracks, who have the case under investigation, and the family.

It is the theory of the police that the boy is the victim of an embezzlement scheme and not of a kidnapping plot, as the family are wont to believe. They are of the opinion that the $35 given the boy by his brother to pay for the period of instruction has been taken in charge by a slick schemer.

Wednesday morning the family received a telegram signed by Neil with the request for an additional $35 as he had lost the original sum. His family telegraphed back that if he wanted the money he should call them by telephone, but nothing was heard from him up to a late hour Thursday evening.

ARMOUR AND SMITH LEAD FIELD WITH 70; MILLER IS FAR DOWN THE LIST

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

INTERLACHEN CLUB, Minneapolis, Minn., July 10—(AP)—Down through the blazing glare of one of the hottest days in the history of the American open golf championship, two lean, sharp-shooting veterans of the old Scotch school, black-thatched Tommy Armour and fair-haired MacDonald Smith, matched stroke for stroke to take the lead for the first 18-hole round of competition and steal the sweltering show for the day from the king himself, Bobby Jones.

Armour and Smith, with a brace of sensational finishes, finished within a few minutes of each other late in the day with identical scores of 37-33-70, two under par for the Interlachen course. Their golf over the tough last nine, where each clipped three strokes from old man par to break the old course record for the third time in the day, enabled each to overtake Jones. Bobby's score of 34-37—71 set the pace early in the day and was touched only by Wilfred (Wiffy) Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y., professional, also with 34-37, until the heat wave began to produce inspiring results on the games of the two Scotchmen.

It was officially 96 in the shade wherever any shade could be found today and 100 degrees up so far as the competitors and a perspiring, bedraggled but rugged gallery of more than 7,500 spectators was concerned. They were appropriately rewarded by one of the hottest opening day fights in the history of the tournament, with a climax put on by Armour and Smith that made high blood pressures higher.

Facing only an outside chance of getting in front of the last nine, the 33-year-old Tommy Armour of the Edinburgh Armours, put on one of his typically fighting finishes. With an eagle three on the 484-yard eleventh, due to a 20-foot putt after an amazing No. 2 iron to the green, and then a birdie 3 that he needed on the home hole, to take the lead, due this time to another blazing iron shot dead to the pin for a four-foot putt that easily went down.

Even with Armour for ten holes, 38-year-old Mac Smith of the Carnoustie Smiths, put on a spectacular series of recoveries and an exhibit of putting that gave him four birdies in five successive holes.

Mac had old man par staggering. He missed a putt by inches for another birdie on the 262-yard 17th and then faced the home hole, 402 yards, needing only par for a 69 and the undisputed lead. He caught a trap with his second, came out short and just failed to get his fourth down, taking a 5 that forced him into a tie but gave a remarkable total of 70 to the stylist who tied for the American open crown as far back as 1910, the year his brother, the late Aleck Smith, emerged the winner.

With this melodramatic stuff to top off a sweltering day, the boys mopped their brows, pulled in their belts and prepared for a wide-open continuation of the battle tomorrow, in the second 18 holes, and again in the concluding 36-hole grind Saturday for the greatest golf prize the United States has to offer.

Jones, facing as stern a challenge as he ever has had for the crown was forced out of the spotlight that he shared most of the day with Cox, but he nevertheless served notice that he is strictly "on" his game and prepared to fight it out for the rest of the bunkered battle with the best of them. The great Georgian's 71 represented as fine an exhibition off the tees and through the fairways as he has ever given.

He exhibited no trace of staleness, following his triumphant British invasion, and if his famous putter Calamity Jane had been doing its stuff a little more effectively he might very well have shot a 67 or 68 and been sitting out in front position this evening. Only a few inches on at least a half dozen holes stood between Jones and a string of birdies that would have given him the best U. S. open championship score of his career.

Cox, matching strokes with Jones all the way as he shot steadily and at times brilliantly, sustained his reputation for par-cracking and established himself in the very front rank of the contending brigade.

With a double tie existing for first and third places, in the Armour-Smith and Jones-Cox duets, fifth place found another group with par figures, 72 to their credit. This list included the big boy from Missouri, Horton Smith, along with the dangerous Walter Hagen, light horse Harry Cooper, John Rogers of Denver, who also had an incoming 33 to his credit, and George M. Smith of Chicago, bobbing up unheralded as a threat.

Thus nine of the remaining field of 140 contestants produced par scores or better in spite of the sapping heat.

On their heels, within striking distance, were six rivals with scores of 73 each, including the long hitting Craig Wood, ten more with totals of 74 each and five with figures of 75. Half the field had 78 or better, indicating it would take double that figure, 156, to get into the select company of 60 low men and ties allowed in the 36-hole finals Saturday.

Of the better known stars, Johnny Farrell, 1928 champion, Jim Barnes and Ed Dudley were at 74, along with the youthful Nebraska amateur, Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, who shared some of the most spectacular work of the day with Farrell.

Goodman, out in an amazing 33, three under par, and actually four under perfect figures at the 11th, cracked wide open to lose six strokes to par in the last seven holes and ruin a great chance to add to the fame he gained by beating Bobby Jones in the national amateur last September at Pebble Beach.

Farrell, with his disastrous 1929 showing in mind, started out with a glaring eight on the first hole, four over par as the result of two wretched approach attempts and a wind-up of three putts.

Despite another bad hole, a six on the fourth, Farrell shot five birdies, including four in a row up to the turn, where he was even with par at 36.

Don Moe, the young Portland, Ore., amateur, started brilliantly but wound up with 35-40—75 and found himself in such choice company as that of Leo Diegel, the P. G. A. champion, who had 37-38—75.

Gene Sarazen, Bill Mehlhorn, Jack Burke and Denny Shute, all of whom figured to be well in the running at the outset, wound up with scores of 76 each and in positions where they must do something sensational to get back in the running.

The day's toll of victims, for various reasons including the weather, numbered such prominent names as Cyrus Tolley, the big British amateur; George Von Elm of Los Angeles, and Chick Evans of Chicago, two former amateur champions with Chick also a former open king; and Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, the present national amateur champion and home town pride. Tolley, Von Elm and Johnston each scored 80, while Evans carded 81, marking the end of any faint hopes these simon-pure stars entertained at the start.

Even more disastrous was the fate of Jock Hutchison, the good natured Scotchman who lost all spirit of light-heartedness as he fought his way through a series of troubles. Not even the inspiration of playing with Bobby Jones could help Jock, who took 42 each way for 84, a tragic total for the warrior who was first to bring the British open championship cup to America in 1921.

Divots From the National Open

By the Associated Press

INTERLACHEN CLUB, Minneapolis, July 10—(AP)—Old man par in his toughest and roughest days never was so relentless as Old Sol was today. Golfers and galleryites alike wilted. Every shady spot on the course was densely populated and the soft drink stands, liberally scattered over the course, did a rushing business. It was 90 in the shade and about 102 on the sunny fairways.

When Bobby Jones finished his necktie was so wet, he jerked out a knife, ripped it open and dashed into the shower.

A friend warned Horton Smith to bring an overcoat to the tournament.

"He said it would be cold and I believed him," he moaned.

Fred B. Morrison, of Monterey Park, Calif., came the closest to a hole in one. His tee shot on the 180-yard third rolled right to the pin, hesitated on the lip and rolled half an inch away.

The galleryites agreed that the longest driver in the tournament was Jimmy Thompson, of Colorado Springs, Colo., who accompanied Walter Hagen. Thompson whacked tee shots consistently around 300 to 325 yards, but many of them got him into trouble. His best drive came on the 397 yard eighth. He slapped the ball 325 yards there.

The galleries were handled so efficiently that only one spectator was struck by a ball. Walter Hagen shot it and the unnatural stop saved him from an almost inextricable rough.

Pick-pockets had a field day. Twenty-six galleryites reported losses. Two South Dakotans, whose names were not revealed, lost between $75 and $100 each.

The best outward round was turned in by the same smiling "kid" who upset the great Jones in the 1929 national amateur—Johnny Goodman, from Omaha. Johnny whizzed out in 33, three under par, but broke under the strain to come home with a 41.

Horton Smith had three remarkable shots from deep rough. On one of them he dug the ball out with a mashie niblick and sailed it 80 yards to within three inches of the cup.

"Wiffy" Cox hung up the putting gem of the day. On the 530-yard twelfth, he sang a downhill putt 50 feet from the pin. It gave him a birdie four.

Here's a fish story that will rank along with others from various sections of the state:

George is a very ardent devotee of the sport of angling and many is the trout that has fallen to his prowess during the trout season just closed. And George is a truthful fisherman and one who backs his statements with positive proofs which is more than many can do.

It seems that George was fishing Broadmeadow brook during the latter part of May and he had been having fair luck. As he stood in the middle of the brook he let his line run down the stream under some low-hanging bushes into a quiet and deep pool. A second or two and there was a swirl of water and the line became taut. George started to reel in but in some manner the line became entangled in the branches of a tree and as he pulled in the fish was drawn out of water.

As the fish dangled from the branch a foot or so above the surface of the pool there was another swirl of water and one of the largest trout that it has ever been George's privilege to see jumped for the trout. It bit into the fleshy part of the dangling trout just back of the gills and both trout hung there in the air. George ran and stumbled down the brook toward the two fish but just as he was nearing them the big trout dropped back into the water.

On examining the trout on the line George found that a chunk of flesh had been bitten out of the trout the size of one hand.

Tie that one.

DUWELLS TRIM P. N. A. C. TEAM

In a weird seven inning contest at the Duwell field last evening in the Junior Twilight league with the Polish National A. C. team, the Duwells emerged the winners, when they came out on the long end of a 16 to 4 score. This is the second straight win for the Duwells, which are now topping the list. The Polish N. A. C. team have yet to win their initial game, having already participated in three contests.

Pisso, on the mound for the Duwells, held the losers to eight scattered hits and had 15 retire to the bench via the strike-out route. Merck, pitching for the Polish team was not so fortunate, being hit hard for 12 hits, most of which came at opportune times. His strike-out record for the evening amounted to only four.

In the fourth inning, the Polish team took advantage of several hits, interspersed with costly errors, to pile up their four runs—their only runs scored the entire game. Threatening in the final stanza to make the score closer they were stopped abruptly by the Duwells when the later executed a neat double play. There were three men on the bases at the time, when Petrowski sent a hard grounder to Pisso. The latter threw home catching the man at the plate and the catcher, Kos made a fast play to first, getting his man. It was a nice finish.

On five hits, along with two errors, the Duwells in the first inning tallied seven runs and held a comfortable lead, which was never really threatened. Ten men batted in this inning.

Chick for the Duwells proved to be a magnet for the sphere. Out of five trips to the plate he received three free tickets to first for being hit. He secured one hit and struck out once.

Pawichowski for the Polish team received a perfect batting average, securing three hits in as many trips to the plate. He was also responsible for his team securing most of their runs.

The Duwells last evening distinguished themselves both at bat and in the field and at the present time loom up strongly as this year's pennant winners.

CUMMINGS FEATURES AS FITCHVILLE BEATS SHYMAS

Hal Cummings' big bat was too much for the Shyma club of Taftville Thursday night as the Fitchville A. A. third sacker connected for a single, double and triple in four trips to the plate so that the visitors walked off with a 4 to 2 victory in a nine-inning twilight game. Errors also helped in the scoring. Fitchville, after being held in check for six innings, broke through with two each in the seventh and eighth. Fitchville only made four hits Berlwan getting the other one.

The Shymas will play the Montville Independents at the Providence street grounds Saturday afternoon. Score:

THERMOS HANDS SMOKE SHOP BAD BEATING TO SEND THEM TO THE CELLAR

How times have changed! Champs one year, tailenders the next. The Smoke Shop nine, champs of 1929, sank into the depths of the City league last night by virtue of its stunning defeat at the hands of the Thermos Bottlers. For the second time this season, Mike Nickerson, husky Bottler, had the Smokers helpless, allowing but four hits, while his own club pounded two pitchers for a 10 to 1 verdict.

A young fellow, who answered to the name of Zip Gero, made his debut here as a Smoke Shop pitcher and what a reception he got. The Hastedtmen pasted his offerings to the four corners of the lot and Zip had hardly time enough to get acquainted. He was rapped for a total of six hits in less than an inning and a half, gave one walk and made one glaring error. Magnan went in as relief and after a bumpy two innings settled down fairly well.

The Thermos went to work in the very first inning, counting three times on two hits, three errors and a walk. They added four more in the second and made it ten with another trio of counters in the fourth. The lone Smoke Shop tally came in the sixth and was the result of a walk, hit and an error.

All of the Bottlers, with the exception of Mike Nickerson, had on their batting shoes, each collecting at least one bingle. Mullins got three and Normandin, N. Lemieux, Eccleston and Krauss collected two apiece. One of Mondy's swipes was a terrific home run clout over the centerfield scoreboard. In addition, Normandin and Krauss both turned in sweet fielding games. Artie Couillard was about the only live wire in the Smoker lineup, collecting two hits and playing errorless ball on the defense.

Tonight's Game

Big game tonight. Tonight's affair will be really the most important of any of the City league games to date, inasmuch as the destinies of the two runner-up clubs hinge on the outcome. The Polish Citizens and Royals, both of whom are within striking distance of the league-leading Thermos Bottlers, come together for the first time this season. Each has won two games and lost one, trailing the Bottlers only because of the fact that they have not played as many games.

The winner of tonight's contest will step up to within a few points of the leader, while the loser will tumble into a tie with the Italians for third place.

The Cits and Royals have been scheduled to play twice this season but on both occasions have been rained out. Whether or not they will be given a "break" tonight remains to be seen. One thing is certain, however, if they do play the fans can rest assured they will see a real ball game, inasmuch as there are no two clubs in the circuit as bitter rivals as the Royals and Citizens. The funny part of it is both are sponsored by Polish organizations.

The probable starting batteries will be: Greene and Lamory for the Cits and Nevins and Burns for the Royals. Don't miss it.

AMATEURS PERFORM AT DANIELSON TUESDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Conn., July 10.—An event well worthy of the followers of boxing is the card of bouts that is to be staged next Tuesday night in the new open and comfortable open-air arena on North street. The amateurs did such a good job when they opened the place about ten days ago, that the fans have called for some more good sport just like it, so Promoter Louis Peloquin has obligingly and carefully selected another set of battlers to make war on each other next Tuesday. If it should happen to rain that night, the bouts will be put on the following night.

There are eight bouts on the card. In these, winners of the bouts in the first show will be matched against stronger opposition, an arrangement that practically guarantees action, oodles of it.

For instance, Kid Forcier of Webster, who knocked out John Scott of Worcester, won't find the going so easy when he steps into the ring with Patsy Long of Worcester. He'll have a better boy in front of him then.

Likewise, Russell Martin of Webster, who kayoed Young Gravel of Moosup, will have plenty to engage his attention when he meets Kid Belanger of Worcester. These boys have built reputations for themselves in Massachusetts, and they should stage a corking bout.

Kid Brouillard of Danielson, brother of Dynamite Lou, who won a decision over Danny Roy of Worcester, will meet Battling Smelzy of Jewett City, a hard, tough puncher. Willie Thibeault of Danielson, who lost a close decision to Kid Tourney of Webster, when they met here last month, will battle again. Thibeault believes he can beat him this time.

Another bout has been arranged between Ray Landry of Danielson and Mike Prescott of Worcester, a classy performer. For three other bouts, boys will be picked from among the following group: Anselm Bernier, Ernest Joly, Danielson; Arthur Daveau, Battling Goulet, Putnam; Kid Laframboise, Canterbury; Steve Wozniak, Danny Showski, Walter Zembat, Jewett City.

ACCOS NOSE OUT KACEYS IN LAST INNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, July 10—The Accos nosed out the Kaceys in the last half of the final inning to win the Jewett City Twilight league game tonight, 5 to 4. The winning run was scored when Chase, at bat with one gone, laid down a fine bunt, allowing the runner on third to reach the plate. Gaudette allowed Gaska to tie the score in the first of the seventh by a wild pitch. The game, easily the snappiest of the season, was witnessed by 400 fans. The score:

BROWNS WIN OVER WHITE SOX IN TENTH

ST. LOUIS, July 10—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns opened their home stand with a 7 to 6 victory in the tenth inning over the Chicago White Sox, largely due to the power in Ted Gullic's bat. Gullic entered the game in the eighth as a pinch hitter and his single tied the score. He came up again in the tenth with the score still tied and slapped out a home run for the winning score.

Old Dutch Henry was charged with the defeat. He was sent in after Red Faber and McKain failed to hold the Browns. The win gave the Browns possession of sixth place. The score:

BLUEGE'S HITTING BIG FACTOR IN SENATORS' WIN

BOSTON, July 10—(AP)—Ossie Bluege's big bat gave the Washington Senators a 7 to 2 win over the Red Sox here, today, in the final game of the series between the clubs. The victory made it four out of five for the Johnson men in their contests with the Sox.

Bluege's homer and two doubles drove in four men and he scored twice himself. In the fourth he overcame a Sox one run lead by slamming one of Danny MacFayden's pitches over the left field wall with West on. In the ninth he scored two with a double while the bases were full. The score:

The Phillies did not get started until the sixth when Chuck Klein hit his 25th home run of the year with two on base. The homer gave him the National league lead, one ahead of Hack Wilson and Wally Berger. Pete Donohue went the route for New York although he gave 16 hits. The score:

CALUMET BUSH TAKES HOME BREW STAKE AT CLEVELAND

NORTH RANDALL TRACK, Cleveland, O., July 10—(AP)—The fifth annual $2,500 Home Brew stakes for two year old trotters, and the feature of today's Grand Circuit, was won in straight heats by Calumet Bush, driven by Marvin Childs. The son of Peter Pluto trotted in 2:08 2-5 and 2:09, setting a new record for the stake in the first heat.

He trotted two faultless miles and repeated his excellent race in the main division of the Rainy Day sweepstakes which he won over this track last week. Though owned jointly by the estate of the late Lon McDonald, and W. H. Davis, of Washington, Pa., Calumet Bush was leased for this year's Home Brew by W. M. Hughes, Cleveland sportsman. Post Haste, racing in the name of Al C. Pennock, general manager of the track, was second in both heats.

In the day's opener, the 2:15 pace, Sep Palin furnished the winner, taking three straight heats with Alexander Direct belonging to E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill.

In the third event, a three year old trot, Calumet Armistice, driven by George Daniel, won the event after dropping the first heat to McIlvain, the favorite. Calumet Armistice paid $115.75 for a $10 result ticket.

The day's final event, a two year old pace, was won by Cherry the Great, in a race that produced the longest shot of the meeting, when Calumet Budlong won the first heat and refunded $189.80, $71.000 and $16.50 across the board. The winner from the stable of W. N. Reynolds, the Winston Salem, N. C., sportsman, was driven by Harry Stokes and paid $98 for a $10 ticket.

COMMISSION EXPLAINS FOUL RULE TO THE REFEREES

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The minions of the boxing law marshalled in New York state today for the supreme assault on the foul fighters and foul pretenders who have been grimacing and groveling main bouts into fiascos for a year or more.

More than a score of the state athletic commission's licensed referees gathered in the offices of the fistic fathers to hear the fouls that come through low blows read completely out of boxing. In the future, they were told there shall be no more of the painful endings that have marred $1,000,000 worth of fights since the epidemic started with Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott in Madison Square Garden last December.

It will be possible, Commissioner James A. Farley told the arbiters, for a man to be disqualified for butting, kneeing, biting or any of the other time honored means of evading further combat but punches below the belt now are merely something to record on a slip of paper and turn in to the commission. The gladiator who slugs low must automatically lose that round on the score sheets. If an offender slices out of bounds in three rounds in one fight the commission promised to suspend him anyway.

Betterwin Sets Mark

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 10—(AP)—Betterwin, the bay colt owned by Mrs. Charles F. Adams, of Framingham, established a world's record for four year old pacers at the Bay State circuit meeting here this afternoon. In the first heat of the 2:09 pace, Betterwin negotiated the mile in 2:04, the fastest ever done by a four year old on a half mile plate. Hollyrood Dick, in the 2:10 trot, won from a splendid field while Dermat scored in the ace for three year olds.

visit comprises the drive programme for the coming week of the campaign. The most important feature of the second week will be the opening of the Pomfret gardens to the public on July 18. The trip to the gardens is in charge of Miss Katherine D. Noyes, chairman of the Pomfret drive committee and will include visits to the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Brunt Cushman, "The Eastlands" "Courtlands," the home of Mrs. Hoppin; "Mathewson House," of Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell; "Ufton," home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Perkins; "Tyrone" of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noyes; "Gladwyn" of Mr. and Mrs. George Miles; "Mashamoquet House" of Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Goodridge; the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Freedley Miss Katherine Noyes, Miss Andrews, Misses Stevens, and Miss Boult, Miss Andrews, Mr and Mrs. Earl S. Colman, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Innes.

Cards were received here today from Lionel H. Charron, P. E. R., delegate of the local lodge of Elks, who is attending the grand lodge convention now being held in Atlantic City, N. J.

Captain John J. McGarry, Lieut. Charles A. Woodward and Lieut. Francis H. Murphy, officers of the headquarters company of the 43rd, Div., C. N. G., Putnam's military unit, will join officers of the divisional headquarters company of Danielson, officers of the 43rd, tank company of Brandford and officers of the 43rd, division medical detachment of Danielson Saturday evening, when the complement leaves for Providence to attend the semi-annual meeting of the officers of the 43rd, division, special troops. The gathering will take place at the Narragansett hotel. The 43rd division signal company, which is factor of the special troops, will be host to the visiting staff.

The Deming summer home, an imposing structure situated on the Senexet road and bordering on the east shore of Roseland lake is being converted into a home for retired and health broken ministers of the Unitarian denomination. The house containing some twenty-five rooms, and the surrounding property has been acquired by three women who are having the building renovated. The house has been unoccupied for nearly 15 years.

This department has been requested by a public spirited citizen of the city to call the attention of the board invested with the care and upkeep of the World War Memorial bridge on Pomfret street, to the fact that artificial wreaths crowning the bronze tablets are slowly losing their power of resistence to the element onslaught and are giving off a blue coloring which is streaking both sides of the bridge in a most unsightly manner. The wreaths were placed on the tablets on Memorial day. In the opinion of one person, they should be removed, or replaced with a memorial tribute of a weather resisting calibre. The present condition of the tablets on the bridge has evoked considerable adverse comment.

"With Byrd at the South Pole," today at the Bradley.—adv.

Changing his previously entered plea of "not guilty" to that of nolo contendre in the city court this morning before Judge M. H. Geissler, Louis Brenek of Jewett City, was found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Brenek was represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron, who pleaded for leniency of the court for his client. When the pressing circumstances confronting Brenek were portrayed by his counsel, Judge Geissler ordered a remittal of one-half the amount of the fine.

JEWETT CITY

TRAFFIC SIGNAL TRY-OUT IS TO COVER 30 DAYS

Six big cases, containing the new electric traffic signals and beacons, arrived Thursday. The new equipment is to be erected and put in trial operation at once.

The street intersections selected where the state highway traffic will receive signal instructions, are Brown avenue and North Main, Palmer avenue and No. Main, Green avenue and No. Main, David Hale Fanning park at the junction of No. and East Main, Tracy avenue, Ashland and Main, and at Postoffice square at the head of Soule street. The new system, controlled electrically, will go on trial for thirty days. The borough assumes no liability in the test, and may vote for or against the purchase following the tryout. The state highway department has pointed out the necessity of a system of signals, as with the completion of the new road increased trunk line traffic is due to pass this way.

Join the Golf-Mad Hosts

Wednesday afternoon Stanley Derda engaged Witoldo Bakanowsky in a game of golf, the Jewett City national open. The game was played on the Fisk golf green.

The only resemblance to Bobby Jones, was Backy's knickers and Derda's pose. On "Herb" Thompson's first instruction, each made a hole in three. Mr. Thompson, the famous instructor, hopes to see these chaps equal his tantalizing form.

It's a good thing that these "P. H. S." graduates were optimistic for they waited patiently for the small shower to cease so that they might continue this great Jewett City national open.

The game ended in a tie. The playoff will take place next week. The players had a following of kids for caddies and when "tipping" time came, both found, alas! that their purses were not to be located.

This Fish Stole Pole and All

Stories are told every summer about the great bass that live in the little Slater's pond. A small chap fishing from the bridge near the Burleson mill Thursday, got hooked to some sort of fish that made off with pole, hook, line and sinker. The boy declared it made a great splashing and that the "water rose up from underneath," when the fish swam up the pond. What gives added interest to the boy's tale is, that a small yellow dog he had with him, spotted the commotion in the water and ran barking along the shore in the wake of the elusive fish. The boy had laid his pole down on the floor of the bridge for a minute while he looked to his bait. Up in the bend back of the school house the fish evidently freed himself, for later the pole floated down the stream.

Gives Wrong Impression

It is protested that the heading of an item regarding the requests for town aid gives an altogether wrong impression of the labor situation in the borough. While several hundred are out of work it is denied that any person actually lacks food.

Twenty-eight years ago Edward Smith, of Raquette Lake, N. Y., put his name, address and date on a small brass plate and fastened it on a turtle and turned it loose. Recently this turtle was found at Tsatsawassa lake, nearly 200 miles from Racquette Lake.

J. H. Spaulding was driving on the Golden State highway near Madera, Cal., when the hat of Clyde Bell, sleeping on the rear seat, was blown away. Spaulding attempted to catch the hat and in doing so jerked the steering wheel. The car swerved off the road and turned turtle. The men were slightly hurt.

Dr. Dunlap, of Kingfield, Me., made a call and left his rubbers on the porch. His dog, Peter, a cocker spaniel, was with him and took it upon himself to watch those rubbers, which he did until the latter part of the afternoon, going without his dinner to do so, until the doctor's family was notified and came and took Peter and the rubbers home. He had not noted the doctor's departure from another door.

When a fire in the business section of Milford, Del., was at its hight, Mr. Windsor, owner of the Windsor hotel, ran to a cage containing his pet bear. The cage was near the fire and bruin was becoming decidedly warm. Windsor released him, and the bear, giving one look at the blaze, darted through the crowd, which gave him plenty of leeway, and plunged into the Mispillon river where he remained until the fire was out.

Modern Laxative Based on New Discovery

Science now knows that the success of any laxative depends on proper internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of its thorough distribution, you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Therefore it is truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

Miss Rosalie Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Thorsen of Front street and John Edmund Jenssen, son of Captain and Mrs. Jens C. Jenssen were married at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert J. Chrystie, Ph.D., the pastor. The bride was attended by Mrs. Lois Shandeor as matron of honor. Olaf Jenssen, brother of the groom was best man. Joyce Rathbun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Rathbun was flower girl. The ushers were E. Edward Jenssen, brother of the groom and Bernard Davis. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Eleanor Davis and preceding the ceremony Miss Marion MacDonald sang, Until and At Dawning. The bride was dressed in ivory satin trimmed with lace maline. She wore a veil of tulle, arranged and carried in a cap effect bouquet of white gladioli and delphinium combined with baby's breath. The matron of honor was dressed in a gown of okra lace and wore a pale pink chiffon hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. The flower girl wore pale pink satin and carried a basket of pink roses. The church was artistically decorated with ferns, palms and garden flowers. After the ceremony an informal reception was held in the church parlor. The wedding supper and reception was held at Chasanta lodge. Many beautiful gifts were received by the bride. Guests were present from New York, New London, Belmere, N. J. and Sandwich, Mass. The bride's traveling costume was an orchid ensemble, with hat to correspond. ELLIS' TRAINED DOG KNOWS HOW TO EAT CHERRIES

John Ellis owns a dog named Betty, a collie that can do tricks. Only one bad habit Betty has and that is to chase automobiles. The Noank drivers know her and she will always be taken care of by them; but strange drivers coming into town don't know Betty and once she got hit. That made her do the loop-rollover several times; but she never got hurt. Betty is loved by all the school childen and long before the bell rings she is on the grounds to greet the children with a good morning bark and chase the ball for them. When the bell would call the children in to their books, the dog would leave, but would be back again at noon.

Talk about an animal liking cherries! She sure likes them and spits the stones out just like a boy would do. Up in a cherry tree was Eddie Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, picking cherries, way up to the top. Who came up the ladder but Betty, about 30 feet from the ground.

A cat fell overboard and had a hard time making shore. But the trained dog jumped in and saved the cat from going to Davey Jones' locker. As thanks for the dog's reward the cat gave several mews. Betty barked twice, meaning "you are welcome."

Betty goes to market and brings meat home for her dinner or for the family. But one thing that she cannot get is to pay her own bill. However, it won't take Trainer Eddie Ellis long to show her how for she picks things up so quickly. Master Eddie is a saxophone player and take's his lessons in the parlor. While he doesn't play with any Noisy Five orchestra, he is practicing and Betty is right at his side when the music floats through the air. She will sing with the saxophone player and many times people have stopped to hear her.

To see Betty take the paper off of a peanut butter candy kiss is more fun than swimming to Mystic island with a bale of hay on your back. Holding the candy with her left paw she takes the paper off with her teeth. Betty likes anything to eat. She thinks the world of children and would not let anything happen to them. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis moved some time ago to East Greenwich, R. I., where Jack works in a boat shop. They did not know what to do with Betty. They thought she would not like Rhode Island, so Mr. Ellis let a friend in Groton take care of Betty for a while, as long as they lived in East Greenwich. So over to Groton Betty went but she was not happy; real tears were in her eyes to leave Noank after being liked by everybody and being there for for a long while. She did not like Groton, so one day Betty made up her mind to come back to Noank. She found the main road and watched the automobiles go toward the village—but no ride. So he took the shoe leather express along the main road, walking slowly.

By lunch young Eddie Ellis had come from Rhode Island and was sleeping in the house when a noise came on the door. Putting on his bathrobe to see who it was, he found Betty, come back to stay after being away for so long, finding her way and the house, and jumping all over Eddie about 500 times. She had to have something to eat for he didn't know how long it took her to do the six miles and it was then around 2:30 a. m. After getting her stomach filled, young Ellis and Betty went up to bed to get their beauty sleep. That is the first time known in the village by the sea of a dog coming back home alone after being away so long. The trained dog Betty is happy to be home in Noank again. NEIL MORRISON

Norwich Produce Market

Furnished by the Bureau of Markets Connecticut Dept. of Agriculture.

In accord with its policy of better service to the people of this state the State Bureau of Markets through its local reporter and by the courtesy and co-operation of The Bulletin is publishing the local market prices and conditions to be issued thrice weekly, thus giving the people of this vicinity the latest market news. It is hoped that this will be an aid in the marketing program.

There is little new in the vegetable situation. Supplies of nearly all vegetables are liberal and prices down to rock bottom levels with a limited demand. Beets, cabbage, green and wax beans are in a very weak condition. Lettuce moderately offered and with but little fancy stock appearing sells rather slowly. Large size telephone peas are in light supply and in good demand. Native hotbed cucumbers are now on the market and native tomatoes are the newest arrival. Though both are in limited offerings, from now on the housewife can add these native products to her daily menu. Sweet corn will probably be on the market by the first of next week.

Currants are liberal and red and black raspberries and blueberries are in adequate supplies and moderately priced.

The native egg market is firmer. Demand is increasing from the summer trade at the hotels and camps, and supplies are decreasing. Poultry is liberal and selling slow. The range of wholesale prices follows:

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

FUNDAMENTAL FACTS OF BACK TO THE LAND

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

There are many signs that the old "back-to-the-land" slogan is going to be brought out again and jazzed up to meet present day conditions.

Wise editors of metropolitan dailies, whose knowledge of the soil is mainly derived from the divots their golf irons tear out from the greens, have been for some time practising on the ancient tune.

Henry Ford, whose knowledge of the dirt is chiefly drawn from that which adheres to windshields or gets into carburetors, has been trying out his old klaxon.

Now Governor Roosevelt of New York, who is understood to be a rather kind-hearted gentleman and, in the intervals when he isn't playing politics with Tammany or coddling his presidential ambition, at least averagely well-intentioned has come out with a petition to the farmers of his state to p-l-e-a-s-e give some employment of some sort to some of the city idle.

As our friends of France might say, it is to laugh. Governor Roosevelt's state is thickly dotted with waste lands which once were farms but have been abandoned to encroaching shrubbery and forest simply because the farmers couldn't hire men to help work them;—couldn't find men willing to work them for such wages as their labor would earn.

The men who had labor or service to sell wouldn't condescend to consider farm-work. They trooped off to the cities where wages were higher and work easier and hours shorter. They considered it an improvement in their condition to move from the country cottage where their income was $2 a day and they could save half of it to the city tenement where their wages brought them in $5 a day,—and it cost them every cent of it merely to exist.

I have known farmers to institute simply despairing hunts from Dan to Beersheba seeking men who were willing to plow and plant and hoe and harvest the fallow acres which asked only their labor to respond with old time crops. Always in vain. I remember one old farmer who, after a full week's driving in all directions and a chasing down of all possible hopes, sadly returned home and said to his old wife: "Well, Hannah, it's no use; we'll have to sell all the cows you and I can't milk, and give up trying to raise anything more than what you and I need to eat." Which is just what he did. The spreading meadows he had spent his life in bringing into generous tilth were left to grow up to brambles and alders; the dairy herd he had bred up with painstaking care was split up and its choicest members sold off. The dreams of his youth, the hopes of his manhood, the reliance of his age were all swept away, because he couldn't find in the length and breadth of two countries even a single capable man to help him farm the land and care for the cows. They were all gone to the cities or the factories or the shops.

Now the cities find themselves unable to care for their surplus population; the factories have to stop some of their looms because they can't sell the product; the shops have to "lay off" hundreds and thousands because of the "recession of business."

All over the land complaints of unemployment are sounding. In some places the complaint is deepening into a growl. It is admittedly a "problem"; another one added to the tariff problem and the power problem and the farm problem and the 'steen other problems which rise up on all sides of us and demand instant solution, or they won't allow us to proceed on our ways.

Now there are certain fundamental facts and principles underlying this whole mater which metropolitan editors and self-miseducated economists and popularity-seeking politicians either forget or ignore. That's no reason why you and I, who don't want office and who don't pretend to know more than everybody else, and who don't care a nickel whether what we say is popular or not, shouldn't consider them,—these fundamental facts, I mean.

One of those fundamental facts is that farming is a natural life, or as near one as is practically possible. By that I mean that it is life in the very lap of nature; that it is one dependent almost entirely upon nature; that it requires from its adherents not only a cheerful submission to nature but an actual fondness for natural things and natural ways.

But the life which most men and women crave these days, is an artificial one. They don't want natural things or to follow natural trails or to associate with what they call the crudities of life in the raw. Mr Farmer comes along, his arm linked with that of Dame Nature and very attentive to that lady's whims, and Polite Society lifts its eyebrows and pulls in its scanty skirts and says, "Oh, the blowsy thing!" And motors promptly back to its loved avenues where it can properly admire lipsticked, rouge-cheeked Miss Artificiality mincing in all her made-up glory.

Even the blase remonstrants against that sort of thing, who talk and write much about going "back to nature," don't usually know what actual going back to nature means, and are shocked, disgusted, practically paralysed when they meet the old girl face to face, and find out the sort of critter she really is.

That's one reason why farming is so unpopular, and why it will be as long as men and women hunt after and madly chase and recklessly sacrifice at the altars of artificiality.

The Book of Nature is vastly different reading from Emily Post's Book of Etiquette. But the latter is in much greater demand just at present.

One of the very thorniest branches of the farm problem will disappear when men and women cease to be mere apers, and become once more makers and pioneers.

If you think that this fundamental fact in life is a little abstruse, perhaps transcendental, let me mention another, which is more closely allied to the practical, and yet is absolutely as fundamental.

Farming is not, never has been, and probably never will be, primarily a money-making business.

It is, rather, a home-making, family-nurturing ministry.

And the human world of today is even more devoutly addicted to the worship of "the almighty dollar" than it was when Irving coined the phrase.

In the minds of the vast majority of both men and women "success" today means the acquisition of wealth.

The boy whose theory of life is that it is an arena to make money in is logically justified in turning his back on the farm. He is much more likely to make money selling and trading or even running a shoe-shine shop on a busy city street than plowing the ancestral acres with his own oxen,—or horses,—or tractors.

The man whose daily question is "Will it pay?" can't understand the one who, rather, asks "Is it right or necessary?" It isn't merely a question of honesty: It is one of character and individual predisposition.

There are plenty of discussions upon how to make farming pay.

The fundamental fact might just as well be accepted at the start-off that there is no way in which farming can be made to pay big profits in money.

Inasmuch as big profits in money are the very things the modern world is mainly after, there's small use in complaining that it turns the cold shoulder on farming.

Moreover, there's very little use in doctoring for symptoms so long as the universally spreading roots of the disease remain. Farming will resume its position as the most worthy occupation in life, only when men and women look upon life with wiser eyes than at present.

—Now just one more fundamental fact, which office-seeking politicians and popularity-hunting economists seem afraid to whisper.

The very things which fit one for city life and enable him to fit into it, positively unfit him for country life. The very characteristics which tend towards success in the city point towards failure on the farm.

The city worker depends little if at all upon the seasons or the weather. If it rains his office or store has a roof over it. If winter comes his shop has a heating system and he can work as satisfactorily and as effectively in January as in July. Consequently, he can regulate his hours and depend upon his wages.

The farmer can work only when natural conditions permit. Not only that, but he must work when conditions permit, regardless of hours or wages. He can't quit at the end of an eight-hour stunt, if there's a big load of hay bunched in the meadow and the thunderheads are looming in the western sky. Nor can he collect "over-time" pay for working nine or ten or twelve hours. He must work so long as there is work to be done and there's daylight enough left to do it by.

He hasn't time to consider hours or rates of pay. Instead, he's concerned solely for results.

What is called "daylight saving" is said to be extremely popular in the cities, as means towards procuring added leisure in the afternoon for golf or picnics or motor-trips.

The farmer is and always must be a real daylight saver seizing every sunlit hour, whether at morning or evening, to till his soil and nurture his crops and reap his harvests. He looks for recreation and relaxation, not when he has worked so many hours, but when the work is done and done to the best of his ability. Then and then only can he think about knocking off and calling it a day.

The man whose ears are attuned to the sounds of city jazz and who actually enjoys them is not only out of tune with the simpler melodies of the country but is fundamentally incapable of appreciating them.

To send him into the country is to exile him from all that makes life worth living,—for him.

He hankers for the flesh-pots of Egypt and starves on the manna of the wilderness.

RALLY LIFTED STOCKS 2 TO 12 POINTS IN YESTERDAY'S MARKET

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The largest rally of the month lifted stocks 2 to 12 points today in more active trading. Incidentally, it was the third day in succession that the list closed higher, a phenomenon not seen since late in May.

An intensive bear drive just after the irregularly higher opening brought out declines of 1 to 5 points, but the attack was short lived and the advance was soon back in its stride.

During the late trading several large blocks of a few popular trading issues changed hands on a rising trend, suggesting that the covering movement had been accelerated by the resistance of the last few days. In this connection, Wall street heard reports that one or two prominent operators were taking the long side of the market. Rumors of a large banking pool, running as high as $100,000,000, were generally discredited.

Bonds continued their encouraging advance. Prime railroad liens were strong, a trend that was paralleled by the carrier shares.

Wheat was firm in the early hours, but sold off later on forecasts of rain in the northwest and bearish estimates of winter wheat. The close was about a cent and a half lower. Corn was ir[illegible] 26 points higher.

The government crop report, issued after the close, failed to disclose much of a variation from the forecasts.

The decline of 91,163 tons in U. S. Steel's backlog was about as expected. This cut, reflecting the reduction in specifications during June, brought the unfilled tonnage total to 3,968,064. In the past 18 months, the volume has gone under the 4,000,000-ton mark only twice, in August and September of last year.

The $16,000,000 drop in brokers' loans—it was the fifth successive weekly reduction—brought the total down to $3,263,000,000, or $25,000,000 less than the 1929 low.

Total borrowings of New York Stock exchange members against stock collateral on July 1 was equal to 5.88 per cent of the market value of listed shares, a decline of 0.50 per cent during June when the quoted value of all listed stocks diminished more than $11,000,000,000.

Treasury Balance

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—United Aircraft and Transport corporation, today announced it had acquired more than a majority of the outstanding common stock of Varney Air Lines, Inc., operator of air mail routes in the west, for exchange of common shares of United on the basis of one share of United for two of Varney. The shares obtained were owned by Walter T. Varney and Louis H. Mueller, chairman of the board and president respectively, of Varney company. No changes are contemplated in the management of Varney.

George Emlen Roosevelt has been elected a director of Chemical Bank and Trust company, and of Chemical National company, succeeding his father, the late W. Emlen Roosevelt who had served as a director of Chemical for 32 years. The present election brought the fourth successive generation of the Roosevelt family to the bank's board.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—After some unsettlement in the first hour of trading, curb stocks turned upward today and on the whole made the best progress of the week.

Trading in general was dull, with total sales of 475,500 shares only moderately above yesterday, but short covering in the active issues was fairly active.

Trans-America, Giannini holding company, was soft in the early trading, selling off 2 1-2 points to 25, a new low. The principal market for this issue is in San Francisco, and pressure against it coincided with the unsettling influence of the announcement of suspension by the stock exchange of Sutro and Company, old San Francisco house. The stock later rallied to 26 1-2.

Utilities and oils led the rise. Electric Bond, American and Foreign Power warrants, Electric Power and Light warrants, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, and American Gas and Electric rose 2 to 4 points. United Light A, and American Super Power rose a point or so. Vacuum Oil gained 3 and Gulf 4 points. Cities Service closed up a fraction. The natural gas stocks were firm to strong, Duquesne rising more than 3.

The industrials were dull and sluggish, some of the comparatively inactive issues sagging to new lows. Norwich Pharmacal dropped 13 1-2 points to 70 in a few odd lot sales. Armstrong Cork and Safety Har Heating also reached new bottom levels. Deere, however, rose a couple of points, and Ford of Canada A, was firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 10—(AP)—Kansas and Indiana reports of bigger yields than expected, together with predictions that government crop estimates would prove bearish, pulled wheat prices downward late today. Likelihood of cooler temperatures northwest promising some relief where wheat has been suffering from prolonged heat and drought tended also to induce many traders to switch to the selling side of the wheat market. On every dip in prices, however, buying broadened, and special features were a [illegible] of dispatches saying wheat crops are almost completely ruined in Montana from Havre to Great Falls.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1 1-8 a 1 1-8c bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 5-8c off to 1-8c up, oats 1-8 a 1-2c unchanged, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 15c.

For the most part, provisions were lower, affected by downturns in the value of hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The price of investment bonds on the New York Stock exchange moved upward in brisk fashion today. Railroad mortgage bonds again provided the leadership for the rise although all sections of the list, with the single exception of United States governments, profited from the strong demand for fixed interest bearing securities.

Activity which has shown a gradual increase each day this week, received another boost and the volume of trading passed $11,000,000.

Railroad bonds found hearty support on the upswing and the competition was so keen that the progress of many issues was recorded in points instead of fractions. The few laggards were principally among the speculative class. A new list of new high prices for 1930 was made and the averages for 10 rails showed the present price level but three-tenths of a point under the high of the year established last March.

Atchison general 4s, one of the most reliable barometers of the trend of bonds established a new year's high with a half point gain and the convertible 4 1-2 soared 4 points. Atchison was joined by many other rail issues, among them being St. Paul 4 3-4s, up 1 1-2; Chicago Northwestern 5s up 3 1-2; Big Four 4 1-2s, Cleveland Union Terminals 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania 4 1-2s which were heavily traded, and Southern Pacific collateral 4s.

BOND SALES

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—Official bond sales on the New York Stock exchange, today, were $11,725,000. Jan. 1 to date, $1,541,082,000.

FRANCE'S FIRST 100 YEARS IN ALGERIA

"Algeria, north African extension of France, whose hundred years under French influence are being celebrated by a series of expositions and fairs, is a mountain-rimmed area between the waters of the Mediterranean and the sands of the Sahara," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Into this land France has poured affection, and hopes and money in great streams, and speaks of it proudly as 'the masterpiece of French colonization.'

"Algeria proper is a relatively narrow rectangle, extending for about 675 miles along the Mediterranean sea and inland for a depth varying from 150 to 200 miles to the Saharan Atlas mountains. This main portion of Algeria has an area of nearly 225,000 square miles and is thus only slightly smaller than Texas. But there is a much greater Algeria extending southward into the Great Desert. These are the so-called southern territories that raise the total area of Algeria to more than a quarter that of the United States, or Australia.

"Nature made Algeria inaccessible from the north. The coast has hardly any natural inlets. Hills rim the shore. Behind them are narrow rolling plains, and then the heights of the Tell Atlas mountains bar the way to the interior. Beyond them, dreary semi-arid steppes stretch southward to the second line of mountains. Southward of these heights lies the high plateau which dips gradually into the sandy and rocky wastes of the great Sahara.

"The narrow northern strip of Algeria from the first Atlas range to the coast—loosely called the Tell—is the country's best foot thrust forward to meet the visitor. There is a reasonable amount of rainfall. Water from the mountains is available and has been utilized for irrigation; and the countryside smiles with agricultural prosperity. Here are orange groves, palm trees, great fields of vegetables that supply many of Europe's early markets, and huge vineyards that rival those of southern France. Westward where the Tell is wider are cotton fields; and both westward and eastward of the narrow and truck farms are grain fields. By means of dry farming considerable quantities of grain are grown also on parts of the semi-arid plains south of the Tell.

"For the most part, however, the dry plains region between the main mountain chains is sparsely settled and is given over to sheep and goat grazing and to the collection of alfa grass for shipment for paper making. The best grazing lands of the colony are south of the Saharan Atlas mountains on the high plateau, and north of the desert.

"Although Napoleon I dreamed of conquering Algeria, stronghold of the Barbary pirates, in 1808, he chose Egypt instead for his African adventure. The actual move by France against the country occurred because of a political accident. It may truly be said that the Dey of Algeria lost his throne because of the stroke of a 'flyswatter.' When a French consul in the city of Algiers protested to the Dey in 1827 because of the treatment of two of his countrymen, the Dey publicly insulted the French official by striking him with a fly whisk which he held in his hand. The Dey refused to make apology or to pay an indemnity, and the French fleet blockaded his port. The blockade continued three years without result, whereupon the French landed an army and on July 4, 1830, captured Algiers. The conquest thus begun was not completed for Algeria proper until 17 years later while southern Algeria was not wholly penetrated and brought under civil control until 1900.

"France was not the first nation to bring European civilization to Algeria. That step was taken just 1976 years ago when Rome annexed Numidia (the ancient name of Algeria). The parallels of the Roman and French conquests and civil penetrations are close. Both took their armies in from the north and fought their way through the mountains to the upland plains. Both built highways, bridges, forts, irrigation systems, and cities and set up a Latin peace in place of a native turbulence. France, of course, has had a new engineering device, the railway, and has placed thousands of miles of steel in the country. The main line parallels the coast in the Tell region, but other lines reach out southward in western, central and eastern Algeria to penetrate mountains and plains, and to tap the desert itself and its oases. Another device, the six-wheeled motor bus, swings out from the eastern and western rail heads and carries tourists in comfort on a 600-mile journey among desert oases. With specially equipped automobiles the French have sent a number of expeditions entirely across the Sahara to the Niger river.

"The marks of Rome's sway in Algeria are to be seen on every side, but especially in the ruined cities such as Timgad and Djemila. The former is particularly interesting as it was built out of hand like the new capital of Australia, Canberra. It represents, therefore, an ideal Roman city set down on foreign soil.

"Algeria flourished under Rome from 46 B. C. until 428 A. D. when the Vandals invaded the country. There was another period under the Rome of the East, Byzantium, whose forces drove out the Vandals. But this was a weaker Rome, and it could not cope with the Arab invasion of the seventh century. From that time until the coming of the French in 1830, Algeria was kept in a turmoil by intertribal strife and successive conquests by adventurers among the Arabs, Berbers and Turks.

"Throughout its existence Algeria has had as its basic population the Berbers. Other strains have come in with the various conquerors, but except for the Arabs, they have only modified the Berber population. There has been some mingling of Berbers and Arabs, but in the southern part of the country the Arab population is relatively pure. Of a population of more than five million, probably more than four million are Berbers and Arabs. There are between a half and three-quarters of a million Europeans, mostly French, but with an appreciable element of Spanish—and a sprinkling of Italians and Maltese.

"One constructive activity that has dominated all else in Algeria since the French occupation is the search for water and its conservation. Both the Atlas ranges are snow capped and feed numerous streams, most of which are temporary. Many reservoirs have been built to capture the surface water from these torrents; and that which sinks into the earth has been brought to sight again through wells. Even in the heart of the desert, old oases have been rejuvenated and new ones created by the discovery and opening up of artesian supplies of water. Many millions of francs have been added to crop values by the innumerable rills of irrigation water that France is spreading on Algeria's dry but fertile soil."

ITALIAN REACTION TO BRIAND'S STATEMENT

ROME, July 10—(AP)—Foreign Minister Briand's statement that France is postponing her 1930 naval building program until December to clear the way for negotiations with Italy was received in Rome as a gesture of good-will, but with doubt whether France had gone far enough.

M. Briand's announcement to the foreign affairs committee of the French chamber of deputies is considered to have smoothed the ground for Italo-French conversations that may ultimately lead to complete solution of the difficulties between the two countries.

But it is believed to be an insufficient answer to Foreign Minister Grandi's proposal that Italy is willing to suspend indefinitely her 1930 building program if France will do the same.

Drivers With Licenses Suspended

Included in a list of 32 automobile drivers with licenses suspended for a year for driving under the influence of liquor are the names of Edward W. Prechette, Danielson; Henry E. Smith, Waterford, and Lawrence J. Gillette, Groton.

BERLIN, July 10—(AP)—General Friedrich von Bernhardi, high German officer during the World war, died today at the age of 81. He was the first Prussian officer to enter Paris after its fall in the Franco-Prussian war.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

ENDIVES FOR EARLY FALL SALADS

The endives are the mainstay for fall salads before the late crop of lettuce comes from the frames. There are two varieties, the curled and the broad leaved. The latter is generally known as escarolle or broad leaved Batavia. The curly endive is more commonly seen and is a most attractive appearing vegetable because of its slashed and curled leaves which when blanched are creamy white with the tips green.

The Batavian or escarolle need not be blanched. It is eaten green. The curly is blanched by tying up the tips of the outer leaves with raffia or by setting a flower pot over it. Both are easily grown. While the late main crop should not be planted until well into July or early August, a September crop may be raised by planting the two now. It is of finer quality than the later planting but by blanching and planting in a half shaded situation, good salad material may be obtained by the last of August.

The plants should be given plenty of room to develop in the seed row, 10 inches apart being none too much for the curly types. They need rich soil, plenty of moisture and for early plantings should be given a situation where they will be shaded from the hot afternoon sun.

They must be kept growing at top speed to be of good quality. If allowed to become dry they will be tough and bitter. Paper mulch is an excellent device for bringing early endive to edible quality. This mulch is spread between the rows, keeps moisture in the soil and protects it from the hot sun. It has been tried successfully all over the country for vegetable crops that suffer from drought.

The blanching process should start when the curly endive has made a rosette about five to six inches in diameter. The tips of the outer leaves should be gathered up and the tips tied loosely together with raffia, taking care not to break the midribs in the process. If they are to be blanched by turning a flower pot over them, see that it is tilted on the north side, away from the sun.

GETTING IN LATE CABBAGE

It is now time to get the late cabbage plants set into their permanent quarters and still time to sow seed for a fresh cabbage crop this fall. The cabbage plants should be moved from boxes or frames to the garden patch at once. Plants may also be bought from seed houses and gardeners if you neglected to sow the seed yourself.

The main feature in getting the cabbages going now that warm weather may be looked for is to see that the seedling plants are well watered in when they are transplanted and that if the weather proves to be hot to shade them for a few days until they start new root growth. After that they may be allowed to go along about their business of growing heads. The same precautions should be observed for all plants transplanted at this season of the year.

The plants set in now will at once prove a target for the white butterflies which lay the eggs that hatch into the cabbage worm. Give the plants a spray of an arsenical insecticide as soon as they get established and that will be none too soon to ward off an attack of the green caterpillars that so soon riddle the leaves.

Give the soil a light dressing of nitrate of soda as soon as the young cabbages show that they have taken hold. Keep the soil well cultivated and give them a flying start. Once they have attained substantial size they will not need so much attention but it pays to give them the care when they are getting started.

Late cabbages need plenty of room in the row. Two feet apart in the row for the large heading types is none too much. In the smaller garden where they are likely to get more assiduous care than in a larger one they may be planted closer, 18 inches being sufficient, but in the closer quarters the ground should be well fertilized and some commercial fertilizer applied from time to time during the growing season.

Now is the time to get late cabbages going or to plant seed in some convenient [illegible] the garden and raise plants to be set out later in the moth.

STARTING AN ASPARAGUS BED

Tender helpings of asparagus now inspire many a gardener to thoughts of starting an asparagus bed for himself. At this season the only way to get a start is by sowing seed. Seedling asparagus plants are popping up here and there in localities where asparagus is grown from seed carried by the birds. Some gardeners start beds by digging up these volunteer plants and moving them into regular quarters in the garden.

It would be far better to buy a packet of seed of some pedigreed asparagus and start a bed of asparagus of known first quality rather than to depend on wildlings which may or may not produce good stalks, probably the latter. The seed started now will give a multitude of little plants that may be transplanted this fall into the regular bed and in two years will start into bearing.

Asparagus seed should be soaked overnight before planting. It should then be sown in rows at least half an inch deep. It will be slow to come up but eventually will appear in the course of a month and a row of asparagus plants for a home asparagus bed will be in the making. The seed method produces asparagus plants in quantity.

It is much quicker to buy the young plant from a seed house this fall and set out the bed with plants that have been well grown and have complete root systems to start with. This will give you a bed in two seasons. Two years old roots are the most practical and take hold better and give good crops sooner than digging mature clumps.

Seedlings, if transplanted before they make too large a root system so that they can be moved without breaking the roots, take hold quickly. Many gardeners have excellent success with home grown seedlings. It is an easy experiment to try and now is the time to plant the seed. Buy some of the pedigreed strains. Do not trust to volunteer plants.

STRAWBERRY GROWING INDUSTRY IS EXPANDING

The growth of the strawberry industry is a striking example of the great expansion of the so-called luxury crops in recent years, says the bureau of agriculture economics, U. S. department of agriculture. Time was when the strawberry season was limited practically to the season of locally grown berries. Fast transportation and refrigeration changed this until now consumers may enjoy strawberries practically the year round. Within ten years the commercial acreage of strawberries has increased from 83,420 acres in 1920 to 202,180 acres in 1929, and a projected area of 183,080 acres this year.

"The commercial strawberry," says J. W. Strowbridge in a technical bulletin on the origin and distribution of the commercial strawberry crop, just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture, "is believed to be a descendant of the wild meadow strawberry native to the country. The crossing of this wild strawberry of the eastern part of the United States with the cultivated varieties from Chili resulted in hybrids from which the strawberry grown at the present time developed.

"Market production began about 1800, but, because of the perishable nature of the varieties then grown, only small quantities were produced and those in localities near points of consumption. The expansion of the industry as a commercial proposition began about 1860 and has been encouraged by improvement in methods of culture and by the development of varieties which are adapted to meet the variety of growing conditions in many producing sections and which have qualities that give a reasonable assurance of delivery in good condition to distant markets. Refrigeration and other improvements in transportation have aided the development of the industry in sections far removed from the centers of consumption."

The industry has experienced marked changes. Tennessee was the leading strawberry producing state in 1920 but Louisiana, an earlier producing area, now leads in acreage and production. The preliminary estimate of acreage in Louisiana this year is 24,600 acres as against 6,300 acres in 1920. Tennessee in 1920 had 11,000 acres in strawberries and reached a peak of 26,320 acres in 1924. The estimate for this year is 12,450 acres.

Missouri is second in acreage this year, with 16,710 acres planted, followed by Arkansas with 16,570 acres, and Maryland, 11,780 acres. New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit are the leading carload markets, but the consumption in these markets is considerably greater than is indicated by carload receipts, as augmented by increasing motor truck transportation. Indicative of the greater use of motor transportation, Delaware last year trucked strawberries as far as Montreal, Canada.

WHAT THE MAN WITH THE HOE HAS TO SAY

Attend to staking tall perennials. Give vines plenty of string or chicken wire.

Watch out for bugs and keep everything sprayed. An ounce of prevention in this case does wonders.

Keep after the weeds. This is their busy time and if you let them get a start now it will be too hot to weed pretty soon and you'll have weeds all summer.

Don't let dandelions go to seed. They'll give you more dandelions to dig and also give your neighbors some unwelcome visitors.

Plant cardinal climber seed now. This is a vine that doesn't like to grow until it is hot. Late planting is not much of disadvantage with this vine.

Set out your cannas and see that they have lots of fertilizer and water. You can get them in pots from dealers now.

Put in Lima beans and cucumbers.

Keep on planting a row or so of corn. Corn doesn't last long once it comes into bearing.

Dig peat moss into your soil if it is sandy. This new material gives humus and body to light soil in a hurry. A bale will go a long way.

Give the asters a dressing of wood ashes. It helps them a lot.

Give the lawn a shot of some neat and concentrated fertilizer.

Water newly set plants and shrubs every time the soil looks dry. That's the surest way to make them grow. Soak them. Don't sprinkle. Sprinkling doesn't do much good.

CURTAINED LOVE

Penley tried desperately to assume a nonchalant air as he stepped for the first time in his life into one of those great New York department stores that invariably make a full-fledged man quake. He envied those men who had been parked outside to twirl their walking-sticks and wait while their wives went into the store to shop.

"I'd gladly empty my pockets into any of those fair hands if only I didn't have to go in and shop," muttered Penley, "but I won't turn tail when it's for the dearest woman on earth I'm doing it." So Penley went bravely onward, and, after inquiring where he could find curtain material, followed directions.

When he found the great floor entirely devoted to the most startling assortment of household fabrics he was more at sea than ever. He had no idea what color he wanted, nor what kind of material. Penley hoped for the luck of a helpful clerk.

However, a fleeting expression caught his sensitive ears.

"I think there's nothing so heavenly as apricot casement against the windows, with a soft Chinese blue velvet draped beside it." Penley could hear no more, but the "apricot casement" and "Chinese blue" made a deep impression on his mind. Edging into a small crevice along the counter he asked for apricot casement.

"The windows are twice the length of my walking-stick and there are twenty-seven of them in the house," he told the girl, who smiled amusedly at his evident nervousness, "and I want the same amount of Chinese blue velvet."

"Shall we send a man to put up the curtains for you?" inquired the girl. Penley nodded vehemently. He hadn't supposed anything could be so easy. After that he selected Chinese blue rugs, flame-colored cushions and many other lovely things for the dearest mother in the world, and went back to business a very much happier man.

The first time he went out to see the little semidetached house he was delighted at the effect of the apricot casement in the windows. Penley couldn't help glancing at the other half of the semidetached house, and he saw in the bay window a most lovely face.

The eyes were, however, anything but friendly. In fact, they were decidedly hostile.

"Nice way to start out with neighbors," thought Penley, and in a second realized that his windows were dressed exactly the same as hers, even to the Chinese velvet.

"Must be a bit sore because I have the same amount of apricots," he reckoned.

He went about putting in a blue and purple garden which in time would be most beautiful with lupin, violas and delphinium, conscious the while that some one whose looks he rather liked was in the window next door—watching him.

Violet had been prepared to be very peevish at her new neighbors, simply because they had chosen the exact casement cloth she had, but now she felt different.

"I like him. I bet he goes walking with his pipe and a dog—a real dog—not a bunch of fluff. Wonder if his wife is as nice as he is. Not likely. They never are." Violet sighed for no reason in particular. Penley was pleased with his day's work and went away with the feeling that his mother would be quite overjoyed when she arrived.

Nor was he mistaken. When his mother stepped out of the village taxi and her big son put his arm around her and pulled her joyfully up the flagged path, she looked up at him with such love in her eyes that it quite made Violet, watching through the apricot casement, jealous. There was no slightest doubt that Penley's mother adored the son who had given her so great a surprise. Violet realized that she could follow suit if given a chance.

When Penley and his mother had time to see everything in the new house, Violet went out of her front door with a dainty tray and carried it to the next door. Penley opened it.

"You couldn't have done a sweeter thing," he explained. "My mother was just wishing she had a cup of coffee and some bread and butter—moving day is always tiring. Come in, please, and meet her, won't you?" Penley had taken the tray and led Violet to his mother. "Mother, a good angel has appeared," he announced.

Afterward Penley laughingly told how he had selected his window curtains and Violet realized that it was she he had overheard that day recommending apricot and Chinese blue.

"And we'll always have apricot casement and Chinese blue velvet wherever we live, shan't we, Vi dear?" said Penley the day Violet promised to marry him.—Chicago News.

SENATOR WATSON PRAISES HOOVER ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—Unreservedly praising President Hoover for facing "great problems he did not create," Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, said in a radio address tonight that time would prove the wisdom of the administration's accomplishments.

Speaking over a national network of the Columbia Broadcasting system the republican senate leader reviewed the administration achievements and said the president "is disappointing only to those who have prepared to be and who want to be disappointed."

"He has faced grave problems he did not create," Watson said. "He has met innumerable difficulties for which he is in no wise responsible. To solve them he has carried through a great program of legislation and administration. The effect of these policies upon public welfare have not yet had time to manifest themselves but they are as certain to do so in the immediate future as day is to follow night.

"Oncoming results will justify this record and silence all those carping critics and false prophets, the volume of whose clamor is in inverse ratio to the wisdom and fairness of their utterances."

Watson said notwithstanding a senate coalition which had a majority of at least eight on any joint vote, the president yet has been able to put through that body 15 of his major policies and suffered a defeat in but two and one of them was but short-lived."

UNEMPLOYMENT REDUCES DESERTIONS FROM NAVY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Unemployment is regarded as a factor in cutting down desertions from the navy.

Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh, chief of the bureau of navigation, told a house appropriations sub-committee that there were only 525 desertions in 1929. Selective recruiting, he said, was another reason.

Stored in the postoffice garage they have become "white anvils" on the postmaster's hands. Originally they were secured just before the automobile did away with horses on fire en-

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Joan Bennett, divinely beautiful and talented blonde actress who heads the cast of the delightfully entertaining Fox Movietone production, "Crazy That Way," which has given so much real entertainment and pleasure to the patrons of Warner's Broadway theater where it is now seen and heard, is the daughter of the widely known star of the stage, Richard Bennett and Adrienne Morrison.

Educated in this country and abroad, her father acceded to her wish to at least try a stage career and at seventeen she played opposite him in the stage production of "Jarnegan."

A motion picture producer saw her work and decided to take a chance and assign her the lead in the picture, "Bulldog Drummond," starring Ronald Colman. She clicked and was assigned leads with George Arliss in "Disraeli," with Harry Richman in "Puttin' on the Ritz," and in three other productions, making a total of six leads her first year in pictures, which is said to be a record.

"Burton's Agency Sells Another"

Alexander Yerrington of this city has sold to Mrs. Racnel Peterson of Yantic his property located at No. 262 Boswell avenue, consisting of a 2-apartment house and 6 acres of land. The new owner will take possession at once. The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Palace Theater

Norwich theatergoers who have been longing to hear Will Rogers on the screen as he should be heard, will be interested to learn that the famous comedian's latest feature picture is coming here tomorrow. Not only is Will Rogers coming to Norwich, but he's coming to the screen of the Palace, the theater where you hear every word distinctly. On the Palace screen, Will, in his great new comedy, "So This Is London," will be as alive and real as though he stood and wisecracked from the stage.

A little while ago Will went to Paris and had the Devil's own time keeping his family out of mischief. Now he is in London, ready to paint the old town red if necessary, and ready to give everybody else a good time while he's doing it. Will is a wealthy Texan cotton mill owner and he dosen't think much of the English at first. In fact he doesn't want to go to England. But it's a matter of business, so he decides to go, taking along his excited wife and his son. His name, by the way, in the picture, is Hiram Draper, and he looks the part.

Irene Rich is Mrs. Draper and Frank Albertson is Hiram, Jr., and what a party they make as they cross the Atlantic and descend upon jolly old England. Father and mother seasick, and Hiram, Jr., hearty and well and eating his head off. First thing we know, Junior has met a girl on shipboard and the troubles of the Drapers begin. One thing leads to another, and before the Drapers have been in England very long, the old men is ready to pop somebody on the nose.

WILL ROGERS

Today for the last times the Palace presents its superb double-feature program, "Bride of the Regiment," a colorful operetta starring Vivienne Segal, Louise Fazenda, Myrna Loy and Allan Prior, and "Around the Corner" with Charley Murray and George Sidney.

NORWICH TOWN

Mrs. Frank D. Coles of 169 Harland road, motored Wednesday to East Haddam to call on D. Coles' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth M. Bitgood, of Middletown, who are passing the summer at their East Haddam cottage. Mrs. Coles, who had as auto guests her sister, Mrs. Merton Phillips, of Willimantic, and Mrs. Joseph Higgins of Norwich, continued to Middletown and Guilford, before returning to Norwich.

Church School Outing to Beach

The First Congregational Sunday school held its annual outing Thursday at Ocean Beach. There was a good number in attendance. The special trolley car which left Avery's bridge early in the morning, stopped along the route to take on members and was well filled with girls and boys and their adult companions. A committee, Charles Barber, Mrs. Rose Durrand, Mrs. Burton Jopson was in charge of the party at the beach, where picnic lunches were eaten at noon.

Several of the church members assisted in making the picnic a success for the children by contributing toward the expense of the special trolley, etc. Those children who assisted Mr. Barber and Reginald Avery in soliciting the picnic fund were Beatrice Riccetti, Robert Barber and John Browning, Jr. Several automobile parties joined the picnic party in the afternoon. The pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, accompanied the school, 86 in all going down on the special car which arrived at the beach at 9:45 a. m., returning to Norwich Town at 6:45. The Sunday school provided watermelon and pop-corn at the beach, also treated the children to a ride on the merry-go-round. Many of the juniors enjoyed bowling, and a large crowd took advantage of the fine bathing.

BUCHAREST, July 10.—(AP)—Prince San Ghika of Rumania, who left Bicester, England, Wednesday, attempting a new non-stop record for an airplane flight to Istanbul, was seriously injured today in a smashup on Mt. Guruneavo.

POLICE CONVENTION FAVORS FIREWORKS BAN

BRIDGEPORT, July 10.—(AP)—Delegates to the 28th annual convention of the State Police Association of Connecticut, went on record today as favoring a ban on fireworks in the state. SUB-BASE LIEUTENANT PLAYS HORSE WITH AUTO LAWS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 10—Lieut. S. A. Shepard, submarine base, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Thomas Cavanaugh, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws upon three counts. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. Shepard for a fortnight has been driving about the city, his car not being provided with markers issued by the motor vehicle department, but the markers used were home-made, being of cardboard and purporting to be the issue of the state of Maryland, 339620. He was warned once by State Police Officer William E. MacKenzie to obtain proper markers and again by State Police Officer Eric Swanson. Shepard did not comply with the order, not even to obtain temporary markers, so this afternoon when the driver was about the city he was arrested.

HOSPITAL BAZAAR PROVES A SPLENDID SUCCESS

The annual bazaar of Lawrence-Memorial hospital was held this afternoon and evening on the grounds of the institution and the event received a liberal patronage. Hundreds went there and purchased of the innumerable articles, besides buying foodstuffs and patronizing the several diversions provided by the young women in charge of the affair. The bazaar opened with a street parade, headed by Bulkeley high school band, followed by a large number of nurses and men and women interested in the success of the bazaar, together with the young society women whose services had been offered to assist in making the event the success it proved. All were in automobiles. The weather for the bazaar was ideal and that fact did much to insure the large patronage during the afternoon and evening.

Escaped From Norwich State Farm

John Fallon, 28, escaped from the state farm, Norwich State hospital, late this afternoon and the state police and the New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for him. Fallon is described as being short and stocky and wore working coat and trousers and a cap. Shortly after Fallon's escape was discovered it was learned that he had been seen walking on the Military highway and headed toward New London. No trace of the man was obtained here.

WILD RIDE OF DRIVER THROUGH NIANTIC YARDS

Thomas McNamara, of Niantic, was arrested today by State Police Officer Peter Busch, of Groton barracks, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was locked up at New London police headquarters. McNamara evidently had been in New London and although much the worse for over-indulgence in liquor, he succeeded in driving to Niantic. There his troubles began, probably because of the absence of traffic, for he lost his bearings after passing many cars en route to the village and started to drive his machine through yards and over lawns. When McNamara's wild driving was discovered the state police were notified and Officer Busch quickly apprehended the driver.

Paul M. Samples, 55 North Main street, Essex, was arrested this evening charged with parking his automobile longer than permitted by ordinance, one-half hour on State street. Samples came to New London during mid-afternoon and parked his car over four hours. He was compelled to post a bond of $2 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

Alumnae Picnic

The annual picnic of New London Normal School Alumnae association was held Wednesday at the cottage of Mrs. Frank A. Comstock, at Oswegatchie. Lunch was at 1 o'clock and prior to a short business meeting at 4 o'clock, ice cream and cake were served. Attending were: Agnes Edwards, Mrs. James MacIninch, Thelma Douglass, Sarah Anderson, Edith Garde Canfield, Sylvia Keeney, Mrs. Eleanor B. Sims, Harriet Sims, Mrs. Benjamin E. Titus, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. George B. Gadbois, Mabel W. Sistare, Eleanor V. Sullivan, Grace M. Sistare, Grace A. Haney, Gertrude M. Sistare, Mrs. Hugh McKenzie and children Margaret, Hugh and Mary, Mrs. Helen White, Florence Gadbois, Beryl Beckwith, Jean Herindeen.

An automobile driven by Irene Beebe, 50 Terrace avenue, struck a youthful cyclist this afternoon, but the boy escaped serious injury. The automobile was being driven on Crystal avenue and when near the overhead bridge at Winthrop street the cyclist suddenly appeared in front of the machine. Before the driver could bring the car to a stop, the cycle was hit and the youth thrown to the concrete highway. The wheel was damaged but the rider refused to reveal his identity to the autoist also declaring that he was uninjured.

RIVER PIRATES BUSY— LOOT HARBOR CRAFT

River pirates last night boarded several boats and obtained loot while a seventh boat, a small launch was stolen at Ocean Beach.

All of the boats entered were moored at docks or at anchor in the lower harbor. The power launch owned by R. E. Berry, 320 Pequot avenue and which was moored in the stream, was boarded and a telescope and side lights stolen after the cabin had been forced. The motor boat owned by J. D. Avery, of Hillside avenue, which was at anchor about 100 feet off the Marsters pier, was boarded and the cabin forced. The thieves made a goodly haul there for an outboard motor valued at $210 and purchased but a fortnight ago by the owner, together with a quantity of silverware was stolen. Two Hartford owned boats, the Johanna and Nervanna, moored at Burr's pier were entered and their cabins forced, but what plunder, if any, was taken, will not be determined until the owners arrive here, which will probably be tomorrow. The power boat owned by Robert B. Chappell and another, the Scud, owned by a Hartford man, which were at anchor south of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, were also boarded, but what loot the thieves obtained has not been revealed.

Several years ago the police were given plenty of work because of river pirates stealing from pleasure boats, but of late years the thieving has not occurred.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, July 10—Mrs. Louise Darrow, 253 Huntington street, was in the police court today charged with theft, the woman having stolen raw material used in the manufacture of comfortables by Palmer Brothers company, Washington street, where she had been employed for a long time. Judge Daniel M. Cronin sentenced the woman to six months in jail, but suspended execution of the sentence. Today when Mrs. Darrow was presented in court she had made a full confession in which she admitted having stolen the product used in the manufacture of the quilts at various times until she had accumulated in her home material of the estimated value of between $500 and $750.

WESTERLY

CHANGES BEING MADE AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., July 10.—Westerly Postmaster Thomas Lenihan on Thursday superintended operations in the removal of the cast iron front with letter boxes which has occupied the central bay opposite the entrance doorway at the Westerly postoffice since it was constructed. Plans have been made for the removal of these boxes to a new bay nearer the money order department windows at the south side of the postoffice lobby. The bay which contains the letter slots for "In Town" and "Out of Town" mail and the metal window for parcel post will be relocated in the central bay opposite the main entrance. In the past, box holders in this center section have been able to stand outside the postoffice and know if there was mail in their boxes but these office patrons will now have to enter the postoffice for the purpose. On the other hand, patrons of the office, especially strangers, have walked up and down the postoffice lobby endeavoring to find a place to deposit their mail, and will find that they will not have to take as many steps.

ENGLISHMAN LAYS CLAIM TO MOST OF QUINCY

QUINCY, Mass., July 10—(AP)—This venerable city which has been stirred by the amazing claim of an Englishman to a large portion of its most desirable land faced an anti-climax today, when a special meeting of the city council to hear the Englishman's claims was cancelled.

The meeting, scheduled for tonight, was called off through the agency of the visitor himself, Bruce Ainsworth, a soap manufacturer of Flitton, Bedfordshire. Ainsworth makes his claims through relationship to Thomas Morton, an engaging soul whose sprightly Maypole dances incurred the ire of austere Pilgrims and Puritans and who was arrested, banished and his lands confiscated.

Only today, President Angelo Bizzozero of the city council received a letter from Ainsworth, setting forth that he "regretted awfully" the short notice he could give and explained that counsel has advised him he was following the wrong course in laying his claims before the city solons.

In spite of Ainsworth's startling claims, Quincy has accepted him most hospitably extended its invitation to him to attend a celebration of its three centuries of history. Ainsworth regretted, he said, that urgent business was calling him hence.

Thomas Morton came to Quincy in 1625 and succeeding to command of the local colony, clashed with other colonists nearby. He was accused of supplying not only "lusty liquor" but guns and ammunition to the Indians. The doughty little pilgrim, Captain Myles Standish, was sent to arrest him and, it is reported, found Morton gaily dancing with Indians and colonists around a maypole. Morton was said to have referred to the dimunitive captain Standish as "Captain Shrimp."

Later researches have indicated that Morton's reputation may have been unjustly blackened by those in power at the time. It has ben shown that Morton was a lawyer and a classical scholar.

EIGHT AMERICANS PRESENTED AT FINAL ROYAL COURT

LONDON, July 10—(AP)—Before the twin golden thrones of Buckingham palace, flanked with masses of blue hydrangeas and pink roses, the last group of this year's debutante, including eight Americans, made their bow tonight at the final royal court of the season before King George and Queen Mary.

His majesty, wearing the scarlet and gold uniform of colonel in chief of the Scots Guard, and Quen Mary in a gown of powder blue and silver procade, embroidered in pearls with the Kohinoor diamond flashing on her breast, stood to receive the presentees who filed before them in some of the most brilliant raiment the court has seen.

King George's presence was the occasion of rejoicing in the palace, until only an hour before the cars of the debutantes lined up for their long wait in the Mall, it was unknown whether he would be able to attend. It was at first feared that standing for two hours would be too great a strain after the attack of rheumatism which prevented his attendance at the last court.

Among the most interested spectators of the glittering spectacle was the petite Japanese Princess Takamatsu, wearing a simple gown of silver cloth and standing beside her husband in the royal circle she watched closely every part of the ceremony that she had made a special request to see.

Prince George, Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood an her husband the Earl of Harewood, Princess Victoria Marie Louise and other members of the royal household were grouped behind their majesties.
